BIG MAJORITY PILED UP FOR CROP CONTROL

Agriculture Department Already At Work on Program

ACT PROVIDES PENALTY TAXES

Huge Vote Regarded by Officials as "Genuine Expression Of Farmers' Will"

Washington, March 14.— Cotton and tobacco growers have voted by overwhelming margins to levy stiff penalty taxes on producers who back-slide under the new crop control program.

Farmers who paused in their chores throughout the South and in several Western states on Saturday to cast ballots approved marketing provisions of the 1938 farm act.

As a result, Agriculture Department officials were arranging today to put this system into operation:

- 1. Each farmer will be told how much cotton or tobacco he can sell. 2. Any farmer who sells more than his quota will pay a penalty tax of two cents a pound on excess cotton or one-half the market price on excess tobacco.

Nearly complete unofficial returns from the referenda showed for cotton marketing quotas, 1,189,826 and against 98,144; for quotas on flue-cured tobacco 213,487 and against 33,806.

H. R. Holley, AAA administrator, expressed pleasure over the vote. "The farmers' decision to use quotas is, of course, a reflection of the seriousness of the problems faced by growers of cotton and flue-cured and dark tobacco," he said.

"But the big total vote has been a genuine expression of the farmers' will. The farm program as respects cotton and these tobaccos will have the great advantage of overwhelming support of the cotton and tobacco farmers."

The marketing goal has been set at about 11,000,000 bales of cotton, 705,000,000 pounds of flue-cured tobacco and 145,000,000 pounds of dark air-cured and fire-cured tobacco.

Officials declared the quota system should prevent accumulation of larger surpluses of the affected crops and possibly should improve their prices.

Liquor Looms As Paramount Issue For '39 Legislature

Division, Sales Tax, Income Tax Rates and Homestead Exemptions Among Other Problems

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, March 14.—Candidates by the score are announcing themselves all over North Carolina—men (and a few women) who want to serve in the General Assembly of 1939—and from these candidates the voters will in due time choose the 120 Representatives and 50 Senators who will make new laws and perhaps unmake a few others for the state.

They will be elected for any number of reasons, but no matter why they win the voters' favors they will be faced with a number of certain issues when they assemble here in January, 1939.

At present that hardest of all perennials, the liquor issue, is getting the public play to the minimization of a number of questions which far outrank it in real importance.

Among these issues may be listed diversion, the sales tax, income tax rates and exemption of moderately valued homesteads from taxation. In addition there will be continual and continuing efforts of the labor forces to secure stricter state regulation of maximum hours, child labor and other conditions surrounding employment.

Perhaps the most vigorous single campaign now in progress is that of the petroleum industry to secure passage of a Constitutional amendment forbidding diversion of highway funds to general purposes. This drive has concededly made marked progress and unless business conditions are such that the revenue-raising situation is acute there is far better than an even chance that such an amendment will be adopted and sent to the people for approval.

The Fair Tax Association, with the backing of the State Merchants Association, is trying desperately to work up the old crusading spirit against the sales tax, but doesn't seem to be getting far with it.

Willie Lee Lumpkin, as Franklin representative, made a hard fight to raise income tax rates to the newly permitted constitutional level; as Senator from the same county (assuming his success at the polls) he'll continue it.

GERMAN TROOPS MARCH INTO AUSTRIA

Austria came under the sway of the swastika as Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg resigned in favor of pro-Nazi Arthur Seyss-Inquart, and German troops crossed the frontier without opposition. This picture, taken in Vienna before Austria's proposed plebiscite was postponed, shows one of the Schuschnigg propaganda trucks on a downtown Vienna street bearing the resigned chancellor's slogan, "Good Austrian Equals Good German." Note pictures of Schuschnigg on rear of truck, with fatherland front crosses and "Austria" printed below. This picture was rushed to London and sent to New York by radio.

Pitt Rolls Up Big Vote For 1938 Farm Program

H. C. EDWARDS RITES SUNDAY

Large Crowd Attends Funeral Conducted at Home

Attended by a large crowd of friends and relatives, funeral services for Henry C. Edwards, 73, who died at his home on East Ninth street Saturday morning, were conducted at the home yesterday afternoon by Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian church. Burial followed in the family plot in Cherry Hill cemetery.

Mr. Edwards was born and reared in Simpson section of Pitt county, coming to Greenville when he was 21 years old. He was engaged in the manufacture of bugles until the plant burned about 30 years ago. Afterwards he devoted his time to farming and real estate.

Mr. Edwards was married to Miss Mary Liza Garris of Pitt county in 1892. Of this union one son, Clifton H. Edwards, survives. Mrs. Edwards died July 19, 1898. Later, Mr. Edwards married Miss Annie Cox of Grifton, who with one son, Henry Clay Edwards, and a daughter, Mrs. R. E. Daniels, and grandson, Clifton Hugh Edwards survive.

The following out-of-town people attended the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Edwards, James Edwards, Jr., and sister, Newport; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Edwards, Raleigh; Mr. and Mrs. N. Williams, Miss Virginia Barrington, Mr. Duval, Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Theibert Worthington, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Worthington, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hooker and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. S. Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Dixie Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kilpatrick, Ayden; Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Morris, Mrs. Sallie Winstead; William Winstead, Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. George Vick, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lill Cannon, Kinston; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Spell, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Morgan, Farmville; Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Morgan, Farmville; Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Morgan, Farmville; Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Morgan, Farmville.

Starts Inspection Of Hospital Sites

Charlotte, March 14.—C. H. Stratton of Washington, an engineer for the U. S. Veterans' Administration, began here today a three weeks' tour of 33 North Carolina communities to make preliminary inspection of possible sites for a veterans' hospital scheduled to be built in this state.

After conferring with local officials of the Veterans' Administration, Stratton visited a number of suggested locations for the hospital in this vicinity.

He said his report would be made to veterans' headquarters in Washington.

Saturday Night Fire Damages Negro House

A house on Fleming street occupied by Lillian Fleming was damaged by fire Saturday night when the ceiling of the building caught from a defective flue.

Chief George Gardner estimated the damage at $10. The alarm came in at 11:45 o'clock.

Polls Biggest Tobacco Vote In State Of North Carolina

Pitt county farmers, along with those of others in the state and elsewhere in the agricultural sections, dispelled all doubts Saturday that they wanted compulsory crop control.

