CASE TO OUST PITT SHERIFF IN THIRD WEEK

J. F. Harrington On Stand as Hearing Resumed

LAWYERS STAGE VERBAL TILTS

Indications Are Petitioners to Require Most of Week To Complete Testimony

The third week of the Sheriff Whitehurst ouster proceedings got under way here this morning with but a few spectators in the court room, evidencing the waning interest in the testimony now being presented.

Those few who visited the court this morning to hear what was going on, for the most part, heard a defense attorney call the number of a case from the petitioners' audit and heard Clerk of Court J. F. Harrington, read from the court record the judgment in the case.

Twice during the morning there were verbal tilts between opposing counsel as attorneys for the petitioners endeavored to shorten the cross examination of the witness. After Mr. Harrington had been questioned on several of the cases included in the audit, Jesse Jones counsel for the petitioners, objected to the detailed cross examination on the grounds that the case was not an accounting but an effort to show habitual neglect of duty on the part of the sheriff and that detailed cross examination of each item was a waste of the court's time.

Defense counsel called the court's attention to the fact that all the items had been included in the audit and it was the right of the defendants to be released or witness on each of the items with a view of putting on defense testimony to offset each item. The defense contended that in the case of most of the items in question the defendants had been released or given an extension of time by the court and that in such instances the sheriff was in no way liable for any uncollected costs in these cases. Judge G. Vernon Cowper, who in hearing the case, ruled that the defense had the right to cross examine on any item that had been introduced as evidence and the cross examination was ordered to continue. Jones then proposed to strike out fifty two of the cases in question. When defense counsel started to discuss this proposal Jones withdrew the suggestion and the cross examination was continued.

Clerk Harrington spent most of the day Friday on the stand and resumed the stand when court opened this morning. When the noon recess was taken he was still undergoing cross examination with indications that he would occupy the stand the balance of the day.

With testimony of two auditors who have previously taken the stand, still incomplete and with another auditor to take the stand after these have finished it is not likely that the prosecution will complete its testimony until the latter part of the week. If the case should continue until both sides are heard, the end is still far away, as more than a hundred witnesses have been announced by the defense.

Washington, N. C., Citizens Poisoned By Sandwiches

Washington, N. C., May 23.—(AP)—At least 29 local persons were known to have suffered the writhing pain of ptomaine poison, 16 of them having received treatment of a local hospital Saturday and Sunday, as a result of having eaten chicken salad sandwiches at various lunch counters around the city. Physicians at the hospital analyzed the ailments of the first chalk-faced patients, admitted around 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, as ptomaine. Other victims followed in quick succession until at midnight Saturday eight sufferers lay in hospital beds and several physicians were answering rush calls. Each patient reported that he had eaten a chicken salad sandwich and had become excruciatingly ill—at periods averaging between three and four hours. The victims, none of whom remained under medical surveillance more than 12 hours, reported four places from which sandwiches had been bought.

Farmer Unscathed as Lightning Kills Team

Jasper Stanley, Greenville township farmer of near House station, probably had the scare of his life Friday afternoon when lightning struck and killed two mules behind which he was riding on a cultivator. The experience left the farmer none the worse for his experiences, except the loss of his team. Mr. Stanley was riding on the cultivator all of which was iron except the tongue, when the lightning struck the mules, killing both instantly. Goldfish were introduced into England from China in 1728.

Three Possible Legatees Of Administration Named

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, May 23.—Anything can happen in two years and so any prediction or forecast about 1940 gubernatorial candidates is something like betting in the winter books on the Kentucky Derby. Your horse may turn out to be a wind sucker, or may get spavined, or founded or otherwise afflicted with whatever disease horses are subject to. But, changing and mixing the metaphor with abrupt suddenness, it looks as though the residuary legatees of the State Administration, when it comes time to write a last political will and testament, will be found among a triumvirate of Congressman Lindsay Warren, Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell and Raleigh barrister J. M. Broughton.

HOUSE DECIDES BEGIN DEBATE ON LABOR BILL

Prolonged Deadlock Held by Rules Committee Broken

DEBATE LIMITED TO FOUR HOURS

No Variations Made Between Wages In North-South in Revised Measure

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—The House broke its Rules Committee's prolonged wage-hour bill today by voting overwhelmingly to debate the measure immediately.

This action ratified a petition signed May 6 by 218 members to force the legislation to the floor in spite of the Rules Committee's steadfast refusal to give it preferential status.

Debate was limited to four hours, but leaders said efforts of a Southern bloc to make the measure more flexible might delay a final vote until late tomorrow.

It was the second time wage-hour legislation had come before the House in the last six months. It rejected a somewhat different version last December during the special session.

Speaker Bankhead announced the roll call vote in favor of bringing the bill to the floor was 322 to 73.

The revised measure makes no provision for wage variations between the North and the South, or between urban or rural communities. It would establish a universal minimum wage for interstate industry, starting at 25 cents an hour and increasing to 40 cents at the end of three years. Hours would start at 44 per week and drop to 40 in two years.

Southerners attacked the inflexibility of the revised wage-hour bill when the House began debate on whether to consider it immediately.

TWO SESSIONS OF COURT HERE

Judges Cowper And Grady Presiding Over Tribunals

Judge G. Vernon Cowper, presiding over the hearing to oust the sheriff, and Judge Henry A. Grady, today took turns at conducting terms of Superior court here this morning.

