CRISTEA ASKED BY KING CAROL FORM CABINET

Government Younger Leaders Sought for Rumania

OUSTED MEMBERS DINE WITH KING

Cabinet Of 'Old Men' Reported To Have asked Carol to be Relieved of Positions

Bucharest, Rumania, March 30. — (AP) — The government headed by Patriarch M. Cristea, resigned at noon today for reorganization. The Cristea cabinet was formed February 11, following dismissal of the ministry of Octavian Goga by King Carol.

Cristea, 69-year-old patriarch of the Rumanian Orthodox Church, was commissioned by King Carol to form a new government and it was expected the formalities would be completed before evening.

It was stated at the palace Rumania's cabinet of "old men" had served its purpose and, at the request of many members of the ministry, the king was gathering new leaders about him.

Informed quarters it was said George Tatarascu, the Foreign Minister, and other members of the Liberal party would be excluded from the new government.

The same sources said it was likely that several members of J. Maniu's now inactive Peasant party would receive portfolios.

It was emphasized, however, Rumania is no longer ruled on a party basis and that parties, while existent, were dormant.

The king had members of the resigning cabinet to the palace for lunch, when he expressed thanks for their service in bringing order to Rumanian affairs after the short-lived anti-Semitic government of Goga.

Cristea's first government gave the country a new constitution, centralizing authority in the crown, adopted a budget and enacted several pieces of emergency legislation.

W. R. Blair, son-in-law of Mrs. E. V. Butler of Greenville, was killed in an airplane crash at Fort Pierce, Fla., about 9 o'clock last night. Details of the crash were not known here, but Mr. Blair is believed to have been a passenger and not the pilot of the ill-fated plane.

Mr. Blair, a sign painter, is survived by his wife, Mrs. Minnie Lou Butler Blair, formerly of this city, and two children, Marguerite and Ralph Blair, who were living with their grandmother in Greenville.

Mrs. Butler, the two Blair children, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Sumrell left this morning for Miami, Fla., to attend funeral services to be held there Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Blair has been living in Florida with her husband, but was not with him on the air trip when the ship crashed. Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Sumrell are sisters of Mrs. Blair.

Mistake In Story on Bond Payments

A story in yesterday's Reflector stating that the county has paid approximately $425,000 on principal and interest on bonds since June, 1931, was erroneous in that the amount should have referred only to principal.

In fact, a check made today by County Auditor J. H. Coward showed that since that date the county has paid $498,000 on principal and an additional $857,082.50 in interest, for a total of $1,355,082.50.

During the period the one and a third million dollar payments were made no new bonds were issued by the county.

SEES IMPROVEMENT

Turning that corner neared actually in speech of General Hugh S. Johnson (above) who told Economic Club of New York that he believes we have turned the corner toward improvement—so much so that I think the market is a buy. He also predicted trend toward conservatism in federal government.

One Killed, Two Injured In Auto-Truck Wreck

POLICE CLASH WITH PICKETS

Fourth Disturbance at Detroit Plant In Three Days

Detroit, March 30. — (AP) — Police and United Automobile Workers' pickets, both swinging clubs, fought at the entrance to the Federal Screw works today, for the fourth time in three days. Fifty pickets were knocked down and one policeman was hurt as police escorted about 50 non-striking into the plant.

The injured policeman, Abraham Matien, was taken to receiving hospital for treatment of a cut over one eye. One picket was taken into custody.

Several hundred pickets, many of them women, tried to block the entrance as the non-striking arrived to begin work.

One hundred and fifty-eight policemen, armed with night sticks, opened a path through the massed pickets to the employment entrance.

The pickets carried heavy sticks a foot and a half long which they used as weapons when the fighting began.

Half an hour after the first clash the police were holding the employment entrance while the pickets were massed around other parts of the plant.

Five Years Bring Heavy Turnover In Judgeships

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, March 30. — On January 1, 1933, no more than seven of the twenty Superior Court Judges who sat on North Carolina benches January 1, 1933 can possibly be retaining their regular circuit duties.

Even this calculation of seven is subject to revision by reason of death, failing health or defeat at the polls. Six of the prospective survivors are hale and hearty and unopposed at the polls. The seventh must overcome stern opposition in order to retain his seat.

This wholesale "turnover" will leave Judge W. C. (Buck) Harris of the Seventh District as the dean of the Superior Court bench, in point of service longevity. He was elected in the fall of 1926 and took office January 1, 1927.

Oddly enough only one of the 13 who will have left the bench is dead—former Judge J. M. Oglesby of the Fifteenth District. In the story of the others there is almost complete refutation of the old adage that "few die and none retire."

PROTEST BY U. S. GRAVE PROBLEM

Cardenas Summons Urgent Session Congress to Help Him Solve Situations

Mexico City, March 30. — (AP) — President Cardenas, summoning an "urgent" session of Congress to help him, was confronted today with near-revolt by a segment of labor, and a United States protest against expropriation of the $400,000,000 oil industry.

The American protest was presented to the Foreign Minister yesterday by Ambassador Josephus Daniels and a high Mexican official indicated it was an energetic note demanding explanation how Mexico intended to pay for the 17 American and British oil properties.

The indications of labor dissatisfaction came from Carlos Flores, Labor Department inspector in Tampico, and member of the powerful union there which controls 6,000 ex-employees of the Aguilera (Royal Dutch Shell) Company.

The government "took advantage" of labor-capital conflict to create (Continued on Page Six)

SIX ARE DEAD FROM TETANUS

Four Others Stricken After Given Cancer Treatment

Orlando, Fla., March 30. — (AP) — Dr. H. A. Day, president of the Orange County Medical Association, said today six women have died here and four other persons have been stricken with tetanus (lockjaw) during the last 24 hours, following injections used in treatment of cancer.

He said Orlando physicians feared a number of other persons might be stricken, since an undetermined number had been given the injections.

The six women died in Orlando hospitals since midnight. There are four more who are in a serious condition when stricken with tetanus yesterday.

Dr. Day said in every case death came much sooner than usual in tetanus cases.

The doctor said every effort was being made to locate all persons who had received treatment for cancer. He declared the serum used in the cases which had proved fatal came from the office of a physician here. Most of the injections, he said, were administered Saturday.

TORNADO HITS MINING AREAS

Estimated 50 Persons, Many of Them Children, Injured

Columbus, Kan., March 30. — (AP) — A tornado tore through this town of 3,500 near noon today, twisting apart a school and 30 other buildings and injuring an estimated 50 persons, many of them children.

The slashing storm was one of a series which dipped into Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas.

Three were reported killed in Boone county, Mo.

A woman was killed at Republican, Ark.

