WOULD PLACE OBSERVERS ON CZECH BORDER

Britain Sounds Out Both Germany and Czechoslovakia

DECLARED IDEA STILL INDEFINITE

Germany, However, Understood Not To Be Unfavorable To Suggestion

London, May 26.—(AP)—Great Britain today sounded out both Germany and Czechoslovakia on a plan to send British observers to their troubled border as a means of lessening tension.

Germany was understood to be not unfavorable to the plan.

Authoritative sources disclosed William Strang, head of the Central European department of the Foreign Office, would report on the proposal after visiting British diplomats in Berlin and Prague.

The observer idea was said still to be indefinite. It was assumed, however, it would entail unofficial "umpires" who would give Britain unbiased reports of border incidents and help her in the role of peace-maker.

Meanwhile Prague reported hard-headed military preparation for Czechoslovakia's defense continued without respite.

Troops mobilized for defense of the German frontier remained in the border region. It seemed unlikely that the customary military parade would be held this year on the President's birthday — President Eduard Beneš will be 54 on Saturday — because the men under arms had more pressing assignments.

The high command of the civil air defense issued a reminder to house-holders to test their "black-out" equipment to make sure that they really were prepared for emergency.

Another reminder of the undercurrent of anxiety lest Adolf Hitler, of Germany, try to bring under his domination the nations 3,500,000 German minority, was an announcement that gas masks for public employees could be paid for on the installment plan.

Fletcher Can Say "I Told You So"

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, May 26.—Major A. L. Fletcher, commissioner of labor, is passing up one of the best chances on record to say "I told you so," as Wilmington authorities prepare to try R. J. Newell, late sponsor of the North Carolina Labor Journal, on false pretense charges.

So far the good Major has restrained the very natural inclination to do a bit of bragging about his keenness in knowing a racket when he sees one. He is just sitting back and holding in the last, long laugh on the fellow who has bilked eminent North Carolina industrialists out of perfectly good dollars for advertisements in his alleged "labor" sheet.

The incident is evidence tending to show there is more than a suspicion of truth in the impression that the so-called "big" men of industry are veritable babes in the woods in the rough and tumble game of politics.

Here's a brief resume of the current episode:
Some months ago Newell came into the state with something of a blare of trumpets. He proposed to publish a "labor" paper which "upholds the principles of the American Federation of Labor," but he wasn't going to sell it to subscribers. He was going to get money to distribute the paper from the big employers.

As soon as he outlined the plan to the Labor Commissioner, Major Fletcher tagged it a racket pure and simple, a scheme to get money out of the employers under the subterfuge of publishing an anti-C.I.O. journal. Newell was warned as were the industrialists, he would likely run afoul of the Wagner Labor Law if organized distribution of this propaganda were conducted.

Nevertheless at least two issues of the so-called paper—a scurrilous rag if there ever was one—were printed before American Federation of Labor officials (whose "principles" he proclaimed he was upholding), caused his arrest in Wilmington on charges of soliciting ads under the pretense that he was to publish an "official" book for the State Federation meetings at Wilmington in August.

So the bottom obviously has fallen out of the Newell scheme, and the employers who advertised in his journal have gained no credit for themselves or their account.

Evidence Against Sheriff Expected Be Completed By End of Today's Session

JUDGE APPROVES BILL OF $412 FOR AUDITORS

Judge Cowper this afternoon approved payment of $412.91 by the county to the firm of Williams and Wall, auditors, for additional services in connection with the Whitehurst ouster case, by Frank P. Wall and L. R. Ausbun covering the 11 days the two were here as witnesses in the case.

The bill rendered included $20 per day for Wall's services, $15 per day for Ausbun's services, $51.55 for room and board and $9.36 traveling expenses, totaling $445.91. Upon Wall's statement to the effect that his own time was at a special rate of $20 per day instead of the usual $25 the judge requested that Ausbun's time be reduced to $12 per day and approved the bill after the reduction had been made.

While on the stand earlier in the hearing of the case, Wall had testified that his concern had received $3,700 from the county for making audits upon a portion of which the case against the sheriff is based.

When the bill was presented this afternoon the question of the county's liability in view of the fact that the case was brought by the commissioners as individual citizens was raised, but Judge Cowper expressed the opinion that apparently it was brought for the public benefit and that the bill would be paid by the county.

Prosecution Plans To Rest Upon Completion of Testimony of D. R. Hollowell, Auditor, Regarded As One of Most Significant Witnesses Put on by Petitioners

Cross examination of D. R. Hollowell, auditor, last and considered most important prosecution witness in the Sheriff Whitehurst ouster proceedings, is scheduled to be completed during this afternoon, indicating that counsel for the petitioners will rest their case before court recesses for the day.

Hollowell began his direct testimony Tuesday morning and his cross examination was begun yesterday afternoon. The witness testified concerning audits of the affairs of the sheriff's office for a period from January 27, 1933, to March 22, 1938 made from the records of the office and for prior periods made from such information as could be obtained from records of the sheriff's bank account. The testimony charged the sheriff with failure to pay over to the county or other persons sums totaling approximately $1,200 to $1,300 as disclosed by the sheriff fees or trust fund records and yet the audit revealed an overdraft of $32.82 in the account. Disbursements of the account, the witness said, revealed diversion of funds to the sheriff's own personal use. Hollowell also testified that covering the sheriff's entire term of office his books and records had been kept in a "careless and negligent" manner and that numerous items of transactions of the office appeared nowhere on the sheriff's records.

The cross examination of the witness dealt with individual items of the audits but the answers made no material change in his direct testimony.

Review of Case
The ouster case, longest hearing on record in this county, got under way before Judge G. Vernon Comper on Monday May 19, when the ouster petition brought by individual members of the County Board of Commissioners and the Sheriff's answer to same were read to the court. The petition charged the sheriff with bribery, failure or refusal to arrest violators of the prohibition laws, warning bootleggers of the presence of Federal enforcement officers in this county, failure or refusal to turn over to the county certain fees of his office that belonged to the county, and maladministration of the affairs of his office.

The sheriff's answer denied the charges of the petition in their entirety and branded them as "malicious and untrue."

REPORTS GOOD TOBACCO CROP

Find Excellent Early Stand in Eastern Carolina

Raleigh, May 26.—Excellent stands of unusually early tobacco throughout Eastern North Carolina were reported today by Dr. Luther Shaw, extension plant pathologist at State College.

County agents and farmers have been of the opinion that blue mold, serious disease of tobacco seedlings, was generally advantageous this year in holding back the development of plants in the beds.

Even with the mold, most growers pulled their plants from the beds and set them in the field before the normal date of transplanting, Dr. Shaw declared.

Lack of extremely cold weather last winter and an early spring caused rapid growth of the tobacco seedlings and resulted in large, well-rooted plants by transplanting time.

Dr. Shaw also pointed out that the recent period of cool, rainy weather has stunted cotton over most of the producing areas.

Damping-off, or "sore shin" has been more prevalent and more serious this year in cotton fields planted with untreated seed than it has been for several years.

However, the plant pathologist explained that good stands and only a small amount of damping-off were observed in fields planted with treated seed.

In some cases, growers who planted treated seed have poor stands because of early rains which packed the soil to the extent that it was mechanically difficult for the cotton to emerge.