Farmers of this county, in polling an even 7,300 ballots in favor of controlled tobacco production, according to unofficial figures, led the state in the number of votes cast favorably in the referendum. Only 62 farmers voted against the proposal.

Although there are not as many cotton farmers in the county as there are tobacco farmers, those in the county voted just a big percentage for control as did the tobacco farmers. The vote in the cotton referendum was 4,249 to 35. In both referenda the percentage of favorable votes was 99.29.

With Pitt the largest tobacco producing county in the world, the big majority is all the more important.

There was no doubt that Pitt county farmers would favor the 1938 farm program, but the unusually open vote surprised even the most optimistic. The county agent's office had placed its maximum estimate at 7,000 votes in the tobacco referenda and 3,000 in the cotton vote. The results do not include ballots which were challenged and, if held legitimate, will swell the total.

The vote was not close in a single Pitt township, but the distinction of supporting the program 100 per cent went to Pactolus, where 333 votes were cast in favor of controlled tobacco and 244 for controlled cotton and not a single ballot against either.

Greenville township cast the most votes, both in the tobacco and cotton referenda, 1,084 in the tobacco voting and 638 in the cotton referenda. Chicod, however, ran a close second, with 1,032 in the tobacco and 180 in the cotton referenda. Not a single anti-vote was cast in the cotton program.

FUNERAL HELD FOR LOCAL MAN

Rites for Roger Clark Conducted Sunday Afternoon

Funeral services for Roger Clark 85, who died Saturday night at 8:45 o'clock at the home of his mother, Mrs. Emma L. Clark, 1098 West Third street, were conducted from the home of a brother, W. C. Clark, 1006 West Third street, yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Clarence H. Patrick, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, conducted the services. Burial followed in the family plot in Cherry Hill cemetery.

Active pall bearers were H. L. Elks, M. T. White, R. L. Jordan, J. L. Windham, Floyd Peeden, W. G. Rush.

Mr. Clark, who had been an invalid all of his life, died suddenly. Besides his mother, he is survived by five brothers, George A. J. W. O. F. J. G. and W. C. Clark, all of Greenville.

The funeral was attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the family.

SEVEN ARRESTS FOR ROBBERIES

White Men And Negroes Held For Series of Thefts

Working in cooperation, county and city officers the past week-end arrested four white men and one Negro, believed responsible for recent robberies in this vicinity.

Three white men, Hugh Styron, Roy White and James McGowan are charged with the theft of sample baseball gloves, mitts and other equipment from the automobile of Robert Crosland, representative for a concern handling such equipment. The samples were taken from the automobile as it was parked at the Country club while Mr. Crosland was attending a dance.

McGowan, White and Roy Rhodes are charged with the theft of a radio belonging to the Carolina Sales Corporation. The officers found the stolen property which will be returned to the owners.

A Negro, Charlie James Moya, charged with robbing Negro houses on the R. M. Garrett place on the Ayden highway the same night the baseball equipment was stolen, also was taken into custody over the week-end by officers of the two forces.

Two arrests were made over the week-end in another robbery. Van Sprull and Eddie Wilkins, Negroes, charged with stealing a large quantity of cigarettes and $27 in cash from the Highway Service station at Bethel and also an automobile, were taken in custody. The automobile was found abandoned and both the cigarettes and cash were found.

Seriously Injured In Auto-Truck Collision

Leon Crawford, Pitt county man, is in Pitt General Hospital, seriously injured as a result of a collision between an automobile and a truck on the Farmville highway Saturday night. Details of the accident were not known, but it was understood two other persons also were injured, not seriously.

TREASURY AIDE SAYS TAX BILL IS INADEQUATE

Undersecretary Testifies Before Senate Committee

RESTORATION OF ITEM SUGGESTED

Meanwhile House Labor Committee Begins Drafting New Wage-Hour Bill

Washington, March 14.—(AP)—Roswell McGill, Undersecretary of the Treasury, told the Senate Finance Committee today that the tax revision bill as it passed the House would not provide sufficient revenue.

McGill testified at an executive session of the committee. Members said he suggested restoration of the tax on closely-held corporations, which was stricken out by the House.

McGill was reported to have said the Treasury was "pragmatically well satisfied" with other corporate provisions of the bill, including the revised undistributed surplus and capital gains taxes.

In the Senate itself, the Senate proceeded on the government reorganization bill.

A House Labor sub-committee settled down to writing a new wage-hour bill after listening to other Congressmen express their views on the subject for more than a week.

Chairman Harrison (D.-Miss.) of the Senate Finance Committee, said after his session that the Treasury felt the elimination of the closely-held corporation tax had cut $45,000,000 from prospective revenues, while an increase in liquor taxes had restored only $25,000,000 of this.

The House voted to increase the liquor tax from $2 to $2.25 a gallon.

Hooker Infant Dies In Washington, D. C.

Word was received here today of the death of David Anthony Hooker, Jr., two-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Hooker of Washington, D. C., formerly of Bethel.

The Hooker infant died last night at 1 o'clock. Funeral services and burial will be held at Bethel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Besides his parents, a twin-sister survives.

Dr. Rebarker Speaker For Principals' Meet

Dr. Herbert Rebarker, head of the Mathematics department of East Carolina Teachers College, will address the regular monthly meeting tonight of the Pitt County Principals' club.

The dinner meeting will be held at Respress' place, starting at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. Rebarker will speak on the topic, "Ways to better mathematics in public schools."

Boy Struck By Truck Here Saturday Night

George White, son of Clyde White of Greenville, was injured about 10 o'clock Saturday night when he was struck by a truck driven by Sallee Howell.

Local police officers, who investigated the accident, declared that the boy ran directly in the path of the truck and was struck at the intersection of Ninth and Dackinson avenues. The boy was taken to the hospital, but his condition was not regarded as serious.

Hitler Enters Capital Of Reich Absorbed Austria; Jews Seek Leave Country

WOULD EXPAND BRITISH ARMS

Warns Hitler Force Will Be Matched With Force

London, March 14.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today plainly warned Germany that Britain would expand her rearmament program to match force with force in answer to Adolf Hitler's absorption of Austria.

However, the Prime Minister, in a vital statement of policy before a House of Commons packed and tense, did not promise British backing to France if she should go to war to save Czechoslovakia from Pan-Germanism.

