PITT FARMERS URGED ATTEND RALEIGH MEET

New Farm Legislation To Be Explained By Sen. Pope

J. B. HUTSON ALSO PLANS TO SPEAK

Greenville Tobacco Warehousemen Will Aid in Securing Favorable Vote

Pitt county is expected to have a large delegation in Raleigh tomorrow, when Senator James P. Pope of Idaho, will address a mass meeting at 11 a. m. in the Memorial auditorium on the new farm control bill.

Senator Pope is regarded as one of the best informed men in the senate on the bill.

The meeting is being sponsored by the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, of which J. E. Winslow of Greenville is president.

W. H. Dail, well-known booster for his home county and city, declared today that sponsors had asked that 4,000 farmers be present and added that "we ought to have at least that many there from Pitt county."

The Farm Bureau has been active in support of the farm legislation from the start.

Tomorrow's meeting will be for the purpose of advising farmers regarding the measure and urge them to get a good vote out at referendum to be held some time within the next 30 days. The farmers will decide for themselves whether or not they are to have crop control.

Although this section is regarded to be in favor of the program, the measure is opposed in many other sections and leading farmers of Western North Carolina are working to get out a good favorable vote.

Farmers will vote as a unit and each state will have a vote by the majority. It is for this reason that efforts are being made to pile up a strong vote for the program in North Carolina.

At a special meeting of the Greenville tobacco warehousemen this morning the tobaccoists were unanimous in their desire to do everything possible to secure a favorable vote in the coming referendum.

R. V. Keel, president of the organization, was instructed to confer with Farm Bureau officials at once with a view of calling a mass meeting of Pitt county farmers in the near future to acquaint them with provisions of the bill.

The warehousemen also went on record as urging every farmer who can possibly do so be at the Raleigh meeting tomorrow.

In addition to Senator Pope, the meeting will be addressed by J. B. Hutson, who has visited the state on numerous occasions as representative for the AAA tobacco division.

Raleigh, Feb. 17. — (AP) — The State Farm Bureau Federation completed plans today for a mass meeting of farmers here tomorrow to hear discussions of the new Federal farm act, as work got underway for cotton and tobacco referenda.

E. F. Arnold, Farm Bureau secretary, said the general explanation of the farm act by Senator James Pope (D-Idaho), would be broadcast by radio, but the talk by J. B. Hutson, assistant AAA administrator, on the tobacco and cotton programs for North Carolina would not.

E. Y. Floyd of the North Carolina State College Extension Service, said the cotton and tobacco referenda may be completed by March 15.

Floyd said this state had a 1938 allotment of 902,525 acres of cotton and 570,000 to 580,000 acres of flue-cured tobacco under the Agricultural Conservation program.

The state's marketing quota for tobacco would be between 450,000 and 500,000,000 pounds, Floyd figured.

WRITES SET FOR WRECK VICTIM

Joseph Edgar Gaylor Killed in Collision Last Night

Joseph Edgar Gaylor, 31-year-old employee of the Carolina Dry Cleaners, was almost instantly killed late yesterday afternoon when the car he was driving and one operated by John H. McElroy, Marshall attorney, collided at the intersection of Evans and Tenth streets.

McElroy, son of Judge P. A. McElroy, retired superior court judge, is under bond of $1,000 pending a coroner's inquest, exact date and time of which has not been set.

The bill was posted last night by Charles O. H. Laughinghouse and McElroy continued his trip to Beaufort, where he was scheduled to appear before the State Supreme court this morning.

The accident occurred about 3:15 o'clock. Gaylor was said to have been going South on Evans street and McElroy East on Tenth street. Gaylor was thrown from the car when it struck an oak tree and hurtled through the air for a distance of 30 feet. He was taken to the hospital, but died shortly afterwards. His head was badly crushed.

Although both cars were damaged, McElroy escaped without any serious injury.

It was recalled that the automobile driven by Gaylor was involved in a wreck only a few days ago. Mrs. Leon Smith, however, was driving the car in the first accident, which occurred only one block from last night's fatal wreck.

Funeral services for Mr. Gaylor will be conducted at the home, 1429 Broad street, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning by Rev. W. H. Brunson, pastor of Arden Christian church, assisted by Rev. F. F. Pittman, First W.P. Baptist minister of Arden. Burial will follow in Greenville cemetery.

Mr. Gaylor was a member of the Friends church at Nahant, Wayne county. He had been living in Greenville for the past six years and had been employed by the Carolina Cleaners for the past four years.

Before coming to this city, he had lived in Ayden for two years, where he was connected with the Munford Market. He was born and reared in Pinkney, Wayne county, but had made a number of friends since coming to Pitt county.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Hilda Gaylor; one small daughter, Barbara Jean Gaylor; his mother, Mrs. Victoria L. Gaylor of Greenville; and six brothers, L. H. Gaylor and W. B. Gaylor of Kentry, R. G. Gaylor of Ayden, H. W. Gaylor of Washington.

COUNCIL ASKS EQUAL RIGHTS FOR EMPLOYER

Suggests Labor Relations Board Lend Services

NAVY HEAD ASKS YARD FACILITIES

Crop Control Measure Out of the way, President to Take Resting Period

Washington, Feb. 17. — (AP) — President Roosevelt was urged by a business advisory council sub-committee today to support council recommendations for giving employers as well as employees the right to invoke the services of the Labor Relations Board.

Other amendments to the Labor Relations act also were proposed in one of two reports submitted to the President on behalf of the council's industrial relations committee by Charles R. Hook and John Biggers, chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the committee.

Both reports have the unanimous approval of the council.

The first report, approved April 3, 1937, declared Federal and State legislation should encourage peaceful settlement of labor disputes. It added that resort to force was "injurious" to all concerned.

Meanwhile the navy's chief constructor told the House naval committee that additional facilities would have to be provided at every yard to permit expeditious construction of the proposed $800,000,000 naval expansion program.

Rear Admiral William Dubose explained the facilities needed would include new ways and other equipment. He urged the bill be amended to give the department authority to put the yards in shape to handle the work.

President Roosevelt, having obtained enactment of two of his six legislative recommendations, will leave tomorrow afternoon for Hyde Park for a four or five-day rest.

The second of his major proposals, the crop control bill, received his signature yesterday.

Volunteer Speed Cops

Worcester, Eng. (AP) — Some of the local citizens are picking up a few extra shillings in their spare time by acting as "speed cops."

They don't actually run the speeder down. They simply ride along with the arresting officer and give corroborative evidence on the speed of the offender.

The practice has raised a rum-pus but local authorities say it's cheaper than putting on extra cops.

SCREAMING MOB BURNS JAIL IN SEARCH FOR SEX-SLAYER

A mob of screaming men and women burned the jail and demanded the Federal building at Tijuana, Mexico in their mad search for the sex-slayer of 8-year-old Olga Comacho (left), daughter of a bartender. The fire-rutted jail is shown above with a crowd still surrounding it. A young soldier and four other men, held for questioning about the killing, were removed to safety before the mob struck.