ARMY SECURES BETTER HOLD IN JAP CABINET

Foreign, War and Finance Ministers Resign

GENERAL HEADS WAR DEPARTMENT

Authorities Express Belief Shakeup Will Mean Better Prosecution of China War

Tokyo, May 26.—(AP)—Japan's Foreign, War, and Finance Ministers left the cabinet today in a drastic reorganization by which the army appeared to have won a stronger grip on the government, with the likelihood that there likely now will be made a new and stronger effort to end the China conflict with quick victory.

The departing ministers were Koki Hirota, Foreign Minister, General Gen Sugiyama, war, O. Kaya, finance.

Lieut. General Itagaki, who has been on the China front, becomes War Minister. H. Ikeda becomes Minister of Finance and the new finance minister is General K. Ugaki.

Authorities said the shake-up strengthened the government and expressed belief it would mean more vigorous prosecution of the war in China. It was believed to be the result of settlement of a long-drawn, behind-the-scenes argument as to whether to pursue General Kiang Kai-Shek and his Chinese Government further into the interior in favor of continued pursuit.

Shanghai reported meanwhile Japanese had announced they had established bases for frontal attacks against the important Lung-hai railway cities of Kweichow and Kai-feng.

This was accomplished by complete occupation and the mopping-up of areas a point 33 miles east of Kweichow, and another point 26 miles east of Kai-feng, the Japanese said.

FDR To Decide On Tax Revision Bill

Washington, May 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, the White House said today, will announce his action on the tax revision bill at 2 p. m. (EST) tomorrow during the course of his address at the Arthur Dale, West Va., resettlement project.

The Chief Executive has until midnight tomorrow night to make known his decision on whether he has signed or vetoed the bill.

OPEN PROBE OF PLANE CRASH

Federal Board of Inquiry Seeks to Determine Cause

Cleveland, O., May 26.—(AP)—A Federal board of inquiry moved today to determine why a United Airlines transport plane crashed into a wooded ravine within sight of Cleveland airport in a flaming wreckage, a funeral pyre for the 10 persons aboard.

Investigators were especially interested in statements from witnesses that the sleeper-type, all-metal Douglas airliner was airborne before it plunged earthward out of a clear sky.

Secretary of Commerce Roper appointed B. M. Jacobs, assistant director of the Air Commerce Bureau, chairman of the board, assisted by George W. West, chief of the Bureau's enforcement division, and Philip Salzman of Newark, N. J., airlines maintenance inspector.

D. Mulligan, Air Commerce Bureau chief, said at Washington, "the factor about this accident that concerns us is the report that the plane was observed on fire in the air. If this is true the accident probably was caused by power plant failure."

United Airlines President W. A. Patterson said after he and several aides inspected the charred and twisted debris that evidence showed "quite conclusively" that neither engine was functioning at the moment of impact.

Edward Lear, whose "Book of Nonsense" was published in 1846, was the most famous composer of limericks.

House Told U.S.-German Had Urged Assassination Of President Roosevelt

CZECH-GERMAN TENSION POINT

Uniformed members of a German investigating commission are shown in this radiophoto as they inspected a bridge linking Germany and Czechoslovakia over the river Thaya at Berchtesgaden which Czech soldiers tried unsuccessfully to blow up. That accentuated ill feeling between the two countries but Foreign Minister Krefta of Czechoslovakia eased the situation somewhat by apologizing for the incident.

THREAT MADE IN NAZI CAMP

Rep. Dies (D.-Tex.) Understood By Reporters to Have Said Member of Congress Had Made Speech Urging Assassination of President, But Later Corrects to Member of Bund

Washington, May 26.—(AP)—Representative Dies (D.-Tex.), advised the House today he had information that a member of the German-American Bund, in a speech at one of the main Nazi camps in this country, had advocated assassination of President Roosevelt.

Reporters in the press gallery understood Dies to say a member of Congress had made the speech and at first Dies confirmed that understanding in reply to a note sent to him on the House floor.

Later, however, he told newsmen he had stated a Bund member had urged assassination. He explained he had misread the note.

The Texan did not name the camp or amplify the charge.

He made it at the start of debate on his resolution to authorize an investigation by a seven-man House committee of the extent, character and objectives of the German propaganda in the United States.

Dies said he was not an alarmist, but he had had "smoking" information supplied to him about the extent of a Nazi movement in this country.

Meanwhile, David Lilienthal, TVA director, testified before a congressional committee that Arthur E. Morgan, former TVA chairman, tried to "defeat and obstruct the authority" in litigation involving its constitutional. Lilienthal took the stand to answer charges made against him yesterday by Morgan.

Earlier H. A. Morgan, the other TVA director, told the 10-man investigating committee that Arthur Morgan conducted a "campaign of dissent and obstruction" to discredit the TVA program.

Presenting his testimony in a series of prepared statements, Lilienthal said the former chairman's efforts to obstruct the Authority took place in litigation before a special court in Chattanooga.

He added he would give details on the matter and "the conduct of Arthur Morgan in respect to the so-called Berry Marble claim."

Dr. Freeman and Miss Freeman were brought to a Fayetteville hospital after their northbound car and a south-bound truck collided on a slippery highway.

SAYS REPORT FALSE

J. O. Morton of Morton's bakery declared today that reports reaching him to the effect that his firm distributed sandwiches in Washington from which 30 people became ill with pneumonia, were absolutely without foundation.

"In fact," declared Mr. Morton, "we do not even distribute sandwiches in Washington."

Rebel Airport In Mexico Bombed

Mexico City, May 26.—(AP)—The Mexican government today said its planes raided and destroyed a Cedralista rebel airport a few hours after War Minister Tamacho had declared rebel planes, some of them flown by United States pilots, had bombed several small towns occupied by loyal Federals.

Bombing ships raised the rebel airport in San Luis Potosi state yesterday, the government's press bureau announced, blasting and firing gasoline tanks and scattering the party guarding the field.

From Tampico came word that a swift plane swooped low over that port and let fall a shower of leaflets propagandizing the cause of General S. Cedillo, the rebel chieftain. Other developments included the use and the other a military plane.

Loyalists Losses Estimated at 15,000 in Four Days

Hendaye, France, May 26.—(AP) Swift insurgent reinforcements of the Catalan front threatened today to halt the government's most ambitious offensive in five months.

Insurgent commanders, reporting Government losses estimated as high as 15,000 men in four days, said Barcelona troops had abandoned their attack except at Tremp in the center of the 60 mile line.

Here, however, government communications listed two advance positions captured in yesterday's heavy fighting. These were a hermitage and a mountain overlooking the artificial lake and power plant which once supplied electricity to much of Catalonia's war industry.

Alicante, Spain, reports said mean time resources dug steadily in the ruins of Alicante's scattered market place, extricating victims of yesterday's most disastrous single air bombardment of the civil war.

At least 250 persons were killed and 10,000 injured when six huge insurgent bombing planes circled suddenly in the sky and dropped their missiles squarely in the market place where hundreds of women waited to buy food.

The thundering detonations toppled towering masonry into dugouts to which men women and children had crowded for refuge.

Many bodies were tangled and torn to bits.