Thirty school children barely escaped injury near Catoopa, Kansas. Residences were damaged at Ramona, Okla.

But, of all, Columbus, in extreme southeastern Kansas, fringed by Oklahoma and Missouri in the tri-state lead and coal mining area, was hardest hit.

The storm lashed from eight to ten city blocks in Columbus.

Swirling out of the southwest with tornado winds, rain and hail, the twister bore down on the west side Highland graded school where several hundred pupils were housed.

It was between 11 and 12 o'clock CST. The storm raged for 30 minutes.

GRIM REMINDERS REMAIN IN TERUEL

Sandbag barricades and shattered buildings still stand in Teruel as grim reminders of siege accompanying Franco's recapture of Teruel from government troops. Recent dispatches hint that Anglo-Italian negotiations may lead to withdrawal of Italian troops.

RAIL CONTEST ENTERS COURT

Injunction Against Guaranty Trust Co., Asked

New York, March 30. — (AP) — The fight for control of the Van Swearingen rail empire was pushed into Federal court here today with allegations involving J. P. Morgan and company, Guaranty Trust company, prominent officials of General Motors and others.

Robert R. Young, 41-year-old Texas and Cleveland financier, who last year, with a comparatively small cash outlay, got control of rail properties once rated at $2,000,000,000 filed an equity petition in Federal district court asking an immediate injunction against Guaranty Trust, third largest bank in the country.

Guaranty trust company, as trustee, holds 1,278,000 shares (about 71 per cent) of Chesapeake Corporation, middle Van Swearingen holdings company.

Young asked the Federal court in effect to enjoin Guaranty from voting that stock contrary to Young's wishes at a special meeting April 4, and to issue an order directing Guaranty to give Young proxies for that stock.

Young in his petition named for the first time those he considered his opponents in a desperate struggle, which first came to light a fortnight ago, to control the Van Swearingen road, and especially the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, only line in the country that increased its dividends during the depression.

Meanest Man

Here is another to be added to the long list of candidates for the title of the meanest man who was locked up in the city jail Elias Carr, Greenville Negro this morning on a charge of forgery. He is accused of forging the signature of his aged father to a check for eight dollars. The check was an old-age benefit payment. It went to the home of Elias, where his father, Charlie Carr, formerly made his home and the son is alleged to have taken it to a local store and cashed it after forging the name of the payee.

FOUNTAIN COX SHOOT'S SELF

Native of Winterville Was Postmaster at Robersonville

Fountain F. Cox, 49, postmaster at Robersonville, Martin county, ended his life this morning about 9:30 by shooting himself in the post office there. No motive for his act was given.

Cox, according to reports reaching this city, was in his usual health and greeted early patrons in his customary manner. Shortly before the shooting he had been preparing reports. He was said to have risen from his chair, walked to the rear of the office and fired a bullet through his head. Death came instantly. Miss Edna Page was working in the office at the time of the shooting.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed this afternoon. Mr. Cox was a native of Pitt county, the son of Mrs. Susan A. Cox and the late Amos G. Cox of Winterville. He had been making his home in Robersonville for several years and had been postmaster for the past three years.

Besides his wife, the former Miss Sallie Smith, and a son and a daughter, Mr. Cox is survived by his mother, Mrs. Susan A. Cox, a brother, Roy T. Cox of Winterville, and three sisters, Mrs. R. H. Hunsucker and Miss Dora Cox of Winterville, and Mrs. Herbert Jenkins of Aulander.

Spruce Pine. — (AP) — An old emerald mine here, believed to be the only one of its kind in the South, is to be reopened.

Most of the green gems found in the mine so far have been too small for valuable cuttings but the owners believe that by digging deeper they can find valuable stones.

Probably Doesn't Have Any Love For New Deal

Raleigh, March 30. — Not all the farmers of North Carolina are enamored of the New Deal, nor with this state's system of agricultural research.

Recently a Sampson county farmer wrote the State Department of Agriculture asking advice on how to get rid of grub worms. He was informed that his letter had been referred to the Extension Division of State College.

Back came this letter: "Referring to our letter of February 8th asking for remedy to get grub worms out of plant beds. We presume that the Department is experimenting on chemicals, acids and different methods of executing grub worms."

"They may be building a small portable electric chair or Lethal Gas Chamber and experimenting with that or some other device. The old time method of hanking would get them, too, but would be slow and you would have to tie a weight to the worm's tail to break his neck."

"Tell the Extension Division just to go ahead with the experiment on all kinds of devices and to spare no expense, as Mr. Roosevelt will gladly furnish the money for the experiments and to do so will not be out of line with the Administration experiments of building islands for Monkeys at Memphis, tuning pianos and organs in North Carolina and exterminating rats in Charlotte."

"We are today writing Senators Bailey and 'Our Bob' asking them to introduce a bill asking for $50,000 and a committee appointed to investigate 'Grub Worms in Plant Beds.' We may not get Senator Bailey's help but 'Bob' will certainly put it through with Senator Guffey, Jokes, Wallace, Jackson and Mr. Roosevelt assisting."

"We certainly ought to get the bill through and the device operating by 1948 and if the committee decides to electrocute them we should also get TVA cheap juice by that time, use tell them not to hurry. Any time in the next year or two will do."

"Also all them we would be glad to sell the government several bushels of nice fat grub worms, but the sale will have to be strictly confidential just the same as bootleg liquor, otherwise Maxwell will collect sales tax on them."

IL DUCE WARNS OF AIR RAIDS

Advices Italians To Move From Cities To Country

Rome, March 30. — (AP) — Mussolini today called on the Italian people to meet the menace of aerial warfare by moving from big cities into small towns, villages and the country-side.

Before a crowded, intent senate Il Duce told of Italy's readiness for war in a speech broadcast to all Italy and many countries abroad.

He told his people they should quit the city before it was too late to escape the consequences of war in the air.

He lauded Italy's war-making power, asserting the nation could "completely mobilize on a short time a number of units greater than that engaged in the battle of Vittorio Veneto"—Italy's world war victory in which 57 divisions fought.

He warned his Fascist followers, however, this must not jell them to sleep.

Precisely because much has been done, it is necessary to tell ourselves what still remains to be done and we shall do it whatever the cost," he declared.

Calling of immigration from the cities, Il Duce said "from this moment I say that all of those who can organize their existence in small towns, in villages and in the countryside would do well not to wait until the twelfth hour."

GOP CHIEFTAIN AIRS VIEWS ON PROBE OF TVA

Snell Would Exclude Private Firms From Investigation

INCREASE QUOTA FLUE-CURED LEAF

Conference Group Completes Action on Score Amendments to Farm Program

Washington, March 30. — (AP) — Republican Leader Snell told the House today a congressional investigation of the TVA should not cover private utility companies operating in TVA territory.

