SEN. PITTMAN SCORES ICKES FOR MEDDLING

Urges Modification of Reorganization Measure

INCOME RECEIPTS SET NEW RECORD

Final Vote on Administration's Naval Expansion Bill Deferred Until Monday

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—Senator Pittman (D., Nev.), urging modification of the administration's reorganization bill, told the Senate today that "there is nothing on earth but what Secretary Ickes wants to meddle with."

Pittman argued for adoption of the Wheeler amendment to the bill, saying he had received "authoritative" information that if the bill passes, President Roosevelt plans to transfer some of the functions of the Forest Service to the Department of Interior headed by Ickes.

"If the Secretary of the Interior had such a character and disposition as to listen to the advice of the forestry experts who have directed this work for 50 years, it might not be so bad," Pittman declared.

"But everything in recent history and experience indicates that there is nothing on earth but what he (Ickes) wants to meddle in."

While the Senate debated, House leaders announced a final vote on the administration's billion dollar naval expansion bill would be deferred until Monday.

The Senate Finance Committee considered the House approved tax bill again this morning.

Meantime the Treasury collected a record total of $615,947,718 in income taxes in the first 15 days of March.

In making the figures public, the Treasury noted collections were 18 per cent higher than in the similar period last year and indicated the President's budget estimates of revenue from the source would be more than fulfilled.

REBELS' DRIVE TO SEA HALTED BY LOYALISTS

Stubborn Resistance Put Up by Government Troops

STRATEGIC AREA HELD BY LOYALS

Heavy Reinforcements Cross River and Speed to Aid of Highway Junction

Hendaye, France, March 16.—(AP)—Stubborn resistance by Government forces brought General Francisco Franco's swift drive to the sea to an abrupt halt today.

The insurgent general staff ordered a heavy concentration of troops east of Alcaniz to speed back 30 miles to Caspe, fearing their offensive may have overreached itself and exposed their left flank.

Although insurgent dispatches last night announced their motorized forces had completed occupation of Caspe with little or no resistance, today they said a heavy battle was being fought in the city's outskirts.

Dispatches indicated government troops still controlled part of the strategic city of 20,000 population at the junction of the most important highways in northeastern Spain and in the east central part.

The government said heavy reinforcements from the north had crossed a river rushing to the defense of Caspe.

Some of the insurgents had pushed beyond Alcaniz to the south, almost to Valderrobres. The latter city is only 35 miles from the Mediterranean coast, objective of the insurgent thrust to sever Government Spain's capital of Barcelona from Madrid and Valencia.

Wohl's candidacy would have been based fundamentally on her opposition to war and her adamant stand for prohibition. She planned to advocate a national referendum on any declaration of war and a statewide referendum on the liquor question.

In the present aspect of world affairs a stand against the usual Constitutional plan of leaving declarations of war to President and Congress would probably embarrass the Administration nationally, and Mrs. Wohl is as vigorous a supporter as the New Deal boasts in North Carolina. Her remedy for present ills has repeatedly been stated as "more and not less New Deal" and she would hesitate long before taking any step she thought might please the President.

SEEK CONTROL OF ROADSIDES

Governor's Committee Lays Plans For Legislation

Raleigh, March 16.—(AP)—The Governor's committee on roadside control and improvements laid plans at its first meeting here today for special legislation to give the state more adequate control of its roadsides.

Governor Hoy attended the meeting, which was in charge of Coleman Roberts of Charlotte, chairman.

Roberts pointed out the state now has jurisdiction only over that part of roadsides lying in the state's right-of-way. He said he was not interested in complete abolition of outdoor advertising along highways, but wanted control of the roadside to promote greater safety by increasing visibility and lessening the fatigue of drivers.

Hoy urged the committee to remember thousands of tourists passed through the state without spending any time visiting around and sightseeing, but that each saw the roadside.

He said he had had a generally acceptable Roosevelt record, great bank success since 1933 and a vast bulge in tobacco. If he makes up his mind, or if Mr. Daniels makes it up for him, Flanagan won't have to worry about campaign funds.

Before leaving here Col. Flanagan said he had made up his mind to retire from politics, but added he had received letters from all parts of the state encouraging him to make the gubernatorial race and that he might change his mind.

He said that he had not intended to run again for the Senate, but if he did it would be for the purpose of protecting his slot machine law, which at that time was being handicapped by a Federal court order restraining officers from interfering with their operation. Since however, the order has been vacated and the machines are being confiscated.

It is known that the Greenville banker and business man has been urged for some time to seek the gubernatorial nomination and it would not be surprising to many if he did decide to make that race.

Winchester, Va., March 16.—(AP)—Colonel Brantz M. Rosell, 69, educator and lecturer, died early today at Southern Pines, N. C.

Having annexed Austria as just another state in the German Reich, Adolf Hitler looks eastward toward Czechoslovakia, held in the pinchers of the new Germany. The black area shows where the population of Czechoslovakia is predominantly German. The Nazi dream is the unification of all Germans and in this area there are 3,500,000 of them.

Knox Raps Administration For Undemocratic Policies

Declares People Must Decide on Course for Future

Charlotte, March 16.—(AP)—Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher and Republican nominee for vice president in 1936, told North Carolina Republicans in an address here today that it was up to the American people to decide whether the nation should have democracy and free competition or planned economy and a government vested in a Supreme executive authority.

Col. Knox, keynoting the Republican state convention, said "speaking bluntly, the 'control' which Mr. Roosevelt would establish are impossible under our present form of government and under our present economic policy."

The speaker prefaced his address with a comparison of conditions in 1933 with those of today and commented that although the government had spent more than 40 billion dollars since 1933 "We are back substantially where we started five years ago, and we are back there principally because those responsible for national policy failed to recognize, understand and give heed to this simple truth—that democracy and free competition are inseparable."

Business before the conclave, at which officials predicted more than 1,500 from every part of the state would gather, included adoption of a platform, election of officers and selection of a nominee for the U. S. senate.

Mentioned prominently in pre-convention talk as a possible successor to Chairman W. O. Meekins of Hendersonville was Jake Newell, Charlotte attorney who carried the GOP banner in the 1932 senatorial race against Senator Reynolds, Democrat.

Names heard in connection with the senate nomination included those of Forest Witten of Mooresville and William H. Jordan of Effland.

Chamberlain arose and said: "I decline to be rushed into making announcements prematurely about this very serious subject (Spain), the government has to bear a great responsibility."

Chamberlain's response brought concerted fire from the opposition. The Prime Minister refused to make a definite statement of Britain's position about possible German aggression against Czechoslovakia.