Keeping it in harmony as to color and design, the atmosphere of charm, good taste and fitness.

In furnishing any house successfully there are two outstanding goals for which we strive, beauty and livability. Homes in the early American and Colonial feeling were discussed in a very interesting manner. The club was very grateful to Mrs. Northrop for her enlightening talk. The items of business were discussed, after which a very tempting salad course was served by the hostess, Mrs. Brown, assisted by her niece, Miss Brown.—Reported.

The following announcement will be of interest to many in this section and elsewhere:

Mr. and Mrs. Heber A. Hart announce the marriage of their daughter Jessie Kathleen to Mr. Carey B. Harris on Tuesday, the twenty-fourth of May.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-eight Kinston, North Carolina.

On Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, the marriage of Miss Jessie Kathleen Hart of Grifton, Carey B. Garris of Ayden, was solemnized in the Presbyterian manse in Kinston. The vows were spoken before the Rev. Harold J. Dudley, the pastor of the church, in the presence of only close friends.

For her nuptials the bride wore a becoming costume of navy alpaca made with a finger-tip lace fastening at the neck with two large buttons; at the shoulders were touches of pastel embroidery. Her off-the-face hat was of Italian Milan of the same shade of blue; navy accessories completed the costume. She wore a shoulder corsage of sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Garris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heber A. Hart and is an attractive blonde. She is a graduate of the Grifton high school and attended Atlantic Christian College at Wilson.

Mr. Garris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Garris of Ayden. He attended school at Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga., and King's Business College, Raleigh. He is engaged in farming. Immediately after the ceremony, the couple left for a trip through Western Carolina and Virginia. They will be at home after the first of June in their new home near Ayden.

P. T. A. Presents Annual Report.
The meeting of the West Greenville Parent-Teacher Association held on Wednesday, May 18, closed its thirteenth consecutive year of active organization, and now that we have reached the final of our program for 1937-38, we feel that it has been the most successful in our history. Not that we have accomplished any outstanding undertaking in the way of material consideration, but we are happy to realize that a greater number of our patrons are more "parent-teacher conscious" than at any time previous. This fact has been well demonstrated by the splendid attendance at our regular meetings and our purpose has been much encouraged by interest of outside friends. We have appreciated the presence of friends from other sections in some of our meetings and especially the large number that attended the mass meeting held in our auditorium on the evening of April first.

We have been able this past term to develop our program in a more organized form, due to the fact that our membership joined the National and State Conference of P. T. A.'s and also subscribed to the Parent-Teacher magazine early in the term. Our organization was among other civic organizations to sponsor the "Better Movie Movement," and has also been regularly represented in the Council for Peace. Our monthly meetings have been most interesting, and have been featured by timely talks or entertainment by the student body. In connection with this, we wish to extend our appreciation to Miss Davis of the Welfare Department who met with us in January and talked on "Seeing the World as the Child Sees It;" to Miss Naomi Newell of the college faculty who gave us a very complete account of the Book Fair held in New York City; to Miss Jessie Schnopp, of the high school Home Economics department, who was in our last meeting and outlined a vacation program for children; to the local chapter of U. D. C., for the picture of General Robert E. Lee presented our school; to our Mayor, Mr. Blount, who has been in some of our meetings, and to our Superintendent, Mr. Rose, who has ever given us his support and encouragement in our P. T. A. work. Also to the members of the West Greenville faculty, for their splendid cooperation in any project the P. T. A. has endeavored to undertake, and under whose supervision the student body has been able to present the splendid programs as entertainment features in our P. T. A. meetings.

The school is proud to acknowledge that the outstanding project undertaken for the term, is now complete and can be displayed in the way of a library, which would reflect credit on any school. Our welfare committee has rendered unusual service and through the co-operation of Mr. Rose has furnished milk for several months to fifteen children. The student body has also made their usual contribution to welfare purposes in connection with their annual Thanksgiving program. Through the recommendation of P. T. A. glasses have been fitted and supplied for needy cases.

While we have sponsored no definite feature for financial security, we have been supported by free-will offerings made at our regular meetings, and profits derived from magician and dog shows and photographic enterprises.

And now that we have reached the end of another term, we are not discouraged because we have no new auditorium, no new playground equipment and other things we have hoped for, and which are quite necessary. On the contrary, we are greatly encouraged by the fact that the adult population of our town seem to be more interested in child education than at any previous time, and we feel that if any group of adults become sufficiently interested, material equipment will follow; and feeling that we have possibly played a small part in creating this interest in the child-life of our vicinity, is a reward worthy of every effort we have contributed to thirteen years of active organized work.—Reported.

Talk Of State Insurance On All School Buildings

Raleigh, May 26—Efforts to have the state take over the business of insuring North Carolina school buildings and school property are likely to be revived in the 1939 General Assembly, but even its most enthusiastic backers are not hopeful of success. State Senator Henry Ingram of Randolph, told this bureau's correspondent recently.

Senator Ingram sponsored such a measure in the 1937 Senate, but it was coldly received and never emerged from a committee. The Randolph law maker will not be back in 1939, under a rotation agreement, but he is hopeful another try will be made.

The contention of Senator Ingram and those who agree with him is that the state could save money by insuring its subdivisions, the counties, more or less the state to save these profits.

The system would be simple enough—the counties would have accurate appraisals made of their school buildings and other property and would pay into the State Insurance Department the same premium they are now paying to private companies. The department would pay fire losses just as any insurance company. That to start with. At the end of three years, Senator Ingram contends, there would be such a surplus that a revision of premium charges could be made, with the revision sharply downward.

He pointed out that the insurance companies are making big profits from the insuring of school property and that it would be possible for the state to save these profits.

Personal

Jesse Speight left this morning for a trip up the road. He will stop wherever he can find a bale of cotton.

G. J. Woodward returned Wednesday evening from camp in Raleigh. George says he lost 12 pounds while there.

Capt. Charlie Hancock of New Bern, spent last night here. He was for many years the popular conductor on the A. & N. C. Railroad. He is now canvassing for the Raleigh Post and will prove a valuable aid to that excellent paper.

Misses Bessie Harding, Bessie Patrick, Queenie McGowan and Laura Cox came home Wednesday evening from the N. & I. College at Greensboro.

Notices

The heavy rains have done damage to the streets and sidewalks. Farmers wanting tobacco sticks should read the advertisement of W. R. Parker, agent. More rain last night. Croquet sets have come out of winter quarters.

If anything it rained harder and longer Wednesday night than the night before.

Awfully Dark

There would be moonlight nights now but for the heavy clouds that have obscured the light. But the fact that the moon ought to be shining seems to be sufficient excuse for the street lamps not being lighted and people have to take to the mud in the darkness.

All Invited

The people of the surrounding country are cordially invited to attend the Pearson meeting in Greenville next week. The Star warehouse in which the meeting will be held, affords ample room and seats for all who come, while those who drive in can find convenient stables in which to put up their horses. Let all come and get the benefit of the meeting.

Ushers For The Meeting.