The ouster hearing entered its third week with a civil session scheduled to be presided over by Judge Grady. It was decided that, with the exception of divorces and one other case set for this afternoon, the session scheduled to open today could be dispensed with after a number of judgments had been signed.

The armory had been prepared for a session of court in case the two sessions continued throughout the week. After today, however, the court room will be free for continuing the ouster hearing.

Before Judge Cowper began proceedings this morning, Judge Grady occupied the bench, signed several judgments, heard three divorce cases.

RALEIGH LAST WEEK

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, May 23.—Quite naturally the Democratic state convention staged here Thursday overshadowed everything else that happened in the state's capital during last week; but except for the financial gains registered by hotel keepers, restaurants and other mercantile establishments the whole thing could have been conducted by mail.

There wasn't an audible dissent in an auditorium packed with Democrats as the gathering resolved itself into an "amen" group for hymns of praise for Administrations—state and national; and for the adoption of a platform which was a masterpiece of non-controversial generalities.

The outstanding feat of the convention was its ability to swallow with equal ease and grace endorsement of two administrations which have pursued such diametrically opposite courses.

The state government was lauded for its economy, for its meeting of every obligation "on the day it was due," for its balanced budget, and for the reduction of North Carolina's debt.

BRITAIN HAILS PARLEY PLANS

Announcement That the Czechoslovakian Premier and Leader of Germanic Minority to Confer in Effort Settle Dispute Brings Shouts in the English House of Commons

London, May 23.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that Czechoslovakia's Premier and the leader of her Nazified Germanic minority would meet tonight or tomorrow in an effort to settle the dispute which has brought Europe dangerously near the brink of war.

The Prime Minister acknowledged cheers which greeted his announcement that a conference had been arranged between Premier Milan Hodza and Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten Germans, over whom German Adolf Hitler has declared himself protector.

"At the moment the situation seems to have eased somewhat," Chamberlain said. Although Chamberlain did not say so, it was presumed the British government had been instrumental in bringing the antagonists together after the Sudeten German party had refused to enter into negotiations offered by the Czechoslovakian government.

In Paris informed quarters reported that France and Britain had joined in warning Germany the Czechoslovakia could not be made (Continued on page six)

Japs Claim Surrender Of Demoralized Chinese

Ten Thousand Reported Taken Since Fall of Suchow

With the Japanese army in central China—the Japanese field army said today that 10,000 demoralized Chinese soldiers have surrendered since the fall of Suchow. The number of prisoners mounted rapidly as Japanese forces relentlessly pursued fragments of the routed Chinese army fleeing from the conquered Central China railroad zone.

Desperate shattered Chinese were fighting for their lives in the Suchow trap. The Japanese said they had narrowed the trap down to an area roughly 12 miles in diameter centering on the Lushan hills midway between Suchow and Shien.

The Japanese were in full possession of Suchow. In the adjacent fighting zone, where the Japanese say more than 200,000 Chinese were caught, tanks motorized units and infantry could be seen pursuing groups of fugitives across fields, harassing them with machinegun and rifle fire.

The terrain was littered with ruined villages, wrecked bridges, devastated farm houses and endless lines of trenches.

Floyd Outlines Benefits Under '38 Farm Program

Raleigh, May 23.—Under the 1938 farm program, a grower's payment will be built up as follows, said E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive officer at State College: For each acre in his cotton allotment, 24 cents per pound on his normal yield per acre. Likewise, one cent a pound on the normal yield for each acre in his peanut allotment.

For each acre in his Irish potato allotment, 54 cents per bushel on the normal yield. Seventy cents per acre of cropland in excess of his wheat, potato, and peanut acreage allotments plus and a half times his cotton and tobacco acreage allotments.

A dollar and a half per acre for the average acreage of commercial vegetables grown in 1936 and 1937, except the peas and sweet corn produced for canning.

Two dollars for each acre of commercial orchards which produced fruit last year and from which a crop is expected this year. Twenty-five cents per acre of fenced, non-crop, open pasture land (not woods pastures) in excess of one-half the acres of cropland. Such pasture must be capable of sustaining at least one animal unit on each five acres. The sum of all the foregoing payments will be a grower's total payment if he does not exceed his soil-depleting crop acreage allotments and he carries out all the soil-building practices prescribed. Deductions will be made from the payment of a grower who exceeds his soil-depleting crop acreage allotments or who fails to carry out all his soil-building practices.

CZECHS CHEER BOLD DEFENSE

Officials and General Public Take Pride in Czechoslovakia's Stand Against Hitler; Question of How 3,500,000 Germans to be Governed Remains Full of Trouble

Praha, Czechoslovakia, May 23.—(AP)—A feeling that a victory had been won prevailed in Praha today, augmented by the conviction that but for the obvious determination of the Czechs to defend their territory at all costs and against all odds, Germany's Adolf Hitler would have made another lightning move.

Official circles and the general public expressed relief over re-orientation of international tension and pride that Czechoslovakia's determined stand had helped thwart Hitler.

The peaceful passing of yesterday's municipal election momentarily eased Czechoslovakia's fear of war with Germany, but the question of how her 3,500,000 Germanic minority shall be governed remained unsolved and full of trouble.

Some 500,000 soldiers remained along the 1,300-mile frontier, most of them facing German territory, and Praha authorities believed that force would be sufficient to deter any incursion by Hitler, self-proclaimed protector of Germans everywhere.