"If you are not interested in white-washing the whole thing," he said, "you ought to investigate only the principal thing—the issues raised by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan (former TVA chairman)."

Referring to the ousting of Dr. Morgan by President Roosevelt after a row with the two other TVA directors, the minority leaders declared there was a question whether "these directors have judiciously and wisely expended the taxpayers' money."

An increase of more than 14,000,000 pounds in this year's quota for flue-cured tobacco was voted meantime by a joint congressional committee considering amendments to the new farm act.

The Senate-House group accepted a two per cent increase in the 1938 quota of 705,000,000 pounds previously announced by Secretary Wallace, after voting down yesterday a four per cent increase approved by the Senate.

The conference group completed action on more than a score amendments to the new farm act approved previously by either the House or Senate.

Speaker Bankhead (D-Ala.), said the House was expected to approve changes in the new farm act sometime tomorrow.

A proposal to extend provisions tax of the 1937 marketing agreement act to all farm commodities now excluded, received endorsement from representatives of growers in four states.

Farmer representatives from Virginia, North Carolina, Indiana and California told a House Agriculture sub-committee there was widespread demand for broadening the scope of the agreement.

Commodities now under the act include fresh vegetables and fruit, except apples handled in their first form; naval stores; packaged meats; tobacco; walnuts and pecans, and asparagus and olives for canning.

Division Sending Out State Briefs

Raleigh, March 30. — Every once in so often the Advertising Division of the Department of Conservation and Development compiles a number of brief items of interest from all parts of the state and sends them out for use primarily in out-of-the-state papers.

They are of more than a little interest within the state, however, and so are few culled from the division's last bulletin of "Briefs" following:

Raleigh — Already fishing for large-mouth bass in inland waters fishermen in North Carolina will begin casting for trout April 15.

Hendersonville—more than 125 summer camps for children, a record number, will be operated in Western North Carolina this summer.

Kernersville— "Korner's Folly," fantastic mansion of an eccentric called "Reuben Rink" will be opened to the public this season, it has been announced. The house is built with every room on a different level.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "For the invisible things of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead."—Romance 1:20.

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Metaphysics resolves things into thoughts, and exchanges the objects of sense for the ideas of soul. These ideas are perfectly real and tangible to have this advantage over the objects and thoughts of material sense—they are good and eternal."

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
Wednesday, March 30, 1898

Notes
Spring chickens are a year old. Cooler weather came as predicted. Foliage is coming out fast on the trees.

Everybody was glad to see the rain today. County Commissioners meet next Monday.

The showers were needed and will help vegetation. Col. Mowbray lectures in the Methodist Church tonight.

It does not look like the river will go on a well this spring. It is less than five weeks to the town election but the matter seems to attract but little interest as yet.

Sheriff Harrington is getting the delinquent tax list ready to be advertised. Those who have not paid had better do so at once if they are to save costs.

Will Go Into Service At Once.
The graduating class at the Annapolis Naval Academy, who were to stand their examination next June, has been advanced and the examination has been ordered for April 4th. The Secretary of the Navy has made this change so as to put the class in immediate service, there not being enough young officers to supply the present demand. Mr. Lyman A. Cotten of this county, is a member of the class and will receive his commission.

Sans Souci Club.
The members of the Sans Souci Club were delightfully entertained by Mrs. W. E. Hooker at her home on Fifth street Tuesday morning at 11:30. The meeting was called to order and the business of the club which consisted of appointments of committees and discussion of the program to be adopted for the next year considered.

Next, Mrs. Hooker, as presiding officer, welcomed the guests for the day who were: Mrs. Porter of Richmond, Va., Mrs. R. L. Coleman, and Mrs. M. L. Wright.

The speaker for the day, Miss Sally Joyner Davis, teacher of North Carolina History at East Carolina Teachers College, was then introduced. She chose as her topic the life of P. W. Moore, who was principal of the State Normal School for Negroes at Elizabeth City. Members of the club felt indeed fortunate in hearing this original manuscript by Miss Davis. This is one of the biographies of famous North Carolina Negro educators to be used in the near future in a supplementary reader for the Negro high schools in the state. Most of her material has been compiled from letters and through word of mouth. From a background of slave parents, Moore established a place in the civic and educational life of Elizabeth City equalled by few citizens. After serving 37 years in the institution he was made president emeritus in 1928, given a lovely home, and a salary for the rest of his life. His rule of life and one which he taught all his students was: "Deport yourself at all times to demand respect of the white race and be somebody."

At the conclusion of the program a delicious luncheon was served, after which the members and guests adjourned to enjoy the beauty of the hot/cold gardens before making their departure.—Reported.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Roller sandwiches make delightful tea tid-bits. Remove the crust from a loaf of fresh bread, wrap the loaf in a damp cloth and chill it for an hour. Using a very sharp knife cut thin slices of bread and arrange them on a flat surface. Quickly spread each slice with soft butter mixed with a filling. Roll each spread slice and wrap it tightly in waxed paper. Place all the rolls in a damp cloth and chill until serving time.

Gelatin mixtures often require a little coaxing when removing them from the mold. Dip a clean cloth into warm water. Place it under the mold for ten seconds—no longer. Loosen the edges of the mold with a knife—and then quickly invert the mold. The gelatin should come out with even edges.

Cooky recipes, which call for little liquid make unusually crisp cookies which must be handled with care. Always loosen such cookies with a knife as soon as they are baked. If they cool before they are removed they are likely to break to pieces.

Cherry cobbler suggestion: Put a two-inch layer of cherry sauce in a shallow pan and cover it with rings of biscuit dough sprinkled with brown sugar and cinnamon. Bake for twenty minutes in a moderate oven. Serve warm.

Cover oilcloth surfaces with a thin coat of floor wax. The oilcloth will then be easier to clean quickly. Merely rub over the surface with a damp cloth to remove spots and stains.

Add food colorings very carefully. Remember that a little coloring goes a long way—and highly colored foods are not palatable.

San Francisco, (AP)—There's a shortage of sturgeon in the world and hence of caviar, which is the roe of that fish, says Ferdinand Hansen.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

The Story So Far: Judith Goodloe has the code of an old Maryland family to live up to. Reuben Oliver has wealth, and the ethics of his own making. Desperately loving Judith, Reuben proposes to her when the Goodloes finance collapse. Gary Brent, the man Judith loves, has left her. Marriage to Reuben means keeping the pleasant life she has always known, so Judith accepts.