HOEY DECLINES TO STAY DEATH

Milford Exum And Edgar Smoak To Die Friday

Raleigh, Feb. 17. — (AP) — Governor Hoy announced today he did not plan to intervene to save either Milford Exum of Wayne county or Edgar LeRoy Smoak of New Hanover from execution at State's prison tomorrow morning.

Exum will be the first white man in some years to be put to death in North Carolina for the murder of a Negro. He was convicted of the slaying of Jim Williams, a Negro basket maker.

Smoak was sentenced to death for the poison-killing of his daughter, Annie Thelma.

The first execution, Deputy Warden John Bray said, probably will start at 10:30. It had not been determined which man would die first.

Smoak was first sentenced to die April 23, 1937, with no hours being set in his judgment. An appeal to the Supreme court, which he lost, resulted in the delay of execution.

Exum was sentenced to die between 10 and 2 o'clock November 12, 1937, and the hours stand as a limit for tomorrow. He also lost an appeal to the high court.

Austria Expects Nazi Cooperation

Minister of Interior to Confer With Adolf Hitler

Berlin, Feb. 17. — (AP) — Austria's German-endorsed Minister of the Interior came to Berlin today to report to Fuehrer Hitler on the progress of Austro-German co-operation.

Winkel Goering, chief Hitler aide, announced that Minister Arthur Seyss-Inquart would talk with Hitler, with Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German Economics Minister, and with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

There were indications that Seyss-Inquart's visit would be the first of frequent consultations on economic, political and military co-operation between Europe's two largest German speaking nations.

Frizzelle Seeking Retain Judgeship

Raleigh, Feb. 17. — (AP) — Two candidates for Superior court judgeships, William H. Bobbitt of Charlotte in the Fourteenth, and Judge Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill, in the Fifth, filed with the State Elections Board today to enter the June Democratic primary.

Chicago, Feb. 17. — (AP) — The United States Circuit Court of Appeals enjoined the National Bituminous Coal Commission today from enforcing certain parts of its price-fixing order on railroad locomotive fuel.

The temporary injunction was asked by seven coal companies, claiming to have an investment of $23,100,000 in Illinois and Indiana. They attacked the price schedules as "confiscatory" and asked that general price schedules be vacated, or that section applying to Illinois and Indiana prices on locomotive fuel be set aside.

In asking relief the six Illinois and one Indiana coal companies termed the prices discriminatory, especially since no allowance had been made for differentials in the grades of coal mined in Southern Illinois and Indiana districts.

The injunction was issued by Judges Evan A. Evans, Will M. Sparks and J. Earl Major. The court heard arguments last week.

A memorandum of the court, setting forth reasons for the order, was not available immediately.

CO-EDS FIND NEW USE FOR AN ALARM CLOCK

Knoxville, Tenn. — (AP) — University of Tennessee co-eds use alarm clocks as getter-uppers for 8 o'clock classes and for something else, too.

Several of the girls and their dates were dancing at a recreation spot near the campus. The orchestra was in the middle of an alarm clock started the dancers and sent the co-eds racing out the door.

"We had to be back at the dormitory at 10:30," one of them explained. "So we set the alarm to be sure we wouldn't be locked out."

Red Army Troops and Guerrilla Units Now Claim Capture Several Stations

Shanghai, Feb. 17. — (AP) — United States Marine headquarters announced today Japanese army authorities have forbidden Japanese patrols to encroach on the United States defense sector of Shanghai's International Settlement.

American Marines had turned back Japanese armed patrols four times when they tried to enter the sector to "supervise" Japanese there.

Meanwhile Chinese Red army troops and guerrilla units, Chinese reported, have captured every station along a 75-mile stretch of the Peiping-Hankow railway behind Japanese lines in North China.

Japanese have used the line to feed reinforcements and supplies to their troops in Honan province and trying to drive South across the Yellow river to cut China's Lanchow railway.

Chinese said the Communists and guerrilla troops had taken all Peiping-Hankow stations between a point 110 miles North of Changteh and the capital of Hopeh province.

Japanese units attempting to push South of the Yellow river were supported by warplanes which bombed China's largest steel bridge North of Chengchow, to cut off the retreat southward of Chinese facing powerful mechanized forces.

Fourth Club Meeting.

The Red Oak 4-H Club met Wednesday evening. The meeting was called to order by President James Allen. Old business about the basketball court was discussed. It was decided that each one was to bring as much money as he could for the basketball fund. It was decided that the court should be on the side of the church instead of behind it. The reason for this is because the ground is more level. Some of the mothers of the 4-H club members got so excited over the idea that they declared they would get up a team of mothers to play against their children. A few people agreed to contribute some wood, nails, etc. The two committees gave their reports.

Mable Manning and Kirby Allen read a few articles about 4-H clubs and projects. Virginia Allen and an article "Beauty is Equal Cost." The meeting was then turned over to Miss Nice and Mr. Griggs. Mr. Griggs talked to the boys while Miss Nice told the girls how to care for their rooms. The assignment for next time is to take care of your room for six weeks. Keep a record of everything you do to make it more attractive.—Reported.

Why 4 out of 5 buy their FIRE INSURANCE in a STOCK COMPANY

WHEN it comes to fire insurance, Americans clearly show their preference for stock companies—actually placing more than 80% of the business with that thoroughly tested type of organization.

One reason is that in the stock company you know exactly what the insurance will cost you. There is never a possibility of assessment.

Another reason is that in a stock company you enjoy the helpful service of an agent, eager to advise you at all times and to represent you in case of a claim.

Another reason is the huge assets and reserves of the stock companies—an assurance of greater security.

At College Tonight. The scenery and production of the play "The Queen's Husband" given at the college tonight at 8:30 by the American Repertory Theatre, will conform in every way to the original New York production.

Its director, Jose Ruben, is a man of long experience in the theatre in New York; its manager has done similar work for leading productions on Broadway; its sets have been built along the same lines and of the same materials as those for the original production.

The scenery for the four plays in the repertory of the group has been worked out together. Three full sets of scenery are carried, along with many additional pieces to augment any one, so that many entirely different settings can be worked out from the same set-up.

A lighting equipment complete in every detail, even to a portable switchboard, is carried.

The aim of the company is to adapt itself to stages anywhere and still maintain a high standard in selection of plays, casting, direction and setting.

Mission Study Class. For the past three mornings, from 10 to 11:30 o'clock, Mrs. W. C. Vincent has been the leader of a mission study class at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The basis for study has been Dr. Mark A. Dawber's "Rebuilding Rural America."

Each morning prominent speakers have presented some phase of the rural situation. On Tuesday morning, Mrs. B. L. Tyson discussed "Rural Women's Need of Recreation and Community Interest." Wednesday morning, Dr. N. Thomas Ennett spoke on "The Rural Health Situation;" and Thursday morning,

R. R. Bennett and Miss Ethel Nice, county agent and home demonstration agent, respectively, gave talks on the "Rural Education Program" now being carried on, under their supervision. Each program has been supplemented by the comments and questions of the local women present and by a round-table discussion of the topic of the day.