Laborites, aroused by the fear of Italian and German domination of Spain and the Mediterranean in the event of insurgent victory, resorted to unusual parliamentary procedure—the adjournment motion—to force Chamberlain to make the statement.

Chamberlain returned from his triumphal annexation of Austria, left Munich for Berlin at 2:45 p. m. (6:45 a. m. EST) today.

The army sources said he originally had intended to remain several days longer in Vienna, where he concluded his historic four-day Austrian visit yesterday, but that the Polish-Lithuanian crisis called him back to Berlin.

The Polish press has been attacking Lithuania angrily over the border fight between frontier guards in which a Pole was shot and killed. The newspapers declared the man was deliberately ambushed.

There have been reports Poland wants to annex Lithuania, but official circles in Warsaw emphasized that Poland rejected any such idea.

DRYS Will Name Burgess To Succeed Late Leader

Raleigh, March 16.—United Dry Forces of North Carolina, meeting at Greensboro Friday, will select Cale K. Burgess of Raleigh to succeed their dead leader, Dr. W. L. Poter, who will call for a statewide referendum on statewide prohibition; and will be everything in their power to line up satisfactory candidates for the 1939 North Carolina General Assembly.

The meeting will pointedly ignore the race for United States Senate in which incumbent Robert R. Reynolds and aspiring Congressman Frank Hancock are the leading contenders.

None of these forecasts is made on the authority of any of the dry leaders, who so far have said little or nothing definite for publication regarding the Friday session; they are made, rather on what the dry leaders did not say and on the very apparent logic of the situation.

Agree To Take Up Arms For Protection Of Ally If Hitler Adopts Force

DUCE HOLDS NO FEAR OF NAZIS

Tells Italian People Frontiers are Safe from Germany

Rome, March 16.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini today promised his people that the Pan-German expansion never would penetrate Italian frontiers, but at the same time pronounced a benediction on Adolf Hitler's absorption of Austria.

"Our frontiers are sacred," Il Duce shouted to an assemblage that filled the Chamber of Deputies. "We will not discuss them. We will defend them."

His promise was broadcast to all Italy. It was the Premier's reply to doubts of his own people alarmed over the extension of a mighty German state to the Brenner path, gateway between Austria and Italy.

In public squares throughout Italy, Mussolini's followers gathered around loud speakers to hear Il Duce, hoping for reassurance about the German surge southward.

Neither the declaration of Saturday's Fascist Grand Council nor repeated assertions in the press that the Anschluss (union) bore no menace for Italy had entirely appeased popular anxiety and chagrin.

Mussolini declared it would have been an "historical and political absurdity for Austria, a German state, to have remained independent and anti-German."

Il Duce referred to his dispatch of Italian troops to the Brenner path when Austrian Chancellor Dollfuss was assassinated in 1934.

Paul-Boncour replied to the assurance with the promise that France, too, would fight in the same cause.

Adolf Hitler, Fuehrer of a realm expanded last week by his Austrian coup, had proclaimed himself the "protector" of all Germanic people's on Germany's borders.

Incorporation of Czechoslovakia 3,500,000 Germans is believed to be the next objection of Hitler's Pan-Germanism.

Paul-Boncour and the Soviet ambassador planned to rush fighting and bombing planes to Czechoslovakia if Hitler resorted to force to achieve this objective.

Russia, it was said, informed France that Soviet railway lines recently had been connected with Czechoslovakia's transportation network through an intervening Rumanian railway.

Both France and the Soviet union—themselves bound by a mutual assistance pact—have treated directly with Prague, pledging military aid. Today's reaffirmation of the pledge between them was considered by diplomatic circles to have reinforced the Franco-Soviet pact.

PROTEST OVER BORDER CLASH

Hitler Rushes Home in Face of Poland-Lithuanian Crisis

Berlin—March 16.—(AP)—A German army source said today that Reichsfuehrer Hitler was returning hurriedly to Berlin because he had received word that Poland had presented an ultimatum to Lithuania expiring late today.

Details of the ultimatum were not known, but it was believed based on a frontier clash of March 11 for which Poland was demanding satisfaction.

Hitler, returning from his triumphal annexation of Austria, left Munich for Berlin at 2:45 p. m. (6:45 a. m. EST) today.

The army sources said he originally had intended to remain several days longer in Vienna, where he concluded his historic four-day Austrian visit yesterday, but that the Polish-Lithuanian crisis called him back to Berlin.

The Polish press has been attacking Lithuania angrily over the border fight between frontier guards in which a Pole was shot and killed. The newspapers declared the man was deliberately ambushed.

The proceeds from the opera will be used for the trip to Greensboro, where the junior high glee club will enter the annual state music contests.

The musical production, under the direction of Miss Mabelle Jones, has 51 students in its cast and choruses. There are eighteen musical numbers in the opera, which include solos, duets, chorus singing and dancing.

The title roles in the opera are Cinderella and the Cat, played by Dorothy Davenport and Billy Lee, respectively. The cast also includes Ann Skinner, Rubelle Harris, Mary Sue Moore, Peggy West, Bruce Thigpen, Lucille Teel, George Abeyounis, Kirby Allen, John Saleed, T. G. Cayton, Warren Picklen, Charles Pace, Mitchell White and Gene Skinner.

The setting for the first and third acts of the three-act musical is in Cinderella's home and the action of the second act takes place at the palace of the King. The story of the opera differs from the well-known fairy tale "Cinderella," only in the fact that cats are characters, making the story more imaginative.

If you like good acting, humorous situations, and good music, see "Cinderella and The Cat."

Athenum Club. The Athenum Club held one of its most delightful meetings of the season on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Knott Proctor. The home was appropriately decorated to carry out the yellow and green color scheme of St. Patrick's Day. After the roll call and a short business session, the meeting was turned over to the hostess. For her program on "Music Appreciation," Mrs. Proctor introduced Miss Serene Turnage of Farmville, who graduated in piano at Flora McDonald College and studied under Edwin Hughes in New York. She illustrated different types of instrumental music from its very beginning to the present day. Each selection so perfectly presented at the piano was accompanied by interpreting remarks by Miss Turnage, who played with unusual touch, technique and feeling compositions by Beethoven, Schumann, Brahms, Mozart, Chopin and Liszt. She held everyone spellbound throughout the program.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess invited the guests into the dining room, which was beautifully decorated. The table was covered with an Italian cutwork cloth and centered with a bowl of daffodils and ferns flanked by yellow tapers. Mrs. K. B. Pace assisted in serving a tempting frozen salad course, carrying out the St. Patrick's motif.