Betty Moore To Visit Greenville.
A subject of ever-increasing interest to women of all ages, in all walks of life, is Color—and how it may be used to enhance one's personality. Color has style. Color has life. It is fresh and gay and cheerful.

Betty Moore, interior decorator for Benjamin Moore & Co., is widely known as a color stylist for American homes. For more than eight years Miss Moore has been broadcasting over a national network, inviting listeners to send their home decorating problems and questions to her. Last year well over 60,000 home owners sought Betty Moore's advice for interior and exterior color suggestions.

In her local appearance Miss Moore will tell how the history and customs of various countries have affected color development; how different types of individuals have an affinity for certain colors; how each woman should choose those colors for dress and home which make the best background for her personality.

Within each twelve-month, approximately 1,000,000 new couples start housekeeping. Every year several million homes are redecorated, inside and out. "But many people," says Miss Moore, "are afraid of color. Too often, when repainting is necessary, they simply resort to the old colors with which they have lived for years."

In her local lectures, Betty Moore will tell the proper colors for each type of personality. She will display a miniature house, completely furnished and decorated which will make it easier to visualize and understand the effect of rooms decorated with special attention to color. Each room has been planned for a different type of color personality; blonde, brunette, medium and silver-haired.

As Miss Moore will point out, every woman owes it to herself and her family to take a "decorating inventory" at least once a year. When it is decided which room is to be redecorated, it is important to remember that a change in color is as important as redecorating itself.

Betty Moore is a graduate interior decorator. She brings to Greenville new color trends and decorating ideas that are adaptable to local residences. Following each lecture, there will be an open forum for decorating questions. The talks are being sponsored by J. A. Watson, 409 Washington St., distributors in Greenville and vicinity of paint, varnishes, Murexco, Uticac and all other products manufactured by Benjamin Moore & Co.

Betty Moore will give her lecture at the Woman's Club house, Third and Greene street, on Thursday, May 26, at 3:30 p. m.

DUEL FAILS TO SETTLE THEIR QUARREL

Epees clashed in a Paris, France, garden as Dramatists Edouard Bourdet (right) and Henry Bernstein followed up public letters a bout each other by meeting on the field of honor—but the duelists were angrier than ever when the fight was ended. This radiophoto shows the combatants after Bourdet was stabbed in the right arm and the fight was stopped by the director of combat (back to camera). The four-minute duel over, Bernstein stalked away while Bourdet declared, "This is only a theoretical duel." Unreconciled, they did not shake hands.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Unscrupulous Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has aroused Quannomet, is murdered by a left handed blow from her sister's knife. Pam Frye appeals to Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, telling him she found $50,000 worth of ambergris which Marina tried to claim, and hid it after discovering the murder. Pam leaves Asey's house because an unknown person, who smokes Turkish tobacco, is trailing her to learn the whereabouts of the ambergris. Asey discovers that agreeable Tim Carr, a boarder at the Frye's Octagon House, is left handed, smokes Turkish tobacco, and hated Marina in New York, wealthy Roddy Strutt smashed a new plane in the square, and gobby Nettie Hobbs swears Pam is the murderer.

Chapter 15

Nettie's Two Visitors

"YOU lie!" the woman said angrily.

"I lie? You mean, you lie!" Nettie embarked on a shrill tirade.

"So," Asey said softly. "So!"

He put down his paint cans and looked critically at the ell.

Its original brown had faded through the years to a particularly unpleasant shade of greyish-red, with which Asey was not prepared to cope. But whoever owned the building, Asey decided, should be glad to have anyone touch up those bare spots.

Before Nettie finished her speech, Asey was standing on an empty packing case just beyond the window, energetically painting the ell with his nice green paint.

"Are you quite through?" the woman asked rather wearily. "I should think you would be. Now, before you get second wind, let me sum things up. I've appealed to your family pride. After all, you're a relation of Pam's. I've appealed to your common decency. I've appealed to everything anyone can appeal to, and you're adamant. Now, I'm going to point out several items in the first place, if you were actually in any position to view this murder—you really were in, or near, or outside the garage last night, and if you didn't stop Pam from killing Marina—does it occur to you that you're an accessory after the fact?"

"How did I know she was going to? I just followed her—"

"So you're following her now are you?" the woman interrupted. "In the original version, you simply sat in Octagon House and peered through the window and saw her run toward Lorne's garage. Little item there, by the way. The only window from which you might possibly have seen in that direction, from the living room, is that awful thing of colored purple glass. And no one ever saw through that. Did that occur to you, Nettie? Because the police are shortly going to have it pointed out to them."

"You're trying to shield a murderer!" Nettie yelled. "That's what I wouldn't wonder if you weren't hiding Pam Frye! And what if I am a cousin of hers? I'm only a fifth cousin!"

"Oyster Bay," Asey murmured. "And besides," Nettie went on. "I have a higher duty, I have. It's my duty to expose a murderer, even if she is a relation! Some laws is higher than others. Blood may be thicker than water—"

"But not when you can pan gold out of the water? Isn't that it, Nettie? Oh, how you must have counted on marrying Aaron Frye!"

Whoever this woman was, Asey thought, she was playing Nettie like a banjo.

"What about you?" Nettie returned. "Didn't you expect to marry Jack Lorne, until Marina took him away from you? Didn't you want to paint that mural in the post office, Peggy Boone?"

Boone, Asey thought, Pam had said something about modeling for someone named Boone.

'You Vindictive Thing!'

