TWENTY-SEVEN KNOWN DEAD IN TORNADO AREA

Five Mid-Western States Strafed By Damaging Storm

MIDDLE ILLINOIS
STRUCK HARDEST

Nearly 250 Persons
Reported Hurt With Property Loss Over
$1,000,000 Mark

(By Associated Press)

Five tornado-strafed mid-western states counted 27 persons killed and nearly 250 injured today. Unofficial estimates of the damage passed the $1,000,000 mark. Hundreds were homeless.

The twisting storms, laden with hail and torrential rain, struck hardest in central Illinois, where at least 19 were known dead. Next hardest hit was southeastern Kansas, where seven, including three children, were killed.

The Kansas storm struck about noon yesterday. It started in North eastern Oklahoma, later knifed into southwestern Missouri, five were known dead in Missouri storms.

About sundown what apparently was a separate storm twisted across Illinois from the southeast, dipping to earth in the Pekin area. Rushville and Astoria also were hard hit.

Another twister lashed at Heber Springs, Ark., killing four. Then it swung up through southeastern Missouri accounting for three of Missouri's dead at Poplar Bluff. An earlier Arkansas blow had killed a woman at Conway.

The three-mile wide Illinois storm left an estimated 85 persons injured. Six of the dead were at South Pekin.

Four others were killed in and around Pekin. Columbus, Kansas, bore the brunt of the Kansas-Oklahoma-Arkansas-Missouri storm.

Electric Service
Provided 35,000

Raleigh, March 31.—Since July 1, 1935 a total of 34,595 rural customers have been given electric service, according to a report of progress issued today by the State Rural Electrification Authority.

In addition lines which will serve 2,103 additional customers are under construction and lines have been authorized which will bring current to 6,254 more when completed.

There have been built in the state since July 1, 1935, at a total of 6,184.33 miles, while 383.11 miles are under construction, and 1,197.66 more have been authorized. The report shows, making a grand total built, building and authorized of 7,769.10.

Public utilities have been the greatest factor in increased rural electrical service for rural sections these companies having built 5,215.33. They are building 349.61 miles, and have authorized 480.66 miles. Cost of these utility lines is estimated at $6,144,901.27.

Municipalities have built 464.89 miles of lines, have 33.56 under construction and have authorized 67.69 miles. Total cost of this category is put at $458,548.00.

Under authority of the Federal Rural Electrification Administration there have been built 477.60 miles, while 635.40 miles of additional lines have been authorized. At present there are no Federal REA lines under construction in North Carolina. Cost of the REA projects is estimated at $1,303,250.00, which includes a total of $66,000 for generating plants. The balance was expended for distribution lines.

Reprieve Granted
Convicted Slayer

Raleigh, March 31.—(AP)—Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill said today T. J. Jefferson, Winston-Salem Negro, scheduled to be executed tomorrow for murder, would receive a "substantial" reprieve pending a Supreme Court decision on a new appeal by his co-defendant, Tom Linney.

Linney and Jefferson were convicted of the killing of Herman Fogleman, insurance collector, and the Supreme Court upheld the death sentences. Linney's counsel, however, went back into Superior court seeking a new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence and appealed again from an adverse decision.

New Formula To Withdraw Foreign Soldiers In Spain Believed Too Late To Help

DEATH RIDES THE TROLLEY CAR

Caught squarely by an aerial bomb rained down by insurgent fliers, this trolley car and all its occupants were blown to bits in Barcelona, Spain. Nearly 900 persons were killed during the raid.

End of Civil War In Spain Expected to be Realized Before any Action can be Taken on Non-Intervention Plan of Britain

(By Associated Press)

The guiding sub-committee of the Spanish Non-Intervention Committee, representing major European powers, gathered today and received a new British formula for withdrawal of foreign soldiery from the 20 months old civil war.

It was the group's first meeting in two months and the problem was much the same as a year and a half ago, except that the war itself was much closer to settling the question than dickered representatives of Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Soviet Russia.

Much depended on how long the Barcelona government could hold back insurgent armies stabbing eastward at the heart of government territory. In a few days, perhaps, no formula for withdrawal of foreign soldiers will be needed.

That seemed to be the view of General Francisco Franco's strategists as they directed two thrusts eastward—one against Barcelona and the other toward the coast southeast of the capital.

A movement to straighten the insurgent line closed to the French frontier cut hundreds of government soldiers off from their bases east of Jaca and one thousand fled over the Pyrenees for sanctuary in a little French mountain hamlet. They said one thousand others were following their lead.

Informed persons said Britain proposed a "new formula" for deciding when Belligerent rights should be granted to the warring factions and restoration of control on Spanish frontiers.

PUBLICITY STUNT
DECLARES SNELL

Democratic Leader
Barkley Praises FDR Assertion of No Inclination to Dictator

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—Foes and friends of the administration's reorganization bill termed "a perfect fake" and "an admirable statement" today the letter in which the President asserted "I have no inclination to be a dictator."

Representative Snell (R-N. Y.), the House Republican leader, used the "fake" expression when he told reporters the President's letter to an unnamed correspondent was "purely an effort to get on the front page" and "get people's mind off the controversial reorganization bill."

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic Senate leader, in terming the letter "a very admirable statement," said it was one, "the sincerity of which will be conceded by everybody who knows the President."

While virtually everybody at the capital was talking about the letter, House leaders quietly canvassed the membership of that branch to determine how it will vote on the measure, which was up for debate today.

Meanwhile the Senate completed congressional action on a resolution directing broad investigation of the TVA. On motion of Senator Barkley, it accepted minor House amendments to the original inquiry resolution voted by the Senate. The (Continued on page six)

SUCH CHARGES ARE ANSWERED

President Replies To Contentions of Foes of Government Reorganization Measure That Program Would Make Him Dictator in America

Warm Springs, Ga., March 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, charging organized opponents of his government reorganization program had "planted bogies under every bed," asserted in a letter made public today that he had "no inclination to be a dictator."