Friday morning the chief speaker will be Mrs. E. L. Hillman of Newbern, who will summarize all the points discussed and emphasize particularly what part the church must play in "Rebuilding Rural America."

Piano Recital. Advanced students in piano at the college were presented in a recital last night in Austin Auditorium by Miss Lois V. Gorrell and Miss Mary Dorner, instructors in piano. They were assisted by the two choruses on the campus, the Women's Chorus and the Men's Chorus.

The students playing showed in their pose and execution the results of careful training.

Among the group were three from Greenville and Pitt county.

Mozart's "Fantasia in D Minor" was given by Miss Mary Bell Robertson of the Greenville high school.

J. N. Williams, also of Greenville, pleased the audience by his evident mastery of his two numbers.

Miss Margaret Moore of Bethel, gave a lively little Spanish composition.

Others appearing on the program were Misses Christine Alford of Raleigh; Xylda Cooper of Wallace; Margaret Wilson of Henderson; Betty Morris of Rocky Mount; and Hazel Insoce of Littleton.

The two choruses added much to the program.

The unusual sound effects in "The Snow Legend" sung by the Women's Chorus, and the "tick-tock" of the "Grandfather's Clock" of the Men's Chorus seemed to please the audience greatly.

The program was as follows: The Little Chinamen, by Smith-Hazel Insoce.

Etude Melodique, by Raff—Margaret Wilson.

Spanish Dance, by Granados—Margaret Moore.

Completes Electrical Course. Of interest to friends in this city is the news that Arthur Turner, son of Mrs. W. H. Turner, 202 14th St., has recently completed an electrical course at the Coyne Electrical School in Chicago. The Coyne School gives courses in all the practical aspects of electricity, and it is with definite interest that young Turner's friends learn that he has completed a course of training in the school's Chicago Training shops.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR Thursday, February 17, 1938

Personals

Notices

Train late again last night. Services in the Baptist Church tonight.

February seems to have stolen a march on the weather.

The Free Will Baptist paper says a movement is on foot to organize a Masonic lodge at Arden. There are several Masons living in that community.

The number of calls on phone 80, and visitors to The Reflector asking if this incident means war have been numerous and show that everybody is interested in what it is going on over there.

Wind Turns The Wheel

S. E. Pender & Co. had out a sign today that attracted much attention. It was a bicycle wheel with bits of paper placed on the spokes in such a position that the wind kept the wheel turning steadily.

THE MAINE DISASTER

Totally Destroyed—Cause Of Explosion Not Yet Ascertained.

A few weeks ago this government sent one of its battleships, the Maine to Havana, "on a friendly visit."

Now this government is minus one war ship and possibly more than 200 of her crew are killed. Tuesday night about a quarter to 10 o'clock, while the vessel was lying quietly in the harbor of Havana, there was an awful explosion that totally wrecked the Maine and shook everything in the entire city.

Captain Sigbee of the Maine sent a dispatch to the Secretary of the Navy at Washington. The first news of the disaster that reached Greenville was promptly bulletined in front of The Reflector office and telephoned over town. The information caused great excitement.

There is still more or less a mystery surrounding the affair so far and until this is satisfactorily explained there will be many people who will not accept the accepted theory as an explanation of the disaster.

Why 4 out of 5 buy their FIRE INSURANCE in a STOCK COMPANY

WHEN it comes to fire insurance, Americans clearly show their preference for stock companies—actually placing more than 80% of the business with that thoroughly tested type of organization.

One reason is that in the stock company you know exactly what the insurance will cost you. There is never a possibility of assessment.

Another reason is that in a stock company you enjoy the helpful service of an agent, eager to advise you at all times and to represent you in case of a claim.

Another reason is the huge assets and reserves of the stock companies—an assurance of greater security.

A TRAFFIC NIGHT MIGHT HAVE SAVED A LIFE

Most everybody wants to russ about traffic lights because few people like to have to stop at street intersections to wait for the green light, but more than likely a traffic light or even a caution light at the corner of Evans and Tenth streets would have prevented the fatal accident there late yesterday afternoon.

Since the opening of Tenth street as a through east-west highway the Evans street intersection has become a most dangerous one with the result that several accidents have occurred at the corner, but yesterday's accident
proved to be the first fatal
one at that particular spot.
Sometime ago a collision at the corner of Tenth and Washington streets, just one block west of the spot of yesterday's accident, caused a fatality, and last Sunday a collision at the intersection of Evans and Ninth streets resulted in a car being overturned, but fortunately no one was seriously hurt.

One of the main causes of the many accidents in that immediate section of the city is that there have been changes in the highways and through streets, and proper precautionary measures have not been taken in the way of signs or traffic lights. For a long time Evans street south from Five Points has been a highway and through street, and motorists traveling the route have paid little attention to speed laws. Motorists traveling north on Evans street from Fourteenth street are accustomed to show no signs of checking their speed until they come into sight of the traffic light at Five Points, and cars traveling the street south from Five Points, as a rule, are hitting the high spots by the time they reach the Eighth, Ninth and Tenth street intersections. Every one of these street intersections have been dangerous for a long time but now that the east-west highway follows Tenth street and highway number 43 has likewise been routed over the western end of the street turning south on Evans at Tenth, that intersection has become doubly dangerous and accidents at that spot are going to continue to occur unless steps are taken by the city to safeguard the intersection.

Habit has a lot to do with governing actions of human beings and in view of the fact that Evans street has virtually been a speedway for years, we believe the best way to change the habits of motorists traveling this street is a series of traffic lights at the Eighth, Ninth
and Tenth street intersections, and these lights should

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grever

Washington—Whiskey regulations now brewing (excuse it, please) put a new interpretation in the time-honored phrase "aged in the wood." For a number of generations there has been a dispute over what constitutes whiskey. Distillers and the government haven't agreed wholly yet. The newest raid on the government for those operators—the largest are in Illinois—which wish to age their whiskey in old barrels. Under present regulations no whiskey made in the United States can lay claim to any aging what ever unless it has aged in "new charred oak barrels. The charred interior of the barrel, fresh from the burning, is reputed to give a special tang to whiskey and to neutralize certain deleterious extracts which sizzle over from the distilling pots.

Special Process Claimed

U. S. whiskey aged in old barrels must be branded "aged less than one month," no matter how long it has been exposed to the second-hand charcoal in old barrels. But now comes a distilling company which insists that by a special distilling process the barrel which has made one batch of whiskey can be used to make another. To old line whiskey makers this is rank heresy. They insist that once the charred interior of a barrel has been used in the aging process the barrel is no good except for fire wood. These old line distillers produce about 97 per cent of the United States' output. They say that any liquor which is aged in used barrels is not truly whiskey and ought not to be permitted to compete with whiskey aged and mellowed in new barrels.

Oddenda

Things like this seem almost too pat to be true, but we were sitting in a bureau executive's office the other day while he told a story about a series of regulations that had just been issued. Concluding, he said: "I called in our economist and asked him to prepare an economic basis for the course we had taken. He came in next day with his thesis but it was just opposite to the one on which we were proceeding, and I told him so. He said: "Why didn't you tell me you were on that side. Now I'll have to do it over." Next day, it seems, the economist came in with a thesis on the opposite side and everybody was happy.