Chamberlain said Czechoslovakia had been in consultation with Britain, but he refused to discuss what Britain would do to guard the Central European republic, for whose 3,500,000 Germans Hitler has proclaimed himself protector.

Chamberlain bluntly rejected a German statement that Britain had no right to interest herself in Austrian independence, the German answer to British protests over the annexation.

Chamberlain insisted that Britain "must always be interested in developments in Central Europe."

No Action Against Students At State

Raleigh, March 14.—Decision as to whether disciplinary action is to be taken against three State College students who were with Philip E. Winslow, 21-year-old junior, on the night he met death by electrocution, will await reports on investigations by the Student Council and a faculty Students' committee, Dean E. L. Cloyd said yesterday.

Meanwhile, the three young men—Ed Pugh of Elizabeth City, Clarence Beery of Wilmington and Paul Blacklock of Fremont—are continuing their college work. According to evidence brought out at the coroner's inquest, only Pugh actually was with Winslow when he was killed atop a power pole. Beery and Blacklock admitted being with him earlier that night.

Meanwhile in Greenville Hoover Taft, attorney for the Winslow family, declared that steps had been taken to continue the investigation. "We are cooperating closely with Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell," said Mr. Taft, "and have requested him to interview several witnesses who were not called to testify at the inquest but who, we believe, may be able to throw more light on the case."

Negro Church Catches Fire

The Negro Holiness church, an old, dilapidated building at the end of Clark street, caught fire this afternoon, but the damage was listed as negligible by Chief George Gardner.

Chief Garner said the building evidently caught when sparks flew on the roof.

PLEA ENTERED BY FINANCIER

Richard Whitney Pleads Guilty Of Grand Larceny

New York, March 14.—(AP)—Richard Whitney, head of the Richard Whitney and Company brokerage firm and former president of the New York Stock Exchange, pleaded guilty today to a grand jury indictment charging grand larceny.

The indictment was procured by District Attorney Thomas Dewey and accused the socially prominent Wall Street financier of the theft of $103,000 from the estate of his father-in-law, George Sheldon. Estimates of the shortage in the Whitney firm have run as high as $1,000,000.

District Attorney Dewey, in response to a request by defense counsel, said he had no objections to continuing Whitney at liberty on $10,000 bail.

Austrian Chancellor

Arthur Seyss-Inquart (above), Austria's Nazi leader, has been appointed chancellor of Austria to succeed Kurt Schuschnigg who resigned his position as head of the cabinet. Immediately, by request from the new chancellor, Hitler ordered German troops into Austria at strategic points along the border. This action created Europe's most ominous situation since German occupation of the Rhineland in 1936.

MANY CASES IN POLICE COURT

Sixteen Defendants Face Trial at Today's Session

Sixteen defendants faced trial in City Police court this morning, the largest session in several weeks.

W. G. Sutton was convicted of assault and fined $5 and taxed with costs of court. In addition, probable cause was found in a charge of larceny and he was bound over to Superior court under bond of $200. Maud Taylor, indicted in the larceny warrant, also was bound over under bond of $200.

Charlie Whichard, Negro, was convicted of engaging in disorderly conduct and with assault and was fined $5 and costs.

C. B. Barfield, convicted of drunkenness, was fined $5 and costs. Jesse Speight, Negro, was fined $10 and costs for drunkenness.

Russell Early, Negro, was convicted of assault and engaging in riotous and disorderly conduct and was taxed with court costs.

Jake Watson, Negro, convicted of engaging in riotous and disorderly conduct, was taxed with court costs.

Ison Moore, Negro, paid the costs up on conviction of drunkenness.

J. T. Chapman and Harvey Bell, Negroes were convicted of trespassing and fined $5 each and taxed with court costs.

Molly Watson, Negro, was convicted of engaging in disorderly conduct and with assault and was ordered to pay court costs.

L. E. Hudson, paid the costs on a drunkenness charge.

Henry Harrington, Negro, was bound over to County court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Robert Satterfield was taxed with costs on a drunkenness charge.

Jesse Julian Sprull was bound over to County court under bond of $200 on a charge of driving carelessly and recklessly which resulted in a wreck Saturday night in front of the college. Two other cars, driven by Kirk Bennett and J. I. Mizelle, were involved in the wreck, in which no one was injured.

HAILS THROUGH LING ROUTE

Jews Line Up in Front of Polish and Other Consulates Seeking Visas to Enable them to Leave Nation Now Under Reich Rule

Vienna, March 14.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler came in triumph to Vienna today and to a frenzied throng that greeted him, declared "No force on earth can shake us."

Fully a million shouting, flag-waving Viennese greeted German state he has absorbed into his expanded German Reich.

More than 100,000 hysterical followers thronged the square before his hotel. He shouted to them "the German Reich as it stands today is inviolable. No one can shatter it."

Hitler, who had changed to an open motor car during his 100-mile journey from Linz, entered Vienna standing up, bowing, smiling to hundreds of thousands lining the route.

Behind his slow-moving automobile was another car carrying Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, and other high officials of the Reich.

Hysteria swept Vienna Jewish as Austria became a name in history, her land, her people, her army and her government now a state of Hitler's Nazi Germany.

As Hitler drove from Linz to the capital for his entry, hundreds of Jews lined up before the Polish and other consulates to ask visas to enable them to leave the country.

A number of Vienna coffeehouses were placarded with warnings on doors and windows "Jews not permitted to enter."

The post office announced every parcel intended for foreign countries would be opened and searched to prevent smuggling of money from the country.

Jewish druggists were told their medical supplies might be needed by hospitals. Some voluntarily emptied their shelves and donated their goods.

Vienna streets clearly showed the change by which the tempo of the goose-step swept out the Austrian nation with the resignation of President Wilhelm Miklas.

German police officers were on duty in the downtown section. German tanks and other motorized equipment continued to roll into the city.

Engineer Recalls Achievements Of State's Highways

Engineer Lists Number of "First" For Which North Carolinians Have Right to Be Proud

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, March 14.—"Highlights" of North Carolina's highway history prove that this state has a real right to be proud of its achievements, James Burch, engineer of statistics and planning for the State Highway and Public Commission, told Raleigh's American Legion post in an address dealing with the history and future of the highway system.

Among the "First" of which North Carolina can be proud he listed:

(1) North Carolina has built its entire state highway system and has maintained it for sixteen years without recourse to taxation for road purposes. The road user has paid the bill in proportion to his road use.