The letter, addressed to an unnamed friend under date of March 29, urged approval of the measure "in its present form" and replied to charges that the legislation would make him a dictator by asserting:

"As you well know, I am as much opposed to an American dictatorship as you are, for three simple reasons:

"A—I have no inclination to be a dictator.

"B—I have none of the qualifications which would make me a successful dictator.

"C—I have too much knowledge of existing dictatorships to make me desire any form of dictatorship for a democracy like the United States of America."

The letter was made public by Secretary Marvin McIntyre shortly before 1 a. m. (EST). There was no explanation for the late release except that the President made up his mind to issue it before midnight and it required almost two hours to prepare it for the press.

The name of the President's correspondent regarding reorganization was withheld because, McIntyre said in a prefatory statement, "he did not write for publicity purposes."

The letter was dated the same day the President asserted at a press conference that senate passage of the reorganization bill proved that body "cannot be purchased by organized telegrams based on direct misrepresentation."

Erstwhile Banker Held In Shooting

Salma, March 31.—(AP)—Sheriff R. V. Barber of Johnston county said today J. E. Tharrington, 35, former bank cashier at Smithfield and Raleigh, was being held in jail without bond pending the outcome of gun shot wounds inflicted on John McMillan, filling station operator for the former banker.

Friends of Tharrington were understood to be planning to petition a Superior court judge to set bond for the former banker.

McMillan was reported in serious condition, with ulter wounds in the chest and abdomen.

Intensified Search For Lost Airmen Conducted

DECLINED ACT IN ABDUCTION

Interference Prevented
First Meeting
With Kidnapers

New Rochelle, N. Y., March 31.—(AP)—Rabbi Abraham Nowak, intermediary in the kidnaping of Peter Levine, 12, who disappeared February 24 on his way home from school, disclosed today that he had refused to keep an appointment with the kidnapers "because I felt our meeting could not be exclusive and without interference."

"I said on February 28, when I was given instructions as to how I could contact the kidnapers, and I repeat now, that I shall not betray the confidence of the kidnapers," Nowak declared.

The rabbi referred to "interference" although at the time police and agents of the FBI pressed to maintain "hands off" the case.

"I still stand ready to act," said the rabbi. "If the abductors contact me again I shall be glad to serve with the assurance that it will be exclusively between the parents, the abductors and myself. The contact will be made on that basis or not at all."

Flying Boat Engaged In Mimic Warfare Vanishes

Honolulu, March 31.—(AP)—Sixty-five American warships and 240 fighting planes were ordered today for six naval airmen who vanished during mimic warfare which already had cost five lives.

No trace of the plane was found during a night-long search.

Naval officers still held hopes the six aboard would be found alive.

Five men were killed yesterday when their plane crashed off Oahu island, in the third major fleet air tragedy of the year. Two others of the crew escaped.

Bodies of two of the victims were recovered. One of them was identified. The other was not.

In previous tragedies during 1938 maneuvers, seven men were lost when a patrol bomber vanished at sea and 11 were killed February 2, when two patrol bombers collided in night operations off Southern California.

The flying boat which vanished yesterday was identified as TVP-8 in command of Lieut. Charles Sigler.

Naval spokesmen said the plane undoubtedly was forced down at sea.

ALLEY PAVING PLAN OFFERED

Movement Has Support of Mayor And Other Officials

Mayor M. K. Blount revealed today that city officials were considering the possibility of paving back alleys in the business section and mentioned several advantages which would be derived if such a project were undertaken.

Mayor Blount explained the work could be done at small cost. The city would attend to all details, such as survey, etc., and would do the work at cost. Property owners on each side of the alley would bear 50 per cent. of the cost. It is hoped, however, that WPA funds could be secured to help defray the expense of the project, thereby greatly reducing the cost to property owners.

The mayor expressed the opinion it would relieve the congestion on the main business streets. Large trucks would be encouraged to load and unload in the alleys, instead of on the streets. The alleys would be drained better, greatly improving the sanitary condition.

The proposal was linked with the current clean up campaign, which is bringing results in the city.

Also in line with the clean up campaign, the city now has on hand a number of underground garbage cans. These containers are available to home-owners at cost and, in addition, the city will install them free. The city purchased these underground garbage cans at approximately half the usual retail price and they can be bought at about $10 each. When the original shipment was disposed of, the city proposes to order more.

It was explained that underground garbage cans will improve the sanitary condition around the homes and will facilitate the removal of waste, enabling the city trucks to make rounds more often.

Persons desiring further information on the cans are invited to get in touch with E. G. Lynch, who can be located at the local police station.

Hope Abandoned for Dr. L. B. McBrayer

Southern Pines, March 31.—(AP)—Dr. L. B. McBrayer, former secretary of the North Carolina Medical Society, and head of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association, was reported critically ill today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. P. McCain at Montrose, near here.

Dr. McBrayer suffered a relapse last night after a period of improvement. Hope for his recovery was abandoned.

BOARD PLACES TO BE FILLED

Three City Aldermen Up For Re-election in May

With County, District, State and National politics claiming chief interest, many Greenville citizens apparently have forgotten the city election to be held the first Monday in May.

Three present members of the Board of Aldermen will be up for re-election if they desire to continue in office. They are J. A. Watson in the second ward, Joseph M. Tait in the third and Dr. M. B. Massey in the fourth. So far none of these has expressed intention publicly to seek re-election. Neither has anyone announced against any of the three.

No mayoralty race will be held this year, the present mayor, M. K. Blount, having been elected for a two-year term last May.

The second, third and fourth wards have two members each, but only one from each is up for re-election this year. Those whose terms do not expire until next year are Jack Spain, second; J. D. Simpson, third; and A. C. Tadlock, fourth.

Wards one and five have only one member each, and both of these have another year before their terms expire. They are L. B. Fleming of the first, who also is mayor pro-tem, and R. Troy Burnette of the fifth.

Two Persons Hurt In Wreck Improved

Two Newport News men, Wilton H. Morris and Marvin L. Barnes, who were injured in a collision between an automobile and a truck Wednesday night in which Walter L. Harris was killed, were still confined to the Pitt General hospital at noon today, but they were reported to be getting along satisfactorily.