George Washington's sepulchre is being air-conditioned by indirection. Take that with a grain of salt. Washington's body is in a vault at Mount Vernon but in the capitol, exactly under the peak of the dome is a spot which once was prepared for the bodies of George and Martha Washington. It never was occupied but the air-conditioning system being installed in the capitol is no respecter of places, it reaches everywhere.

We have a Japanese newspaper in which is a picture showing the Chinese ambassador to Japan wearing a handkerchief to Japanese crowds as he prepares to return to China. Japan has ordered him to leave. But he and his staff were smiling gaily as if they were all in fun. Such are the usages of diplomacy.

WE SWITCHED TO 3-8-8 AND KEPT THE LAND!

Says BEN PEACOCK, FREMONT, N. C.

BEN PEACOCK, Mgr., Hooks Brothers, Fremont, N. C. (left), says: "We have some land on which tobacco showed considerable disease for several years. We were about ready to sell the place, but decided to change our tobacco fertilizer from 3-8-3 to 3-8-8. The 3-8-8 has cleared up the disease and produced good quality crops. We have decided to keep the place."

C. E. HUMPHREY, R. F. D. 2, Richlands, N. C. (above), says: "For two years 3-8-8 has been our tobacco fertilizer and we plan to use it again this year. We think that even more potash could be used to advantage on our tobacco and will test it out. The extra potash in 3-8-8 improves both quality and yields. The leaf is smoother with better body and there is less off-grade tobacco. We also use 8% potash in our cotton and corn fertilizer."

P. B. COLEY, R. F. D. 4, Wilson, N. C. (above), says: "My tobacco fertilizer at planting carried 5% POTASH and then I used a top-dresser containing 20% POTASH at the first working. Lugs at $25.00 and better than $400.00 per acre is good enough for me. Extra potash has given me better yields and better quality. Extra potash does not produce extra growth, but gives a smooth, better-bodied leaf that has more weight."

L. A. LANCASTER, R. F. D. 4, Goldsboro, N. C. (above), says: "3-8-8 is a better tobacco fertilizer than 3-8-3 for this section. 3-8-8 brings me more money than I am looking for, every time. 25c tips and 28c lugs look mighty good to me. The principal thing that extra potash does is to improve the quality of tobacco."

EXPERIMENT STATIONS, farmers and fertilizer men have discovered that tobacco needs many times more potash than it received in the past to return the profits that you deserve. The farmers whose statements you have read above are only a few of the many thousands who have discovered that it pays to give their tobacco plenty of potash.

The Tobacco Research Committee now recommends fertilizer containing at least 6% POTASH to be used at the rate of 800 to 1200 pounds per acre, plus a side-dressing of potash equal to 120 to 240 pounds of SULPHATE OF POTASH per acre, the side-dressing to be applied within 20 days after transplanting.

Your Fertilizer Man will be glad to supply you with 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER for use at planting and NV SULPHATE OF POTASH for side-dressing. If you want bigger yields of better quality tobacco, use more NV POTASH this year. It Pays!

burn until late at night. These three intersections comprise the central zone of the street between Five Points and Fourteenth street and traffic lights in this center zone would certainly cut down the speed on Evans street and curtail the number of accidents occurring at these intersections.

RUNNING A CHAIN STORE NOT A FEDERAL OFFENSE

(The Raleigh Times)

Congressman Patman has announced that he shortly will introduce in Congress a bill looking toward the restraint of chain stores by the imposition of a Federal tax. The penalty, for there is no real revenue angle to the proposal, is to be $50 for each store over ten in a chain to $1,000 for each store over 500. The first ten stores in one State and the first five in different States are to be exempt. Individual small business has its definite problem by reason of competition on the part of the chain establishments, but another tax against them will not help the little fellows and its only effect would be to impose a burden on the public. For the chain store sells more cheaply simply by reason of managing its own affairs, purchase, sales transportation, etc. It also is liberally capitalized and intensively managed and by sublimating the principle of buying wholesale and selling retail shaves the margin of profit until it would seem that no single store could possibly survive. The answer being that single stores with small capital and limited bases at higher prices not only survive but prosper. The reason, probably, is found in a cool-headed understanding of the particular situation, a study of customers and their needs and the injection of the personal equation into business... a field in which the chain store is necessarily lost.

As to whether it is within the power of Congress to stretch its authority over interstate commerce so far as to discriminate between businesses on a question of size... that is a constitutional question that cannot be answered until the President has finally succeeded in making over the Supreme Court according to his heart's desire.

IT'S ODD... But It's Science

By Howard W. Blakelee (AP Science Editor)

Philadelphia—Cause of death—confined in bed. Number of deaths from being in bed—10. Patients—all over 65 years of age. These figures come from the Journal of the American Medical Association, in a report by L. B. Laplace, M.D., and J. T. Nicholson, M.D., of Philadelphia. The title of their report was: "Prolonged recumbency as a contributory cause of death in elderly persons." Their conclusion, however, was that in 10 cases being in bed was the real cause. The fact that elderly persons are likely to die if they stay in bed too long—usually several months—is an old medical story. The Philadelphia physicians in these 10 cases sought a more exact explanation. They found that lying down, because it curtails a

ENGLISH SEED FONDS FOR HERBARD SHRINE London.—(AP)—The lord mayor is backing an appeal for $125,000 for the restoration of Southwark Cathedral where John Harvard, founder of Harvard University, was baptized and later married before migrating to Boston.

Aid of Harvard graduates has been promised for the cathedral. Its location near the Thames once provided the provost to declare, "It is not easy to imagine a site less suitable for a cathedral."

EMPIRE FOR A LADY BY ALAN LEWIS

SYNOPSIS: While revolting Dyak tribes besiege Rajah Mantusen and the Malays, James Clyde, trader and gun-runner, faces the greatest decision of his life. A young English girl, Christine Forrester, is behind the war, completing a plan of her dead father for Dyak freedom. Clyde and myself (Paul Thorne) have stumbled into a fantastic situation. The rajah thinks Clyde controls the Dyaks and offers him governorship of Balingong. This deal will accomplish Christine's purpose, and bring Clyde power and wealth.

Chapter 27 Dreams Of Empire

CLYDE had had almost enough to go back to Massachusetts with when he had become interested in Mantusen of Balingong—and had stayed, in one of those final efforts to double which have betrayed so many island men.

We talked for a long time there on the afterdeck, slowly, Clyde jerking out an occasional, mumbled sentence, with long pauses between. Though he was hardly thinking of me at all, I had never been closer to my uncle than I was that night. And that essential love of home which was his main-spring had never been so plainly visible. He was confronted with the greatest opportunity of his life, and he knew it for what it was—an incredible, unpredictable break of the luck. And the strongest instinct he had was forbidding him to accept it.