Chapter 14 Strangers To Each Other

THEY were engaged to be married. They had been engaged an hour, these two who were almost strangers. They had much to say to each other, yet they said only that which could not remain unsaid. All the dear foolish incoherencies, the breathless murmurs, the divinely silly personalities, were unuttered. If their hour was less than perfect neither seemed to notice. They were at peace, sitting on the grass in the shade of the maple.

From under long lashes, Judith looked critically at her future husband—at his lean brown hands, his leaf-brown eyes with inexhaustible wells of strength behind them, at his firm mouth with its elusive hint of gentleness—She wondered why she had ever thought him amusing?

"He is wise," she decided, "but he is guileless too. He is being cheated—" She said with brutal frankness: "I don't love you—you know that."

"Why—" he came back from some far country, "yes, I know it." He wondered how he could accept it so calmly.

"I—I really don't know you," half apologetically.

"Perhaps, when you do—?"

"There is someone else," doggedly.

Silence. A hawk flew over the garden. It cast a dark shadow.

"Who?"

But he knew before she answered that it was Gary Brent. He reflected that he should not dislike Gary, since to his idiosyncy he would owe his wife. But he did dislike Gary. Intensely he disliked him. The conceited ass! The dunce!

"I guess most girls imagine themselves in love with Brent. He has the thing women fall for—small talk and flattery. You'll get over it," gruffly.

"I'm afraid I won't. So if you want to change your mind—"

"Nonsense!" Did he want to stop the sun from shining? Did he want to shut all beauty from his life? He started to argue with her to convince himself—"You'll be much better off with me. Brent will never amount to anything—you'll see."

"That wouldn't matter, if he loved me," simply.

If anyone had told him in the old days that he would want to marry a girl who did not love him! A girl who was openly pining for someone else. Where was his common sense? Where was his respect?

"You're really being foolish," she persisted. "You're being a poor business man to—taking us on is going to be frightfully expensive."

He turned to smile at her whimsically. "I've always had to pay pretty well, in one way or another, for everything I ever got." He broke off a tiny sprig of the boxwood. It gave out a spicy odor between his fingers. "Life is like that—my life. There's always been a price."

She reflected watching him that so far she had never been called upon to pay for anything. She reached out and took his hand.

His fingers closed over hers. The sprig of box lay warm between their palms—a fragrant symbol. He wanted to tell her that all the kingdoms of the world would not be enough to lavish upon her, but the words stuck in his throat, so he just sat there inarticulate and happier than he had ever been in his life.

Buying Her
SHE walked with him to the gates. At parting his arms closed around her. "I'm going to love you so, Judith—be so good to you—give up everything."

He kissed her full upon her red lips and the power, the cleanness, the beauty of his passion touched her—went surging through her, not the pure ecstasy of Gary's touch, but something that was neither triumph nor humility, but an odd blending of both.

Halfway home Reuben dismissed his car and walked the remaining mile and a half across green fields and through dim woods.

He was going to marry Judith. She beat in his heart like music and ran like wild honey in his veins. The fact that he was literally buying her with a boxwood hedge and sundry considerations hardly registered upon his consciousness.

His mind turned to ways and means. It would take all of $200,000 to straighten out old Mrs. Goodloe's complicated affairs and Jim's meah of debts. Then, they just must have something to keep going on. No use to preach thrift and economy to persons who did not know the meaning of the words.

"Five hundred thousand dollars will do it," Reuben figured mentally. "I have half of that amount lying idle. I'll arrange for the rest at the bank tomorrow."

He tasted in full the power of his money. The taste was sweet. As he reached his gates Hugo emerged from some bushes and flung himself upon him.

"Well—well! Did you miss me, old timer?"

Hugo whined his delight. The man felt a sudden need to confide in someone. He went down in the path, took the dog's head in his hands, looked deep into the adoring eyes. "She's coming to live with us, Hugo. The princess out of the fairybook."

His voice was a bit husky. Worriedly the dog licked the man's face, unsure whether his master was happy or unhappy. Perhaps Reuben did not quite know either. She did not love him—

Judith, making her slow way to the house with the measured tread of a sleepwalker, was surprised to find that much of the restless uncertainty that had been her portion since Gary's departure, had mysteriously left her. She had saved Gran, Jim, the hedge—that was triumph. She had saved herself from being one of those futile, boring women, who die by inches, crying for a happiness that has eluded them. She loathed that type of woman. Married to Reuben Oliver she would be a busy person. Important. Beloved. Unconsciously she held her head higher.

That evening, in Gran's own bedroom she confided the news to her. Casually, gaily, she confided it.

"Wish me happiness, darling and get ready to go shopping."

Mrs. Goodloe, at her desk, doggedly adding up a long column of figures, as though in the end she could beat them down, smiled absently at the girl from harrid eyes. "Wait—just a second, Judy—Fourteen thousand and twenty-nine plus six percent—"

Playing A Part

WITH a sweeping hand, Judith pushed the paper aside. Captured the pencil. "Didn't I tell you to wish me happiness, young woman? Where are your manners? I'm going to marry Reuben Oliver."

For the first time in all the years old Mrs. Goodloe failed to meet a situation. She sat staring a long moment, then collapsed in her chair, repeating in parrot fashion: "Going to marry Reuben—"

She was still laughing shrilly and crying feebly, when, an hour later, Judith gave her a sedative, tucked her in bed and put out the light. When she closed the door softly her grandmother was demanding, over and over, to know which was preferable—to be hanged for a crime one did not commit or to get a reprieve one did not want.

Judith didn't know the answer. In the morning Amanda was quite herself.

The Goodloe-Oliver engagement was a nine days wonder.

"Mrs. John Walleston Goodloe announces the engagement of her granddaughter—"

A choice morsel of news. A young beauty of famous family about whom romance hovered with a capital R, was not to marry Gary Brent after all, but Reuben Oliver, a man from nowhere, who had literally pulled himself up by his bootstraps and whose doubtful millions had grown quickly and by devious ways.

Almost immediately Goodloe's Choice took on new life. Gay house parties—one after the other. Guests arriving at all hours, departing at all hours. Reuben's shining cars taking them thither and yon—to the city, to shops, to theatres, to Gibson Island where his yacht waited to steam down the Chesapeake. The nights—great golden moon, shimmering sheet of water—were made for romance, music, laughter and through them all danced Judith—a stranger. Not the old reckless, gipsying, unthinking Judith, but a poised, careful person, an actress who had stepped into a role and was consciously bending all her efforts to give a good performance—that of happy fiancée to an important man.

Gary, the old longing, were pushed into the background. All day and far into the night there was never a minute in which to think. She gave such a clever imitation of perfect happiness that even Reuben was deceived.