(2) North Carolina is the only state which maintains all its rural roads without a levy of tax on property for road purposes.

(3) The State Highway and Public Works Commission is directly responsible for more miles of rural road than any other road governing body in the United States.

(4) About 94 per cent of the 11,150 miles State Highway system has been improved and at least 70 per cent of the system has been surfaced with material classified as "dustless" or better.

(5) The state is transporting its consolidated schools more children daily than are transported by any other state in the nation; these buses using an estimated 45,000 miles of rural road daily. The state thus attempts in every way to keep this entire rural mileage open and passable throughout the winter—virtually an unprecedented attempt in providing such transportation.

RECORD SET BY METROPOLITAN

New High Reached In Number of Policies and Amount

The Metropolitan Life ended the year 1937 with the largest number of policies and the largest amount of life insurance ever in force in any company—43,600,964 policies for a total of $22,534,063,608. These policies, which include almost two million lives insured under group life contracts, are owned by approximately 29,000,000 persons of the United States and Canada or two persons out of every nine in the populations of the two countries. The total of insurance in force in the Metropolitan is more than one fifth of the total outstanding in all American life insurance companies.

These and other features of the company's 1937 record were announced when Fredrick H. Ecker, chairman of the Board, and Leroy A. Lincoln, president, made their annual report on Metropolitan business at the opening session of a three-day convention of the company's district managers at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

The totals of each class of insurance in force were larger than those the company has reported for any former year. The total ordinary in force at the end of 1937 was $11,400,690,220; the industrial $7,611,587,887 and the group $3,671,865,512. The company also had accident and health insurance in force carrying a principal sum benefit of $1,510,264,310 and weekly indemnity of $19,699,024.

The Metropolitan issued during the year 1937 a total of $2,393,583,383 paid-for life insurance, of which $1,162,900,331 was ordinary $1,016,506,158 was industrial, and $214,174,594 was group. Revivals and increases, including net increases of group policies after issue, amounted to $768,368,084.

Payments to policyholders last year amounted to more than half a billion dollars for the sixth successive year, the amount for 1937 being $525,876,271. These payments were in ordinary—including group—$278,182,011; industrial $234,268,145 and in accident and death $13,421,115.

The sum of $225,019,056 was added in 1937 to the funds held for the benefit of the policyholders, which brought the assets to the company to $4,719,730,827.

Dividends to policyholders, payable in 1938, will total more than one hundred million dollars, the company having reserved $101,023,188 from last year's earnings for this purpose. Industrial policyholders will receive $43,215,061; ordinary policyholders $54,837,341; and accident and health policyholders, $3,970,766. The Metropolitan, including this declaration of dividends, will have paid $1,317,518,017 to policyholders to the form of dividends and bonuses since its organization.

The convention was attended by 1,500 managers and other members of the Metropolitan field force from all sections of the United States and Canada. The concluding event was a banquet at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria at which Mr. Ecker and Mr. Lincoln were the speakers.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

Chapter 48
Farewell To Balingong

BLAIR read my mind. "Looks like he'd sooner die on the water," he said, "than in this hole."

At that, my uncle spoke; and though his words were husky and very faint, it seemed to me that there was satisfaction in them. "It's going to be a good old-fashioned winter, Paul."

I don't know whether he was conscious while we were moving him, or whether he felt the river under him when he was finally laid in the bottom of the boat.

"You going to leave all that stuff for the Malays?" Blair demanded. "There's more'n 100 guns, and a lot—"

"No; I'm staying back a few minutes. Where's your powder keg?"

"Under the house. There's a hatch in the deck, near the table."

"Pull like the devil, I'll keep their attention here a little while."

I went back to the house; and now Clyde's Tenyalang riflemen were flocking around me from the darkness, gravely anxious to know if they had seen aught, and their rajah was gone. I kept some of them with me, and told the others to make ready their canoes.

For a short while I stood looking around that cluttered main room. Things of great value were there. If I had had time to sort them out. But if I had once started to take away anything, there would have been no place to stop.

I found the hatch in the floor. Below it was a ladder and a sling. With one of my Dyaks I went below where the kegs of powder waited in a black pit, and had the Tenyalang men pass up three kegs to the room above. I split the kegs open with an axe, and we spilled powder all over. It was my intention that the place should be in full blaze before the powder sent it up; I wanted no scrap of anything left.

By this time Clyde's Tenyalang panglima was begging me to come outside. There was something he must show me at once.

I followed him, stumbling in the dark as we raced across the compound and up the embankment of the inner stockade. Three or four of Clyde's Dyaks were standing there on the top of the stockade, silently staring at something up the river. I could not see what they were looking at; I could hardly see the men themselves.

The panglima said, "Prau Tuan."

"How many?"

"There are six. No, there are seven now."

"I can't hear their paddles."

"They are backing water in the current; waiting for others, maybe. We don't know what they are going to do. Tuan Paul, it's time to go."

A quick panic struck me. I so nearly had Clyde out of there—but if they took my bankong they would sweep down on the whaleboat, too, and take Blair and Clyde. "Get all your people into their boats, and shove off—fast."

I sprinted back to the house, and fumbled about for the fuse dangling beside the ladder. I struck fire to it, and for a moment watched the little sputtering coil of light begin to climb. It was burning well, faster, in fact, than I had expected. I turned and ran. I vaulted down from the top of the foot stockade, and in two moments more we were on the river again, at last.

strokes more. So it went, all the way as we boled down that black river.

Whether the Malays faltered because of that insane song, or only turned aside to scout the beach that we had left, I do not know; but presently we could no longer hear their beblit us.

Then, as our bankong swung into the Siderong's many-channeled delta, where the jungle dropped away on either side, so that we were alone upon the empty water, we sighted Blair's whaleboat, drifting idly with lifted oars. And the fool had struck a light!

I sent my paddlers frothing up to the whaleboat. "What the hell do you think—"

"For God's sake," Blair said, "come here." He's bleeding, Paul, he's bleeding bad."

I hesitated, and glanced back along the river. I could detect no signs of pursuit. But now up the Siderong, above the jungles, a glow was rising, a golden diffusion spreading upward, fan-wise into the smoky sky. Against that glow we could see the shadowy heads of tall nibung palms standing up high above everything else, far up the stream; and they looked tiny against the immensity of that dir spread of light.

