BRITISH SHIPS AGAIN VICTIMS OF AIR ATTACK

Vessels Bombed in Ports Of Valencia and Alicante

SEVERAL SEAMEN KILLED IN RAIDS

Meanwhile in London Unsuccessful Attempt Made to Arm British Vessels

Valencia, June 27.—(AP)—Bombs from aerial raiders today smashed and set afire two more British ships in the port of Valencia and Alicante.

Several seamen were killed or wounded.

The first victim of the attack was the freighter Arlon in the harbor at Valencia. She was set afire and a Rumanian crewman was killed.

A short time later a bomb crashed on the steamer Farnham in the port at Alicante, killing or wounding an undetermined number.

The Arlon was reported sinking a mile from the port of Valencia. Three bombs from six Junkers (German-made planes) set the Farnham afire. The plane dropped 50 bombs on the port.

Government pursuit planes gave chase and anti-aircraft guns replied to the raid with heavy fire. Five trimotored planes dropped 50 bombs in the raid on the port of Valencia in which the Arlon was hit.

In London Prime Minister Chamberlain's opponents in the House of Commons, enraged by the attacks on British ships sought vainly to have him arm British merchantmen with anti-aircraft guns.

Chamberlain tried to stem a flood of hostile questions with a declaration that "a good many difficulties stand in the way of such a move."

Lieut. - Governor To Be Speaker At Wenona Field Day

Farmers and Their Wives To Get Opportunity to See Research Projects in Progress at Farm

Raleigh, June 27.—Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott announced today that Lieutenant Governor Wilkins P. Horton will make the principal address at the annual field day exercises of the department's Blacklands Test Farm at Wenona, July 14.

The commissioner himself will speak on the "Need for an Adequate Marketing Program for the State," a subject of which he has been making an intensive campaign recently.

In addition to marketing research work will be stressed on the program. Farmers, their wives and visitors will be given an opportunity to see the research projects in progress at the farm.

"Livestock Research on the Blacklands" will be the topic of Dr. J. E. Foster, of the animal industry division, while Dr. E. R. Collins of the State College Agronomy division will talk on "Soil Fertility Problems in Relation to Blackland Soils."

Paul L. Fletcher, livestock marketing specialist of the department, will speak on "Livestock Marketing."

A public address system will be used for the speaking program. It was announced by Fred E. Miller, director of the test farms, in order that all may hear without difficulty. Music will play an important part in the recreational side of the rally, he said.

After the program there will be horse and mule pulling contest will be conducted under the direction of W. V. Hayes, Washington county farm agent, assisted by Professor David Weaver of State College and Mr. Fletcher.

Athlete Killed In Automobile Wreck

Elizabethtown, June 27.—(AP)—Neill Campbell, 18, died in a Lumberton hospital today as the result of injuries sustained last night at White Lake when a car he was driving overturned.

He was a star player on last season's Parkton high school basketball team. Woodrow Parks, a companion, was injured and was still in the hospital today. Walter Grimsley, Jr., another companion, escaped with no serious injuries.

LOYALISTS STAND PAT IN EASTERN SPAIN

Loyalist defenders along a 45-mile front in Eastern Spain stood pat against efforts of insurgent troops to pierce Government defenses. An estimated 250,000 men were engaged. Waves of insurgent troops were tumbled back into their trenches with heavy losses. Tanks, armored cars and warplanes, as well as infantrymen, took part in the engagement which was fought in temperatures reaching 110 degrees Fahrenheit. On this map arrow shows Sarrion, strategic point on the Teruel-Sagunto highway, which Loyalists successfully defended; and Onda, near which insurgents captured an ancient castle with 300 towers from which Loyalist troops had menaced occupation of the village.

Japs Bomb Hainan Island; Warned By Britain, France

Railway Buildings Reported To Have Been Wrecked

Shanghai, June 27.—(AP)—With Chinese and Japanese forces apparently deadlocked in the Yangtze river valley below Hankow, Japanese bombing crews today carried out widespread aerial operations over South China.