"She's forgotten Brent already," he gloated. "She loves me."

And that was as it should be. He felt not the slightest inferiority where Gary was concerned. He was a better match for Judith than Gary Brent with his tumbledown old house, his mouldy furniture, his lack of ambition—Gary accepted his poverty with the same smiling good nature with which he accepted invitations. "I'm a go-getter—a better man."

Tomorrow: Bad news for Reuben.

HOME OWNERS GIVEN ADVICE

Told To Clean Up, Rake Up and Repair About House

A home and its surroundings must be clean, orderly, neat and attractive to give most comfort and happiness to each member of the family. The improvement of the home tends to improve citizenship. Children especially are influenced by their surroundings.

The improvement of the home and grounds should be a cooperative project with father, mother, and children making the plans and doing a definite part in carrying them out. Each may make some personal contribution—clearing up rubbish, transplanting a dogwood.

Present conditions do not permit to make many expenditures for improvements, but there are a lot of things which we can do at little expense which will increase the comfort and convenience and improve the appearance of our homes and communities. Such things as repairing roofs, fixing screens, replacing broken panes of glass, mending steps, porch pillars, repairing fences, hanging that gate which has swung on one hinge for several years, hanging blinds, doing away with the old barn shelter or garage which has fallen in, disposing of discarded machinery and putting the usable pieces under shelter, repairing hedge row and vacant lots, repairing wells, laying walks and drives, making lawns, planting shrubs, and many other things which cost little but which will add much to the appearance of the home. What a difference a well-tended yard makes in the appearance of the yard! And do we not somehow have more respect for the man of the house when the property is orderly and a supply of wood provided in leisure time is well stacked! And can we not judge the thrift practiced by the family by the general upkeep of the home and its surroundings?

The influence of the home is the strongest force in the life of an individual, child or adult. Habits and ideals developed during childhood largely determine the interest of adult life. We can help instill habits of orderliness and thrift in our children by practicing thrift habits and this means taking care of what we have and making the best possible use of the resources to be had.

Our home and its surroundings tell a story to the passerby. We have made a picture by which we are judged. One's first impression of the kind of family that lives in a house is gained from the conditions of the porches and yards.

Broken front steps leaning against a rotted porch open beneath do not make an inviting entrance. A new plank or two and some lattice work will change the appearance of the entire front. A replaced board in an outbuilding, or a new hinge for its door, will take away the run-down appearance of the building. Fence posts that are bent or broken, with their sagging gates, detract from the appearance of the place.

In some places supplies are left on the porches which might be stored in the garage or barn.

Leaks in roofs ruin the interior. In a great majority of cases the stopping of such leaks is only a matter of a few shingles (or slats) and a few minutes or hours of time. Door knobs, locks and loose hinges on doors and windows may be repaired with only the cost of time and effort. The thrifty homemaker makes small repairs before greater damage requires expense or the living with run-down equipment. Window and door screens can be repaired. Mosquito netting can be used satisfactorily for temporary use.

One of the most unsightly features of a down-at-the-heel house is a broken window pane. Odd pieces of glass may be purchased at a reduced price and cut to fit the windows. Old window shades can be made to give longer service by cutting off wrinkled and torn ends and re-nemmed. A man and woman with initiative and willingness and desire to cooperate in home improvement can make any place more comfortable and more attractive.

The most satisfying developments come as a result of careful planning. Putting the grounds in order is necessary before any attempt at beautification is made. Worn out machinery which has piled up in the yard should be disposed of permanently. That which may have any value for repairs or parts should be placed in a shed or arranged orderly in the rear of the barn plot. Systematic wrecking of old machinery and cars and storage of bolts, nuts, and other useful parts should be a part of the routine of every home, especially of farm homes. Discarded automobile casings, rocks, boards, old stumps, and worthless kitchen utensils should be removed. The clearing of all fence rows so that they will not serve as a breeding place for insects and disease is a program that should be done now. The paper and weeds should be burned. All leave and vegetable matter should be piled in some inconspicuous corner, allowed to decay and used later to enrich shrub borders. Roses and shrubs growing out in the center of the yard should be taken up and heeled in out in the vegetable garden until the ground has been prepared for them. All fancy shaped beds, enclosed with rock, brick and automobile casings should be spaded up and the grass allowed to cover the entire yard or prepared for grass seeding. Open stretches of lawn are necessary for the well planted yard.

The backyard is the service portion and the place where all work should be carried on. The clothes line should be moved to the rear. The grindstone should be in the backyard or in a tool shed. This serv-

KINSTON PLANS MUSICAL FETE

Greenville High Band Among Units To Take Part

Eastern Carolina is headed for a big music treat when the Kinston Male Chorus stages its Big Music Festival Wednesday April 6 in Kinston. There will be five bands and some twenty-five High Schools in the parade and various programs. The parade will begin at 2 o'clock down Queen Street. Many of the 28 invited High schools will have their entire enrollments in the parade.

An oil-burning tobacco curer has been donated by a local distributor to the school with the largest per cent of its high school enrollment present. A sewing machine will be awarded the home economics department modelling the most attractive costume in the parade. Many of the school Home Economics Departments plan to enter costumes. The Junior Boys' Drum Corps from Goldsboro, directed by Robert Moore will be led by a charming drum-major. The Greenville High School band, some forty instruments, will add much to the parade. The band of the 113 Field Artillery, Kinston, directed by A. H. Coble, will be in line. The Fayetteville High School band will also be in the parade. Flots entered by merchants will add beauty and color. Herman Joseph, leading down with Ringing Brothers for twenty years, has promised to be in the parade in costume. Boy Scouts, Girl Hikers and other uniformed groups will march.

Invited guests will ride in the parade, and prominent guests will occupy the reviewing stand. The parade will be organized on Queen Street and go down Queen to King. Provision is being made to have every detail organized so that everything will click to the minute. It will be one of the biggest parades ever staged in Kinston. The following schools will participate: Deep Run, Pink Hill, B. F. Grady, Kenansville, Beulaville, Richlands, Com fort, Trenton, Dover, Southwood, Pollockville, Maysville, Jasper, Ft. Barnwell, Contentnea, Grifton, Snow Hill, Maury, Hookerton, Walstonburg, New Hope, Seven Springs, La Grange, Wheep Swamp and Moss Hill. The Kinston Male Chorus is under the direction of Pat Alderman.

ice area should be screened with native shrubs and trees which will cost only the labor of transplanting. In towns as well as in the country run-down-at-the-heel property, dirt backyards and unsightly dump heaps denote lack of pride in home surroundings as well as civic pride. Such properties depreciate not only their own, but all surrounding property values. Accumulated rubbish creates a neatly fire hazard. Clean up work degrades fire losses and improves health conditions.