"Pull on to the ship," I decided to make ready their canoes.

"It's all we can do."

"This is going to finish him Paul. Right quick now, I think."

Blair's light was a masked hurricane lantern, so guarded that it dropped a little cone of yellow into the bottom of the boat. In this cone, detached by the surrounding inky dark, I could see Blair's hand—a big muscular hand with a spouting whale tattooed upon the back. But from where I sat, I could not see my uncle.

"Pull on, anyway. The best we can do for him is to get him onto his ship."

"He's Gone"

BLAIR granted to the carser and his blades chugged in the water as they pulled. Still fearful that other praus might come on from the river or the shore, he held the bankong back.

I had thought that two miles or the Siderong river was a long way, but the river had been nothing compared to that last distance in the bay. Blair's dim lantern vanished, leaving both our boats lightless again, and in the starkest midnight the bay was no longer a bay at all—it was such an emptiness as could only have existed before time or light were ever created.

Then, in the dark we almost barged into Blair's whaleboat again, its men resting on their oars once more; and this time knew at once, without asking, why Blair had stopped.

We swung close, and Blair spoke to me very low across the little space.

"He's gone, Paul."

"Are you sure?"

"Sure. I thought you might want to know before you went aboard."

"Thanks. Where's the ship?"

"She's dead ahead. You better go on board first, to tell the girl."

"All right."

A little later a white flash split the sky above the jungle, so bright that I saw the black hull of the Linkang ahead for an instant, thrown in silhouette against shadowless water, as in a lightning flash. And instantly afterward the sky and the jungle and the sea shook with the slam of terrible thunder.

Until James Clyde was under the water, I did not begin to realize how much I had depended on him. I had done much of our less comfortable work myself, and I had not always agreed with his ways. But he had always been there, solid as rock, affording a certainty of decision which was a fixed thing, such as a man can chart his course by. I missed that now.

But I was discovering also what a myriad of things my uncle's ended life had left undone.

I sat now at the bolted-down table under the Avon's afterdeck awning, making lists of the people I needed to see, and sorting out my plans. The Avon and the Linkang were proceeding in convoy to Singapore. I needed delay while I tried to plan, and I was glad that adverse winds alternated with untimely calms.

When the weather allowed, Christine slept in a long deckchair near where I worked. All the hours of rest she had missed during the siege of Balingong, and before, were now being made up. I was very glad.

And I was touched, too, that she seemed to like to be near me as she slept.

stroke the youngsters, at least.

As far as general and sustained interest went, the outstanding local event of the week was investigation of the death of young Philip Winslow, State College student, who was electrocuted late on the night of March 5 while climbing a railroad black signal pole.

Rumors of "hazing" and "fraternally initiation stunts" and "drinking parties" flew thick and fast, but officials probing the case reached the conclusion that the Pitt county youth died because of his love for dangerous stunts, particularly climbing. A coroner's inquest found that Winslow was not intoxicated, that hazing and initiations had nothing to do with the case and that death was entirely accidental and the result of Winslow's confirmed propensity for "climbing."

In Wake Superior Court Richard Coke is reputedly the big shot of Racket charges and paid a $2,000 fine imposed by Judge N. A. Sinclair.

Exact information is, of course, unavailable, but the amount of the fine is estimated to be just about one week's "take" for the racket. Coke is reputedly the big shot of one of the pools operating here.

WE had not taken 10 strokes into the current before we began to hear the many paddles of the Malays moving in the river above. They were closing a little now, but slowly, and they did not fire yet. It seemed to me that they could not decide what they were trying to do.

One of my Tenyalang lay in the stern, his rifle sighted back over the stern post. "Shall I fire, Tuan?"

"Hold your fire." Suddenly I decided to try something else. "Sing," I ordered. "Sing, all of you!"

They hesitated, and then one of them began a low chant which, even in the first few words, I recognized as a dirge.

"No! Give me the fighting song. Give me the Song of the Tuan Darah—and let me hear you yell!"

They picked it up, first hesitantly, then in wild rising cadences, timed by the paddles. It was an eerie thing to hear, that primitive song of victory, and savage exultation, and defiance, howled from the throats of fugitive men to whom all gains were lost. They would yell for 10 strokes, then paddle six strokes in utter silence; then the wild burst of song would rise again for 10

RALEIGH LAST WEEK

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, March 14.—Raleigh checked another dull political week off the calendar as the deadline for statewide candidates drew nearer. Throughout last week payment of filing fees and formal entry of candidates continued to trickle in to the office of R. C. Maxwell, secretary of the State Board of Elections, but none of those putting his money on the line was a surprise entrant in any race. All had previously announced their serious political intentions.

As things shaped up a wild and woolly scramble for judicial robes and solicitorial honors loomed as the outstanding feature of this year's primary.

Efforts of practically all factions to get Congressman Walter Lambeth of the Eighth to reconsider his retirement plans went astray, leaving the field practically wide open in that neck of the woods.

The State Highway and Public

Works Commission adopted a resolution that anyone on the payroll of that organization will automatically drop himself off in the event that he or she offers for any public office. This was in marked contrast to some previous years in which highway officials not only ran for, but held, other elective posts.

Governor Clyde R. Hoey made little news on his own account, but the Safety Week which he had proclaimed made the front pages with frequency.

Ronald Hocutt, assistant director of the Safety Division, visited a number of eastern cities in the interests of the safety campaign, while Major Arthur Fulk, commander of the Highway Patrol, made (literally) a flying tour of western cities for the same purpose.

In Raleigh there was a monster safety parade, which seemed to

Plans Pushed For Beautification Of State's Highways

Extensive Campaign to Improve Roadside Scenery Being Conducted by C. Commission

Raleigh, March 14.—More beautiful highways, as well as safer highways, will be found in North Carolina this spring and summer as a result of the extensive roadside improvement work which has been done by the State Highway and Public Works Commission.

Sharp cuts have been flattened and planted with grass and vines to prevent erosion; ragged and rough areas of barren soil along the rights-of-way have been smoothed over and planted to grass; logs, stones, tin cans, stumps, and unsightly advertising signs have been removed from the roadsides. Curves have been cleared of trees on the inside to permit better vision for the driver, and these cleared areas have been landscaped and planted both to prevent erosion and to make them attractive to the eye.