The forts on Hainan island, just off the south China coast, were bombed and the attackers reported Chinese shore batteries there were silent.

More than 500 miles to the north east of Hainan the Kwangtung province city of Chaochow was bombarded. The Japanese said that in this attack railway buildings were destroyed.

Many military observers expect that the seaport Swatow may become the point of entry for any Japanese attempt to invade South China.

Licenses To Marry Granted To Eight

Twelve marriage licenses were issued at the offices of Register of Deeds J. C. Gaskins during the past week, bringing the total for this year to 256.

Eight of the cupid-struck couples were Negroes, only four being white. The white couples follow Lawrence Buck and Cassie Lee Tyson, of Chicod; Paul Whitehurst and Mattie Elizabeth Randolph of Greenville; Ralph C. Gable and Helen A. Cope of Pennsylvania; William Joyner and Rosa Lee Smith of Greenville.

Colored Couples: James T. Gay, of Farnville and Carrie Lee Taylor of Fountain; Preston Barrett and Eula May Barrett of Farnville; Lawrence Anderson and Elizabeth Barrett of Greenville; Geo. Cox and Bessie Davis of Chicod; Eddie Barrett of Greenville and Mary Eta Porter of Tarboro; Richard Caphart and Mae Walters Hart of Farnville; Charlie Barrett and Annie May Williams of Greenville.

WHAT IT MEANS: America's Foreign Policy

By MORGAN M. BEATTY AP Feature Service Writer Washington—There's international dynamite behind nearly every headline you read over a foreign news dispatch these days. Examples: the headlines reciting the bombings of Canton and Barcelona and the Czechoslovak mobilization of troops in the fact of Nazi threats. What are Uncle Sam's views about that dynamite? You can get some idea by reading current news stories. For instance, Secretary of State Hull has repeatedly warned against international anarchy. Also, though it got hardly a flicker in the papers, a Senate resolution condemned the Japanese and Franco air raids on defenseless cities. And there's the New York indictment, with the State Department's consent, of high German government officials—it is unusual to say so forthrightly that officials of a friendly power have been spying. Shadows Of Coming Events But you've got to go behind the scenes to piece out of the significance of these foreign events and domestic declarations. A recognized American expert on foreign affairs will sum up the international situation something like this: 1—Japan is moving rather frankly toward domination of what she calls Eastern Asia. From India on the south, to the Siberian coast on the north, Germany is openly undertaking to restore herself to the role of Colossus in Central Europe. Their objectives represent half the population of the world. 2—This summer is the logical time for Japan and Germany to consolidate their gains in their respective world spheres for, by next year, the rearmament of Great Britain, the United States, and other "like-minded nations," may be too far along for comfort. 3—Meanwhile, the war news from the Orient and from Spain, especially the stories of air raids, are scenes to piece out of the significance of these foreign events and domestic declarations. ONE KILLED IN GUNFIGHT WITH POLICE SQUAD

Daring Trail of Kidnapers - Gunmen Comes to End

PAIR SHOT DOWN IN CORN FIELD

Abducted Father and Son Found in Automobile Abandoned By Desperadoes

Joilet, Ill., June 27.—(AP)—Two outlaws who terrorized parts of Indiana and Illinois with gunfire and kidnapings, reached dead end today in a Deslem, Ill., farm yard, one slain and the other wounded.

Approximately 100 peace officers of the two states were in the kill which climaxed a 20-minute flurry of sharp fighting.

Sheriff John Stack of Kankakee, Ill., said the wounded man identified himself as Orelee Easton, 25, of Valley City, N. D., and named his slain companion as his brother, Clarence Easton, 27.

Illinois and Indiana authorities had been searching for the desperadoes since Sunday night. In a few hours the fugitives had critically wounded an Indiana state trooper, kidnaped two Indiana deputy sheriffs, engaged in three fights with Illinois officers and abducted an Illinois farmer and his small son.