"OF course I wanted to paint that mural, Nettie. So did several hundred other people. But you're wandering from the point again. The point is, you didn't see Pam Frye last night, because you didn't even look out of the window; or if you looked out of the regular windows, you couldn't possibly have seen the Lorne garage. Or if you looked out of the purple glass window, you just plain couldn't have seen, that's the point. You suspected nothing at the time, you suspected nothing when you left. By sheer chance you left your pocketbook—and it's the consensus that you never forgot your pocketbook before. You usually have it gripped tightly to your capacious bosom. And when you realized what you'd popped into, you saw your chance to take a whack at Pam, and then you realized the gold in them thar hills. All right, Nettie. But you've got your last nugget."

"What do you mean? Where are you going?" Nettie sounded more annoyed than alarmed. As Jennie Mayo had remarked that morning, there was nothing Nettie enjoyed much more than a fight.

"I'm going, my little pickle lime, to the cops. And to see some reporters I know. You actually don't know a single thing about this murder, and very shortly the world will think about this murder, and very shortly the world will know just what sort of filthy hoax you are. Whom the press makes, they can also break. I thought even the stupidest of fools had figured that out. And you, Nettie, are going to be broken. And I'm going to wield the first axe—"

"You vindictive thing, you!"

"Yes, vindictive is the word for Peggy," came the prompt retort. "I'm one of the most viciously and violently vindictive people I happen to know. And I happen also to cherish Pam Frye. And for two cents I'd slap out your teeth and hums heavily on them. Goodbye!"

"Goodbye yourself!" Nettie yelled. "And you wait till I tell the reporters what you've said and how you've threatened me! Threatened! Wait'll they hear that, and then see how much good your lies'll do to shield Pam Frye!"

When Peggy Boone came out to the yard, Asey was innocently stirring paint in the far corner.

"So she's having the store beautified, is she?" Peggy Boone's cheeks were flaming and her eyes shot sparks. "Beautified by the application of a coat of paint. That's the way the News will report it this week. Our esteemed citizen Nettie Hobbs, alias the Pickle Lime Lady, is beautifying her store by the application of a coat of paint! It sickens me!"

"Wa-e-l," Asey rather overdid his Cape drawl, "it needs paint."

"So does my house, and so, probably, does yours. But we don't yap packs of lies to the newspapers to get it done!"

"You seem sort of sore."

"Sore? Do you think you ever saw a mad woman? Well, the maddest woman you ever knew was a cooing dove compared to me. I could kill that stinker!"

'Keep Me Out Of It'

Asey felt for his pipe, but that you were actually in any position along with his driving license. Feeling a little thwarted he sat down and considered.

No appeals to Nettie Hobbs were going to get anyone anywhere, he decided. Peggy Boone might point out the discrepancies in Nettie's story till the cows came home. But Nettie had her story in first. And Hanson would take as little notice of the window item as he had taken of Dr. Cummings' point about the left handedness.

He personally might go in and see what he could do, but Peggy Boone had deftly and thoroughly covered every angle he could think of. Unless he were to go in and drive his guns at Nettie, which would give her the unsurpassed opportunity to call for the press, and display Asey Mayo in the very act of intimidating a star witness.

In brief, Asey thought it might be simpler to move Gibraltar than to sway Nettie Hobbs at that point.

He picked up his brushes and his paint cans. But before he left, another visitor dropped in.

"Why, Mis-ter Strutt!" Nettie said, neatly identifying her caller. "Mis-ter Strutt! Were you hurt last night when your plane crashed?"

"Just banged a bit that's all. The other fellow took the beating. He's got a broken leg and things. Look, you're all mixed up in this business of Marina, aren't you? It can happen, and such?"

"I was right on the scene," Nettie said. "Right on the scene. Do you want to read about it? Here are the papers, right here, and—"

"I've read 'em," Roddy Strutt said. "That's just it, you know. You've been pretty decent about me, and I want to do the right thing. Always thought you were a good sort, and all. Look, will this be all right? More where it came from, if it isn't."

"Oh, oh!" Nettie squealed. "Ain't it enough?"

"Oh, but it's—why yes," Nettie's voice changed suddenly. Realizing, no doubt, Asey thought, that there was more gold in the hills than she had ever dreamed of. "Why, yes, I guess so."

"All I can spare right now," Roddy said. "But you know me. I make things right. Just you keep up your story and keep me out of it, that's all. Well, so long."

"So long," Nettie said.

"Oh—if anyone gets curious about the check," Roddy hesitated, "just you say it's for your pasture that I want for a landing field. I can give you cash—"

"This'll be all right," Nettie said. "Goodbye, Mr. Strutt."

A door banged.

"Well," he heard Nettie's dazed murmur. "Well, well. Keep you out of it? I should say I would!"

Asey nodded. He guessed so, too. Picking up the can of green paint, he mounted the packing box again. A little beautification, he felt, was a small price to pay for the enlightening details that were being waffled out of that ell room. (Continued, 11th, Phoebe Atwood Taylor)

Each judge is provided by the government with an extensive law library. When Justice Sutherland retired he turned his over to Justice Reed, newest appointee. Retiring Justice Van Devanter kept his and probably has used it officially. He acted as trial judge recently in a New York federal court.

It Wasn't War Paint

One development of the President's recent southern fishing trip was the Admiral Farragut's old flagship Hartford got a much needed coat of paint. For years it has floated disconsolately in the navy yard harbor at Charleston, S. C., and when the President spotted it he commented to Admiral Allen, in charge at Charleston, that the old boat looked pretty raty. The admiral was chagrined.