Civic organizations and individuals might undertake such activities as:

- Planting vacant lots.
- Removing accumulation of ashes, paper, tin cans, and other trash from under barns, from cellars, yards, alleys, business premises and vacant lots.
- Filling in marshy places.
- Cutting weeds and salting roads.
- Eliminating breeding places for flies and mosquitoes.
- Exterminating rats and mice.
- Removing ash heaps, scattered garbage, and trash piles.
- Placing receptacles for waste paper in streets and parks.
- Regulations dealing with unswept sidewalks, uncollected ashes, covered garbage cans kept in rear and not on front lots, clean backyards including business lots.
- Planting grass, flowers, shrubs, trees and gardens.
- Few improvements pay such dividends as paint and whitewash. Supplies produced on the farm may be exchanged for good paint; many painters would be glad to exchange use than those given above, its use

TVA REMAKING A VALLEY, CHURNING UP INVESTIGATION

The Tennessee Valley Authority has spent five years and $155,000,000 doing the things indicated on this map—and churning up a controversy over its merits and methods which is scheduled to resound during a congressional investigation. In this area, the size of England, the TVA has tried to check floods, improve navigation, create electrical energy. Its advocates claim it has reduced electrical rates. Foes say it has given "monopolistic" industries long-time contracts. It has completed Norris Dam, Wheeler Dam and a reservoir 15 miles above Wilson Dam. A dam and a reservoir at Pickwick Landing are near completion. Dams at Chickamauga and Guntersville on the Tennessee river and Hiwassee dam on the Hiwassee river have been started. A dam has been authorized at Gilbertsville, Ky., but no appropriation has yet been made. TVA officials say the dams will provide 300 miles of navigable lakes.

AGAINST MAY BILL

To the Editor: Defeat of the industrial mobilization bill introduced by Congressman May was called for on March 27 by more than five hundred prominent persons representing labor, religious, educational and business interests in all parts of the country. In an open letter to the President and the members of Congress, these leaders of public opinion declared that the proposed legislation, far from taking the profits out of war, would authorize the President in time of war to exercise dictatorial control over labor, industry and the public services.

Among those signing this letter to the President and Congress were Jerome Davis, president American Federation of Teachers; Harry Emerson Fosdick, clergyman; Homer Martin, president, International Union United Automobile Workers of America; Edward W. Marshall, vice-president Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Carl D. Smith, president Babson Institute; William Allen White, editor, Emporia, Kansas; Anna V. Rice, general secretary National Board Y.W.C.A.; G. Ashton Oldham, Bishop of Albany, Protestant Episcopal Church, Albany, N. Y.; Charles L. Mead, Bishop of Methodist Episcopal Church, Kansas City, Mo.; Francis F. Bradshaw, Dean of Students, University of North Carolina, etc.

The letter was made public by Walter W. Van Kirk, director of the National Peace Conference, who added that it is a significant fact that so many prominent industrial and labor leaders have joined forces with religious and educational leaders in protest against the May Mobilization Bill.

Signed by these 500 leaders—a list too long to give here—the letter was as follows: "We, the undersigned, register our strong protest against the new industrial mobilization bill, introduced by Congressman May, which is now before the House of Representatives. This proposed legislation is described as a measure to prevent profiteering in time of war and to equalize the burdens of war and thus provide for the national defense, and promote peace."

Republicans Will Have Local Races For Several Posts

Failure of Hoffman to File on Time Means Republicans Will Have More Local Contests

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, March 29—Failure of John R. Hoffman, Republican of Burlington, to get his United States Senate candidacy fee here in time to qualify means that there will be no statewide Republican primary this spring, but that there will be numerous Republican sham battles in counties where the G. O. P. boys haven't even a ghost of a chance to win in the general election.

In other words there will be presented the comic opera spectacle of two Republicans entering a primary for county commissioner, or maybe for the legislature, in counties where the total minority party vote in the general election is so small as to be hard to divide by two without giving a fractional result.

Fees for election officials are the reason for this apparently ridiculous result. If there were to be a statewide Republican primary, every precinct in the state would automatically have a Republican judge. Without such a primary, there will be in the grave need of immediate protest action. Respectfully, ROBERT C. GRADY, President, Greenville Council For Peace Action.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, March 30—Not to indicate for a moment that he had anything to do with it, but it's dollars to doughnuts that Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill is laughing slyly up his sleeve since Hugh Point's Thomas Turner filed his fee to make the race against Greensboro's Judge H. Hoyle Sink in the Twelfth Judicial District. Not so long ago the Greensboro jurist made a rather savage attack on Gill and his work. He intimated that too many convicted persons are being extended much too much clemency in the state. Gill didn't answer the attack, but he wouldn't be human if he weren't pulling for the success of Turner and the discomfiture of Judge Sink. The judge's remarks may have serious effects on his candidacy for re-election, too, as Gill is a state-wart-Administration man and while it is not thought likely that the "machine" will turn on the heat full blast, it isn't at all beyond the bounds of possibility that no one will be encouraged actively to work for Judge Sink.

Quieter than six dearth-stricken slavers on the subject of the 1940 gubernatorial primary, Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell is doing nothing at all to discourage reports that he would make an ideal candidate.

On the contrary, it is worth noting that the commissioner is issuing more statements, talking more frequently and at more widely separated places and otherwise comporting himself like a man bit by the buzzing bee of ambition—or do bees bite?

Representative T. C. Stone of Rockingham was in Raleigh Tuesday. He predicted that nothing will come of talk that Guilford is preparing to grab the State Senatorship which has been Rockingham's under a district agreement. He sees J. Hampton Price as the next Senator, probably without primary opposition.

Governor Clyde R. Hoey assures your correspondent that there isn't any "Liquor Board Situation" not even a "Liquor Board Crisis."

On the outside, recurring rumors have had it that the Control forces are on the warpath, determined to play Sitting Bull and Custer with themselves as the Sioux warriors and Custer Moore in the role of the ill-fated General, who got scalped.

On the inside, the Governor says that not a single "county liquor board man" has so much as approached him with a complaint against Moore or the board.

From which it would appear that there has been far more smoke than fire in the whole flareup.

As to reappointment of Thomas Murphy of Greensboro as a member of the state liquor board when his term expires May 1, Governor Hoey has nothing to say.

It is fairly safe to assume, however, that Murphy will not be named again—not because of anything he has done or left undone as a board member, but simply because of the Murphy health, which is so bad that he hasn't been physically able to perform the duties of a board member. If, however, the Greensboro man's health should show remarkable improvement before May 1 he has at least an even chance to keep the job he now holds.