Gromann said his squad sighted and pursued the fugitives' car near Deslem. The desperadoes' car became mired in mud, Gromann said, and they abandoned it to seek refuge in a corn field.

Gromann said he and his companions pursued the men across the field, fired several shots and drove them into the range of another posse of officers. The second squad brought the gunmen down.

Gromann said that in the car they found James Novy, 38, and his four-year-old son who had been abducted by the gunmen near Wilmington, even as a force of 100 officers searched for them.

Band To Play At Belhaven Affair

The Greenville High School band has been invited to play again at Belhaven in the annual Fourth of July celebration, one of the biggest events held in that town.

The band will leave here early on the morning of the Fourth, arriving in time to participate in the parade with several other bands and also will play for the water festival.

H. A. McDougle, director, has called a special rehearsal of the band tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the high school for the purpose of perfecting plans for the trip.

He declared that he was anxious to have all his old students who have been away to college take part in the band activities while they are here.

Two Cases Heard By City Recorder

Only two cases were tried in City Recorder's court this morning both of the defendants being white men from Winterville who were involved in a traffic accident yesterday.

Jimmie Ross was convicted of driving drunk and given a six months sentence, suspended upon payment of a $50 fine and court costs. His driving license was ordered revoked for 12 months. The defendant appealed to Superior court and bond was set at $200 and the court recommended that his license be suspended pending the appeal.

Joe Worthington, who was riding with Ross when the car struck a telephone pole in the city, was convicted of drunkenness and taxed with the costs of court.

Crops Damaged By Rainfall Over State

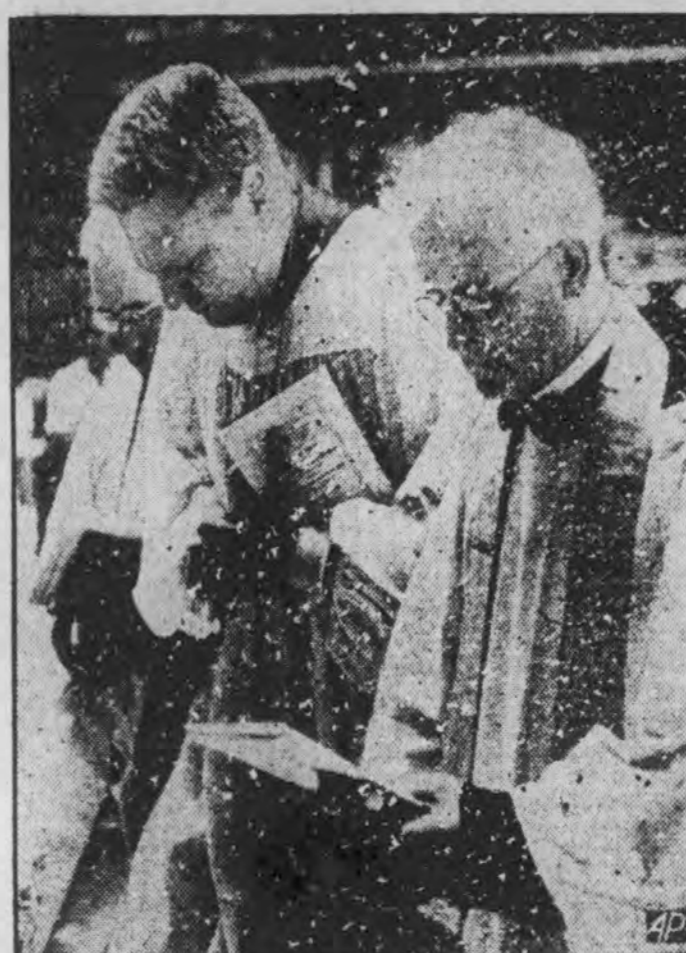

Raleigh, June 27.—(AP)—Damp weather with scattered showers over most of North Carolina yesterday and today has hit crops already suffering from previous rains, agricultural experts at North Carolina State College reported today.