Reports from the scene indicated that South Carolinians were not especially upset at seeing the old ship fallen into disrepair. Hadn't it helped deal the death blow to the Confederate navy in Mobile Bay, Aug. 5, 1864; remember Farragut's famous "Damn the torpedoes. Go ahead!"

But when President Roosevelt sailed back into Charleston harbor after fishing a few days in the Caribbean the old Hartford had a new coat of paint.

Read But Not Approved

Congressmen who would like to see Secretary Ickes in charge of spending the proposed pump-priming money seem to have their own way of talking it up. Ever since the issue developed as to whether Ickes or somebody else would spend the new pump-priming money, the Congressional Record has been spotted with tabulations of PWA projects approved but needing money to get started.

Presumably they would share in the primary money — if Ickes should be chosen to spend it. In three random copies of the Record we spotted tabulations of such approved projects in Florida, Rhode Island, Indiana, Arkansas, Montana, Louisiana, Alabama, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Arizona and Idaho.

Brandeis, Stone, Van Devanter and the others left the seats unoccupied, the thick rugs unrolled and the shelves unbooked.

The new members, Justices Black and Reed, used their new quarters bringing the total occupancy to four full time and one part time. Four chambers, gor-

TO REPRESENT THEIR STATES RHODODENDRON FETE

The annual Rhododendron Festival at Asheville, N. C., June 12-19 promises to be a gala affair, and adding not a little to the festivities will be these three fair representatives from Southern States. At left is Elizabeth Mathis, 19, of Americus, Ga., who has been chosen to represent her state as Georgia's "Cherokee Rose." Center: Virginia Tatum, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Tatum of Raleigh, is North Carolina's choice for official state sponsor. She is a senior at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Representing Mississippi will be Mary Lucille Ward (right) who makes her home in Ellisville, Miss.

4-MINUTE DUEL, BOTH STILL ANGRY

When playwright Edouard Bourdet (left) publicly rebuked playwright Henry Bernstein (right) for withdrawing a play from rehearsals, the two Frenchmen got into such a furious quarrel that nothing would settle it but the field of honor. Yesterday the two men fought at sword points for four minutes and came off the field angrier than ever. Bernstein stabbed Bourdet in the arm with his needle-pointed epee, but the injury was slight. Neither duelist shook hands. In 192 Bourdet's "The Captive" provoked a police drive on reputed immoral plays in New York City.

Washington — In time the Supreme Court justices will occupy the new $11,000,000 Supreme Court building.

The court began holding its formal sessions in the new court room about two years ago and performed there its famed liberal change of front. But most of the judges refused to occupy their chambers.

For long years while they "fit and bled" in the old capital building they had such poor private chambers that the judges took their libraries and secretaries and went home, doing all their research there, as well as drafting their opinions.

When they moved into the new building only Butler and Roberts of the "old" court.

of the "old" court made regular use of their chambers. The others used the working at home, continuing on. Chief Justice Hughes sometimes spent an hour or so in his new offices. Peace and harmony within the ranks of those who steer our good ship—is there peace and harmony within the souls of those who stand by waiting for the ship to go in pieces? "Who will stay the wreck?" "Peace, peace, they cry, when there is no peace."

Is there not one to dissent from the evils of the Primary; the abomination of the so-called Alcoholic Beverage Control; the increasing number of homicides on our most expensive highways; the extravagant overhead cost of the Social Security Administration; the most pitiable returns for the millions spent on our public schools; and last but not least, will no one protest against the juggernaut, disguised as a most beneficent measure known as "Crop Control," which the people have voted on themselves?

"An alarmist," you say; well, it is high time for someone to be alarmed when we see daily these abuses put upon an unsuspecting people who seem to forget that duty and responsibility rest upon every man and woman in the county and state.

MRS. CHARLES MCARTHUR, Greenville, N. C.

Governor's Style Cramped.—The convention prevented the Governor from maintaining his usual average of a speech a day which in his case seems to do as well as an apple in the matter of scaring off the doctors. He did, however, get a chance to dash down to Beaufort early in the week and deliver a commencement address.

Supreme Court in Recess.—Justices of the Supreme Court took the week off from oral arguments, devoting it to study of cases already heard and preparation of decisions. This week there are no less than five capital cases set for hearing. On Wednesday the court will hand down decisions of Bill Payne and Wash Turner. Tar Heel's Bad Men Nos. 1 and 2, under sentence of death for the murder of Highway Patrolman Russell Penn.

Senatorial Candidates Vie for Honors. Both candidates for the U. S. Senate seat—incumbent Robert R. Reynolds and Congressman F. W. Hancock were on hand for the convention.

Applause at a convention and display of badges and insignia may not count in the ballot boxes on June 4, but if they are any indication of the result, Senator Reynolds is good as "home free." There was unanimous agreement among scribbles that the convention had an overwhelming pro-Reynolds atmosphere.

The three divorces granted were: Hubert L. Pinner vs Mae Estelle Pinner; Mary Bryan Griffin vs Harry Griffin, both white, and William Moore vs Sue Lang Moore, colored.

Judge Grady this afternoon granted one more divorce, to Pauline Dail vs Frank Dail, continued all cases scheduled for this and next week, and left for his home.

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 23.—The State Board of Health has just loosed a bit of publicity which isn't going to put it in the good graces of Charlotte's Ham Jones who, it is reported, is making Major A. L. Bulwinkle's political life miserable.