Neither of the two men in the hospital was seriously injured, although Harris, a native of Pitt county and a former resident of Greenville, was instantly killed.

Funeral services for the slain man were held at the home of his father, W. R. Harris, of Greenville, route one, this afternoon. Burial was in the Porter Cemetery near Simpson.

Lawyers Retained For Test Of New Farm Bill

Johnston County Farmers Organize To Fight Measure

Goldensboro, March 31.—(AP)—D. T. Starling, a farmer of Clayton, said here today attorneys had been retained by a group of Johnston county farmers to test in Federal court the constitutionality of the recently enacted farm law.

Starling said Wayne county farmers would be asked to join in the movement, and to contribute to its financial support. Contributions totaling about $400 have been received, he said.

Ernest M. Green, W. B. Duncan of Raleigh and J. D. Parker of Smithfield have been obtained by opponents of the law, the Clayton farmer said.

The Johnston county group was said by Starling to have organized, with Sam H. Massey of Smithfield as secretary and treasurer.

"We are determined men, fighting for freedom and liberty," Starling asserted.

Chico, Calif.—(AP)—George Hudson smokes tailor-made cigarettes, but he doesn't buy them.

Each year he sets out about 200 tobacco plants and harvests two barrels of tobacco. He personally cures it, slices it and rolls cigarettes in his own machine.

Now 68, Hudson worked at his hobby for years before he managed to grow tobacco that would make a satisfactory smoke.

Large Tobacco Acreage Predicted For This Year

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, March 31.—The New farm bill has been overwhelmingly endorsed and is now in effect; but notwithstanding that fact, statisticians of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture indicate that North Carolina farmers intend to plant three per cent more acres in tobacco this year than they did last.

This seeming paradox—theoretical reduction against predicted increase, based on intention—comes from the fact that the statisticians have merely released figures they derived from the expressed intentions of the farmers.

This fact is made clear by Rhodes statement: "While this survey cannot be taken as an indication of the acreage to be harvested this season, it does show in a measure what the farmers have in mind at this time to plant and is subject to revision by them dependent upon weather at planting time, the diversion of crops under control programs and later change in plans."

The reported intention indicates that North Carolina farmers intend to increase their total crop acreage by 3.5 per cent this year.

Increases are indicated for corn, tame hay, tobacco, peanuts, soybeans and cowpeas.

Tobacco acreage, according to the report, would be 689,000 acres, provided there is no cut from control or other reasons.

Decreases are predicted in oats, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, and barley.

The report's silence on the subject of cotton is not an oversight but is in obedience to Federal law, which prohibits the publication by governmental agencies of any predictions on future production of cotton. If there were tobacco exchanges, as there are cotton exchanges, that would likely be prohibited, too.

HANNAH SEEKS POST OF JUDGE

Another Greenville Attorney Enters the County Contest

Ham Hannah, Greenville attorney, today announced his candidacy for judge of county recorder's court, subject to the Democratic primary June 4.

Mr. Hannah's entry into the race insured a three-sided contest, the incumbent, Dink James, and J. W. H. Roberts having previously announced for the seat.

The latest candidate studied at Wake Forest college and Duke University, receiving his LL.B. at the latter institution. For the past seven years Mr. Hannah has practiced law in Greenville.

Carnival Queen Crowned.
After much good-natured rivalry among supporters of the "Miss E. C. T. C." dominies at the College Carnival last night, Miss Mary Louise Britton, sophomore from Conway, was crowned "Miss E. C. T. C." to reign as popularity queen of the campus.

Each of the four classes had chosen a nominee to compete for the crown.

The contest was one feature of the carnival engineered by the Women's Athletic Association at the college under the direction of Miss Lucille Norton and Coach J. D. Alexander.

As a part of the "floor show" from 9 to 10 o'clock, Coach Alexander and his class in tumbling and pyramiding gave an excellent demonstration of their art.

Also an entertaining part of the floor show was Roderick Adams' performance as a magician, in which he made articles disappear, reappear, and multiply in a very professional manner.

Many booths along the walls of the gymnasium drew in the pennies of the crowd, as did also the candy counters, the lemonade stand, and the games of bowling and bingo.

Little Philharmonic Orchestra.
The Little Philharmonic Orchestra, on tour after a two-year season at the Play House, Chicago, will appear on the entertainment program of the college next Monday night, April 4, at 8:30.

This famous "Little Philharmonic" is not a full orchestra cut down in size, but it is a carefully worked-out group of fourteen instruments played by real musicians directed by George Shapiro, who has conducted abroad in such music centers as Munich, Hamburg, Leipzig, Brussels, London, and who is a concert artist himself and a composer, as well as a conductor.

In the group there are three violins, a viola, a cello, a bass, a flute, an oboe, an English horn, a clarinet, a bassoon, a French horn, a trumpet, a trombone, and timpani. Every player is an accomplished musician. Members have played for years previously in such organizations as the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Warsaw Philharmonic Orchestra (Poland), the Antwerp Symphony Orchestra (Belgium), and the Budapest Symphony Orchestra (Hungary).

It took Shapiro more than a year to conclude the negotiations that brought together these musicians whom he wished to secure for his group.

The artists composing the group are drawn from Russia, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Mexico and the United States.

Their program will be given in the Wright building auditorium at 8:30 o'clock Monday night.

Lovely purple iris and lilacs were used in profusion in the living rooms. A red and green color scheme prevailed in the dining room; the table, covered with an Italian cut-work cloth, was centered with a bowl of red tulips surrounded by green tapers. A three-course dinner was served the guests. Afterwards, bridge and other games were enjoyed. Approximately 22 guests partook of Mr. and Mrs. Tabor's hospitality.

To Sponsor Coronation Ball.

The Journalism class of Greenville high school will sponsor a Coronation Ball tomorrow night in the high school auditorium, at nine o'clock. The feature of the affair will be the crowning of the king and queen of both junior and senior high schools at eleven o'clock.