However, E. Y. Floyd, extension tobacco specialist, said the few days of dry weather last week were a boon to tobacco growers who plowed and "broke out their middles."

J. O. Rowell, extension entomologist, reported boll weevils were multiplying and cotton cotton badly over much of the state.

The rains were said to be hurting corn by washing nitrogen out of the soil and wheat and other small grains left in the fields are suffering from continued soaking.

BIG LOSS FROM RECENT HAILS

Loss in Pitt County Estimated Upward Of $75,000

Although it is impossible to figure the loss caused by recent hail storms to tobacco crops, R. R. Bennett, county agent, intimated it would exceed $75,000 and perhaps reach a much higher figure.

The county agent explained that this did not include the hay and grain crops, which also suffered severe damage in numerous sections.

He reported that the Pacifist community was one of the hardest hit sections in the county. He estimated that 45 or 50 acres of tobacco in that area suffered heavy damage, running from 75 to 100 per cent of a total loss. The Black Jack section, also underwent heavy damage, running to the same percentage of loss on many instances.

Under normal conditions the tobacco would have been worth from $250 to $400 per acre. In addition to these two sections, Ayden, Griffith and other sections were visited by destructive hail last week.

In some instances farmers already have plowed up their stalks and are making preparation to plant beans or other crops.

Although yesterday brought another rain storm, no reports have been received at the county agent's office of any further hail.

Revival To Begin At Winterville Tonight

A revival service will begin tonight in the Methodist Church of Winterville and continue through the week.

Rev. C. B. Mashburn of Farnville, will conduct the services, to which the public is extended a welcome.

RALEIGH LAST WEEK

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, June 27.—Close of last week found Raleigh's streets gaily decorated with bunting and flag effects for a coming convention of AHEPA, Greek organization.

By contrast it recalled that on June 14, our National Flag Day, displays of the national colors were as scarce as New Dealers among Wall Street brokers.

When gets around to the point that the brisk upturn in the Wall Street stock market last week brought in its wake an obviously more optimistic outlook among officials who have anything to do with the state's finances.

Surplus, Or No?—Governor Hoy and other officials played at a new version of an old game last week. They called it "Surplus, Surplus, Who's Got the Surplus?" and wound up by offering to go halves with anyone who will dig up the $15,000,000 alleged by the Merchants Association to exist. Seriously, the Governor estimated

PUBLIC WORKS SUMS GRANTED N. C. PROJECTS

Nation's Coast Guard Stations To Be Improved

Construction of Sea-Wall and Improvement of Grounds At Beaufort Provided

Washington, June 27.—(AP)—The Public Works Administration allotted $10,000,000 today for 178 projects to improve Coast Guard stations throughout the country.

The allotment included in North Carolina, Ocracoke, $142,000; Fort Macon, $83,000; Bogue Inlet, $157,000; Oregon Inlet station, $50,600; Cape Hatteras station, $19,050; Oak Island station, $21,500; Caffreys Inlet station, $5,100; Kill Devil Hill station, $5,100; Nags Head station, $5,100; Pea Island station, $5,100; Chicamaocomico station, $5,100; Little Kinnakeet station, $5,100; Wash Weeds station, $5,900; Hatteras Inlet station, $113,500; Capt Lookout station, $17,500; Morehead City rifle range, $1,000.

The PWA also gave the Bureau of Fisheries $1,055,350 for 78 projects in 39 states. The allotments included, in North Carolina: Beaufort, construction of seawall and repairs to building and grounds, U. S. Fisheries laboratory, $24,800; and Edenton, $5,000.

North Carolina also got $15,000 for the Geological Survey.

Local Production Credit President Reviews Progress

John R. Carroll Returns From Conference of Association Directors at Blowing Rock

The record made by the production credit associations since their establishment in 1933 has been little short of remarkable, according to John R. Carroll, president of the Greenville Production Credit Association, who has returned from a conference of association directors held at Blowing Rock.