Special guests of the club were Miss Turnage, Miss Edna Poust Harris of Farmville, and Mrs. John Proctor.—Reported.

The Round Table. The Round Table met with Mrs. T. A. Person yesterday afternoon. Sows of yellow flowers brought spring sunshine right into the very attractive home of the hostess.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. E. W. Stafford and Mrs. Mack Brown. During the business session conducted by Mrs. S. J. Everett, club president, final plans were made for a program of study for the next club year.

The paper for the afternoon, an excellent study of "O Henry, the Man and His Work," was given by Mrs. Paul Fitzgerald. Mrs. J. E. Nobles gave a current event review. The hostess added items of interest gathered during her recent visit to Florida.

Mrs. Person, assisted by her sister, Mrs. W. B. Thigman, served a salad plate. All during the refreshment hour trays of sweetmeats, typically Southern in content and abundance, were passed among the guests.

This group of devoted friends felt keenly the absence of a loved member who will be out during the spring.—Reported.

Clio Book Club Meets. On Tuesday afternoon the Clio Book Club held its regular meeting with Mrs. W. S. Bost as hostess. Mrs. W. W. Morgan, as new president of the club, called the meeting to order and a rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Jack Spain as outgoing president, and other officers and committees. After the reading of the minutes, new committees were appointed. The club members drew for permanent possession of last year's books and the current books were re-distributed.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Roy Barrett, who discussed Pulitzer Prize winners. In 1917 Joseph Pulitzer, by the terms of his will, provided for the establishment of five literary prizes which were to be awarded annually by the Advisory Board of the School of Journalism of Columbia University.

The fiction award is made "For the American novel published during the year which shall best present the wholesome atmosphere of American life and the highest standards of American manners and manhood."

This award has been made each year since 1918, except for 1920, when the judges reached no definite decision. Booth Tarkington is the only author who has twice received the Pulitzer prize—in 1919 for "The Magnificent Ambersons" and in 1922 for "Alice Adams."

The prize winning novels since 1918 were briefly reviewed by Mrs. Barrett.

After the program, refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jack Spain, and the club enjoyed a very delightful social hour.—Reported.

Perfume Business. Los Angeles (AP)—The county board of supervisors has set up a budget fund of $28,000 for a perfume manufacturing experiment by the WPA.

SAUCER SILHOUETTE—Something different in spring chapeaux is made of navy blue taffeta and shaped like an inverted saucer. It is rimmed with shirred taffeta and set over a long blue veil. Howard Hodge designs it.

Sans Souci Book Club. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. J. H. Waldrop most delightfully entertained the Sans Souci Book Club at her home on Rotary avenue.

After disposing of routine business, the report of the nominating committee was ready. All of this year's officers were nominated and elected to serve another year.

The program for the afternoon was in the capable hands of the hostess, Mrs. Waldrop, who had arranged an afternoon of music for her guests. She gave them not only a delightful program, but one portraying the works of the masters—light, serious, dignified and sacred.

During the program Mrs. Waldrop, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. W. Hearne, sang "Morning Wind," and a charming Bohemian folk song.

This was followed by a piano duet played by Mrs. G. V. Smith and Mrs. Hearne. They chose as their composer Beethoven, and before playing the First and Second Movements of the Fifth Symphony in C Minor, Mrs. Smith gave a brief description of this symphony and Beethoven's dynamic treatment of his themes.

Handel was the next composer to contribute music to this inspiring program. All who heard Mr. Ed Parkerson sing "Where Ere You Walk," and "The Lord's Prayer," will always have a deeper appreciation of the beauty and dignity of the works of this great master.

The closing number for the afternoon was the ever beautiful and greatly loved "Serenade" by Schubert, sung as a duet by Mrs. Waldrop and Mr. Parkerson. The blending of two lovely voices in the immortal "Serenade" was a fitting close to a program well planned and delightfully rendered.

The club members and guests of the afternoon, Mrs. H. C. Waldrop, Mrs. Babcock, Mrs. G. V. Smith, Mrs. Hearne and Mr. Parkerson, enjoyed the delicious refreshments served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. I. Wooten, after which the meeting adjourned to meet next with Mrs. W. E. Hooker.—Reported.

Inter Se Book Club. Mrs. Staunton Harvey was hostess to the Inter Se Book Club on Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. Lovely spring flowers were used throughout the house. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. William Taft. Mrs. Wyatt Brown introduced Mrs. L. M. Buchanan who presented a most interesting paper on "Greek Art." She gave in detail the background of Greek Art—those conditions which made it possible to produce the Greek temperament which meant the golden age of Art in Attica. We seldom think of the Greeks as having any direct bearing on our daily lives, but a visit to any American city will furnish many examples of architecture; as the Supreme Court building in Washington, D. C. We often find Greek statuary in our homes and libraries. We can also see the Greek influence in our styles of dress.

The fourth and fifth centuries B. C. are known as the greatest period of Greek Art. It was during that time that the Greeks erected their temples on the Acropolis. It is to Pheidias, the greatest of all Greek sculptors, that we owe the perfection of the temples built there. Like Raphael he was sole author of the work he conceived, but he left the impress of his genius upon them all.

Other sculptors associated with the fourth and fifth centuries are Myron and Polykleitos. These men portrayed the human form in all attitudes.

Everything the Greeks accomplished was done in less than 300 years. When we reflect that during these few years, the people of ancient Attica were able to lay the foundations for the entire fabric of our own modern western civilization, not only in politics and science, but also in arts, then we realize that these ancient people must have been people of extraordinary ability.

At the conclusion of her paper, Mrs. Buchanan passed pictures and several pieces of Greek statuary.

The usual business session was held. The nominating committee made a report and presented the slate for new officers, namely, President, Mrs. W. H. Taft; vice-president, Mrs. Sam Northrop; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. D. Duncan. These were accepted unanimously by the club.

The hostess served a delicious ice course with nuts and mints.—Reported.

End Of The Century Club. Mrs. B. W. Moseley was gracious hostess to members of the End of the Century Club at her home on West Fifth Street on Tuesday afternoon. The program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. L. R. Meadows who had for her subject, "Eastman and the Progress of Photography."

People of 1850 who wished to have their picture taken could not have lived in the hurry that we of today do, for at that time ten minutes was the time required for exposure of a film. It was at this time that the first photograph was made in America. This was posed by Miss Catherine Draper for her brother who was a professor at New York University. At this time photography was a scientific exploration with little assurance of the course the future would take.