Referring to passage of the La-Follette-Bulwinkle bill making possible a strong campaign against syphilis, the release quotes Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer: "I consider this the greatest piece of public health legislation ever enacted, and North Carolina should be proud of the successful efforts of Major A. L. Bulwinkle, veteran Congressman from the Tenth District. From the moment the movement was launched, Major Bulwinkle played a masterful hand and I believe this achievement of his will constitute an important page in the history of war on the most insidious disease ever known to mankind."

Durham's Victor S. Bryant, chairman of the Finance Committee in the House last time and candidate for the Speakership in 1939, talked quite optimistically of his chances while here for the state convention.

Geography is his chief handicap, as the west had the Speaker's post last time, and while the rotation tradition isn't as firmly established relative to the gavel wielding as it is with regard to some other offices, it is still quite seriously regarded in many quarters.

Both Mr. Brant's announced opponents—Libby Ward and Bill Fenner—come from the East, which section claims the right to the post this time. It may be, however, that the duplication of candidates from the East will enable the Durham representative to slip into the seat.

This correspondent has received complaints from several sources that he has given Senator Robert R. Reynolds much more publicity than has been the share of the Reynolds opponent, Congressman Frank W. Hancock.

It has been noted that the same complaints are being received by other political columns.

The answer is obvious—Bob Reynolds is unsurpassed as a maker of publicity for himself, he's a three-alarm fire, a five-star final in the matter of doing and saying things that make good reading.

The same kind of complaining was noticeable during the 1938 gubernatorial campaign. Then the wall from both Hoey and Graham headquarters was that Dr. McDonald was getting all the publicity and newspaper space.

The Winston-Salem man possesses the same flair as "Our Bob." Most writers and papers would gladly have featured either Clyde Roark or Sandy in preference to Ralph, but these admirable characters just didn't have the publicity "It" so vividly evident in the Forsyth professor and psychologist.

If it's any consolation to the Hancock supporters, they are cited to the fact that McDonald got the publicity, Hoey the votes.

Wilmington's Mayor Thomas E. Cooper isn't letting himself be crowded out of the public prints for any length of time. He's now engaged in having an electrical survey of his city made with a view to determining the feasibility of a municipal plant and distribution system.

Which synchronizes with the passing of dividend on preferred stock by the Tide Water Power Company.

Greenies Split Series With Aces; Billies Here Tomorrow

ERRORS CAUSE SUNDAY'S LOSS

Delaney Loses Heartbreaker as Locals Make Four Miscues in Ninth; Greenies Won Saturday's Tilt 5-4.

Errors on the part of the Greenies in the last half of the contest with in the last half inning of the contest with Ayden here yesterday afternoon marred one of the prettiest games played at Third Street park this season and kept John Delaney from marking up a well-earned victory.

The Aces went into the last half of the final frame with Greenies leading 2-0, and scored three runs, none of them earned, to win the game and end the two-game series after Greenville had won in Ayden.

Monday—Tarboro at Greenville
 Tuesday—Snow Hill at Greenville
 Wednesday—Greenville at Snow Hill
 Thursday—New Bern at Greenville
 Friday—Greenville at New Bern.

Saturday by a 5-4 margin. The Greenies scored their two in the seventh and prior to that time neither team had threatened seriously. It was a hurlers' duel between Herring and Delaney.

In the seventh Baker singled to start the Greenies off on a two-run spree. Joyner sacrificed Baker to second and the Greenville centerfielder went to third on a passed ball. Mullins' sacrifice fly then brought Baker home. Smith walked and came home on a triple by Miller, who was left on the bases with what would have proved the tying run.

The hectic ninth started with Bullock reaching first on an error by Mullins. Purcell was safe on a bad throw by Miller. Both runners advanced on Kravitz's sacrifice bunt placing men on second and third. Jirak singled to score both runners and knotted the count. Smith threw to second to catch Jirak who was attempting to steal, but no one was on the bag and the ball went into centerfield. Bad luck was still on the heels of the Greenies and the ball got away from Baker in centerfield and Jirak trotted home with what proved to be the winning run. Three ninth inning runs, all on one hit.

Kinston's Eagles Are Still On The Wing

New Bern, May 23.—Kinston's Eagles remained in a second-place tie with Goldsboro by defeating New Bern, 8-5, yesterday.

Averette, starting hurler for the Bears, didn't last long. He got by the first inning all right, but three hits—by Wyrostek, Southworth, and Patton—were mixed with a wild throw for two runs in the second, and then Wright doubled scoring Patton.

West, Stringfellow and Wyrostek hit successive singles in the third, and Price was called in to replace Averette. Southworth's infield out scored Stringfellow with the second run of the game.

Sid Stringfellow, who had walked to the fifth. He drew a walk to third on Southworth's single. Then Stringfellow and Southworth worked a double steal. Patton's single scored Southworth and Patton came home when Morris errored on Wright's single.

Knowledge batted in all the Bruin runs. He hit a homer with one on in the first; his single in the fifth scored Stith, who had doubled; his single in the seventh scored Price and Stith, each of whom had singled.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Kinston . . . 032 030 000—8 14 0
 New Bern . . . 200 100 020—5 10 3
 Batteries—Kinston: Nowak and West; New Bern: Averette, Price and Parrish.