Suitable badges have been provided for the ushers and they will be expected to be at the services early to properly seat the congregation before the services begin.

its to its counties. Objections to the bill in the 1937 Senate came from many sources. The school authorities showed no enthusiasm. Insurance Commissioner, Dan Boney was completely hostile and the insurance lobby, one of the most powerful and well organized in the state, immediately screamed "competition of government with private enterprise" loud enough to make the well-known Welkin do plenty of ringing. The measure died peacefully. Any effort in 1939 probably will also.

SEES ADVANCE IN HOG PRICES

Market Upturn Predicted by Late Summer Months

Raleigh, May 26—Currently weak hog prices may be strengthened by late summer when an upturn in the market is expected. H. W. Taylor, extension swine specialist at State College, declared today.

However, Taylor said, the advance, which is likely to accompany the usual reduction in late summer marketings, will be limited by the weak consumer demands for meats. Any further declines that may develop in hog prices before the late summer is expected to be only moderate. This expectation is based on the likelihood of only a small seasonal increase in early summer marketings, the small storage stocks of pork and lard now on hand, and the drop in prices since early March.

Farmers are raising a larger number of pigs this year than last, Taylor said. The pig crop this spring probably has been larger than the crop raised during the same period in 1937.

"In view of prospects for relatively large feed supplies," the swine specialist explained, "the present higher than average hog-corn price ratio and the current low level of hog production in many areas probably will cause the 1938 fall pig crop to be considerably higher than that of 1937."

The larger pig crops this year will mean more hogs for marketing next year than in the current year that closes September 30.

In 1937, North Carolina farmers grossed $22,803,000 from the sale of hogs and hog products, an increase of $4,000,000 over 1936.

Bagley Declares Utilities Commissioner Has Approved Every Project Authority Proposed

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, May 26—Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne has cooperated fully and cordially in North Carolina's program of rural electrification which has resulted in building approximately 7,700 miles of line and extending electric service to approximately 42,000 customers since organization of the State Rural Electrification Authority in 1933, Dudley Bagley, State REA director said today.

"This authority received splendid and friendly co-operation from Commissioner Winborne at every stage," said Mr. Bagley. "He has been enthusiastically in favor of every step in our program designed to extend rural electrification in North Carolina on a safe and sound basis."

It is the duty of the Utility Commissioner to pass on all applications presented to him for the construction of rural lines, whether built by power companies or by co-operatives. Mr. Bagley said that Commissioner Winborne has given his approval to every project upon which he passed final judgment.

"He has approved every project this authority asked him to approve, and the only project ever considered by him and not approved was the Caldwell county co-operative," said the REA director.

"Even in this case the Commissioner did not decline to approve the project. The application of the co-operative was withdrawn voluntarily by its sponsors before any final decision was reached," he added.

"With Commissioner Winborne's assistance and co-operation we have put North Carolina in the very forefront of progress in rural electrification. Figures show that this state has made far greater strides than any other Southern state and has been surpassed in total mileage added by only five states in the entire nation," said Mr. Bagley.

The REA director's statement was made as the result of recent charges by Winborne's primary opponent, Paul D. Grady, of Kenly, that the incumbent has been unfriendly to rural electrification. Mr. Grady in his Asheville speech said the commissioner "declined" to approve the Caldwell project.

CENSUS BUREAU REPORTS 20% DECREASE IN AUTO DEATHS

Automobile fatalities in 128 major cities during the first quarter of this year dropped 20% under the 1937 toll for the same period, according to reports made public by Director Wm. L. Austin of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Agriculture.

Deaths from motor vehicle accidents reported by the 128 cities during the first three months numbered 1,978 compared with 2,479 last year. Eleven of the reporting cities have not had a fatality this year caused by an accident within city limits. All but 34 of the cities report reduced fatalities or the same number as the corresponding 1937 period.

LILIENTHAL LISTENS TO MORGAN

Morgan, guest chairman, before the congressional hearing in Washington. Morgan charged directors of the TVA falsified a report on negotiations for utility purchases.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—If you know a Civil war veteran sunning himself on the front porch, persuade him to take you on a 10-day or two-week vacation to Gettysburg—and the government will pay all expenses.

The offer is open not only to Union veterans but to Confederate veterans as well.

The offer may sound fantastic but a fact is a fact and here is the situation. July 1 to 3 is the 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, the so-called "highwater mark of the Confederacy." On that memorable occasion General Meade out-fought General Lee. (We are accepting our school history on this.
We have no dispute with Southern who claim other wise. And anyway, Meade did so poorly on the pursuit after the battle that even Lincoln had to chide him a bit).

As part of the celebration the government is inviting veterans of both sides to come to Gettysburg from June 29 to July 6. Each is to bring an attendant and the government provides railroad transportation for both, as well as $6 a day
each for expenses.

The Thinning Banks
A glance at statistics would indicate that it may be the last of the very few times Confederate and Union soldiers ever have mingled freely together. The army, which is charge of the party, estimates the average age of the veterans as 84 years. One of the provisions in the invitation is that if a veteran is taken ill on the road a doctor will be paid by the government for caring for him.

There are approximately 10,000
surviving veterans, North and South and the army expects 5,000 will attend. Any Civil war veteran is eligible, whether he served only a few hours in either army or years. To date less than 2,000 have accepted invitations.

Some of the veterans indicate they haven't cooled off much in the past 75 years. One Union veteran said he would come only if he was assured no Confederate flag would be flown.

One cocky old lad of 117 winters said he was chipper and eager and would bring his youngest son, 54, as attendant. His eldest son, 94, is too feeble.

Quiet Reigns There Now Gettysburg is sacred ground, made so as much by Lincoln's historic speech as by the battle that marked the first real setback of the Southern forces. At that time the Confederates had swept far north of Washington and were invading Pennsylvania.

From a military standpoint Gettysburg was a beautiful place for a battle, with the opposing forces ranged on high ground facing each other across a valley that at one place was only a few yards across.
The old soldiers who knew Gettysburg will find the place not greatly changed. Some trees have grown, and perhaps some bushes. A cathedral quiet about the place impresses even casual tourists.

So elderly are the surviving veterans that it seems likely some who come will not live to get back. The army has made preparations to send home those who died these many years after the battle.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—Although thousands of dollars worth of trinkets and merchandise are stolen from department stores every week in New York, you seldom read of it in the newspapers. There is a reason for this, and it hinges on the psychological hunch fostered by the gambling casinos on the Continent. Merchants believe it is bad publicity for thefts in their stores to be reported, just as Monte Carlo believes it is bad publicity for one of its clients to commit suicide after losing his fortune at roulette.

For years it has been the custom at certain European spas, when a desperate loser takes his life, to con-

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, May 26—Here's a significant item indicating that State Treasurer Charles Johnson hasn't any present intention to run for governor in 1940.

Recently Governor Clyde R.
Hoey was asked to speak at the Wallace strawberry fete this week.
He couldn't accept and called Mr.
Johnson, asking him to substitute or if he couldn't get someone who would.

The Treasurer couldn't make the address himself, so he called up Commissioner of Revenue A. J.
Maxwell, another reputed aspirant for gubernatorial honors two years hence.

Which wouldn't make sense of the State Treasurer himself were really listening to the buzz of the gubernatorial bee. He'd hardly pass on so good a chance to talk to the voters—certainly not to a prospective rival.