The romantic story begins about 700 years before Columbus discovered America, with the finding of Chick tonight. March half gone. One day of the races over. Today was a pretty day for the races.

Services in the Methodist Church tonight. The woman who does everything with her toes went to Kinston Tuesday evening.

With the races to draw people out to the track is has looked mighty quiet up the street this afternoon.

It is getting time the county Democratic convention was called to select delegates to the State convention.

These Draw. It takes a rich man to draw a check, a Greenville girl to draw attention, a horse to draw a cart, a porous plaster to draw skin, a toper to draw a cork, Chick's Show to draw a crowd, and an ad in The Reflector to draw trade.

silver chloride. Two more centuries passed and a German named Schultze experimented in a scientific manner regarding the sensitivity of silver compounds to light. Through his work it was found possible to obtain copies of writing on a sensitive surface of chalk and silver nitrate. This has been the essential and basic fact which has made photography possible. It was not until 1802 that any more progress was made. At this time the principle of the "dark room" was adapted by Thomas Wedgwood and Sir Humphrey Davy in England. Their research combined the principle of "dark room," lens, and the prism.

It was in 1839 that the problem of "fixing" was solved by Sir Herschel when he introduced the solution now commonly called "hypo." At last, pictures stayed as they had been taken.

With Daguerre, whose name we know from our grandmother's quaint portraits, photography began in earnest. The sensitive surface for Daguerre's photographs was silver nitrate darkened by iodine fumes. After the plate had been exposed in the camera it was held over a dish of warmed mercury.

The next step forward was made in England by Fox Talbot. He made pictures on paper coated with silver iodide instead of on silver treated with iodine, and he used no mercury.

An amateur photographer in the twenty years preceding 1880 was a queer person; for he had to think it fun to go out on a photographic expedition carrying a bulky camera, a heavy tripod so necessary for the long exposures, burdensome and breakable plates, a "dark tent," for loading and sensitizing and then developing his plates, a nitrate bath, and a water container. It was at this stage of the development of photography that the prophet of modern photography entered.

George Eastman, a bank clerk, was interested in amateur photography. His first interest was in creating a dry plate. It was in 1880 he devised an apparatus to coat dry plates mechanically, and then began the manufacture and sale. The main need in amateur photography was the film, which would do away with glass plates. The "stripping film" was devised—a temporary paper base coated with soluble gelatine. This progress evolved a new type of camera. The first Kodak appeared in 1888 and was the invention of Eastman who coined the name "Kodak."

The discovery of a transparent, flexible film base was made possible by Eastman and his staff in 1888, and is the film with which Kodakers have long been familiar. Daylight loading for cameras was patented in 1891. Then followed daylight developing in 1902 which completed the present system of photography except for refinements.

The discovery of film not only revolutionized photography but also made motion pictures possible. The launching of the movies as a commercial institution established one of the world's largest industries. This fact is substantiated by the fact that Eastman's annual production of motion picture film in the United States alone amounts to 200,000 miles.

"Home movies" then entered the field of photography and it was at this stage of progress the most remarkable developments appeared. With the new, small motion picture camera have come the super-sensitive films for motion and color. Most of these have been introduced since 1931.

In reality of the development of photography through the centuries we travel Kodak Park, just outside of Rochester, New York. Beautifully landscaped, and spotlessly clean, rolls the 400 acres of ground occupied by 83 major buildings which compose the three large plants. Due to the sensitivity of the gelatinous preparations, every precaution of "spotlessly clean" must be observed for it has been sighted that even two drops of foreign matter in a ton of film coating would be ruinous. One of the main developing buildings has been constructed over a reservoir housing five million gallons of water. This reservoir is a unit of the system that supplies 15 million gallons of water per day. Approximately nine thousand employees share the profits of this large industry for Eastman transferred several thousand shares of stock to his workers in order that they could share in the profits of their skill and labor.

To people of the South it is particularly interesting to know that the film base is no longer paper, but cotton is used. This is now treated with acetic acid giving us a safety film. The gelatin which is used by the Eastman Company is prepared in Peabody, Mass., from hides which are shipped in from Texas. In the Rochester plants about five tons of silver are used each week in the production of about 100 different kinds of film.

Where, further, photography may go, no one can guess. Daguerre could not see the future, Eastman could only glimpse it.

At the close of Mrs. Meadows' program, three selections were sung by Mrs. Dink James.

A salad course was served by Mrs. Moseley, assisted by Mrs. Mosey and Mrs. Meadows, who presided at the very attractively arranged tea table.—Reported.

WILL CHECK ON IDLE VETERANS

Greenville Employment Office Names Interviewer

A nation-wide campaign has been launched by the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans of the World War and the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, to have counted and registered, through state employment service offices, all unemployed veterans in the United States.

The North Carolina State Employment Service will co-operate fully in this movement," states R. Mayne Albright, director. Each office of the Service has one person whose special duty is to be responsible for veterans' employment problems. Veterans' organizations in this State are making every effort, during March, to have every North Carolina veteran, who is seeking work, register with the Service.

A survey will be made as of April 1 of veterans' registrations, and an estimate of the number of unemployed veterans in the country will be secured. The program points to widespread employer contacts in behalf of these men whose average age is 46.

From July 1, 1937, to December 31, 1937, 1,716 veteran placements were made by the North Carolina Employment Service. During January and February of this year, 890 veterans registered, and placements totaled 254. As of February 28, more than 4,000 veterans were actively seeking employment through the State Employment Service.

In the Greenville office of the Employment Service, Arnold F. Barwick, Senior Interviewer, has been appointed special interviewer in charge of veteran's placements.

DRYS WILL NAME BURGESS TO SUCCEED LATE LEADER

(Continued from page one) changed and the most logical thing for the Drys to do is to give Mr. Burgess the title as well as the arduous duties of leader. Every indication points to that consummation.

As for advocacy of a statewide liquor referendum, the very necessities of the case make that a practical certainty. Of course, the Dry forces would, if they thought they could possibly muster the Assembly strength to do so, wipe the present county control statute off the books and restore legal aridity to all North Carolina by legislative fiat. But even their most optimistic hopes do not extend that far, and there are large numbers of them who sincerely believe that a statewide "mandate" such as would be given should a referendum show a dry majority would give a tremendous impetus not only to the cause of prohibition, but of temperance and total abstinence.

And so there seems not even a small doubt that the dry program will call for a statewide referendum such as was advocated by its leader in the 1937 General Assembly.