At four o'clock today the king and queens will be announced. At this time popular voting which has been going on for two weeks, will end.

Last year the coronation event was one of the outstanding social activities sponsored by a high school organization. Many local people attended and everyone was entertained at the affair. A floor show of local talent will follow the crowning. Last year this floor show was especially enjoyed by everyone. The chief attraction on this year's floor show is an all-boy vaudeville directed by Marie Smith.

Music will be furnished by Billy Crow and his orchestra. This group of musicians is known throughout Eastern North Carolina and is fast developing into a high class band.

The decoration committee, headed by Kenneth Woolard, has already begun to transform the auditorium into a festive place for the coronation and dance. The band stand will be on the dance floor. Quinn Boedic is heading the advertising committee.

Hostess To Clio Book Club.

Mrs. F. B. Haar delightfully entertained members of the Clio Book Club Tuesday afternoon at her home on Ninth street. Spring flowers of lavender and white iris interspersed with sprays made a lovely setting for the occasion.

Mrs. W. W. Morgan, president, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. R. C. Grady read a most informative paper on the life and the indefatigable efforts of Angelo Patri. Mr. Patri, known as one of the country's greatest authorities on children and their problems, was born in sunny Italy sixty years ago.

When he was a small boy he came to America. He attended school but found no happiness there because school only kept him still, taught him words, and put him through book after book. When he became a man, he became a teacher and was a strict disciplinarian. This did not work. He found out that the truths of life must be made interesting. The school must be built out of human material you had, using the peculiar circumstances surrounding it. Patri, with the aid of the neighborhood, the school board and a Parent-Teacher Association, founded a splendid public school which now lies on the southernmost tip of the mainland of New York State. ### Notices

Last day of March.
The year is one-fourth gone. Look out for April fool tomorrow. Services in the Baptist Church tonight.

Fine season for setting out plants in the garden.
The cool north wind makes people fear for the safety of the fruit. They keep rolling in—new spring goods. Our merchants have elegant stocks and they tell all about them in The Reflector.

Second Spanish Flotilla.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says a special cable from Madrid via France, to avoid the censor, says Spain has started a second torpedo flotilla of 6 boats to Havana under escort of the Cristobal Colon and that Weyler is on his way to Havana.

Still Speaking

The news from Washington today is that members of the House are still speaking against the President's position on the Spanish affair. Congress is warm for war and does not like the President's attitude. There is no telling how the matter will terminate. The whole country will be aroused against President McKinley if he allows Wall Street and Mark Hanna to influence him to attempt to push his plan.

is a good plan to water it during a period of dry weather. Decomposition may also be hastened by shoveling the composting mass from one pile to another two or three times during the season. This will also give a much better mixed product.

Compost may be used as a top dressing for a lawn, spreading it about one-half inch deep over the entire area. If mixed with equal parts of sand and garden soil it makes an ideal mixture in which to plant seed. It can be worked into the flower border, and is especially good for perennials. It makes an excellent mulch for all kinds of shrubs, when spread into 3 or 4 inches of soil. Compost may also be used in the vegetable garden.

ALASKANS USE PENNIES BUT STILL LAUGH AT 'EM

Anchorage, Alaska.—(AP)—Alaskans have started using pennies. Back in gold rush days a dollar was "small change" because prices were high and currency became scarce. Then, as the territory became civilized, soundings began figuring at the rate of "two bits."

In recent years a five-cent piece has been the smallest coin in general use, but since the Signal Corps began making exact change on its commercial wireless service Alaskans have started using one-cent pieces, though they still ridicule "coppers" even as they accept them in change.

Many children, reared in the Far North, never have seen a penny yet, the wireless operators say.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coonts

Hollywood—It's a day of clouds. Big cottony fluffs of cloud, edges gilded silver by the sun in a blue storm-cleaned sky.

The ground of the airport is soggy with intermittent, seemingly interminable rains. Over the mountains new storm clouds press wet and gray, and thunder rolls booming over the valley. But up there—10,000 feet up—the clouds are white, the sky blue and that is what counts.

The "Men With Wings" are going up. Their colorful planes—re-surrected old Spads, Newports, Potters from the war days—await in trim formation in the hangar, on a blackboard, William Wellman is diagramming the needed "shots." Closings of fighting planes in battle action is what he wants.

Flying Director

Wellman's new air picture may be the one to end air pictures. It's in color—a cavalcade of aviation. His "Wings" ten years ago set a standard for air pictures since. The color is what intrigued him about this one. The big technicolor camera goes up on the camera plane, gets it all as it happens—"marvelous stuff," Wellman bubbles.

Odd, amazing chap, this Wellman they call "Wild Bill." One-tenth his energy and enthusiasm, harness, would solve a city's power problems. Lean, wiry keen-eyed, he spits on "movie art" and makes pictures like "Nothing Sacred"—that shows he knows all about it—with a vigorous punch. He's a flier himself.

From France's Black Cat Escadron in the war, and crazy enough to do the deeds he asks his men to do.

The flying fog at the blackboard is Frank Clark. Not stream-lined; dead-ringer for Gable; husky. "Put a feather in his ear and Frank'll take off," Wellman says. Frank's leader of the flying lunatics who call themselves movie stunt fliers. He chalks out a maneuver "Ever done this one, Tex?"

Tex Rankin, fat, red-faced, shaggy-browed, squeaks up. It's how he talks. "Sure. A cameraman gave me hell for it once—said he could feel the wind from my wings but hell! I was ten feet from him all the time."

Just A Laugh

They got up. They're making pictures. No "stock shots" in this one. There are no "stock shots" in color. From the ground we can see those planes, tiny, zooming slits among the clouds maneuvering for position. The camera plane splits a cloud, disappears, maneuvers back.

Wellman is dancing on the ground, yelling with excitement and admiration. They're shooting it. Power dives, tail-spins, charges at the camera plane, upside down flying. . . more than once we swallowed our hearts.

"That's Rankin at it again—if the cameraman had on a hat, Tex would knock it off!"