All the roadside work is under direct supervision of F. H. Brant, landscape engineer of the Highway Commission and formerly with the Wisconsin Highway Commission and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He is enthusiastic over the possibilities for still greater roadside improvement and over the wealth of natural beauty which lends itself to roadside beautification.

The four principal objectives of the roadside improvement program in North Carolina, Mr. Brant said, are:

1. To contribute to the safety of the highways and to their economical maintenance.
2. To protect existing natural beauty against improper exploitation and despoliation.
3. To eliminate unsightly features that are found along too many of the state's highways.
4. To retain the natural scenic character of North Carolina by

IN A BIG WAY Growers throughout the cotton and flue-cured tobacco belts are to be congratulated for the big way in which they voted in Saturday's referendum for control of these crops. We take this opportunity to especially thank the growers of this county, the world's premier tobacco producing county, for the fine showing they made by voting 99.29 per cent in favor of the control measures. There has always been the saying that the farmers would not stick together on anything, but certainly our farmers revealed the folly of such a statement Saturday. By their action in voting for control our farmers not only rendered a service to themselves but to their entire community as well, for the community prospers only to the extent that our farmers prosper.

erate together. But the persuasive Lienthal won the support of the third member of the board, H. A. Morgan, an agricultural specialist, and his way has prevailed since. Bitterness on the board increased. Lienthal, in a letter published by President Roosevelt, urged Chairman Morgan's resignation. From Arthur Morgan came accusations of dealings by the majority members about which he raised questions of fairness and integrity. Yet while Lienthal was pictured as the bitter foe of the power interests, Rep. Maury Maverick of Texas, after a one-man investigation, stated in the Congressional Record that TVA had betrayed its purpose by selling such large blocks of power to what he termed "monopolies" that little power will be left for domestic users in the area. Working on another front, Lienthal suggested a deal for purchase of portions of Commonwealth and Southern on a cost basis. Wilkie replied with an offer to sell whole hog on a "going concern" basis and suggested negotiations. There the situation stands as Congress debates whether to probe the sores with a congressional investigation or to permit the Federal Trade Commission to dig and dig and report in 50 volumes.

SHORT SHOTS By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, March 14.—If Willie Lee Lumpkin of Franklin county is elected to the 1939 State Senate—and there are those who will give heavy odds that he will be—the Upper House is going to be a livelier branch than it was in the 1937 session. The Franklin legislator is violently, at times almost fanatically, opposed to the State Administration, and though he wasn't as fiery in 1937 as he was in 1935 when he was Doctor Ralph McDonald's right hand man in the House, he is certain to make himself heard in the Senate—especially if there is any appreciable Anti-Administration bloc therein.

There have been reports that Dr. McDonald, still in a Forsyth hospital, may be a candidate for the 1939 State Senate but last authentic reports of his physical condition indicate that these reports are mostly wild rumor. In Davidson county State Senator L. A. Martin is running for the House this time because his county doesn't get a Senate seat. His campaign slogan, used on cards boasting his candidacy is "Don't Change Horses in the Middle of the Stream; Experience will be needed in the next legislature."

The Senator made such a good impression as leader of the Dry forces in the last Senate that he is frequently mentioned as a possible candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1940. What appealed even to his foes was the fact that he conducted his fight with the utmost tolerance of the other fellow's opinion and without brandishing heavy ABC supporter as a "liquor hound" and without charging every one of his opponents with having "sold out" to the whiskey interests.

North Carolina's total of drivers' license revocations rose to 15,741 last week. The state's motor vehicle operators have paid in Federal gasoline taxes alone, the tremendous sum of $16,655,000 since 1932, according to statistics of the American Petroleum Industries Committee. That's a lot of pennies.

Growers who have obtained government loans on their cotton do not have to sell it in order to qualify for a price adjustment payment, according to E. Y. Floyd, AAA representative at State College. "Do not be deceived by anyone who wants to buy your cotton and tells you that you cannot get the price adjustment payment unless you sell it," he advised.

James S. Burch, engineer of statistics and planning for the State Highway and Public Works Commission, says he was just a little "overquoted" in a recent story from this bureau regarding the state's highways. The story inferred, he said, that more than half the state's total mileage is "obsolete." What he intended to say is that more than half the state's roads contain certain "obsolete" layouts and situations.

Despite the fact that the cotton and tobacco referenda have now been held, there's no reason to believe that the entire "Farm Relief" matter is a dead cock in the pit. Truck growers, peanut raisers, potato producers and others are already grumbling ominously because they do not think they are going to get the same sort of protection and assistance extended to raisers of the staple crops.

Washington Daybook By Preston Groover

This is the last of two articles defining TVA, the Roosevelt administration's "yardstick" for national economic planning.

Washington — Take the long view of the Tennessee Valley project and you are likely to conclude that: 1. The half billion dollar project ultimately will be completed. 2. It will result in expansion of industry in the six or seven southern states it is expected to affect. 3. It will be attended year after year by the same sort of disputes in which it is now involved.

TVA Vs. Utilities None of the three directors of the TVA ever has argued that the project should be held up, nor has any substantial wing of Congress. That, in brief, disposes of point No. 1. As to No. 2, when 600 miles of low-cost river navigation are opened up to connect a vast inland empire with the ocean by way of the Mississippi, and when power is supplied at low cost to big and little projects alike, industry is likely to move in, particularly when it can expect at least for a time, to benefit by low-cost Southern labor. As to No. 3, the dispute which involves Congress, the President, Commonwealth & Southern Corporation, and the two factions of the TVA board, is fundamental. It hinges largely on the extent to which the government shall direct the use of the power developed from its string of dams. At the outset of TVA, Commonwealth & Southern, headed by Hoosier lawyer, Wendell L. Wilkie, decided to fight it out to prevent government power invading its markets for electricity in Knoxville, Memphis, Atlanta and elsewhere. Because Wilkie went to the courts and for a time tied up by the government invasion by injunction. David Lienthal, lawyer member of the TVA board, wanted to hit back hard, squeeze the big corporation into submission.

Family Fight Chairman Arthur Morgan of the board urged a more patient plan of painless absorption of the private company by the government enterprise where the two could not op-

Columbia Boys And Jamesville Girls Win Negro Meet

Columbia boys and Jamesville girls were victorious in the final rounds of the Eastern North Carolina Negro basketball tournament, completed here Saturday night.