There were a thousand dangers, and a thousand ways in which the project could break down—that was true. But, on the other hand, no dream of development was so ambitious as to be out of the question for Balingong raj. Some day Balingong could have miles of rice paddies, and coconut groves, and rubber camps in the jungle. There could be acres of platforms for drying fish and shrimp. A channel could be flumed through Siderong bar, and a line of warehouses run from Balingong town to the bay. The Siderong would be safe for trade for the first time in 300 years.

And perhaps some day the wretched half-fugitive Dyaks would become once more a multiplying, working people, freed of starvation, freed of disease, freed of their everlasting, enslaving fear of the kris.

That this course of events would presently bring Balingong under the flag of some world power was beside the point. The thing was that no dream of empire was out of the question for ambitious men. The great East India Company was still patterning the method by which most of the commercial adventurers were bringing the flags of the nations into these unknown seas. But there were other men who made ways of their own.

The great Rajah Brooke, landing in Borneo with only the slenderest of resources, had made himself recognized ruler of an independent nation covering more territory than England. If the luck held long enough, Brooke's great accomplishment might in some part be duplicated here.

But—the fulfillment of such a dream costs the lives of more men than die for it. The living also must bury themselves in such a labor. James Clyde, out of whose everlasting effort all this must be built, would never see snow again. He would never again eat a sour-cherry pie on a New England morning keen with frost, or smell the maple syrup boilers sweetening the clear air of a spring thaw. Little things to stand in the way of empire, perhaps; but dearer to certain men than hope.

In Love WHENEVER I thought of spending all the rest of my life sweating under the blanket of the Balingong heat, dreams of empire lost most of their glow. Even our ship herself seemed unhappy and dispirited here; her lofty trucks kept weaving restlessly against the stars, although there was no perceptible swell. The Linkang had a Chinese name now, but she had been built for a whaler out of Gloucester. Like all the rest of us, she was a long way from home.

"Don't know how to tell Christine," my uncle kept mumbling. And now I began to see something else which I should have seen before, and expected, but which I had been too stupid to suspect. The real trouble with my uncle was not his kris wound. James Clyde was in love with Christine!

Why not? Already I was a good deal more than half in love with her myself. Miles away from any other white woman, the most ordinary girl in the world takes on an unbelievable glamour, until it is hard to believe that there is anything else like her anywhere. And this girl was very far from ordinary. Her courage, her acute knowledge of a part of the world few men knew anything about, her loyalty to the purposes her father had conceived—these were extraordinary enough. But they were less important than the low tones of her voice, which could bring me alive in ways I had forgotten; or her eyes, which could haunt a man for a long time. To us Christine was many things. At this moment she was probably sitting beside Robert Forrester's bunk, feeding her brother with a spoon. She was a girl in silk, among silver tea-things on the Avon's afterdeck; and she was a girl in slacks, talking to me of Dyaks while the emblem of the Tenyalang dangled at her wrist. She was a tired ghost in a smoke-grey robe—and she was the steady reality I had moored to through those hours of nightmare inside Mantusen's stockade. But she was much more than all this—she was everything a white man says goodbye to when the tropics swallow him up.

I should have foreseen that she would get under the skin of any man 10 years from home. But I had not had time for it, and now it knocked the wind out of me. And I felt worse as it seemed to me now that Christine was also in love with Clyde.

As I thought about it I imagined that her eyes were warm and personal when they were only argumentative when she looked at me. I was able to see new and unnecessary meanings in the fact that she had dismissed me and spent the day with Clyde. Why shouldn't she be struck with him? He had decision, and easy force. He was no farther out of his youth than was necessary to gain for him a quality of understanding which women seem to appreciate in men. And the two responded to each other. Clyde, feeling the need of talking to somebody for once, admitted the effect she had had upon him.

Lifelong Exile "I'D GIVE anything in the world," he told me, "if I could take this girl out of here. I'd spend my life working for her, if I could do that. It's this girl that's worth a man's life work."

"Why don't you marry her," I asked bluntly, "and take her home?"

"That's hopeless. There isn't any chance."

"Have you asked her?"

"It wouldn't be any use. She thinks of nothing but this revolt."

"Then it washes down to this," I said. "If you want the girl you're going to have to take the raj of Balingong. Maybe she wouldn't run off with you to Massachusetts—I see your point. But it'll be different if she's going to be Ranece of Balingong."

"That's hopeless, too," he said dismally. "You know a white woman can't live in that stinking river. All I hope is that she gets back to England before her health breaks up. She's out of place here like—like a buckwheat cake."

He was right, too. I remembered Christine here on our own deck, her eyes blue-shadowed with tiredness; I remember her shoulder slipping from its grey robe to catch whatever night breeze there was, while jungle orchids drooped from an awning stanchion beside her, wilting in the heat; and I know that this was not a place where she could live.

For Clyde to take over the raj of Balingong would be a gross thing for the Dyaks, if he made it work; but to Clyde it could mean nothing but the loneliness of a life-long exile. The life-and-death power over 10,000 people is undoubtedly a great trust, but in a way this was like being made king of the apes. Some day, if Balingong turned into another Singapore, it would be different, and Clyde would go down in history as an empire builder, or at least an empire extender. But of course he would not live to see that.

"I can't do it," he kept saying. "I've got to find a way to tell her I can't." And now I saw what he really feared.

Christine Forrester had taken most of the hard, tough will out of him, and Clyde was aware of it. He was literally afraid of her and afraid of himself. Over there on the deck of the Avon, beside the girl he was in love with, he would have a poor chance. She would make him sit a long time while she talked to him, holding his eyes with her own, and her low voice would be weaving dreams that her whole heart went into.

In the end I told him that I would go to the Avon, and take over the job of telling Christine. He protested, of course. But I was amazed at the lack of conviction in his objections. I had never seen him in such a state before.

"You're getting a bad fever out of that wound," I insisted. "It's your plain duty to keep yourself out of the scuppers—remember you've got to fight this ship. Suppose the Malays find you reeling around here counting the masts—what happens to the Avon then?"

"Fever be damned," he mumbled. But by his lack of force I knew that he was licked.

How will Christine accept Clyde's decision? Continued tomorrow.

Excitement Over Their New Airship Helps Germans Forget Hindenburg

Thousands Pay Cash Just For A Look At LZ-130

(By The AP Feature Service)

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany.—Undaunted by the tragic destruction of the zeppelin Hindenburg less than a year ago, Germany is counting off the weeks until she will launch a new sky giant—the LZ-130.

Nearing completion in the Zeppelin Works here, the new ship is scheduled for service between Germany and America next summer.

While skilled laborers work feverishly to have her ready for tests in March, a stream of spectators watches.

More than 400,000 of them have paid 350,000 reichsmarks (about $140,000 at current exchange in New York) in admissions to help pay for her.