They're down again. They're piling out of the planes. They're grinning and laughing, lighting cigarettes. Must have been a good joke up there. They want to know if the camera got it all. "All except the first shot—I was out of line," regretfully, "but I got plenty."

IT'S ODD, But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Editor)

New York—Scientific jobs are scarce too. An official of one of New York's great scientific institutions tells of man who asked for work. "He was the mildest, gentlest man I ever met," the scientist said. "He sat in my office and told me his story."

He was, it developed, from a monastery not far from New York city. He had been there five years in his novitiate. But he had not taken the vows. This was on account of his sister. "My sister," he said, "is slowly starving to death. She can get no work. The sort of thing you do here is the only thing I know—all I am trained for."

But he did not get a job in the scientific institution. In many, although not all institutions, science has been cut harder than other activities.

A few industries have taken up more research, as a means of meeting depressing problems. According to the Mellon Institute, some of these industries have profited by increasing science in the face of the depression. But not many of those in control of money have followed such a policy.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

The Story So Far: Judith Goodloe has the code of an old Maryland family to live up to. Reuben Oliver, who has pulled himself up by his bootstraps, has wealth and ethics of his own making. Desperately loving Judith, Reuben proposes to her when the Goodloe finances collapse. Gary Brent, the man Judith loves, has left her. So Judith becomes engaged to Reuben after making clear that she does not love him.

Chapter 15

'Due For A Licking'

REUBEN tried to prove that he was a better man than Gary in the only way he could—by showering things upon her. Each day brought wonderful gifts for Judith. Her favorite of them all, an Irish mare with foal—

"The Hunt Cup is as good as ours next year," Jim rubbed his hands in anticipation. "Won't it be great to have it under the roof once more?"

Life stretched a pleasant path for Jim's walking these days. Money—the one thing the Goodloe's lacked, came so easily, so magically, just when it was needed, that they accepted it almost as a matter of course, and forgot, as far as possible, its source. Not that Jim minded remembering. He liked Reuben and said often and openly: "You're a lucky girl, Judy."

Amanda's opinion was never expressed. If between herself and Reuben there was veiled enmity, there was also a healthy, mutual respect. Amanda thawed to a low graciousness under the glow of prosperity. Her servants, a competent staff of servants at Goodloe's Choice now, Amos walking proudly in new livery, forgot the price of Oolong, forgot, among other things, the hole in the boxwood hedge and who made it.

Society reporters trumpeted wedding details far and wide. Judith's smiling face, Judith's fearless eyes gazed back from rotogravure sheets. Bridesmaids and flower girls gazed back. From a small inset in an inconspicuous corner, Reuben gazed back too. The most important wedding of the year the papers said.

Plans went forward. Judith bought clothes that were every maiden's dream. She visited Reuben's house. Made suggestions for this improvement and that. Made friends with Hugo. Praised rhododendrons—

"I'm so glad your home is here, Reuben. I wouldn't marry you if I had to leave this valley. I couldn't bear to go away."

"It's going to be heaven!" Reuben said and believed it. Never again would he hear the call of the wild, or feel the urge for adventure. For purple twilight on vast expanses of white snow. The smell of bacon cooking in the open. A lone wolf's call. The sound of cracking ice, rushing waters—noar of logs sluicing down—Noise. Shouts. Struggle—all that was behind him just to live here in this quiet valley with Judith, to watch her vivid face, to touch her—

The whole world took on new meaning. He felt strangely in accord with it. Every blade of grass, the leaves on the trees, the water in the creek, the fleecy clouds in the sky held out a promise of what life could and would be.

June lengthened into July. July slipped into August perfumed with the ripened harvest. If the reports from his banker and broker pointed out to Reuben that he was not as wealthy as he had been, he reminded himself such fluctuations were to be expected. Before he came to Maryland the loss of $5 would have sent him raking over the coals of his affairs like a frenzied wild cat. Now, lulled by the serene valley, blissful with the new element in his life, he let things drift until the serpent entered his paradise.

'Broken Down Aristocrat'

IT CAME in the form of Clem Rogers. Clem, fat, florid, perspiring, arrived one morning just as Reuben was sitting down to breakfast.

"Hi, Reuben, you son of a tinker! Hope you've got an extra cup of coffee in the pot?"

"Clem! You old river rat! It's grand to see you! How are you?"

"How should I be? Clem offered himself off coat, collar, tie and flung all into a nearby chair. "I'm hungry as a pile driver."

Reuben rang for the colored boy. "Coffee, bacon—How will you have your eggs, Clem?"

"Four, sunny side up," Clem ordered, "and get a move on you."

He looked critically around the dining room with its heavy oak beams. "Cissy says this is supposed to be some dug-out—I dunno!" doubtfully.

"Suits me," Reuben said. "Old ruins usually prove expensive. Cheaper to tear down and build up new."

Reuben did not argue this point. "How's Cissy?"

"Mad as a March hare. Flying like an eagle and spending money faster than a horse can trot."

He pushed back his bushy gray hair and looked at his host from eyes not unlike his daughter's. "So you're getting married?"

"In 27 days."

"Humph! To a broken down aristocrat?"

"To the only woman I ever wanted to marry."

"Humph!" Clem reached for his coat, took out a well seasoned pipe, looked at it speculatively. "Love can play havoc with a fellow. Better be sure as shooting before you leap."

"I'm sure."

"How do you know you are?"

Clem hitched his chair closer. "It's none of my business and I wish you luck, but I'm giving some advice too."

"Go ahead."

"I'm a fool, to do it," sagely, "but I've seen quite a few lads, who made a couple of fly-by-night millions, come East, break their banks and their hearts over a woman."

"I won't do that, Clem."

"The heck you won't! You're different already."

"How?" surprised.

"Dunno—exactly. You were so cocky as all out o'doors back home."

Reuben smiled. "I was younger."

But he sensed a vague truth in Clem's criticism. Judith's mild ridicule the day he fell from his horse, Amanda's barbed thrusts, the feeling that they were merely tolerant of him, had undoubtedly made him less sure of himself. He went forward slowly now like one whose sight is not quite true.