The Columbia boys defeated the Plymouth team 35-18, while the victorious Jamesville girls downed Williamston 38-17.

In the finals of the girls game Minnie Hunter scored 32 of Jamesville's 38 points. Her sensational playing was the most thrilling of the entire tournament.

The Jamesville girls entered the finals after defeating Ormeland 15-14 in the semi-finals. The Williamston girls entered the last round play after defeating Greenville, 19-18.

The Plymouth boys defeated Washington 27-24 in the semi-finals, while Columbia entered the finals after setting down Greenville boys 36-28 in the semi-finals round.

Man About Manhattan

New York—An ingenious form of ridicule (against strip dancers) has bobbed up in the terpsichorean exercises of Dorothy Humphrey and Charles Weidman, who are now leisurely dancing their way across the continent.

This is supposed to be in 1960, when a war maddened world wears gas masks 24 hours daily.

They are worn in the nursery, at teas and at business. In fact, no one remembers what a face looks like. The strip tease occurs when the girl, dancing before an enthusiastic group of males, daintily strips off her mask, leaving her face completely nude.

One of the nice things about being a convict at Sing Sing is that your leisure moments are well taken care of. . . . You may play handball, basketball, wrestle, box, or swing dumbbells in one of the best equipped gymnasiums in the state. . . . However, this is one thing the taxpayers can't complain about. . . . The gymnasium is the gift of H. M. Warner, the Hollywood film producer.

Loping into his office the other day an editor spied one of his reporters gazing sadly out the window.

"What's the matter with you?" boomed the boss.

"I've written a play," confessed the scribe, "but I can't think of a suitable title."

"Well, maybe I can help," suggested the editor hopefully, "what's it about?"

"It's a mystery story. Chief, it's about a reporter who is murdered in the office late at night."

"You mean right in the newspaper office?"

"That's right."

"Well, for Pete's sake! why don't you call it 'Murder In The Dog House!'"

One of the interesting people you meet around New York nowadays is Alexander Brailowsky, the Russian pianist, who between renditions of the Chopin cycle, likes to tell an occasional story.

It seems Brailowsky was in Vienna at the outbreak of the war, studying with Leschetizky, and because of his Russian birth was immediately thrown into prison. During his internment he came before a certain officer who treated him with marked kindness. After his release Brailowsky naturally fled the country, and it wasn't until later years that he ventured again into that city of waltzes on the Danube's shores.

Last year, after a particularly successful concert in Vienna, the same police officer, now the Chief of Police, came back stage and said to Brailowsky: "If I had known when I released you during the war that you could play like that, I would have had you interned permanently in Vienna!"

Incidentally, Brailowsky's hands are extremely large, a fact that once caused Rachmaninoff to tell him, "You have the hands of a born pianist." This was in St. Petersburg when Rachmaninoff was a Czarist supervisor and Brailowsky was a mere student. Today he has the incredible reach of an octave and a half.

Here On Visit

J. A. Alexander (above), native of this county, but now a well-known evangelist of the northwest, is spending a few days here renewing old acquaintances. Alexander, known locally as "Pete Adams," left this city 45 years ago. For the past 36 years he has been carrying evangelistic work and during this time his travels have carried him to many sections of the country as well as into Canada where he preached for about five years.

Alexander's work has not been confined to his own race for he has done much among the white race of the northwest, also. He now travels from place to place in his work in a completely equipped trailer which is the gift of white friends of Minnesota.

Alexander knew the late Billy Sunday well and on several occasions appeared on the same platform with him. As a result of his evangelistic work during these years there have been many converts and several tabernacles have been built in the west and northwest as a result of his efforts.

Prior to leaving Greenville Alexander worked for the late E. H. Shelburn, and the late Oscar Ryan in the capacity of baker in one of Greenville's first commercial bakeries. He was well acquainted with the older generation in Greenville and has called upon many of those now living since his arrival in this city.

In commenting upon the town today he declared that since he left here Greenville has grown from a very small town to a progressive city.

Alexander will remain in this county for several days, leaving the latter part of the week for Washington where he will speak, and then return to St. Paul, Minn. to continue his evangelistic work.

Yawkey Signs West Coast Prize

Joseph M. Gonzales At 20, He's Almost a "Sophomore"

By DILLON GRAHAM (AP Feature Service Writer)

The Far West tabs Ted Williams as the Pacific Coast league's No. 1 rookie graduate.

Tom Yawkey heard the booming of the ballyhoo tom-toms and reached for his check-book before other owners could unlimber their fountain pen artillery.

So, Ted's a Red Sox now.

Lanky and spare, Outfielder Williams stretches his 175 pounds over a 6-foot-3 frame. He's just 19 and still a rowing, Ted clouted 25 homers when he was with San Diego last season, drove in 98 runs and batted 292. Boston has three pretty snappy fly-chasing regulars and other richly advertised recruits, so Ted will find the competition very spiky.

Ted's teammate, Joe Gonzales, also gets a chance with the Gold Sox. A 20-year-old right-hander, Joe came up last summer and won one and lost two for Boston.

A youngster who bears the approval of Joe DiMaggio, the coast's greatest recent gift to the majors, may be the Philadelphia A's second sacker. He's Dario Lodigiani (say it like Load-E-Johnny). He belted 18 homers and batted .327 for Oakland, a good year's work for a 20-year-old.

Another trio that likely will stick includes Outfielders Max West and Nino Bongio (Bongiovanni for long) and Infielder Pete Coscarat.

The 330 stick mark achieved by West, a 6-foot-1, 162-pound south-paw slugger with the Missions, attracted Casey Stengel's attention, and Max may be humming around with the Boston Bees.

The accent on youth is popular now in Cincinnati and Boston, whose 322 average calls for no apologies, probably will become a Redman. Coscarat is among Brooklyn's best prospects.

Comebackers include Outfielder Rupert Thompson and Infielder Steve Mesner. Sent to San Diego by the Bees, Thompson is back with the Chicago White Sox, while Mesner, who starred with Los Angeles after falling to make the grade last season with the White Sox, is ready for another Chicago test with the Cubs. Mike Tresch from Portland, same to the White Sox in a winter swap with Detroit and may share catching duties with the aging Luke Sewell.

Also with the Cubs is Infielder Bob Mattisk from Los Angeles.