On the subject of the government and likely seekers of the nomination in 1940, this correspondent has heard reliable, but unquotable reports that Congressman Lindsay Warren has quite recently said to friends that he is not interested.

If planning to make an estimate of the likely primary vote on June 4, do not mislead into upping figures of publication of so many figures about "increases" in registration.

Of course as there have been increases, there couldn't be anything else inasmuch as the registrars have been putting on the names of those who have just become qualified to vote for one reason or other;
while they have not been making any very general purge of the present lists.

A top estimate of 450,000 seems permissible now, with the chances that the figure is too high rather than too low.

Those who think North Carolina is having, or has had recently any really "hot" elections should consider the present situation in the good state of Tennessee where Governor Gordon Browning, according to the Associated Press, has threatened to make it possible for his admirers to "go armed in a lawful manner."

Certain of the partisans in the late gubernatorial primary of 1936
in North Carolina were mad enough to bite, but this corner never heard of it being necessary for any follower of Clyde Hoey, Sandy Graham or Ralph McDonald to take a gun around.

Reports from the Third Congressional District indicate that incumbent Graham Barden is beginning to grow a bit nervous as the primary nears. His opponent, young Abernathy has been traveling the district in a trailer conducting one of very effective man-to-man handshaking campaigns. A fellow with a knack for that sort of thing is a mighty tough fellow to beat in a political scrap. For proof vide (as the Latin said) Rocky Mount's Dick Fountain.

Major Edney Ridge reports having spent something like $1,000 (a few odd dollars less) in his campaign for Congress for the Sixth. Some time ago he said he was financing the drive with his World War Veterans bonus. Some of the veteran beneficiaries may have put their money to better use, but the opinion is ventured that no one of them had more fun for his money than the effervescent Major is getting for his.

The S. L. D. R. has set some kind of record here Tuesday night.
There session began at 7:30 p. m.
and at 11 o'clock they were still going strong. Imagine what a gathering of women can say in that time.

vey the body some distance from the casino and stuff a few thousand franc notes into his pockets. This enables the management to deny that suicide took his life because of losing his fortune. It is a custom that fiction writers have made legendary and there is evidence, so they say, to prove that this has happened many times.

In New York the stores employ their own detectives, most of whom are women, to keep on the lookout for thieves. They pose as shoppers and prowling through the store looking at merchandise and keeping a close eye on suspicious characters.
It is said that dozens of arrests are made, but they are usually settled out of court. The stores, except in extreme cases, do not like to involve the police and thereby let themselves in for newspaper comment. Such publicity has been indisputably proved bad, as many people will avoid a store that figures sensationally in the news.

The gambling casino angle, incidentally, brings to mind one of Alexander Woolcott's classic stories. It is that of the tall, young man who lost heavily at the gaming boards and then wandered out onto the night. Suddenly there came a revolver shot. The attendants rushed out to find the body in the moonlight, a red blur spreading over his Naturally, they were annoyed. But they followed the routine set aside for such situations. They hurriedly thrust 10,000 francs into his pockets and telephoned the police. But when the police arrived there was no body. Half an hour later the "body" sauntered casually into the casino.

He began to play with the ten thousand francs, which a benevolent providence had dropped into his pockets, and he recouped all his losses. The red blur on his shirt-front, it developed, was red ink.

Of course there wasn't a thing
the management could do but give him a few icy stares. But to these the young man was oblivious. People remarked they had seldom seen a young man in such high good humor, despite his prodigious losses of the last few days.

As I recall the story, the last that Alexander Woolcott heard of him he was still winning—and still very much alive.

SOMETIME within the next twelve months, 300,000 people are going to buy cars in or above the LaSalle price group—and still not get LaSalle!

Many of these people, we suspect, will do this simply because of a misconception as to LaSalle's price. They believe that because LaSalle is so high in quality, it is probably also high in price.

This is decidedly not true! More than half of all motor car manufacturers have models selling at or above the price of a new LaSalle V-8!

So if you intend to spend above a thousand dollars for your next motor car, you're entitled to a LaSalle, and you ought to get a LaSalle!

It's only common sense to do this—because a Cadillac-built LaSalle will give you far more performance, comfort and safety—as well as far more prestige and general satisfaction.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is privately investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has aroused Quantomet. She was killed by a left handed blow from her sister's knife. Suspected Pam Frye disappears because an unknown person who smokes Turkish tobacco is trailing her to discover the whereabouts of $50,000 worth of ambergris she found. Agreeable Tim Carr, a boarder at the Frye's Octagon House, is left handed, smokes Turkish tobacco, and hated Marina. Gabby Nettle Hobbs swears Pam is the murderer and is called a liar by Peggy Boone, an artist. Roddy Strutt, whose plane crashed in the square, pays Nettle $5,000 to keep his name out of her story. At the hospital Asey finds Roddy's pilot is still unconscious. However, he sees Jennings, a plumber, who is furious at being caricatured in the mural.

Chapter 18

Five Ring Circus

IT WAS the middle of the afternoon before Asey set about the tedious task of coaxing Syl's truck back to Wellfleet. That excursion to Roddy Strutt's house after he left Jennings and the hospital had turned out to be a complete bust.

The Strutt place was surrounded by a tall, iron spiked fence, and the driveway gates were locked. A Filipino with a squint had ordered him off the entrance, and another Filipino with cauliflower ears had chased him away from the wharf. Both men belonged to the general classification of undesirable companions for dark nights in narrow alleys. Even in broad daylight they were slightly repulsive.

A dogged series of questionings in the neighborhood of the Strutt house had netted him almost nothing. He learned that Roddy's plane was an amphibian, which he hadn't guessed from the wreckage, and he learned that Roddy had spent practically the entire previous day buzzing around in his new toy. By noontime, people had almost ceased to pay any attention to its comings and goings, other than to hope as they heard it pass overhead, that if Roddy was going to crash it in his characteristic fashion, he would crash out to sea.

One man said very definitely that Roddy's plane had left at six-thirty with the plane that was going to New York. He was sure about the time, because the noise of the two planes setting off had interrupted his favorite radio program. And everyone was positive that Roddy was returning from that laud when he crashed.

Asey eased the truck around a reverse curve.

If Roddy left until the crash late that night, hours after the murder, why was he paying that hush money to Nettie Hobbs?

And how in the name of common sense could Roddy have landed that plane in the square, anyway, without causing more damage? Roddy was just learning to fly. He had never touched the controls of a plane until the day before. And the descriptions of his first flight were nerve shattering.

But if Roddy Strutt wanted to advertise his homecoming, and to set the time in everyone's mind, he had picked the right place. Everyone Asey had talked with knew of the crash in the square.

Of course it had been a fine moonlight night. There were cars in the square, and possibly some had headlights on. There was an all night lunch cart there which had a couple of flood lights. Even so, it would have taken a far better pilot than Roddy to bring that plane down there without more of a mess. And would Roddy have thought to turn off his engines?

The more he thought about it, the more apparent it became to Asey that Brigham, and not Roddy had brought the plane down, no matter what Roddy said. Brigham must have brought the plane down. And probably with Roddy standing over him, brandishing a monkey wrench. And probably Roddy had returned hours before to Quantomet. And the plane landing was an act, a part of a brain wave of Roddy's to alibi himself. The pilot, Brigham, would clear that up.