Clem's breakfast arrived. He was noisily busy for several minutes. After he poured a second cup of coffee he said: "You're wondering what brought me?"

Reuben nodded. There were few words wasted between these two.

"Unless you come West as quick as straight as the crow flies—it's bad news. Reuben! I hate like the dickens to tell you!"

"Shoot!" lighting a cigarette.

"The Little Justis is going dry on us."

'The Devil To Pay'

REUBEN held the match in his fingers until it burned thin. "It couldn't be. That pocket goes through to China."

"I was sure of it when I advised you to sink your money in it."

"There's something wrong with the drills," Reuben said evenly but fear clutched him like a giant hand.

"I had every pump and drill overhauled when the output started to fall off," Clem lighted his old, strong pipe. "They're right as old, strong pipe."

"They're wrong if the oil won't flow. I'm flying back with you."

"Get your coat."

Reuben walked to the door. "Give me an hour."

"Going to see your sweetie?" Clem hazarded.

"Um—"

"I'd like to give her the once over myself."

"I'm proud to show her."

"Better tell her the truth," Clem advised when they were in Reuben's room on the way to Goodloe's Choice, "and instead of having a lot of frills, better marry her today and take her back to Warder."

"Take—Judith—to Warder?"

"Why not? If," grimly, "she's the girl for you, she'll go."

"I'm afraid you—don't understand, Clem."

"The heck I don't! You're afraid to tell her!" he taunted.

"I'm not."

"Then put your cards on the table. If this girl is marrying you for money—and I'm betting my trousers she is—there's going to be the devil to pay—sooner or later—if you're ever without it! Yes, son, when she finds out you ain't got it."

"Who says I haven't?"

"I do!"

"I've never," arrogantly, "had to take a licking yet."

"You'll take a licking of a one if you run with this herd much longer. Might as well face facts, Reuben. You're due to take a fearful financial licking and another kind of one too, if you don't watch out. You've either got to make an Oliver of her or she'll make a—what's her name—Goodloe, a darn poor imitation of one, out of you."

Reuben said nothing. He stepped on the gas.

"If you pull out of here I'll help you start over," Clem offered generously. "If you hang on—"

Like a song sounding faintly against Reuben's consciousness came the echo of Judith's words: "I wouldn't marry you—if I had to leave this valley."

"I'm hanging on."

"Hang on and be damned! It's your funeral!" Clem emptied his pipe, knocked it savagely against the car's window. "What will you bet the girl won't hang on when I tell her?"

"I'll bet—" Reuben's lips faltered. Closed. He felt winded as though from a blow in the solar plexus.

"Afraid?" Clem taunted.

"Afraid?"

TO ESTABLISH PEANUT GOALS

Product Grown in 24 Counties on Commercial Basis

Raleigh, March 31—Twenty-four North Carolina counties are among the 89 counties in seven Southern States designated as commercial peanut producing areas. E. Y. Floyd of State College announced today.

For these counties a peanut goal will be established under the agricultural conservation program, and payments will be offered individual growers who do not exceed their goals.

The peanut goal for the seven States is from 1,000,000 to 1,600,000 acres. This acreage will be pro-rated among the states according to their past production; state committees will divide state goals for individual growers.

Growers in the commercial producing counties who hold their peanut acreage within their goals may earn 20 cents a hundred pounds for the normal yield per acre for each acre in their goal.

That is, a grower with a 12-acre goal who doesn't plant more than 12 acres, and whose average yield has been 800 pounds per acre, would receive 800 pounds per acre times 20 cents a pound times 12 acres, or $19.20.

Deductions at the rate of $2 per hundred pounds on the normal yield per acre will be deducted from the payment for each acre of nuts grown for market in excess of the goal.

North Carolina commercial peanut counties are: Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Brunswick, Chowan, Columbus, Edgecombe, Gates, Halifax, Herd, Martin, Nash, New Hanover, Northampton, Onslow, Pasquotank, Pender, Perquimans, Pitt, Robeson, Tyrrell, Warren, Washington, and Wilson.

Since 1634 only the pope has had authority to canonize persons as saints of the Roman Catholic church.

Gentlemen:

This was my first year with your fertilizer. I used Silky Leaf with two other well known brands and the results from it were more satisfactory.

I used your Silky Leaf in the center of my field and it was easy to tell exactly where I used it. With it, I made more pounds and the tobacco grew more uniform. After my tobacco was cured it had a better quality and did not red-den in the bulk as the other did. I recommend Silky Leaf to all my friends.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — The government has succeeded in plotting under many of its treaties with the Indians, but the job of keeping the Six Nations and Senecas off the warpath cost it many yards of bright calico this year.

George Washington was President when on Nov. 11, 1794 the new republic signed a treaty by which it agreed to provide annually $4,500 worth of calico for distribution among the Senecas, Alleghenies, Onondagas, Tuscaroras, Ojibwas and Cayugas, then living mostly in northern New York. The Indians, in return, were simply to be good.

Evidently it seemed a cheap price to pay then but there is no way of stopping the thing. Every year the government goes into Northern New York in late summer to deliver several yards of calico to about 3,000 Indians in and around Salamanca.

They Like Calico

In 1909 an agent of the Bureau of Indian Affairs went to Salamanca and tried to talk the Indians into a lump settlement which would end the annual distribution. But the Indians would have none of it. They wanted the calico and wanted it every year from now on, just as the treaty says. Many of them are successful farmers but the calico business has become an occasion for a special visit to town.

Papa Indian collects the calico — it usually amounts to six or eight yards per Indian. He wraps it around his shoulders like a Mexican sarape and struts the town with it. Afterward he gives it to mama for a dress for herself and the little girls.

Many years ago a band of Onondaga Indians left New York and migrated to Wisconsin. With them went the right to $1,700 worth of calico. But long since the Wisconsin branch gave up the idea of accepting calico. They take cash and salt.

Evenly Pierce, a Seneca Indian girl, works in the Bureau of Indian Affairs here. She won't take cash or salt, she insists on calico and the government has to give it to her. Lately it has become lots of fun and the photographers make a circus of it.