But above all things, the Friday meeting will concern itself with selection of candidates for the 1939 General Assembly. Dry leaders realize this is practically a question of now or never with their cause or at least, that if they fail to do something about the ABC stores at the coming legislative session it will likely be years and years before they have another chance half so good.

It follows that the Dry board of strategy will center its attention on legislative candidates, and every effort will be made to name dry candidates who have a chance to win in every county in which there is a vestige of hope for the prohibition cause.

As for the United States Senate race, the dries look on Hancock and Reynolds as six of one and half a dozen of the other, and they like neither. They are far too canny, however, to waste their time and efforts on to make themselves ridiculous by backing some candidate with no earthly chance of winning, such as the Rev. Mr. Johnson (first name forgotten) from Buncombe, even though his principles be the highest and his intentions the best.

It's Odd But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (AP Science Editor)

Durham, N. C. — Every time Dr. J. B. Rhine of Duke university wins a victory for his "second sight" experiments, a new scientific objection is raised to try to slap him down.

This time the slap comes from the old idea that figures will prove anything. That objection is brought to answer Rhine's recent mathematical victory.

His mathematical authorities admitted that so far as the laws of mathematical probability were concerned, Dr. Rhine was right in asserting that the number of correct guesses by certain persons calling the faces of unseen cards exceeded chance by billions to one. That, Dr. Rhine held, proved the existence of extra-sensory perception—vulgarily known as second sight.

But now H. Rogsin of Essex Junior College, Newark N. J., asserts that even the admission of mathematical correctness, Rhine still must be mistaken. It is true that the figures prove something odd, but they don't prove, says Rogsin, that the something is extra-sensory per-

The Story So Far: Red-headed Cissy Rogers, in love with Reuben Oliver, swoops down in her plane to find out what or who is keeping him buried in the heart of Maryland's hunting district. Both Reuben and Cissy's father have made a fortune in oil, but Reuben has dropped out of the race. Seeing Reuben again, Cissy realizes something has changed him.

Chapter Two The Evening Star

THE thought of life without Reuben in it stretched a drab road—an intolerable road, a lonely road, even though all the world and his wife danced along it. Cissy said slowly: "The oil wells need watching too. Dad can't be there at this time. You can and should be on the job."

"There's a good man in charge," defensively.

"No man is good enough to do his own work well and another fellow's too."

Because this was true, it nettled him. A frown darkened his face. "You sound like an oracle or something."

"Better listen to me then."

"Oh—for Pete's sake, Cissy!" He grinned down at her as suddenly as he had frowned. "Don't let's quarrel. Not begrudging me the first little holiday I've ever had, are you?"

"No," but she wanted to share it with him. They walked on, not in the old friendly silence, but in a strained, uneasy one which lasted until they came in sight of the house.

Long, low, rambling, it was set in a wind gap between two hills and half hidden by trees. Scaffolding covered one entire side from foundation to roof. Bricks, mortar, lumber made the lawn unsightly.

"There's my castle!"

Cissy, used to the glitter of the Gold Coast, stared in wordless disappointment at the unassuming old house.

"I've always dreamed of owning just such a place," Reuben said half shyly.

"It wasn't a dream," flippantly. "It was a nightmare."

"You don't like it?" with small boy disappointment.

"I'm not educated up to old wrecks. Even in Rome with every-one ranting, I couldn't get all stewed up over broken stone pillars and cracked walls."

"Wait 'til you see what I mean to do," enthusiastically.

"Rebuild?"

"Restore."

"There's a difference?"

"You'd be surprised. They go in for that sort of thing here. Many of the people around are living on original grants from the King."

Pedigree

CISSY was not impressed. "That's nothing to be proud of. Gifts—Anyone can live on charity. Everyone can't earn their own."

"Are you telling me? Look, Cissy, I'm going to plant rhododendrons here."

"Plant rhododendrons! She looked at him speculatively. A stranger! A Reuben she didn't know, who brushed aside the most important factors in his life—lumber, oil, and the fact that he was losing money lightly, but kindled with enthusiasm at the mention of a few shrubs.

"You'll have to plant more than rhododendrons," practically. "You can sink a gold mine before you make a show."

"I don't want to make a show."

"Everyone wants to make one kind of show or another. You've gone Green Spring Valley."

"This is the Worthington Valley."

WILSON VOTERS APPROVE CITY HALL BOND ISSUES

Wilson, March 16—Wilson voters went to the polls yesterday and said they were in favor of a $85,000 bond issue to be used for the erection of a new city hall. The vote was 487 to 105 for the issue.

"It's all the same," contemptuously. "Someone told me an old saw, the other day—" not for worlds would she have him know she questioned and listened avidly to all the information she could get—"Something about the Green Spring Valley—

"Land of blue grass and blue blood—Where horses bow only to Goodloes and Goodloes bow only to God!"

or some blah like that. Buying your way?"

"I couldn't if I wanted to."

"Act your age!"

"They go in for pedigree in this Valley—men, horses, cattle, chickens. A man who isn't sure of name, whose only background is an orphanage, has no chance at all. Cissy."

Suddenly she wanted to cry over him. She said crisply: "Why do you stay here? It's not like you to crawl."

"I'm not crawling," proudly.

She turned her amazing green eyes full upon him and said above a torturous tightness in her chest: "It's a girl that's keeping you Don't lie, Reube."

He had no intention of lying. He simply hadn't analyzed, even for his own conviction, just what was keeping him here away from a busy world that was beginning to bow to him. He stood and looked at her a bit dazedly, as though she had rudely awakened him from a

A TALE ABOUT A FRIGHTENED SHERIFF

Pueblo, Colo. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Ralph Thompson has a reputation for fearlessness.

So Joe Shank, court reporter, was surprised when Deputy Thompson came running into his office one night when both were working overtime.

"Some sort of beast has broken into my office," said Thompson. "Come help me trap him. He jumped at me when I opened the door."

Cautiously the two men went to the sheriff's office. Thompson drew his revolver. They opened the door a crack and Shank took a look. Then he laughed. He threw open the door, switched on the light.

There, reposing in a chair at the deputy's desk, was the shaggy head of an ancient buffalo that had been hanging on the wall.

OKLAHOMA CITY ACTS TO CURB A NUISANCE

Oklahoma City (AP)—After a solemn conference Mayor J. F. Martin and W. A. Quinn, city manager, handed newspapermen this proclamation:

HIGH COURT REFUSES TO RECONSIDER SUPREME COURT RULING

Washington, March 16—(AP) The Supreme Court has refused to reconsider its recent decision holding that provisions of a South Carolina law limiting the gross weight of trucks to 6,000 pounds and the width to 90 inches could be applied to vehicles operating in inter-state commerce on standard concrete or asphalt highways.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

This is the first of two articles on that haven of military scholars, the War College.