That Stuff

AT home, Asey was greeted by Jennie Mayo and Dr. Cummings, both of whom talked loudly and steadily in unison on widely separated subjects. Asey sorted out the information.

A delegation of Quantomet's leading citizens had called on him to request his aid in their misfortunes—they put it in the plural, apparently feeling that the murder was not that to report, Doc, from Octagon House?

It seemed that Hanson was still hunting Pam. The police had found no fingerprints on the knife. Or anywhere else. The crowd was still bothersome.

"You don't mean," Asey said, "that Hanson is still after her?"

"He's a peculiarly one-track minded soul. Asey, more than anything, I wish you'd insert yourself into Octagon House and find—"

"That stuff," Asey said swiftly, before the doctor could present any information. He trusted Jennie implicitly, but even Jennie had her limitations.

"Exactly. For the love of God will you, Asey? It means so much to the kid. If she does get into hot water, it very conceivably might pay for her extraction."

"I was going to try this afternoon," Asey said, "but I got lost on side issues. After all, it's not going to be easy to slide into that house, an' as for removin' things I'd say it was near on'to impossible. But I'd feel better if I knew it was there. It's goin' to be a job, Doc. It ain't something you can slip out in your hip pocket."

"There must be some way," Cummings said.

"I think I can get into the place all right," Asey told about his painting the eel of the Woman's Exchange. "A man that putters around with paint brushes or a hammer an' nails, he ain't a suspicious person. But someone that just loiters, he's spotted right away. I can get to Octagon House, but—"

"Oh, before I forget," Jennie said. "Besides the delegation, there was Elliott the Congressman to see you. He said he'd come back. And there was a girl that waited a couple of hours, I guess. She said her name was Boone."

"Dark and quiet, isn't she?" Cummings said. "I know her. She was over at Lorne's and at Octagon House, too. She's an illustrator, and she keeps a goat. I treated it once after an overdose of hair mattress. Boone tried to get Hanson to stop long enough to look at the living room windows in Octagon House, to prove to him that Nettie was lying, but Hanson wouldn't pay any attention to her. They nearly came to blows—both of 'em were in a violent rage. And what do you think, Asey? This slays me. Roddy Strutt's offered a reward for the arrest and conviction of the murderer. What do you think of that?"

"He has? Well," Asey said, "I think that Roddy is overdoing things a mite. How much, do you know?"

'So Much Mildew'

THE SUM VARIES, depending on who's telling the story. I've heard $1,000. I've heard $5,000. Personally, I don't understand it. I don't understand Roddy's sudden wealth either. I heard that his father had cut off his allowance to the bone—and here he is, crashing up new planes in a carefree fashion, and offering rewards?

"An' scatterin' largesse besides," Asey said. "Have you seen him today?"

"Yes, I saw him while he was talking with Hanson. Jack Lorne was weeping with gratitude at the lovely gesture, and Roddy was beaming Prince Bountiful with a smirk. It was maudlin. Too bad that a really good looking guy like that has to be such a punk. His mother wasn't so bad, but of course the rest of the family are just so much mildew. Hanson said that Roddy said that if nothing happened, he'd raise the reward. I gathered he's about to come into money, but from what source, I couldn't even guess."

"Jennie," Asey said, "if you'll rustle me some food, I think I'll leave that old crate back to Quantomet. This is gettin' interestin' this is."

"D'you think you need to keep up this painting costume and the load of loam?" Cummings asked. "I've discovered," Asey told him, "that it's easier to listen than to ask questions. Particularly when you ain't got much idea of the questions to ask. Jennie, make me a sandwich while I get some putty. I think I'll putty windows for a livin'—an' say, Doc, what men has Hanson got over there, anyway?"

"Virtually the entire force," Cummings said. "I know only a couple of 'em. The last shakeup scattered most of the bunch we knew. Asey, I'm worried about Pam, and her—er—stuff."

"So'm I," Asey said, "but I don't know what to do about her. As for the stuff, I'll see if I can't ferret it out."

The difference between Quantomet, when he saw it on his return, and Quantomet as he had seen it that morning, was startling enough to make Asey blink.

It had been crowded then, but now it was packed like Times Square on election night.

The regular Saturday afternoon stream of tourists and sightseers and weekenders piled into Quantomet and stayed there, instead of proceeding down the Cape to Provincetown. And the stream showed no signs of abating. If anything, it was growing wider, increased by everyone in the surrounding towns who had a vehicle that was capable of moving.

The place had taken on the general aspect of a five ring circus with all the added attractions of carnivals, side shows and midway. Professional pitchmen fought tooth and nail for sidewalk space, in violent competition with hot dog and tonic hawkers.

In short, Quantomet lacked only fan dancers.

to get a referendum bill approved—and nobody can or will deny that—but few, if any, will sincerely argue that they expect to accomplish this.

It takes no politically infallible soothsayer to point out that the Drys have no real confidence in their success. If they had, there would have been a serious effort to get a dry or referendum plank in the Democratic platform. It also takes no such person to scan the list of likely State Senators and predict the Drys haven't a chance.

On the other hand, Cale K. Burgess and his forces aren't busying themselves in every section of the state just for the exercise and the amusement of it. They have dried up, even to a prohibition of wine and beer sales, two counties like the state. They are working like beavers to dry up more by local legislation in 1939.

And if you could back Mr. Burgess up in a corner and get a definite answer, that's what he'd tell you the Drys hope to do in the 1939 legislature.

can make some out of the butter. At least, he says, in principle it ought to work.

The trick is all due to emulsions. These are mixtures of two substances that don't mix. Drops of one substance become coated with films of the other.

Butter, Dr. Osterhaut explains, is an emulsion in which the oil is on the outside of the drops. The inside of the butter drops is water. Cream is just the opposite. Water coats the outside drops of oil.

This explains why cream, poured into coffee, will mix, for the water around the oil drops spreads them uniformly. Butter in coffee melts, but never mixes, because its water is all inside the oil films.

Put some butter and a lot of water in a cocktail shaker and shake well. Along with the butter and water must be some casein—the hard substance in milk. To obtain this throw in a little cheese. Maybe you could produce some "limburger cream."

STATEMENT FROM PITT COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS TO CITIZENS OF PITT COUNTY

Your Board of County Commissioners up to this time has refrained from making public statements, feeling that any statement made by them might be misunderstood or misconstrued.

Since it has come to our attention that many false statements have been and are being circulated, which are intended not only to discredit the Commissioners, but will greatly injure the best interest of Pitt County, we wish to make a few statements of facts. In these statements we shall refrain from referring to evidence that has gone before the Grand Juries or to the Court.

FIRST: Our actions have been guided largely by findings and recommendations from several Grand Juries, special Auditors, Ministerial Associations, and the Law and Order League.

SECOND: Neither politics nor personal animosity has motivated our actions. We feel deeply that our democratic form of government is a trust and, as your official governing body, we are your trustees. We have put duty above friendship as much as we value our friends.

THIRD: We assume full responsibility for having had audits made, both general and special. The special audits were made on either recommendations of Grand Juries, or information from certain public accountants that general audits did not reveal the true condition of the County's financial affairs.