Pittsburgh will try Sacramento's Pitcher Bob Klingler, while the St. Louis Cardinals will have a look at Sacramento's Outfielder Buster Adams and Lou Vezlich. The Yankees grabbed Oakland's Outfielder Fern Bell.

Seventeen wars have been fought since the end of the World war.

EFFORTS MADE FOOL FARMERS

Need Not Sell Cotton To Qualify For Adjustment

Raleigh, March 14—A grower who has obtained a government loan on his cotton will not have to sell it to qualify for a price adjustment payment, said E. Y. Floyd, of State

"Do not be deceived by any one who wants to buy your cotton and tells you you cannot get the price adjustment payment unless you sell it," Floyd stated.

Reports have been received that efforts have been made to get farmers to sell their cotton and lose all opportunity to benefit from any later advances in cotton prices.

If the cotton is under government loan on June 30, 1938, and if it is otherwise eligible for the payment, the adjustment payment will be based on the average price of cotton for that day.

The payment will be the amount by which the average price of 1/16 inch middling cotton on the 10 spot markets is below 12 cents a pound either on the day the individual grower sells his cotton, or on June 30 if it is under loan.

However, in no event can the payment exceed three cents a pound.

Floyd also stated that the new farm act has extended the maturity date of the cotton loans from July 31, 1938 to July 31, 1939.

The only way a grower can sell cotton that is under loan is to pay off the full amount of the loan. If he does this, he can sell to whoever will buy.

Any sale attempted while the cotton is under loan would not be a sale of cotton, but only a sale of the right to benefit in whatever proceeds might remain after the loan and all carrying charges have been paid in full.

The Metropolitan is a mutual organization. Its assets are held for the benefit of its policyholders, and any divisible surplus is returned to its policyholders in the form of dividends.

The Human Side — for 1937

IF WE WERE to let the figures above describe the Metropolitan's activities last year, the story would be far from complete — for there is a HUMAN side of the ledger, too.

Policyholders and beneficiaries received from Metropolitan in 1937 almost $526,000,000 — much of it in an hour of genuine need.

Death claims were paid on 6,107 policies in force less than three months, and on 18,562 policies in force less than one year — dramatic proof of the value of life insurance.

One could scarcely name a catastrophe which took human lives, in the United States or Canada, where funds provided by Metropolitan policies had not helped lighten the burden for afflicted families.

Each day, visiting nurses representing the Metropolitan ministered to persons insured under Industrial, Intermediate, and Group policies who were in need of skilled care. These nurses made 3,766,240 calls during the year.

Every half second during 1937, a Metropolitan booklet, containing useful health information, was placed in somebody's hands.

Each working day throughout the year, new Metropolitan investments went into communities in various parts of the United States and Canada. These investments helped to create a demand for goods, aid realty values, give employment, and serve other modern social and economic needs.

There is more we would like to tell you about our 1937 Report. This is contained in a booklet entitled, "The Human Side of the Ledger," which we shall be glad to send to you upon request.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 14.—(AP)—Stock market leaders goose-stepped into the recovery halls today, many pushing up fractions to one or two or more points before meeting profit-taking resistance. The climb was slow, however, and extreme advances were reduced near the fourth hour. Armanent issues, including steels, aircrafts, coppers, rubbers and specialties pointed the way for the comeback. Bolstering sentiment was the growing belief the Senate will further revise the administration tax bill and as urged by Senate Leader Pat Harrison, possibly drop the much-disputed undistributed profits tax altogether. Domestic bonds were given a lift, but some European loans developed weakness. Wheat futures tumbled as war talk lessened. Cotton at the same time improved. European currency, especially the French franc, fell sharply in terms of the dollar.

ENGINEER RECALLS ACHIEVE-MENTS OF STATE'S HI-WAYS (Continued from page one) portation service in rural communi-ties. (6) It is generally accepted that the condition of the rural roads under state administration is much better than undercounty manage-ment. (7) North Carolina, being small-er in size than the average state, and having only about 24 per cent more people than the average state, maintains a primary state highway system about 53 per cent longer in mileage than the average state.

OPERA HELPS THE GERMANS CONSERVE Berlin (AP)—Puccini's opera, "La Boheme," is being used to aid Germany's self-sufficiency cam-paign. In movie houses throughout the Reich a propaganda strip is run-ning which has for its motif the scene between Marcel, the painte rand Rudolf, the writer when these two room-mates are trying to heat their cold studio. Rudolf has just thrown his un-published manuscripts into the fire with the words, "It's a heavy loss for this century" when a new fig-ure, unknown to Puccini bobs up. It is an agent of Goering's Four-Year Plan. "Gentlemen," he exclaims, "Just imagine if everybody were to act in so senseless a manner! Millions worth of scrapped paper would go up in smoke."

NINE INDIANS CARRY ON TRADITIONS OF TRIBE Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—There are just nine Oklahomans left to carry out the traditions of a once strong In-dian tribe, the Plankshaws. The tribal lore started centuries ago with the banding together on mid-western plains of a group of sturdy aborigines. Last chieftain of the Plankshaws, George Washington Finley, died in 1933. Those left to tell the stor yof the tribe are his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Barnard of Tulsa, and her children, Oletta, Leota and Charles; his son, Leo Finley; his grandchild-ren, Carol, Jeanne, Dixie Dean, Jim and John Finley, who live in Miam-i, Okla. A Tulsa artist, Frank Vonder Lancken, painted the chief's por-trait a short time before his death, called it "The Last Plankshaw." But now he plans a portrait of an- other Plankshaw, Carol Jeanne Finley. Pacific salmon cannot be produc-ed extensively in any part of the world except the North Pacific, ac-cording to studies made by the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries.

New York Cotton

New York, March 14.—(AP)—Cot-ton futures opened one lower to four points higher. Disappointing cables were offset by the favorable acreage allotment referendum. Shortly after the first half hour May sold at 89 1/2 and the list was two to six points net higher. May at midday was holding at 89 1/2 with the list two to five points net higher.

GERMAN TROOPS INVADE AUSTRIAN CITY

This is a general view of the Austrian city of Salzburg which was invaded by German troops when the Austrian government, capitulated to Hitler, and pro-Nazi Arthur Seyss-Inquart assumed Austrian chan-celership. The troops began moving into Austria when the new chancellor sent for them to preserve order. In the background, at right, is shown the forte ssof Hohensalzburg and left background the Salzach river.