Tarboro Makes Clean Sweep of Martin Tilts

Tarboro, May 23.—Tarboro's league-leading Snakes had an easy time with the Martins yesterday. The locals backed up Bernard Mooney's good hurling with a 15-hit attack, which produced a 15-2 victory.

Shortstop Bolly Myers with four hits for four tries and Catcher Bill Dink, with three for three, were Tarboro's leaders.

Ace Villipque and Steve Lakotas—with two hits each—accounted for half of the Martins' safeties. The Martins made five of their hits in their scoring innings. Three hits filled the bases in the second, and a walk to Marshall forced in a run. Stanley started the third with a double, moved up on an infield out, scored on Bowen's single.

Al Lehman stole home with the third run of Tarboro's eighth inning. He tripled to score Campbell and Thornton, who had hit singles. And then Al decided it would be a good stunt to steal home—and he did!

Score by innings: R. H. E. Tarboro . . . 011 000 000—15 18 0
 Martins . . . 001 000 000—2 10 3
 Batteries—Williamston: Wyr, Harper, Beard and Marshall; Tarboro: Mooney and Dink.

Gettel Finally Loses; Bugs Call His Hand

Snow Hill, May 23.—Clarence Roper's Godsboro Bugs called a halt to the victory march of Al Gettel. Snow Hill ace, and top hurler in the Coastal Plain League.

Gettel seeking his sixth victory, was opposed by Pete Kunis. Roly-poly Pete won, 3 to 2, and the first defeat of the season was marked on Gettel's record.

Daniels was the batting star for the Bugs. His three base hit in the third scored Jans, who had walked, and from, who had singled. Kepler's single then scored Daniels. A single by Daniels in the fifth tallied Jans on again via the free pass route.

The other Godsboro tally, made in the eighth, was scored by Daniels. He walked, Kepler singled, and Overton walked—with one out. Kunis struck out, but Dirman's fly to right scored Daniels.

The Billies made their best bid at the start. Shipway singled with two out in the first, advanced on a passed ball, scored on Charlie Gadd's single. Bistoff's double scored Gadd. Soufas then hit a line drive to center—and Watson made a spectacular catch.

Barring afternoon rains, the Greenville softball league will resume play this afternoon after having been idle for three days. Friday's games were rained out and the twilight players' schedule lists no games Saturday and Sunday.

Carolina Dairy-Post Office and Transportation-Nehi-Insurance are in a tie for the top position with four wins and no losses each, but the TNT crew will have an opportunity to pull away for a clear title to the lead this afternoon when the team meets Blount-Harvey at Third Street Park. The department store men will be no easy prey, however. In fact they have won as many games as the league leaders, but have one loss to pull their percentage down.

In the other games of the afternoon Furniture Dealers-Guaranty Bank will meet the Water and Light team at the college diamond.

L. S. U. Babe Ruth Gets Good Start
 Baton Rouge, La. — (AP) Tall Glendale Delafield, Louisiana State university baseball star, followed at least one footstep of the erstwhile Sultan of Swat—Babe Ruth. He gave up pitching to become a slugger.

Last year, as a moundsman on a fairly weak L.S.U. team, Glen hit 362.

This spring, he took over right field. In L.S.U.'s first five games he averaged 444, batting in six runs. In one game he hit two home runs.

3 HELL-DRIVERS ENTER WORLD'S FASTEST RACE

By JACK BEARDWOOD
 Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah (AP)
 —Some of the fastest autos man has devised will roar over the fastest race course of the world here in the coming three months. The world's high-speed automobile record of 311.42 miles per hour may be cracked.

If a new record is set, salt flat followers agree, it probably will be over the 320 m.p.h. mark—may reach 325 m.p.h.

Captain George E. T. Eyston of England, present record-holder, appears to have the best chance of breaking his own mark.

The diffident Englishman will be here during June with his gigantic "Thunderbolt," a mechanical monster that sped over this ancient lake bed last November at top speed of 319 m.p.h. "Thunderbolt," which broke down several times with a faulty clutch, has been repaired during the winter.

"Thunderbolt" no longer an untried racer, will be let "flat out" by Eyston. Arthur C. Pillsbury, American Automobile Association timer, declared last fall he thought "Thunderbolt" capable of hitting 325 m.p.h.

No matter what mark Eyston sets, two other racers will go after the record.

Captain George E. T. Eyston He'll Loose a Thunderbolt

John Cobb He'll Jockey a Radical Turtle

Ab Jenkins He'll Fly a Mile in a Flying Mile

Fastest "Tortoise"
 Chubby John Cobb, a London fur broker, who will be making his first attempt at the high-speed mark, although he is a well-established distance driver, will invade the flats in August with a radically built, turtle-shaped creation that he has declared might hit 350 m.p.h.

Ab Jenkins, America's only high-speed driver, is hurrying completion of a "Flying Mile" car in Indianapolis for a crack at Eyston's record. The native Utahian will be on the flats during July.

Both Eyston and Jenkins also will attempt to break world distance marks in smaller cars capable of hitting an average speed of 160 m.p.h. for 48 consecutive hours.

Tire Trouble
 Although the flats are ideal for high-speed racing because the salt keeps tires relatively cool and lessens dangers of disastrous blowouts, the maximum speed of automobiles is limited by tire construction.

Engineers have developed motors and steamlining to a point where 400 m.p.h. would be possible but tires won't stand the terrific gaff. The next move up high speed's ever-mounting ladder will rest with tire manufacturers.