Washington—While there is early talk of peace, a dozen phases of the next war are being fought out already in scheduled Washington class rooms.

Selected army officers, among them many headed for general-ships at an early date, drill their agile minds on war business for eight to ten hours a day—then break up perhaps for a baseball game or a round of winter golf.

The officers are scholars at the Army War College.

When Admiral Leahy, chief of naval operations, told the House naval affairs committee that the government was not drafting war plans against any nation he was hewing a close line. As a matter of fact, both navy and army have colleges whose principal business is to study how to conduct war.
Moreover, these colleges work out specific war plans—how to meet an attack from any direction from one country or a combination of countries.

It is doubtful whether they prepare plans for combat with particular countries or groups of countries. We run into conflicting private information on that. But it is certain the Army War College course, at any rate trains its men on "abstract" problems of such a nature that they would apply closely to actual international combat.

The Curriculum

In an article in a recent edition of The Military Engineer, an Army War College graduate indicates that the course is broad enough to include almost everything bearing on war. He outlined the course as including: International relations; probable causes of war that may involve the United States; essential peacetime preparations for war; preparation of specific war
plans; conduct of war.

Mostly the assignments to the War College are from the ranks of major, lieutenant colonel and colonel. That puts the students between 40 and 50 years of age.
It is the top ranking school in the army. Any officer who hopes to be a general needs to wangle himself an assignment to it. The normal course for an officer is to go first to a school of his own branch of the service, such as the cavalry school at Ft. Riley, Kas.
In the next step, the staff and command school at Fort Leavenworth, latest tactics in battle practice are studied.

An Honorary Alumnus

At the War College, which comes next, the problems are vastly broader. They cover such questions of the strategic operations of a whole army or several armies. For instance, a problem like this might be posed: An enemy has broken through the Pacific fleet and appeared off the southwest coast. Prepare the defense.

While it's true that no officer now
may be elevated to membership on the War Department general staff without first completing the War College course, the country's outstanding soldier, Gen. John J.
Pershing, made it without such experience. He was appointed to the first war college class in 1904
but was recalled to act as observer
in the Russo-Japanese war.

In 1924, after the world war, he was given a diploma. He slyly observed that the college evidently considered that some of his activities in the meantime had merited the award.

LOANS FOR BUSINESS SHOW ANOTHER DROP

Washington, March 15.—Business loans declined last week for the fourth consecutive week and reached the lowest point since July 7, 1937, the Federal Reserve Board has disclosed.

Banks in 101 leading cities reported loans for commercial, industrial and agricultural purposes dropped $15,000,000 in the week ended March 9 to $4,342,000,000.

AUSTRIANS HAIL GERMAN TROOPS ARRIVING LINZ

Transported in armored cars and tanks, German Nazi troops are shown in this radiophoto as they arrived at Linz, Austria, and were greeted by masses of cheering, sluluting Austrians. These troops and thousands of others spread out over the country in the bloodless coup that brought about union of Austria with Germany.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, March 16.—Announcement of Lewis E. Teague of High Point for Congress in the Sixth, following closely upon outward manifestation of great and unexampled harmony among Guilford Democrats is indicative of rough sailing for Oscar Barker of Durham, in his projected voyage to Washington and the Federal House.

It seems that the Greensboro and High Point Democrats have emulated the Biblical lion and lamb and have lain down together in peace and concord. At least the party organization meeting at which Thos.
C. Hoyle, of Greensboro, was named county chairman by acclamation and upon nomination of his prospective High Point opponent, would indicate as much.

If this harmony does in fact exist and if Guilford presents anything like a united front in the primary, there's going to be a race in the Sixth better than a bowl of chile with tamales on the side.

Fertilizer inspectors of the Department of Agriculture were called in to Raleigh Tuesday for final instructions in their duties before they take the field for their spring

Seen on Capitol lawn—two squirrels on the running board and one the Governor's car.

Anteroom of the Department of Conservation and Development has just been refitted with new shelves and facilities for filing papers. It looks good now, but Paul Kelly, assistant director, claims it wasn't so nice while the repairing was in progress.

What goes on here? Senator Robert R. Reynolds seems to have been bitten by the economy bug. Says he in his usual letter to weekly newspapers of North Carolina:

"There is another aspect of tax legislation causing much comment in Washington. It is the increasing difficulty of finding new sources of revenue. During debate in the House, particularly when the proposed levy on closely-held or family corporations was defeated, tax leaders frankly conceded that finding new sources of revenue presents a real problem. To many this indicates that Federal economies must come. Many members of Congress, like individuals in private life, are realizing that expenditures can be no greater than income. This has always held true."

First thing you know "Our Bob"
will be demanding a balanced budget.

Paul H. Harvey has been secured

ment Station to help develop better varieties of corn and peanuts for

There are 236,000 illiterates in North Carolina and certainly as many more who are practically

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York.—It was a coldly damp night in Manhattan, with fitful gusts of rain sweeping through the streets. . . . To escape drowning I ducked into the Chez Prenouse, a mad sort of night
club where mellow old tear jerk-
ers of the 1890
Music Hall variety, frankly burlesqued, are followed by smart
supper shows.

When I got there the show and a lone young man held the spotlight. . . . In sharp, crisp scenes he was interpreting the eternal triangle after the manner of Eugene O'Neill, Noel Coward, and other contemporary authors. . . .
The audience sat spellbound.

Only the Hollywood adjective "terrific" could describe the impression he produced.

"Who is that fellow?" I asked June Miller, a pretty Texas girl.

"He's John Hoysradt," she told me. "He is with the Mercury Theater Group, and has important roles in Julius Caesar and Shoemaker's Holiday. He comes over here every midnight."

After this I made a point of dropping in on his other acts, each of which seemed cleverer than the last and finally I went up to him and said, "Say, John, what about yourself? Why don't you jot down some stuff so I can tell people what you are like?" . . . He thought that over for a moment and said, "All right, I will. . . . Thanks. . . .
And this is what he jotted:

"My name is Dutch. Although it is misspelled more often than not I have never taken a theatrical non de plume, knowing no other actor in the world is likely to have a name like mine.

"Am one of the few actors who once taught school—this particular one being Greton school, cradle of politicians, including FDR. . . . I taught all his sons but James. . . .
Franklin, Jr., was very trying as a former.