Seminole Justice

The calico keeps the peace with the Senecas and others but the government technically is still at war with the Seminole Indians in the Florida Everglades. Andrew Jackson beat them in battle 100 years ago but they would not sign a peace treaty. They retreated into the swamp country. They are still there, and remain a problem child of the Indian bureau.

Recently one of them went on the warpath all by himself and his Indian neighbors decided to liquidate him. He fled to the Indian agency for protection. After a time he had a fight with the agent and stabbed him. Civil authorities stepped in and were going to punish the Indian but who should come to his rescue but his Seminole neighbors, who put up defense money and got him out on bail. They made it plain that punishing Seminoles was the business of Seminoles and nobody else.

The other day the Indian bureau was informed that the wayward Indian, freed for the time of white man justice, was blown into the happy hunting ground with a shotgun.

GOATS KEEP GARDENER FROM BREAKING BACK

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP) — J. A. Browning used to wear himself out pushing a hand plow over his three-acre truck garden.

"It was awful tough," he recalls. "I just about worked my foot off the death. Then I got to thinking about my two goats."

The goats were living an easy, carefree, aimless sort of life. Browning didn't mind that, of course, but it was hard on his back pushing that plow.

He just couldn't see anything else to do but harness up the goats and let them pull the plow.

"It's easier for me now," he says — "and as for the goats — well, they don't seem to mind it much."

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, March 31. — North Carolina's State Senate of 1933 is likely to number among its members a man who has not been officially a legislator since 1931, but who is just as familiar around the Capitol during legislative sessions as any of the members. In fact if this fellow were to be called a "lobbyist" he probably wouldn't raise any violent objections.

Reference is to John Umstead of Chapel Hill who is now slated to represent Orange county in the 1939 Senate. Owen Robertson was the choice of the Orange organization, but it develops that illness in his family is likely to keep him from making the race, and so the mantle has fallen on the Umstead shoulders.

The prospective Senator has worked session in and session out in the interests of North Carolina's life insurance companies. Any time that it has been proposed to increase by so much as a jot or a tittle the taxes on these insurers, John has been heard loudly protesting to high Heaven that they were being done wrong by.

Next session he can do his protesting on the floor instead of in the lobbies, hotels and committee rooms. When he was a State Senator in 1931 he frankly stated that he was an insurance company advocate and that anything touching them unfavorably would find him fighting tooth and nail.

At that, an avowed lobbyist in the legislature would be refreshing by way of comparison with the unadmitted ones.

State Senator Jack Joyner of Irrell was in Raleigh Wednesday. He is a candidate for re-election and says he believes he will defeat H. P. Van Hoy, a rival he concedes is no weakling at vote getting. He could not say whether Con Johnston will run for re-election to the House, for which Zeb Turlington has already announced. If the former American Legion State Commander does get into the fray it's going to be a "horse race" Joyner said.

Formation of Penny-for-Congress clubs is reported from the Sixth District, but there are not a few who'll agree that's more money than the lower Federal house is worth.

They won't admit it, but the two most widely touted candidates for Speakership of the 1939 House are extremely fearful of the present dry campaign as affecting their chances to be presiding officer.

So far there hasn't even been a whisper from any authoritative dry leader, but it's more than reasonable to suppose that the Drys, if they should win the House majority which many predict for them are not going to sit idly by and permit either Libby Ward or Victor Bryant to be named Speaker unless (and this may be the rub) it is promised them that liquor measure will be referred to acceptable committees.

There's no getting around the fact that Gregg Cherry, presumably politically dry, did the Control advantage a real favor last session when he sent House Bill 35 (the measure which eventually became the ABC law) through a committee substitute to Judiciary 1 of which Beaufort's able and wet Sam Blount was chairman.

The Speaker can do a lot of help or harm and nobody pictures the Drys as dumb enough knowingly to put a hostile Wet in the chair unless they have absolute assurance he will be amenable to suggestion.

And so both Ward and Bryant are anxiously watching progress of the Dry drive.

Among recent announcements for legislative seats: W. S. Tyson from Pitt for the House—Mark Squires of Catawba for the House—Charles B. Park of Wake for the House.

Big Push Started In Air Mail Week Campaign For May

Purpose of National Event to Intensify American People's Consciousness of Aviation

Charlotte, March 30.—The "big push" to make National Air Week, May 15 to 21, an outstanding event of 1938 for the United States, has been started with Paul R. Younis, Charlotte postmaster as national chairman.

The various state chairmen each widely known, who will direct the tasks of farming state and district Air Mail Week organizations, include: North Carolina, James H. McKenzie, Salisbury; South Carolina, Dixon Davis, Greenville; Virginia, C. W. Saunders, Richmond.

The national chairman also announced that the National Air Mail Week headquarters has forwarded to each state chairman a broad plan for organizing committees to have charge of the many phases of this movement, the greatest of its kind in the history of the United States.

Mr. Younis was selected by Postmaster-General James A. Farley and Second Assistant Postmaster-General Earle Branch, in charge of air mail, as the national executive of the Air Mail Week. Mr. Younis said the preliminary work of building up the nationwide organization, which will extend into each of the 46,000 cities, towns and villages, has met with splendid cooperation in every state.

The purpose of National Air Mail Week is to intensify the American people's consciousness of aviation and the air mail but the more immediate objectives of this far-flung and vigorous movement, which has the full support of the Post Office Department, are at once patriotic and practical. As announced by the national headquarters, these objectives are: To commemorate the twentieth anniversary of the inauguration of the air mail service that was started by the Post Office Department May 15, 1918; to educate the citizens in the use of air mail, showing its progress, dependability, safety and value and, to increase the use of the air mail to the end that through increased revenues still further expansion of this now essential service will be made possible.

Kitty Hawk, on the sandy shore of North Carolina, the birthplace of aviation, where the never-to-be-forgotten Wright Brothers made the first airplane flight, will be the historical center of interest during Air Mail Week, the announcement said.