Starting at one end of a 13-mile straightaway, the driver seeking the high speed record points his mechanical bullet down a broad, black line and guns it.

Halfway through the 13-mile track he hits the measured mile. It is his time on this one-mile stretch that counts. The moment he goes out of the mile he must begin braking for the end of the course, flying at him at the rate of a mile each 1-2 seconds.

Aside from having a good year pitching, Bill led his team in batting with a .419 average, with Ridenhour and Smith offering the most competition with .411 and .400.

During Bill's three years of college pitching he has pitched 277 games, won 23, and struck out 319 men. This feat has brought him offers from five big league clubs this year. But he has declined to except any of these until he has finished his college course.

Witnesses Don't See Much
 Race witnesses see very little—a tiny speck down the course, an almost invisible streak disappearing toward the horizon.

The car must pass through the measured mile in each direction within a one-hour time limit.

A.A.A. officials and race witnesses believe the cars—at least Eyston's tried "Thunderbolt"—can set the 320 m.p.h. record or better in two screaming runs.

THREE POSSIBLE LEGATEES

OF ADMINISTRATION NAMED

(Continued from page one) suspicion that the First District Congressman isn't even remotely interested in the governorship. Even if he doesn't eventually wind up as Comptroller General, as many believe he will, he's so well situated in the House with regard to seniority and influence that he is in line for the Speakership some day or for the chairmanship of any one of the more important committees. And again cautioning that the status quo is always subject to change without notice, Warren is in a commanding position to win the U. S. Senatorship in 1942 if he wants it. As of today he could swamp Bailey without half trying, which is not to say that will be the situation four years hence.

The case of Mr. Maxwell is quite different. The acknowledged master of the state's financial affairs has been in the service of North Carolina for forty years, twenty-eight of them in a full time capacity. He started as a clerk in the State Senate, went up to a minor position with the old Corporation Commission and has risen through sheer merit to his present post as boss of the all-important Revenue Department.

The true tip-off to his outstanding ability in his chosen field is the fact that in 1932 the rival who defeated him for the gubernatorial nomination kept him in office all through his administration. His independence was illustrated during the Morrison regime when he flatly contradicted his chief's statement that the state had a $5,000,000 surplus and then proved that instead there was an $8,000,000 deficit.

From the administration point of view he would seem to be completely "available." In the 1938 gubernatorial campaign his logical and factual on the tax policies of Dr. Ralph W. McDonald is regarded by many as the turning point of that over-heated battle of the Ins and the Antis. In the 1937 General Assembly he was commander-in-chief of the field forces which wrote a Revenue bill so identical with that desired by the Governor as to be indistinguishable.

The 1932 race showed he has vote getting ability, only 700 votes keeping him out of the second primary. His greatest handicap is a lack of appeal and handshaking ability possessed in such great gobs by Senator Bob Reynolds and Dick Fountain, for example.

The third trump, Mr. Broughton, is by no means as often in the public eye. One of the state's ablest attorneys he spends most of his time tending to his own business, which is large and important; although of recent months he hasn't overlooked a single opportunity to make a speech—a sure symptom of political aspirations.

Regular all the way, influential in legal and church circles, and unhandicapped by the enemies every office holder is bound to make, Mr. Broughton must be considered in any estimate of the situation.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Stocks attempted a mild rally in today's market, but met with sufficient resistance to render the move indecisive at the best.

A few steels, motors, coppers, utilities and specialties picked up small gains in the morning in dealings that were extremely slow. Some of these eventually gave ground and near the fourth hour quotations were well mixed.

It was one of the most sluggish sessions in the past four years. The ticker tape frequently stood still for a minute or so at a time. Transfers approximated 350,000 shares.

Judge Parker Speaks

At Finals of U. N. C.

Chapel Hill, May 23.—Federal Judge John J. Parker of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals will deliver the 143rd Commencement address at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill on June 7, it was announced today.

A distinguished University alumnus, and trustee, Judge Parker took his A. B. here in 1907, has law degree in 1908. The University conferred an honorary LL.D. degree upon him in 1937.

The baccalaureate sermon by Dr. W. Taliaferro Thompson of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, will open the finals Sunday, June 5, at 11 o'clock.

SEN. REYNOLDS CLUB SPEAKER

Urges America Keep Out Of Foreign Entanglements

Speaking on one of his pet subjects, U. S. Senator Robert R. Reynolds addressed members and guests of the Greenville Kiwanis club Saturday night on the necessity of this country remaining out of foreign wars.

The junior senator declared there was no possibility of this nation being attacked from the north and added that an attack from the south was not probable. He recalled that 400,000 United States citizens visited Mexico last year, spending millions of dollars and added that he did not believe Mexico would be so ungrateful as to follow the country to be used as a means for an invasion of the States by a foreign enemy.

Senator Reynolds, who came here from Fayetteville, where he had gone to make a speech following the Democratic convention in Raleigh last Thursday, described Greenville to beehive, saying that he had visited all 48 states in the union and not seen such activity as was evident here.

Continuing his talk on the evils of war, he discussed conflicts being waged in continents across the ocean and gave credence as the cause of the current wars. He declared that we must now allow ourselves to get involved in foreign entanglements, adding that the last war in which we participated should be a sufficient lesson. The experience, he said, already has cost us $67,000,000,000, and will ultimately cost us $100,000,000.

Regarding American investments in nations involved in war, Senator Reynolds said we have only four or five hundred million dollars invested in China, "and I would not give the life of one mother's for all of it."