Ralph, son of former Governor O. Max Gardner, isn't going to win his first political job without a fight. The youngster is out for State Senate from Cleveland, but he will have at least one opponent in the primary, as Ernest Sanders of King's Mountain has already paid his fee to the county election board and is a full fledged contender.

QUESTIONS ON ACT ANSWERED

Another 'What's What About Social Security' Presented

As another service to its readers, the Reflector each week will give authoritative answers to questions on the Social Security law. By special arrangement with G. N. Adams, manager of the Social Security Board office in the Municipal building in Rocky Mount the Social Security Board has consented to pass on the accuracy of answers to question on Social Security which may be asked by employers, employees, and others, through the Reflector.

Question: What are the conditions upon which lump-sum payments of old age insurance are made? Who gets that money?

Answer: There are two types of lump-sum payments that can be made any time after January 1, 1937. One is a payment which an eligible worker may receive after he reaches the age of 65. These claimants are men and women who have earned wages in a factory, shop, mill, mine, store, hotel, filling station, or some other line of industry or business, included under the law, and who have attained the age of 65 since January 1, 1937.

The Federal Government, under old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act, is also paying benefits to relatives (or estates) of workers who have died and whose wage-earnings since 1936 in employment, as mentioned above, entitled them to benefits.

Q. It is necessary for an employee who has reached the age of 65 to quit work in order to get a lump-sum payment of old age insurance?

A. No. It is not necessary to retire from work at the age of 65, in order to receive a lump-sum payment under the old age insurance program of the Social Security Act. Lump-sum benefits are paid to workers who reach the age of 65, and who have worked some time since 1936, in an employment covered by the old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act.

Q. I a young person who had been employed in a job that is covered by the law should die could the family collect old-age insurance benefits on that account?

A. The fact that the deceased worker was young has nothing whatever to do with the claim for his old-age insurance benefits. Whether he was 16 or 60 makes no difference. During the time that he was employed in a job covered under the Social Security Act, benefits were accruing to his account, and his estate is entitled to that money. If, for instance, his record shows that the youth had received $900 in wages or salary, his relatives should receive death payment amounting to 3 1/2 per cent of $900 which is $31.50.

Primary party election offices at the primary polls only in such counties as have local Republican primaries.

Wherefore there will be Republican primaries in many counties in which it is difficult to muster enough G. O. P. members to man each precinct with a judge. Because it is known, these election officials are paid and no political machine is going to overlook the chance to get some of its "faithful" close enough to the public trough to do a bit of swilling.

So it can be safely predicted that in most counties the Republicans will pick out the cheapest office to run for, and enter candidates enough to make the semblance of a primary contest.

Judge Oglesby, as already mentioned, died. In the Thirteenth District Judge A. M. Stack was defeated for re-election by Judge Phillips.

Those who have already retired are Judges Frank A. Daniel, Fourth District; T. B. Finley, Seventeenth District; P. A. McElroy, Twentieth District, and W. L. Small, First District.

On the Supreme Court bench are Justices Michael Schenk, formerly of the Eighteenth; M. V. Barnhill, once of the Second District; and W. A. Devin, erstwhile of the Tenth District.

The judicial quarter which will quit active service at the end of this year are H. A. Grady, Sixth E. H. Cranmer, Eighth; N. A. Sinclair, Ninth; and W. F. Harding, Fourteenth.

In addition a fifth announced retirement, come January 1st, is that of Judge Marshall Spears, who followed Judge Devin onto the bench in the Tenth District. This change will give the Tenth its third new judge in six years.

Three other districts may also get a third judge in six years, as each of them has already seen one change and another is possible in the coming elections. In the First, Judge C. E. Thompson, who succeeded Judge Small, has position from Solicitor Herbert Leary in the Second; Judge Walter Bone, vice Barnhill, must beat off the assault of Titmus Valentine; and in the Twentieth Judge A. Hall Johnston is challenged by Solicitor Zeb Vance Nettles. Johnston took the place of Judge McElroy.

While the state judiciary has been thus turned topsy-turvy, the state's three Federal Districts have retained their three judges, E. T. Webb, Isaac M. Meekins and Johnson Haves.

Buy and Use Easter Seals—Help Crippled Children

Pitt county anticipates a cooperative venture in the Seal Sale for Crippled Children. Problems of the crippled child have loomed large in Pitt county. Some commendable work in behalf of the physically handicapped child has been done but much remains to be accomplished. K. T. Futrelle, Superintendent of Public Welfare, Pitt county, chairman of the International Society for Crippled Children, announced today that the Easter Seal Sale drive opens April 1, 1938. A county-wide campaign will be waged against crippling conditions.

Money derived from the sale will be used by the local Department of Public Welfare and its affiliates to provide a "better life for crippled children," the slogan of this year's campaign.

The sale of the seals will be handled by various schools in the county, the principal of each school assuming charge. In addition to the schools each civic organization in the county is expected to cooperate in the campaign.

The following people have accepted the opportunity of serving in the campaign:

J. W. Webster, Arthur, W. M. Jenkins, Ayden; H. H. Deaton, Belvoir; C. H. Boettcher, Bethel; Newiman Lewis, Chicod; J. T. Lewis, Falkland; J. H. Moore, Farmville; John A. Guy, Fountain; H. C. Oglesby, Grifton; J. P. McBryde, Grimesland; Hyatt Forrest, Pactolus; G. P. Carr, Stokes; C. D. Ward, Winterville; J. H. Rose, Greenville; D. H. Conley, Greenville; Dink James, Greenville; Rev. W. A. Ryan, Greenville; Rev. Thomas McM. Grant, Greenville; Rev. C. H. Patrick, Greenville; Miss Nelle Owens, Fountain; Mrs. J. C. Andrews, Ayden; Mrs. J. D. Cannon, Ayden; W. J. Smith, Bethel; Mrs. J. M. Hobgood, Farmville; Rev. R. C. Grady, Greenville; Prof. C. M. Epps, Greenville; Prof. H. C. Suggs, Farmville; Miss I. M. Donnell, Greenville.

The seals bring to the attention of the public the work being done for children, unfortunately handicapped by crippling diseases or accidents, and the need for pursuing the effort unceasingly. The local organization has for its main purpose the focusing of attention on these problems.

TEACHERS WIN OVER QUAKERS

Local College Scores Second Victory In as Many Days

East Carolina Teachers college made it two victories in a row over the Guilford Quakers here yesterday after by taking a 4 to 2 victory.