The conference was also attended by J. P. Davenport, Mack G. Smith, G. L. Mewborn and D. F. Harrison, directors of the Greenville association. Associations represented at the conference besides Greenville, were Goldsboro, Henderson, Kinston, Lenoir, Rocky Mount, Smithfield and Washington.

"According to figures submitted at the conference," said Mr. Carroll, the 550 production credit associations in the United States have more than doubled their membership since 1934. At the close of 1934 they had a membership of 121,455 while at the beginning of the present year they had a membership of 251,190.

In 1934 the associations made loans totaling $107,243,965 while in 1937 they made loans totaling $286,269,621.

Mr. Carroll said he was proud of the record which has been made by the Greenville association, which, since it began operations with the season of 1934, has made 2,392 loans for a total of $1,169,485 and has charged off only $447. He said that the directors at Blowing Rock were told that the 94 associations in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida have now built up reserves totaling $1,000,000.

"We had an interesting discussion of the reasons for the establishment of the Production Credit System," said Mr. Carroll. "The amount of short-term credit used in the United States has increased tremendously in the last 50 years, one reason being a greater specialization in farming. Another reason is the much larger investment in machinery and equipment and much larger expenditure for fertilizers, feed and labor. The special characteristics of agriculture and the effect of these characteristics on agriculture's credit needs made necessary the establishment of the production credit system to provide short-term credit for agriculture."

"Congress decided that this credit system should be cooperative and that it should not loan government money but secure the money used for loans from the investing public. It also decided that the system should be decentralized and that the loans should be made by local cooperatives. Thus the production credit associations came into existence and the record which they have made, I think, is remarkable."

Thoroughbred Hampshire hogs, leghorn chickens and Italian bees have been furnished by the Mexican government to small ranches and farmers of the State of Mexico, the department of agriculture and development reports.

Book Pilot

At Sheppard Memorial Library
The Outdoor Reading Room, sponsored by the Sans Souci Book Club in cooperation with the library, will be opened tomorrow afternoon, and each Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of the summer months. Underneath the hundred-year-old tree on the lawn, there has been placed a charming reading center with comfortable outdoor furniture, and a reading table on which will be found many new books and magazines. A low brick wall around the tree will seat many small tots. Miss Bessie Brown, lover of children and capable assistant at the library, will direct this outdoor reading room.

A number of groups and individuals have made possible this new recreational center for leisure time in the summer months. The Sans Souci Club gave the outdoor furniture, made more attractive by the colorful beach umbrellas given by Miss Brown. Blount-Harvey Company contributed another umbrella, and a comfortable beach chair. The painting job was done by the Boy Scouts, Miss Bessie Brown, and other individuals. The paint was furnished by the library.

Children may look forward to a happy story hour time on Thursday afternoon in the outdoor reading room. An outdoor sign reads "Books are doors to fairy-lands, guides into adventure, and comrades in learning."

Audubon's Book of Birds, prohibitive in price to the average book owner, is among the list of books given by the Round Table to the library. The reader may feast the eye upon the exquisite beauty of nature in perfect color plates. One wonders if the costly beauty of a machine civilization can compare with the perfection of nature, as Audubon knew it. Library readers are grateful to the Round Table for the entire list of books, which is printed below, but especially so for the Book of Birds.

The list follows:
Audubon—"Birds of America."
Eddy—"Down the World's Most Dangerous River."
French—"Photography for the Amateur."
Harding—"Farewell Toletette."
Hughes—"Legends of Texas River."
Havighurst—"Upper Mississippi."
Hill—"Life of George Mason."
Ichitawa—"Japanese Lady in Europe."
Marquand—"Late George Apley."
Mangham—"Summing Up."
Rawlings—"The Yearling."
Rose—"Education of Hyman Kaplan."
Shearcraft—"Successful Snapshots."
Tristram—"Kennebec."
Wilder—"Our Town."

Return From Sanatorium.
N. O. Warren and Miss Iva Sheburn have returned from Sanatorium, where they spent the past week with Mrs. Warren. Mrs. Warren departed on Tuesday.