"Among recent theatrical engagements have been a coast-to-coast tour with Katharine Cornell in Romeo, The Barretts and Candida.

I wrote a book on this tour which may yet find a market, being mostly about Orson Welles, now of the Mercury Theatre.

"For exercise, I like tying up to Hudson river barges and chatting with barge captains. . . . Also swiming and lying in the sun. . . . Am perhaps doing too much at present for my good health, but am so devoted to both the Mercury Theatre and to entertaining the people with my original sketches that I find it impossible to abandon either. . . .
On Sunday night, April 3, am planning my first full-length recital of original sketches at the Mercury Theater. . . . Am a Yale man and live at Palisades, N. Y., preferring rural communities to cramped city life. . . . That's all."

Swell, Mr. Hoysradt. See you at the Firehouse.

trust dated the 13th day of July, 1935, executed by J. R. Blount and wife, Lillie Blount, to T. C. Aber-more than ninety (90) days in the

The road is built of concrete, plain and reinforced, with slabs 8 inches thick. The cost of the project is stupendous. But Hitler, viewing it as a part of his job-creation program, believes it will pay for itself in the long run. No figures on the cost are published.

Since cars leaving the speedway travel faster than those entering, the ramps are not equal. Those for therein and in the performance of certain covenants set out in said deed of trust, and demand of foreclosure having been made by the holder of said indebtedness, the

DE LUXE ROAD TAKING SHAPE

Blue Ridge Parkway To Connect Two Beauty Spots

Roanoke, Va., March 16.—(AP)—A motorway sweeping 500 miles through Virginia and North Carolina, is going to open a tourists' paradise within a day's drive of nearly half the nation's population one of these days.

It will be known as the Blue Ridge Parkway and will connect two beauty spots, Shenandoah National Park and the Great Smoky National Park. When it's done, some $30,000,000 will have been spent on the project.

The two-lane ribbon of concrete is being tailor-made for pleasure drivers. It will weave past forested mountain peaks, through wooded valleys, past quaint homes and farms and over picturesque streams. Along the way will be built recreation camps, picnic grounds and swimming pools.

Footpaths and bridle paths will lead from it into sweeps of woodland beauty. There won't be any hot dog stands or unsightly billboards along the way.

Work has been started and though some stretches are passable for motor cars, travel is not being encouraged. None of the route is hard-surfaced yet an approaches to graded stretches are difficult to cover. This summer a 59-mile and a 47-mile stretch will be surfaced and reopened some time in the fall.

The government is acquiring a right of way 825 feet wide—about 100 acres a mile. The states acquire the land and transfer it to the federal government. The parkway will be planted with flowering shrubs, the woods will be improved, provisions will be made for feeding and protecting game along the route.

Officials hope the stretch between Roanoke and Asheville can be completed in three years.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Be careful not to overcook egg yolks, since they are apt to curdle. When adding yolks to a cooked mixture first beat them with a fork and then add a small amount of the cooked mixture. When the combination is well-mixed add it to the rest of the food. Cook it for only a minute and then serve immediately.

Wash the broiler rack of your stove in plenty of hot soapy water—just as you would wash any other cooking utensils. Dry it carefully before replacing it. You will then have a broiler that will continuously look like new.

Store lemons in a covered jar in the refrigerator. That will prevent withering and shrinkage.

Grapefruit hint: Cut each grapefruit in half. Remove the core and discard the seeds. Loosen the sections and remove every other one. (Save removed sections for use in salads or cocktails). Insert strawberries in the empty sections. Sprinkle the fruit with honey and allow it to chill. Serve either as a first course or dessert.

Color scheme note: Try tinting your ice cubes with vegetable dyes. A spring salad, for instance, is delightful to look at and unusually crisp if it is set in a bowl of green ice cubes. Desserts may be worked out in the same way.

Southern Graduates Showing Promise

By DILLON GRAHAM (AP Feature Service Writer)

Up from Dixie for jobs in the majors some the Southern association's batting champion and a cluster of other promising prospects. The slugging king, Herman Coaker (Trip) Triplett of Memphis stands a good chance of lugging his 356 average right smack into the Chicago Cub outfield. Charles Grimm will stop his banjo-playing any day to greet a gardener who can sing the hickory song.

Cleveland looked to New Orleans recruits to revamp its wobbly infield. A classy second- or third-sacker can write his own ticket with the Indians. Oscar Grimes, Tom Irwin and Bob Shilling are the lads to whom opportunity beckons.

Twirlers Tom Drake and Johnny Humphries and Outfielder Roy Weatherly are others with the Indians. Humphries was the only Southern association finger to win 20 games. Drake notched 14; Weatherly with the Tribe before and is returning for another shot.

Detroit needs pitchers. Al Benton and William Carl Doyle of Memphis may fill the bill.

The Red Sox all but transported Little Rock, franchise and all, to Boston. They lassoed seven Travelers: Pitchers Emerson Dickman, William Humphrey, Dick Midkiff and Lee Rogers. Outfielder Fred Deal and Leo Nonnenkamp and

Thompson Orville Livingston Washington Catcher

Infielder Jim Tabor. Dickman and Humphrey won 16 games each, while Midkiff and Rogers copped 13 each. Deal's batting average was a juicy .340, while Nonnenkamp was close with .332. Tabor may be the utility infielder Joe Cronin needs.

Washington likes Emil Leonard, whose knuckle ball won 15 for Atlanta.

Cleveland also has Infielder Lloyd Russell from Knoxville and Washington thanked Chattanooga for Infielder Jim Bloodworth, Tom Livingston, a catcher; Outfielder Taft Wright and Pitcher Ray Phebus.

JAILED FOR DEATH OF BRIDE

James Crabb (left), 21, is shown standing before Magistrate Walter Shaeffer at Pekin, Ill., during the youth's appeal for bond pending a grand jury investigation into the fatal shooting of his bride, Betty, 19. Bail was denied him and he was jailed while an indictment was sought. Officers said Crabb admitted he shot his wife—but by accident.

CHICAGO DISPROVES 'WINDY CITY' TITLE

Chicago (AP)—Chicago has long been called the "windy city" but municipal reference librarian Fred Rex produces statistics to prove this a misnomer. His figures show the wind here exceeded 3 miles an hour on but two days during 1937, making Chicago 21st on the list of United States cities headed by Buffalo with 105 and New York with 89 such days.