A special and official cachet for air mail has been authorized for Air Mail Week by the Post Office Department. This cachet will commemorate the first flight and will pay due honor to Kitty Hawk, now marked by an enduring memorial, for the place it holds in the record of the United States' progress at an amazing rate in aviation. Each city and town elsewhere throughout the United States will be privileged also to have a special cachet for the marking of air mail during the week.

ROOM OCCUPIED IN 1168 FOUND IN STATE ARIZONA

Washington (AP) — At Wupatki national monument in Arizona recent excavations in prehistoric stone ruins have brought to light a room which geologists estimate was occupied in 1168.

It held seashells from the Gulf of California which are known to have been traded from tribe to tribe over several hundred miles, as well as remnants of squash shells, corn cobs, pineapples, lima beans and pumpkin seeds, a ball of native cotton and sandals woven from leaves of the yucca plant.

The most disastrous defeat suffered by the Italians in the World war was inflicted by the Austrians at Caporetto.

dy Burwell, famed in his college days as an outstanding tennis player, is being boosted for the House race. He is now a practicing attorney in Charlotte.

8 to 3

East Carolina Teachers college won its third straight victory of the season here yesterday afternoon defeating the Panthers of High Point 8 to 3.

The Teachers did all their scoring in second, third and fourth frames scoring two runs on two singles and double. Scored four runs in third on five bingles, one of which was a triple; and scored two more in the fourth on walk, error, single and triple. Coach Virgil Yow's team was badly crippled as five regulars, all seniors, were unable to make the trip. Panthers scored one in third frame on error, stolen base, sacrifice hit and fly to deep left by Koontz, and scored two more in the eighth frame on walk, passed ball, error, and singles by Hampton and Lemaster.

Duke Alumnae Ready For Week-End Affair

Durham, March 31—Plans are complete for the first Alumnae Week-end at Duke University, which will be held at the Woman's college of Duke Friday, Saturday and Sunday while the students are away for spring vacation. The Alumnae secretary, indicate that a large number of alumnae will return for the three days.

Lectures by Duke professors and others, social affairs, and informal get-togethers will fill the three days. The lectures are on a variety of subjects—education, literature, philosophy, marriage, architecture, current events, law and order, interior decoration, and drama.

The Week-end begins officially with breakfast Friday morning and ends with a service at the University at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

ESTELLE PAGE RECORD-BREAKING MEDALIST

Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page (right), Chapel Hill housewife, was all smiles when she sat down to add up her score after chalking up a record-breaking 69, five under par, in qualifying for the North and South Women's golf tournament at Pinehurst. Kathryn Hemphill (left) of Columbia, S. C., who qualified in third place with a 76, also seems very happy about Estelle's feat. Both yesterday enter the quarterfinals, along with another Carolinian, Jane Cothran, of Greenville, S. C.

HIGHS TO MEET RALEIGH TEAM

Locals Play at Third
Street Park Friday
Afternoon

In their third class A test of the season the Phantom baseball nine will meet the Raleigh Capitals at the third street park tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Starting on the mound for the Greensies will be Waylan Tucker, veteran righthander. On the receiving end of the local battery will be Polly Williams, a hold-over of last year's team.

Preacher Weeks, Raleigh's strike-out king, will probably draw the mound assignment for the Wake county boys with Murray doing the catching.

By way of comparison, both teams have beaten the Wilmington Wildcats previously this season. Last week in Wilmington the locals stopped a late rally to nose out the Wildcats 13-12, while Raleigh with Weeks hurling stopped them 15-2. Weeks also has a 7-1 victory over Rocky Mount to his credit. In their other class game Greenville lost to Durham, 6-2.

Fans who will watch the Caps in action are expected to see one of the two teams which are predicted to win the Eastern class A title.

Big Crop Loss.

Loss Angeles—(AP)—Losses to agriculture in Los Angeles county from the rains and floods in early March are estimated at $691,000 by Harold J. Ryan, county agricultural commissioner. Citrus groves and vineyards were hardest hit.

to be followed by luncheon at the Union.

Guest speaker for the Week-end will be Cornelia Stratton Parker, of Williamstown, Mass., writer and traveler, who will speak at a banquet Saturday night in the Women's union on "Women in a Changing Social Order." Dr. J. B. Rhine, author of "New Frontiers of the Mind," will speak at dinner Friday night on "Exploring the Jungle of the Mind."

Social affairs of the Week-end besides luncheons and dinners will include an informal reception Friday afternoon at the home of President and Mrs. Few, following a tour of the campus; and a tea to be given at Dean Alice Baldwin's home by Durham alumnae Friday afternoon.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 31.—(AP)—Stocks found a further footing today after the late selling wave yesterday had carried prices to the lowest levels for several years.

Volume was much smaller than Wednesday and selling flurries frequently interrupted the comeback. Gains of fractions to two points were halved or cancelled in many cases near the fourth hour.

DECLINED ACT IN ABDUCTION

"My main interest is to see the boy returned safely to his parents."

The rabbi said a "voice with a foreign accent" directed him over the telephone to look in a lot near his synagogue. His secretary looked and found a typewritten note demanding $60,000 and a penciled note in the boy's handwriting appealing to his father to pay.

The ransom demanded has been reduced to $30,000 and the boy's father repeatedly has offered to pay it.

VARIED VIEWS ON STATEMENT OF PRESIDENT

measure now goes to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature.

Other developments:

The United States formally notified Great Britain and France of this country's intention to build battleships bigger than 35,000 tons.

Secretary Hull sent notes to this effect to the British and French embassies and the Canadian legation.

Texas of the notes will be made public tomorrow.

The United States expects a British note of the same character during the day.

A French note also is awaited, but this, an informed source said, will state France's intention to abide by the 35,000 ton limit.

Representative Hancock (D-N. C.) said in a statement he could not support the governmental reorganization bill in the form it passed the Senate.

Thirty per cent of all state senators holding offices in 1937-38 had never served in a legislature and about 50 per cent of all assemblymen had had no previous law-making experience.