FOURTH: When it comes to the under-cover work done in the County since August of last year, we cannot assume responsibility except from October 20th, 1937. In the light of information furnished us about that time, we had no alternative, in the performance of our duty, but to continue the work when the A. B. C. Board hesitated because of doubt of authority under the law. This information went before the Grand Jury in January of this year.

FIFTH: We have been forced to spend right much money for audits due to the fact that the scope of audit contracts heretofore made were general and not intended, as are special audits, to reveal facts now brought to light as is evidenced by two Grand Jury reports. We feel that the results of all audits will more than pay for their immediate cost and will be a distinct asset to tax payers for years to come, provided some changes in the present system of accounting in certain offices can be made as recommended by Grand Juries.

SIXTH: The employment of the National Bureau of Investigation and money paid to them has proven to have been (as much as we may dislike it), a splendid financial investment because of increased A. B. C. liquor sales and profits since their work began. Their greatest accomplishments have been, however, not only an increased respect for law and order, but they have put fear into the hearts of many who were inclined to travel the criminal highway and exploit the youth of our good County. Even should there be disapproval of our actions in trying to make Pitt County a cleaner and more respectable place in which to live and rear our children, we should like for the tax payers to review with us a few of the accomplishments during the past five and one-half years, VIZ:

Since December 1st, 1932, the county-wide debt has been reduced from $2,527,000.00 to $2,070,000.00, a reduction of $457,000.00. During this period no bonds have been issued and no money has been borrowed.

In addition to the reduction in debt during this period, the cash and bonds on hand have increased from $500,984.55 to $791,288.65, an increase of $290,304.10. This increase in cash and bonds when added to the amount the debt has been reduced, namely $457,000.00, shows the County's financial position has improved $747,304.10 in the last 5-1/2 years.

At the same time during this period, the total taxes levied in the County have averaged less than one-half of the amount levied in 1929 (the highest year) and less than two-thirds of the amount levied in 1932.

For the 1937 tax year, two-thirds of the taxes levied county-wide are for Bonds and Interest, and one-third for use in the County. For example, a tax-payer who now pays $100.00 in County Taxes, pays $65.00 for debts and $35.00 for County use. Of the $35.00 paid for County use, only $9.00 can be used by the Commissioners for the General Fund and County Home, while the $26.00 remaining is for pensions, schools, relief and health, and is disbursed by the respective Boards in charge of these Funds.

In addition to the fact that no debt of any kind has been created in the last 5-1/2 years, the County has obtained improvements, consisting of school buildings, public buildings and drainage projects, costing $690,000.00 by furnishing $190,000.00, all of which is secured by notes, except cost of the Armory, and is now being repaid.

The amount provided for school maintenance and vocational training for 1937 is more than double that provided in 1932, and whereas only a few County High Schools were State accredited in 1932, all except one High School, are fully accredited in 1937, and are recognized as being among the best County schools in the State. During this period books in the County school libraries have increased more than 60 per cent, from 15,000 to nearly 26,000 books. Also whereas there were four vocational teachers in County schools in 1932, there are fifteen in 1937.

During our respective tenure in office we have felt in all sincerity that the welfare of the County was more sacred than that of any individual or group. This has not been the easy way. We could not pursue the course of knowing nothing, seeing nothing and doing nothing. We have fully cooperated with every official in the County to the end, that they might make their offices more efficient in rendering services to the citizens of Pitt County. We have also cooperated with every agency in our County, State and Nation, whose purpose it has been to improve and strengthen the economic, health, moral and social conditions of our citizenship.

In conclusion we say to the people of Pitt County that we have kept the faith with them; that we have at all times tried to give our County an honest, efficient and economical government; that we have met and decided every problem that has come before us, no matter how hard the task, with the courage of our most sincere convictions; this we believe to have been our duty and for the best interest of all people of PITT COUNTY.

Doubtful Drys Hope For State-Wide Referendum

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, May 26.—There are increasing evidence that the United Dry Forces, leading the prohibition push in North Carolina, do not expect to gain their final objective—a statewide referendum on the liquor question—in the 1939 General Assembly.

On the other hand there are as many signs pointing to a real belief on the part of the drys that they can and will gain intermediate objectives in tightened restrictions on the sale of wine and beer, absolute prohibition of liquor advertising, and perhaps an extension of the state ABC board's police powers into dry counties.

No prominent dry will allow himself to be quoted to the general tenor and effect of the opening paragraphs of this story, but this correspondent has likewise been unable to find one of them who will categorically deny the allegations and predict unhesitatingly that the 1939 Assembly will adopt a referendum bill.

They all insist, sincerely, that the Drys are going to make every effort

Neither team was able to tally in the fifth and sixth, but in the seventh the Greenies made two to take the lead. Skipper Joyner, first man up in the inning, led off with a homer to tie the count. The next two men up went out, but Miller clouted a homer to put Greenville ahead. The two homers, however accounted for all the scoring the Greenies were able to do in the frame.

Snow Hill was held scoreless in the seventh and eighth and the game entered the last half of the ninth with Greenville leading two to one. Cicale, Snow Hill hurler, coming out of holes by this time and made two to win the game. With Maisano on base, Charlie Gadd lifted one over the left field wall to end the game.

Bobo made his debut as a Greenville hurler in the contest and made a good showing despite the loss. He allowed the Billies nine hits, walked three and struck out two.

Villa Miller with three for four led the Greenies with the willow. The Greenies played errorless ball. Snow Hill made one miscue. The box:

Herring To Pilot Aces For Present

J. D. Cannon, president of the Ayden club, yesterday announced a shake-up in the management of the Aces which left Bill Herring acting manager and Jiggs Gasaway field captain.

Frank Sidle, who became manager of the team just before the close of spring training, has been released. Herring's appointment was only temporary, but it was not stated whether immediate efforts will be made to secure a manager. Herring is a former Wake Forest college pitcher. Gasaway is an outfielder.

ROSS FAVORED IN TITLE BOUT

To Meet Armstrong In New York Garden Tonight

New York, May 26.—(AP)—The 15-round welter-weight championship fight between Champion Barney Ross and Henry Armstrong today was postponed until tomorrow night because of rain.

By ALAN GOULD
New York, May 26.—Two of the greatest fighting men, pound for pound that the ring has produced in at least a decade are primed to settle the first major argument of the 1938 outdoor season.

Unless bad weather beats them to the punch, Barry Ross and Henry Armstrong will give fistic fandom a much awaited thrill, over the fifteen round title distance in Madison Square Garden's big wooden saucer in Long Island City, tomorrow night. If it rains, as the official forecaster suspects the show will go on Friday night.

If theoretically an unprecedented "handicap match," with Ross defending the world's 147-pound, or welterweight, championship against the dusky whirlwind who holds the featherweight title, at 126 pounds, but actually the bout is a "natural" in which the disparity in weight has been thoroughly minimized.

The agreement between the principals calls for Ross to make 142 pounds and for Armstrong to weigh no less than 136 on the official scales today at noon. When the pair finished light training yesterday, there was no indication either would have difficulty in tipping the beam "inside" the prescribed limitations.