The Teachers collected four of their eight hits, aided by a walk and an error, to put across three runs in the first frame to gain a lead which was threatened by the Quakers in the eighth when doubles by Tison and Lentz and singles by Hines drove across two runs. The Teachers put across one more run in their half of the eighth when Perebee singled, was sacrificed to second by Smith and scored on Baxter Ridenhour's timely single.

TURNER, FETTE MAY REPEAT; QUINN SIGNS OTHER 'OLD MEN'

By DILLON GRAHAM (AP Feature Service Writer)

Bradentown, Fla. — Boston's bargain-counter greybeards, Jim Turner and Lou Fette, appear ready to reward old Bob Quinn again this season for lifting them out of the obscurity of the minor leagues.

These twin sensations of the National league, who spent a lifetime in the minors before their chances came, were the rookie aces of last year—20-game winners each.

Bill Terry and Frankie Frisch and Charlie Grimm, pilots with real money on hand to buy winning pitchers were astonished last year at Quinn's success in picking up this pair and being so handsomely rewarded. But maybe they were one-season flashes; perhaps they'd lost too much sap from their pitching arms in the drugstore of the minors.

Old Men Are Wise

It's too soon to tell, but if appearances mean anything, Turner and Fette are going to be top-notch pitchers again this year. And Quinn has gambled on another pair of old-timers to go along with them—John Niggeling and Milburn Shoffner. And there's Frank Gabler and Danny MacFayden and Richard Merriwell Erickson. These Bees may turn out to possess the best pitching corps in the loop.

These greybeards have cunning and control and control as well as curves. But they're on the other side of 30, the danger mark in baseball. Turner and Fette are approaching 32. Danny is almost 32. Niggeling and Shoffner are nearly 33.

"I'm ready for another good year," Turner said. "I've kept in shape during the winter riding a milk truck. My arm feels fine. I was surprised at winning 20 games last season but I knew I was ready for the majors. The breaks will have to come my way for me to win 20 again, but anyway, I'll win my share of games."

In his rookie season Turner was the National league's outstanding pitcher, more effective than Hubbell or Dean or Mungo or Warneke or Grissom. He had an earned run average of 2.38 per 9-inning game. And he credits an accident with furnishing him with a climactic minor league season that caught Quinn's eye.

"A batter ball struck my right hand, breaking the second finger," he explained. "A lump developed over that broken joint but the finger didn't hurt and so I didn't have

DURHAM TEAM DOWNS LOCALS

Phantoms Drop First Baseball Loss Of 1938 Season

By BAXTER CLARK

Durham high's baseball nine journeyed here yesterday afternoon and defeated the local high team by a score of 6-2. The game was played at Third Street park and was the first loss for the Phantoms this year. They are now batting 500 in conference play.

Howard Hodges pitched a beautiful game for the locals, allowing only five safeties, two of which were scratch hits, and he struck out 13 Durham batters. The Bulldogs were able to push over their runs on 10 errors made by the Greenville team.

The local team was able to reach Puckett, Durham hurler, for only two hits which were made by Polly Williams and Ford McGowan.

In the sixth inning Durham mixed two hits, a walk and three errors to score three runs. They scored two runs in the seventh on one hit, two errors and a passed ball. Greenville scored their only two runs in the sixth. They loaded the bases and one run counted on an error by the Durham shortstop. Another score was added on an infield out.

N. C. Y. D. CLUBS PLAN RALLIES

Pitt to Be Well Represented at Williamston Meet

Raleigh, March 26—This is a gala week for Young Democrats of North Carolina for Saturday will mark the end of one of the most, if not the greatest, active rally periods in the history of the organization in the State.

With two large district meetings already passed as the result of past week-end rallies, it is estimated that more than 7,000 Young Democrats will have attended some form of a gathering, whether district or county, before another Sunday.

It is the week set aside by the State Executive Committee of the Young Democratic Clubs of North Carolina for the 1938 set-together renewal of party allegiance. Assisting President Arch T. Allen in rallying YD to the banner are George Hundley of Thomasville, chairman of the Finance Committee; Gordon Gray of Winston-Salem, chairman of the State Organization Committee; Robert C. Wells of Kernsville, Eastern Organizer; and Dilworth Coker of Asheville, Western Organizer.

Rallies in nine districts of the State have been completed in addition to numerous meetings of county clubs to make the year's YD plans one of the most comprehensive in a long time. Young Democrats in every county of the State will have opportunity to attend either a local or district gathering.

Other rallies include: District One, at Williamston in the courthouse Friday afternoon with Secretary of State Thad Eure as speaker. Pitt County Young Democrats will be well represented at the meeting.

...and Her Best Friend...is Her Husband

"He's a big nuisance at times—just an overgrown boy. Brings guests for dinner on short notice...forgets anniversaries...hides in the morning paper. But I love him. He's good-natured and generous. He loves his home. He has dozens of friends and likes to play host. He's just as pleased as a kid when he finds good things to eat and plenty of cold BUDWEISER in the refrigerator. That's one thing I always remember."

Jail Quarantine Upsets Justice
Yorkville, Ill.—(AP)—It was sort of disturbing to have them tack a "Keep Out—Scarlet Fever" sign on the Kennel county jail door. It meant that Sheriff William Maier went home to live with his father for a while. The sheriff's daughters, Joanne, 9, and Shirley, 7, were confined to their apartment in the jail building. Two minor offenders were incarcerated indefinitely. And the lone prisoner awaiting trial couldn't even get to court.

President of Mexico Faces Labor Revolt

international political conflict" by the expropriation, Flores charged. Asserting he spoke for other members of his union, Flores contradicted assertions by union headquarters in Mexico City that all was peaceful among the workers. The Tampico union ousted a capital-approved administration council, demanded wage increases and other benefits. A permanent commission of Congress was to meet late today to set a date for the congressional session, probably for the second 10 days in April.

Both Napoleon and Caesar were great administrators as well as great soldiers.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 30.—(AP)—The stock market uncovered buying support today and many recently weak leaders got back part of their losses. Unloadings of impaired margin accounts resulted in a dip after a forward opening tilt in which a number of new five and six year lows were touched. Bonds were mixed.

REID'S ADDING TO STORE HERE

To Reopen Saturday Morning in Enlarged Quarters

When the addition is completed the store will be one of the best equipped in this section. He will maintain a sales force adequate to provide prompt, efficient service.

English Humor
Eastleigh, England.—(AP)—Here is an example of a practical joke in England:
A newly married couple awakened the morning after their marriage to find a laughing crowd gathered in front of their home.
On the front door had been printed in large letters: "Just Married; Do Not Disturb."