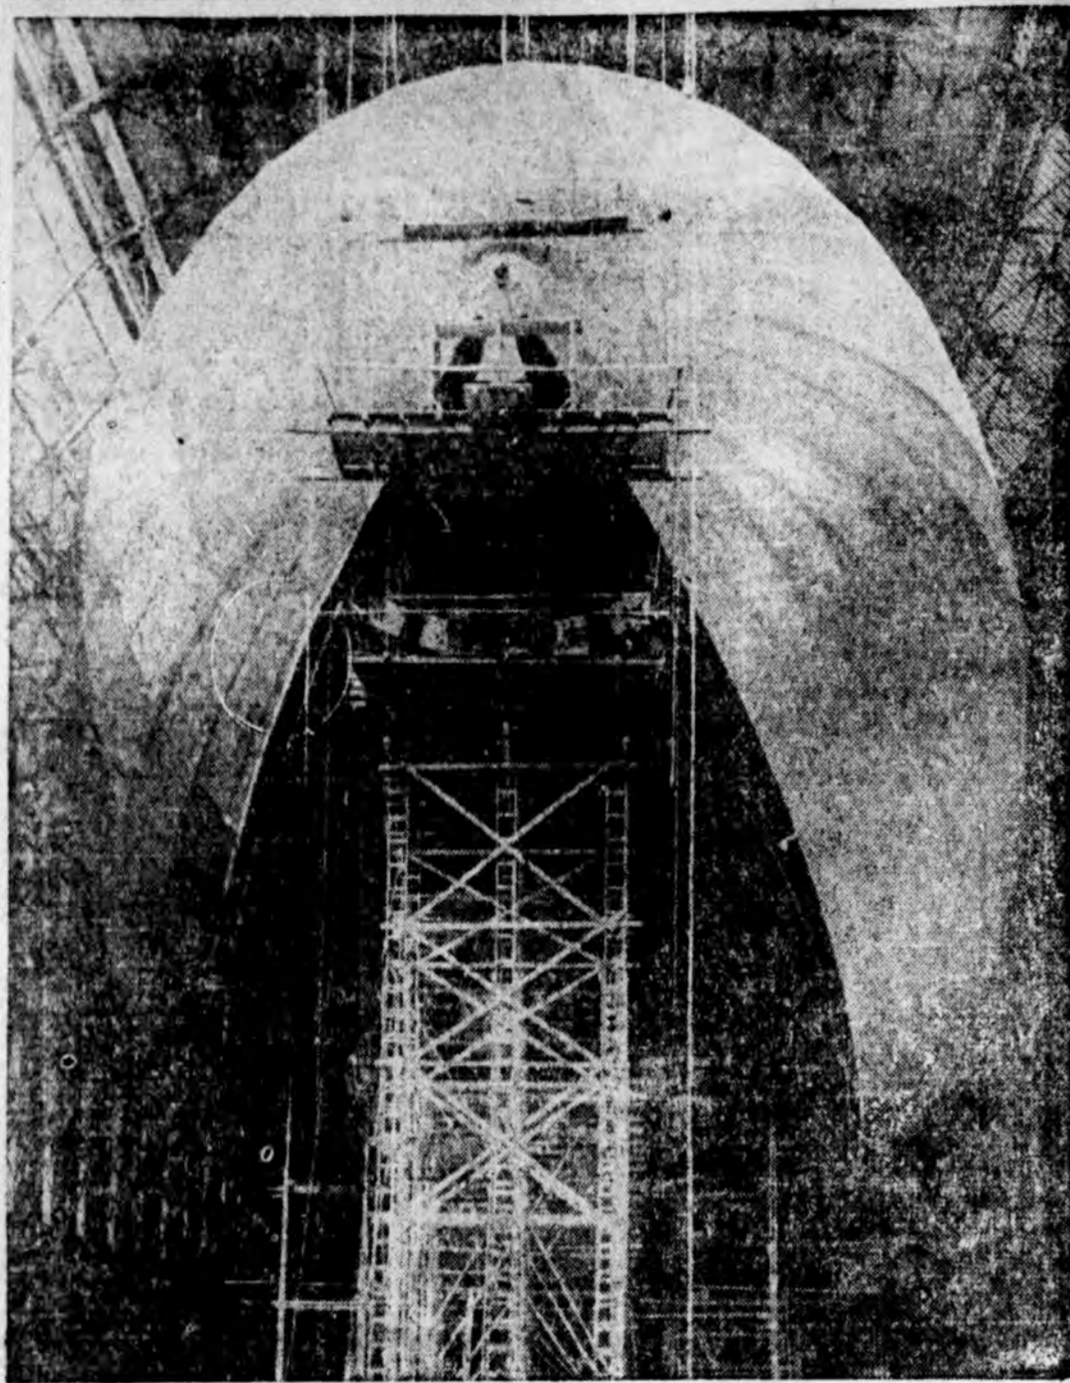

From insurance on her elder sister (the Hindenburg was LZ-129) came about $2,000,000 more to make up most of the $2,600,000 cost.

Statistics

Hindenburg LZ-129
Length in feet	738
Gas capacity (cu. ft.)	7,990,000
Motor horsepower	4,400
Passenger accommodations	70

Most important difference between the two ships, however, will be the use of helium (from the United States) instead of hydrogen as lifting gas in the LZ-130. Helium is non-inflammable, and its use should eliminate danger of a fire such as destroyed the Hindenburg.

Might Germany be building the LZ-130 with a view to its use in war? Zeppelin company officers answer by pointing out that a dirigible would be an ideal mark for modern anti-aircraft guns and is too slow to escape enemy pursuit planes.

SAMPSON GETS REA PROJECT

Another Chapter Is Written To Complicated Volume

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Feb. 16. — Announcement in Washington that $145,000 has been made available by the Federal Rural Electrification Administration for constructing 142 miles of a Sampson county cooperative project marks another chapter in a tangled and complicated volume which might be written about the project.

It is a project which has been turned down flatly at least twice; which started with a 55 mile objective; which grew at one stage until construction of 175 miles was contemplated; and which caused veiled charges by Federal REA officials that the Tide Water Power Company, particularly its attorney Louis Poisson, had "stolen" the project from the cooperative.

Just what lines it is now proposed to construct cannot be determined in Raleigh, as the State REA office says that it has no map of the project. The state electrification body has stood ready at all times, however, to recommend the project and to assist in getting it approved, according to Dudley Bagley, State REA director.

The territory in which the lines will be built lies in four counties, though it is generally called the "Sampson Coop" project. The other three counties in which lines will be strung are Duplin, Bladen and Pender.

Originally it was planned to construct only 55 miles. Maps of this project were prepared and the project was forwarded to the Federal REA, which flatly rejected the entire plan. At little later the Tide Water Power Company built some lines up as far as Harrell's store in Sampson county and it was then that the "stealing" charge was hurled at the T. W. P. and Mr. Poisson, as some REA official let his anger get a bit ahead of his judgment. Revision of the project to include 175 miles also was disapproved. Continuous Congressional pressure was exerted, however, particularly by Representative Graham Barden and eventually the present authorization was announced by the Federal REA group.