IT HAPPENED on the DIAMOND

THESE were among American league records tied in 1937: Most chances accepted by catcher, game—Frank Pytlak, Cleveland, 18; most putouts by catcher, game—Pytlak, 17; two extra-base hits in same inning—Averill, Cleveland, triple and homer.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood — Looks like the beginnings of a new rash of movies about the woes of vaudevillians. There's Shirley Temple in "Little Miss Broadway" and also "Goodbye Broadway" for starters.

Later will be recognized as erstwhile Gleason opus, "The Shansons of Broadway." In tune with the times, trouper's of the new version are identified as members of traveling units—playing picture show houses!

Highlight of the Warner club (studio self-help society) annual party was, as usual, the screened "bow-tie" of the preceding year: those comic hits in which the nice demure heroines and starwart heroes are caught forgetting their lines. . . . And refreshing in the long parade of "Damns!" and the better was the little-girl apology of Bonita Granville, a little girl, who said, "Oh, I forgot, I'm so sorry!"

Having Bad Time Charlie Winniger's stand-in is his brother Adolph, who is retired but likes to put on grease-paint. . . . Once the Winnigers — there were five of them — each had a separate stock company. . . . And one could take another's place in a show without the audience's being the wiser.

By all reports they're not having a wonderful time with "Having Wonderful Time," screen rights to which cost plenty. . . . One reason may be fact that Jewish characters of play were changed for movie purposes to straight, non-dialect talkers. . . . Which should give about the same results as parlor-patterers who preface a dialect poke with, "This would be funny if I could tell it in dialect!"

Change of Music The "Three Comrades" are Robert Taylor, Robert Young and Franchot Tone. . . . In the picture only Tone will wear the close-cropped haircut accepted as German. . . . Studio originally planned short trims for all three, and Tone was first in the barbershop. . . . When plans were changed suddenly (idea being to make locale of story indefinite, not Germany) it was too late to

A BREAK FOR REDHEADS—TELEVISION PREFERS THEM

(By The AP Feature Service)

San Francisco. — A new profession looms for red-headed girls. They're expected to be the television stars of tomorrow.

Tests by the Farnsworth Television company show that they're the only ones whose hair transmits effectively. Blonde hair shows up poorly in a television transmitter while brunette hair tends to appear as a black mass and contrasts too strongly with the subject's face. Best subject yet to be tested in the local laboratory of the company is Doris Brownlee, young artist. George Everson, who backed young Philo T. Farnsworth in his original experiments, says her intricate coiffure of auburn tresses came through wonderfully.

Further tests in the so-called "birthplace of electronic television" here have shown the weirdly colored make-up originally used in television unnecessary, although a little blue pigment is needed in the lipstick. Otherwise a good street makeup works all right.

From the technical standpoint, Everson believes, television is "now ready to go."

Bartholomew Melinario applies a touch of blue lipstick for red-headed Doris Brownlee in preparation for a television test.

Age-Old Advice on Managing a Husband

A husband worth having is worth pleasing. It's as easy today as it was hundreds of years ago. Just remember his other self—the Inner Man. If you keep the Inner Man in a good humor, the whole husband is happy. The Inner Man likes cold BUDWEISER. It contributes to his feeling of well-being. Its fine flavor adds to his appreciation of good food. When he wants BUDWEISER, he wants it right now... so keep a supply in your refrigerator all the time... ready for instant serving at unexpected as well as regular occasions.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 16.—(AP)—The heaviest wave of selling in weeks hit the stock market today after a rally failed to carry through from the previous session.

Near the fourth hour losses of one to five points were general throughout the list. Rail shares finding little inspiration in the White House conference on carrier problems, suffered, many dropping to new lows for the year.

Major commodities, including grains and cotton, held better than securities.

AVERAGE PAD ON CLAIMS UP

Lump - Sum Old Age Insurance Payments Average $22.95

Rocky Mount, March 16.—Payment of claims for lump-sums under the old-age insurance plan of the Social Security Act reached an average of $22.95 in North Carolina during February, George N. Adams, Manager of the Rocky Mount Field Office of the Social Security Board announced today.

During the month of February, 363 claims were certified for payment, bringing the total number of claims certified in North Carolina to 199.

The total amount certified by the end of February in North Carolina was $7,148.00. Claims certified in February amounted to $8,331.29.

Lump-sum payments amount to 3 1/2 per cent of the total wages from covered employment that have been paid to employees since December 31, 1936, up to the time they reached age 65, or until the date of their death prior to reaching 65. Payments of death claims are made to the estates of the wage earners.

The largest claim paid was for $1,000.67. Payment of a claim of this size is possible, Mr. Adams explained, since the Social Security Act permits the accumulation of wage credits from more than one job, although only the first $3,000 from any one employer in a single year is credited to an individual's account. The claim for more than $1,000 was paid to a man who had ### reached the age of 65 and who is employed by seven companies.

BEFORE YOU BUY YOUR NEW 1938 AUTOMOBILE

- 1 Plymouth is the roomiest of the three leading low-priced cars—nearly 7 inches longer than one; more than 10 inches longer than the other by actual measurement.
- 2 Famous artists—McClelland Barclay and Neysa McMein—consider Plymouth's clean-flowing lines and luxurious interior appointments outstanding among low-priced cars.
- 3 Plymouth's seats are deep-cushioned, "chair-high." And Plymouth's "radio studio" sound-proofing absorbs tiring road noises.
- 4 Bumps, jolts and vibration are blocked out by Plymouth's "live" rubber body mountings and big airplane-type shock-absorbers.
- 5 Driving a 1938 Plymouth is a new experience. It steers faster, handles easier than ever. And clutch pressure is greatly reduced.
- 6 Plymouth's double-action hydraulic brakes are self-equalizing... give the smoothest, safest stops of any type of brakes made. And the handbrake is a completely separate system.
- 7 Still more safety for your family—Plymouth has an all-steel body, a Safety Styled interior, and Safety Glass at no extra cost.
- 8 The new 1938 Plymouth's big "L-head" engine gives you full-powered performance—yet owners report 18 to 24 miles on gas.
- 9 Plymouth's oil bills are kept low by 4-ring pistons, full-length water jackets, directional cooling. No other low-priced car offers all these economy features.
- 10 Plymouth "stands up best"... needs least repairs. For Plymouth has patented Floating Power engine mountings, a Hypoid rear axle, a massive, X-braced frame.
- 11 Read the used-car ads, and you'll find that Plymouth has a higher resale value than either of the "other two" low-priced cars.
- 12 The big, beautiful 1938 Plymouth has an amazing new ride. Telephone any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer for a demonstration today. No obligation.