Barney 7-5 Favorite.
Ross, confident, crafty, and apparently in first-class condition, rules the 7-to-5 choice to stop the winning streak of the Negro who has been blasting his way through the ~~best of the best~~ of the best. Notwithstanding some suspicion that he has passed his peak and isn't the dynamic fighter of the days of rivalry with Irish Jimmy McLarin in 1934-35, Ross has a flock of staunch backers. They figure the Chicagoan, ringwise and a sharp puncher, has the antidote for Armstrong's rushing windmill style of fast-throwing.

There's Another Side
They may be right, but there are just as many critics who doubt the ability of Ross to survive 15 rounds of the kind of punishment Homelide Henry usually administers. Armstrong figures to throw three or four punches to every one of his opponents'. The Negro's string of 37 consecutive victories, 35 of them by K. O., sounds more impressive than it actually is. But it emphasizes Armstrong's finishing ability, and can't be entirely discounted.

Ross may, as some of his handlers assert elect to stand and slug it out with the Negro, in which case it may not last long. It is more plausible to expect that Barney will exploit eagier tactics. Armstrong knows only one way to fight—move forward and keep punching. So, Barney should know what to expect. The big question is, whether he knows how to handle it.

Quakes vs. Day
The sporting card for the bout includes an eight-rounder between Davey Day, Chicago and Norment Quarles, North Carolina lightweight.

No Game Today

The scheduled game between Greenville and New Bern here this afternoon was called off on account of wet grounds shortly after noon.

Skipper Joyner, after inspecting the grounds, decided it was too wet to play even if it rained no more.

The contest was expected to have attracted a good crowd as the Greenies yet have to win over the Bears. The teams have met in only one series so far and New Bern took both games.

This makes three games on the Greenies' rained out list. It was learned shortly after noon that all other games in the league were rained out.

Plenty Strikeouts In Eagles-Martins Game

Williamston, May 25.—The Martins did all their scoring in two innings yesterday and walked the Kinston Eagles, 8-2, for their second win a two-game series.

It was a dark afternoon, and the rival pitchers—the Martins' Lefty Harper and the Eagles' Cliff Wentz—racked up a total of 17 strikeouts. Wentz led his department, 9 to 8, but he also proved far more generous than Harper with free passes. Wentz walked eight; Harper, two. Each allowed seven safeties.

Hurley Harper started the Martins on their first merry-go-round. He singled, the first safety off Wentz, to open the fourth. A pair of walks filled the bases. Eddie Ignasik, who had fanned on two previous attempts poled a triple to center. The resulting three runs proved to be all needed by Harper for victory.

Kinston's runs resulted from errors. Score by innings: R. H. E.

Bugs Come To Life, Lick Ayden 17 to 1

Ayden, May 26.—Yesterday's Goldsboro-Ayden ball game was a contest for only one inning. The Bugs made five runs in the second, then breezed to a 17-1 decision.

Don Kepler, Bug hurler, didn't let prosperity go to his head, however. He pitched five-hit ball and missed a shutout because two of those hits—a single by Carnahan and a double by Bullock—were sandwiched around an infield out to produce a run in the sixth.

Braxton Rhodes, former Wake Forest hurler, started the five-run second. A sacrifice and a passed ball moved Jans up. Overton walked and Pitcher Kepler drove in a run with an outfield fly. At this point, Al Neibonne relieved Rhodes.

Dirmann beat out an infield hit. Balla singled to send in a run, and Glenn Mullinax hit for the circuit. Mickey Balla, with four for six, was high man for the winners. Score by innings: R. H. E.

iciously false" and brought by the by the County Commissioners at the instance of the chairman of the A. B. C. Board, for the purpose of embarrassing him (sheriff) and discrediting him before the people of his county.

The first group of witnesses to take the stand were the children and other kin of the late Jesse Smith, whose testimony purported to show that prior to Smith's death in 1932 he had been one of the county's biggest bootleggers and that on several occasions he had paid the sheriff in money and whiskey for tips that Federal enforcement officers were preparing to make raids. Cross examination of these witnesses revealed that they had been visited by undercover agents and urged to testify in the case.

While the testimony of most of the group checked as to the transactions between Smith and the sheriff, cross examination revealed that in no instance could any of the witnesses attach a date nor the season of what year the transactions occurred. Cross examination also brought out that in the case of almost all the witnesses, transportation to Greenville had been provided and their expenses were being taken care of while they remained in the city for the purpose of testifying before the court. In one instance one of the witnesses on cross examination repudiated the affidavit he had given undercover men, branded his previous testimony before the grand jury as a "pack of lies" and declared that he had been paid for his affidavit and first testimony and had been promised more pay and a job if he would help "get rid of the sheriff."

NAZI HUMOR shaped effigy of former chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg in anti-Schuschnigg exhibit at Tulln, Austria. Schuschnigg, whose plebiscite call precipitated German seizure of Austria, is reported virtual prisoner in Vienna.

The next step in the case was presentation of evidence that the sheriff had freed from custody two young men being held for stealing tobacco. Upon cross examination it was revealed that the interested witnesses in the case had never sworn out a warrant nor pushed the charges and that one of the young men was permitted to remain as a tenant on the farm of the witness after being released.

The next phase of the case dealt with the sheriff's failure to turn over certain foreign fees to the county. Clerks of Court from several surrounding counties testified as to certain process issued from their counties and served through the office of the sheriff of Pitt County. On cross examination each of the clerks testified that the service of their papers by the sheriff had been prompt and efficient.

Next to take the stand were auditors who had made investigation of the sheriff's jail account. Their records revealed that the sheriff's testimony was to the effect that since as jailer, had overcharged the county $254.05 representing charges—retaining 150 days after prisoners had been transferred from the jail to other prisons or road camps. On cross examination these witnesses admitted that in certain instances there were slight errors in their reports and also that the fees on all the prisoners who had been in jail were not checked, only those being checked that appeared on the surface to contain errors. In connection with that phase of the case, defense attorneys declared that they expected to show that a complete audit of the jail fees record would reveal underpayment, rather than over-payment to the sheriff.

The same auditors also presented audits and testimony covering uncollected or unpaid costs and fines in criminal cases totaling more than $4,000 which it was alleged the sheriff either failed to collect or failed to turn over to the county.

Defense counsel in this connection denied responsibility of the sheriff for these items and presented letters from the Attorney General's office and the North Carolina Institute of Government to substantiate the contention.

The next and last phase of the prosecution's claim was the evidence presented by Mr. Hollowell revealing the sheriff's failure to turn over funds to the county and his failure to keep complete records that promptly, truly and accurately revealed the transaction of the affairs of his office.

From the start of the case counsel for both sides have emphasized that the case is an ouster hearing and not one of an accounting, but for the most part the evidence has dealt with page after page of figures and audits that have consumed days and days of the court's time.

In addition to the little more than $3,000 in uncollected court costs and fines alleged to be due the county by the sheriff the other audits set forth items indicating other payments due the county and other sources of between $2,500 and $3,000.

In addition to denying responsibility for the court costs and fines items, defense counsel has indicated that it will endeavor by records and testimony to offset other items which the audit purports to reveal. The defense has summoned more than a hundred witnesses and unless there should come some break following the prosecution's resting its case late today or tomorrow morning, the hearing is expected to continue on for another week or more.