CITRUS PEEL IS CAVIAR TO THE LIVESTOCK

Austin, Texas.—(AP)—Citrus peel, which the Texas Planning Board reports was a troublesome problem for Rio Grande valley citrus juice canneries, has been converted into livestock food and is a regularly quoted commodity on feed markets. The peel, the board says, is fed to dehydrating machines where a moisture is removed. It is then cut into small pieces and sacked. Having the appearance of prepared breakfast food, the meal has a bitter taste but one palatable to livestock. The board says canneries formerly were required to haul peel away and dispose of it. Some of it was dumped between rows of citrus trees as fertilizer.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York.—The best story of the week is about that little Jap who plays the part of a valet in the new Guild show, "Wine of Choice." It is a small part, hardly more than a spear-carrier's chore, yet after the first trial performance in an out-of-town city a shower of flowery epistles, praising the Jap's "inspired performance" descended in the management's lap.

Somewhat puzzled, the Guild authorities read the letters, dismissed them from their mind, and moved on to another city. Next morning a gossamer of even more laudatory notes was delivered.

Here was indeed an unusual circumstance. The little Jap's part was so minor as to constitute no more than a "bit." It certainly was not calculated to elicit a deluge of "fan mail."

Then the show moved into Philadelphia. As is frequently the case with trial performances, the authors were traveling with the show, studying each performance carefully, frequently rewriting lines and scenes.

At the last minute they decided to eliminate the little Jap entirely and the curtain went up with the "valet" written out of the script. Nevertheless, next morning the mailman lugged a salvo of "bravo" mail into the theater, complimenting the Guild on its astute casting and calling attention again and again to the wonderful performance of the valet.

With that, everybody went into hysterics. Those letters were explained. The valet, anxious to further his theatrical career, was sponsoring his own fan-mail service. Epilog: He's back in the show. The authors and directors felt that such enthusiasm shouldn't go unrewarded. "After all," as Guy Kibbey says, "you can't blame a guy for trying."

Another instance of circumstances proving a boon to an aspiring player was the mishap that befell Betty Lancaster in the office of a producer one afternoon. The play was "Gentlemen of the Press." When Miss Lancaster applied for the ingenue's role it was felt she was not the type desired.

George Abbott, who directed the play, and Mark Barron, one of its authors, were in the office at the time, and they told her they felt she was not the type desired.

However, as she went out the door, which was glass, there was a sudden crash and a part of the glass fell on Miss Lancaster's arm, inflicting a slight, but painful wound. Abbott and Barron were beside themselves. Unable to get a doctor, they hurried to a drugist and bought a complete first aid kit. Through it all, Miss Lancaster sat quietly, assuring them it was only a superficial scratch, that it didn't hurt, that she was sorry to have caused so much disturbance. Noting her sweet manner and the sporting way she accepted the mishap, Abbott and Barron hastily reconsidered their earlier judgment and signed her to a contract. She went on from there to give a fine performance. If you remember she was the daughter of that managing editor who was always too busy to go home.

Hindenburg's Survivors Eager To Man New Ship

A Catwalk Inside The New Dirigible LZ-130

Friedrichshafen (AP)—Scattered from burns he received at Lake-over Germany or roving the seas, but ready to return here at the drop of a hat, are the surviving officers and crew of the flame-wrecked airship Hindenburg.

Without exception they are praying for "der Tag" when they can again experience the joy and excitement of landing the new dirigible LZ-130 at Lakehurst, N. J. Zeppelin navigation is "ingrained" in these men, most of whom have been with the company for decades.

But they feel that "to rest means to rust." So, to keep in trim for taking over the LZ-130, they have taken temporary jobs on land and sea, or are helping build the new ship. The place of the late Capt. Ernst Lehmann, a victim of the Lakehurst disaster, has been taken by Capt. Hans von Schiller, who was skipper of the defunct Graf Zeppelin.

His colleague, Capt. Max Pruss, who served on the Hindenburg, has only recently recovered sufficiently

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

In baking griddle cakes rub the hot griddle frequently with salt tied firmly in a piece of cloth. The griddle will then be freed of bits of extra batter and the griddle cakes will not be so likely to stick.

To glaze waffles, spread each one after it is baked, with melted butter and a little granulated or confectioner's sugar. Then slip under the broiler for a minute.

A well-polished piece of furniture looks shabby if its brass trimmings are not cleaned. Use a good grade of brass polish and clean each piece thoroughly.

Turn scatter rugs about frequently to distribute the wear more evenly.

Lift breakfast out of the ho-hum class by serving a cranberry breakfast cake. Pour a rich biscuit dough over cranberry sauce placed in a shallow, greased baking pan. Bake for 20 minutes in a moderate oven and turn out, berry side up.

Build shelves all the way up to the closet ceiling—in households where closet space is limited. Then label separate shelves for the sole use of different members of the family.

Soak and cook slices of lemon with dried apricots, prunes or peaches. One thin slice of lemon will be enough for each two cups of dried fruit.

FORFEIT GIVES TEACHERS TIE

Atlantic Christian Wins Three Out Of Seven Fights

Atlantic Christian College won four of the seven fights in a match with East Carolina Teachers College here last night, but the Wilson Institution failed to provide an opponent for the local institution and the match was declared a draw at four all.

The match started off with Jack Daniels losing a decision to A. C. C. experienced Roebuck in the 115 lb. division. In the second fight the spectators sat on the fringes of the seats and saw Herbert Wilkerson outfight J. Wyndham in scrap that had everything in the way of action. Wilkerson outsmarted and outpointed his man in every phase of the scrap but was unable to knock him out.

In the third fight of the night, Pete Perkins, tore into H. Wyndham and in a fight that was fast and furious from beginning to end, ended out a clean cut decision by fighting an aggressive game scrap from waste to ring. This was one of the most thrilling fights of the night.

Maddox of A. C. C. won a close decision from Moore, E. C. T. C. 145 pound leather swinger, in a fight that was furious at times and close to the wire. However, Moore gave Johnson of A. C. C. a lot of vigorous punishment to take a clean cut decision from the scrappy A. C. C. entry. It was plainly a case of what too much Breece from beginning to end and the visitor was lucky to last the fight under the withering blows of Breece's driving left.

From the spectators point of view this was the night's most thrilling fight. George Breece, 145 lb. division, Lewis, A. C. C.'s outstanding fighter in the 145 pound class, was knocked out. This was simply a case of too much Lewis. In the 155 pound division Williams of E. C. T. C. won by a forfeit. The last fight of the night found Keene, Quibel E. C. T. C. footballer matched with Mathen of A. C. C. in the 175 pound division. This fight had enough action for two fights and both boys were dead game from beginning to end. The defensive play of both boys lacked much and it was a case of who could take the most. Mathen won by a technical knockout in the last round.

The fans were well pleased with the nights show and much enthusiasm is being shown in the coming Louisville match which will be held at E. C. T. C. Next Monday night.

BABY PHANTOMS DEFEAT WILSON JUNIORS, 25 TO 21

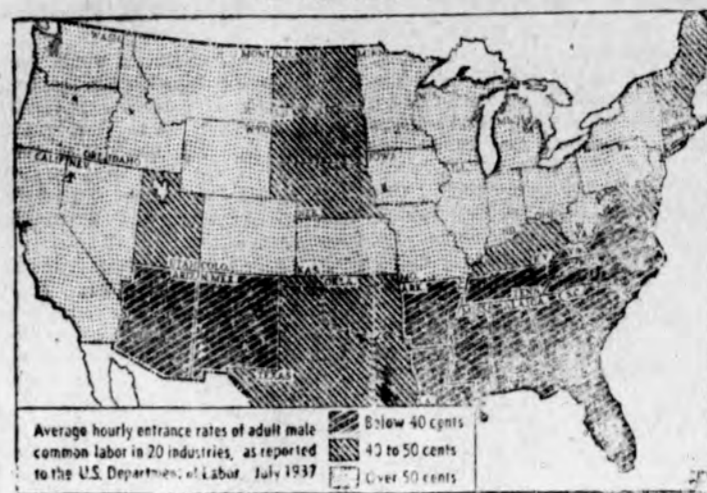

By RICHARD GAYLORD
Led by Barney Warren and Larry James with 12 points, respectively, the baby Phantoms of the junior high took an exciting victory from the Wilson juniors by a score of 25-21 last night in the high school gymnasium.

Herring was high scorer for Wilson with six points to his credit, followed by Etheridge with four. Greenville stayed in the lead throughout most of the first half, but the Wilson boys came back in the latter part to give the locals a tight race.

Collins for the Phantoms was unable to score but played a fine defensive game, allowing his man only three points. Charlie Wilson, midget guard, helped the boys to victory by his fine ball handling. This was the third victory for the locals out of six starts.

HERE IS WHY IT'S HARD TO FIX MINIMUM WAGES

(By The AP Feature Service) Washington — If you're wondering why congressmen from North and South haven't been able to get together on a law to fix minimum wages, take a look at the map above.

last July northern cotton mills were paying an average of 50 cents an hour, compared with 39.7 cents in the South.

That's what lawmakers mean when they talk about the "sectional wage differential."

Southerners argue that any federal wage-hour law which did not recognize that differential would work a hardship on southern industry. Northerners reply that the South's practice of paying lower wages than men will work for in the north already is working a hardship on northern industry.

Success of wage-hour legislation at this session of congress depends upon some compromise.

At that time, the bureau reports, those wages averaged more than 55 cents in the North and just short of 30 cents in the South. In the textile industry, not included in the same survey, the bureau found that

CHAPEL HILL AUDIENCE HEARS LITTLE SYMPHONY

Chapel Hill, Feb. 15.—An audience of townspeople, students and faculty, which overflowed the lounge of Graham Memorial, heard Thor Johnson's University of Michigan Little Symphony present a concert here Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Johnson was known here as "Doc" the University's most promising musician, and was honored by Golden Piece, the performance of the orchestra under his direction Sunday afternoon, according to his listeners, fulfilled the high expectations of his musical career.

NEW 45-LETTER DRUG RAISES BLOOD PRESSURE

London.—(AP)—A new drug for raising blood pressure in emergency cases might do the trick under normal circumstances—if you tried to pronounce it.
The drug is called: Trinitrophenyl-dihydroimidazole hydrochloride.
This 45-letter word is described by Dr. F. Avery in the British Medical Journal "Lancet" as a distant relation of adrenaline. It is used in the treatment of operative shock and can be injected or taken by mouth.
It is known as "Preparation 2020" for short.

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
By Iago Goldston, M.D.
Self Medication

The physician who rolls against self medication is a ways a little subject to suspicion. He appears like a prejudiced preacher. Let the old saying, "He who treats himself has one fool for a physician and another for a patient," was coined by laymen, and not by physicians.

Extensive experiences, and records in particular, have substantially justified the oft-repeated warnings against self medication. These warnings appear especially warranted when drugs of unknown nature and potency are used.

Picking at random, we have recently witnessed the disasters caused by many diets. Persons who have starved themselves or have lived upon an unbalanced diet have been known to develop a multitude of disturbances and diseases, including tuberculosis. Some have died.

The indiscriminate use of sedatives of the barbiturate acid variety have led sometimes to grave and occasionally fatal disturbances in the blood system.

A drug for weight reduction self administered by many was responsible for a number of deaths and for the formation of cataracts. The most recent example of disaster following self medication with a drug combination of unknown quality is that of the 60-some deaths resulting from the use of the elixir of sulfanilamide.

Another danger in the lay administration of drugs has recently been called to our attention by pediatricians and public health authorities. This concerns the installation of nose drops into infants' nostrils for the relief of nasal congestion. In a number of cases the oil so deposited was aspirated, that it breathed into the lung, and there caused a type of pneumonia.

Warnings have been issued by medical authorities urging the greatest care in the use of oily materials in the respiratory tracts of infants. Like precautions must be exercised in the use of oily nose drops by debilitated elderly people, and adults weakened through illness.

When the oil enters the lung, it acts as a foreign body irritant and sets up inflammatory changes favorable to the invasion of the tissues by bacteria. The pneumonia may then develop.

"Use Cotton" Drive. Beverly Hills, Calif.—(AP)—Society women have started a campaign here to make America "cotton conscious."

More than 100 cotton leaders, dressed entirely in cotton, met and announced plans for a Cotton Ball in the spring. They hope to encourage similar cotton celebrations in every cotton-producing area.

GERMAN BOOK PUBLISHERS GOOSESTEP OR LIQUIDATE

Berlin (AP)—Publishers who dare bring out books attacking the neo-pagan philosophy of Alfred Rosenberg, ideological leader of the Nazi movement, risk being forced to "liquidate."

The W. Koehler publishing house of Elberfeld was sealed up by the secret police because it printed books and brochures by the Confessional Synod in which the Rosenberg teachings were denounced from the Christian point of view.

The Apologetische Zentrale at Spantau, which brought out chiefly writings by Rev. Kenneth of the Confessional Synod, was also "liquidated." Kuenneth is protestantism's chief literary opponent of Rosenberg, just as the Rev. Martin Neimoller, who has been in jail since July, 1937, is the chief pulpit fighter against neo-paganism.

Life Of Dopey Proves Stars Can Be Made

By ROBBIN COONS Hollywood — Dopey, brightest star in that animated constellation, "Snow White And The Seven Dwarfs," had his ups and downs just like anyone else before his film fame came to him.

DOPEY IN 1935 was no great shakes as a comedian but he had good stuff in him—the best qualities of four proved laugh-provokers.

EARLY IN 1936, Dopey was working in this garb and trying his hand at pantomime. It was rough sledding, however.

LATE IN 1936, Dopey was beginning to assume some of that elfin character which finally won him stardom.

DOPEY, THE STAR, is described around the studio as "three heads high, with slant blue eyes, a pug nose, large ears that react to his moods, and misfit clothes that droop on his runty, impish body."

CROP-CONTROL NOW UP TO THE FARMERS

Such a quota system would seek to hold 1936 production and marketing of cotton to around 10,750,000 bales, compared with last year's crop of 18,177,000 bales.

Apparently referring to criticism that the legislation would "rob" the farmers, Mr. Roosevelt, while speaking, described the bill as the "one true product of the able and sincere work of many men."

Wallace, many of whose ideas were incorporated in the act, called it "one of the most significant pieces of farm legislation ever enacted."