Spent Week-End At Beach.
Among those spending the week-end at Atlantic Beach were: Misses Elizabeth Kasey, Jean Brown, Julia Gaylord, Hennie Ruth and Mary Andrews, Hilda, Eva Hodges and Mrs. Frank Wooten, John Clark, Jr., Gus Forbes, Jr., Billy Brown and Dr. Greene.

Return From Cruise.
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Woodard, Misses Mary Woodard, Martha Lee Cowell, Margaret Henry, Richard Barnhill, James Moyer and Marshall Starkey returned last night from the Bankers' cruise to Nassau and Cuba.

Commandery Notice.
There will be a regular meeting of Bethelham Commandery No. 29, K. T., Tuesday night, June 28, at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to attend as we have special business to transact.

possibly when the team of Capra and Riskin is performing the operation.

These two had a short story called "Night Bus" as a foundation for "It Happened One Night," and after that one most authors—playwrights too—were glad to let them twist things around a bit from their original state. "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town" increased their stature, and "Lost Horizon" did not hurt it, although many were disappointed in the picture as compared to James Hilton's novel.

The principal change in approach to this play seems to be a greater emphasis on the philosophy expressed in the title—unless one counts the inclusion of a new character, one Mr. Poppins, being played by Donald Meek. Mr. Poppins is merely one more nose snatched from an office grindstone by Lionel Barrymore's Grandpa Vanderhof, but he's in for a purpose which should be one of the picture's better laughs.

'Room Service' Starting
Adding to the original $200,000 story investment, Capra has assembled one of his usual casts. Usual for Capra means actors to fit the characters, and in some cases expensive names which have had star billing. Besides Barrymore, Jean Arthur and James Stewart, he has Ann Miller (the heroine of "Radio City Revels") and Edward Arnold, Misha Auer, Spring Byington (mama of the "Jones Family") and Halliwell Hobbes. Even one of the stars of "The Green Pastures"—the Noah—is present in the person of Eddie Anderson.

While "You Can't Take It With You" is well along, the screen's most expensive story purchase from the stage is just getting started. "Room Service" cost RKO $255,000, and is in the hands of the Marxes and Director William Setzer.

While the stage comedy is being revamped for Marxian use, the usual procedure is reversed because the changes in the play will be small compared to the changes in the Marxes.

Groucho, for instance, will forsake his big painted mustache for a real one, home-grown, and Chico will attempt to conform to character instead of pursuing his own mad devices. For a while there was a plan to make Harpo break his silence—beating Chaplin in the talkie draw—but this was abandoned. There are points, apparently, beyond which the defilers of tradition dare not go.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—They can throw out the flowers now and empty medicine bottles. They can throw out the magazines and the package-wrappings. They can throw out everything; they can even throw me out. But they can't throw out the bills. Not until papa pays 'em.

It costs money to indulge the luxury of being ill. Did you know that, Sugar? But that's all right. My Pollyanna nature whispers, "That isn't money wasted. That's an investment in good health." I'll probably kick Pollyanna down the stairs when the first of the month comes. But there's no kicking today, no back-talk. I'm getting out of here. Feel fit, too. Little pale around the gills, maybe, and shaky in the underpinnings, but that'll correct itself. And do I need a haircut?

Well, let's see. Let's check over everything, and see what adds up.

The thing I had was an old-fashioned case of honest to goodness bronchitis. I didn't have a cold, and at no time did I have a sore throat. But the fever was pretty high for a while. It leaves you sort of dopey. And the chills, well, I thought I was going to freeze to death, and knock all my teeth loose chattering.

The nastiest part of it came in an innocent looking little bottle, about four inches high. And the liquid was the purest yellow you could imagine. It was so transparent you could read a newspaper thru it. Well, if I ever run into any of that stuff again I aim to renege and let nature take its course.

In all there were some 14 bottles, liquids and solids, capsules and pills. Pills! Whew! I don't think I built right. I can't swallow pills the way other people can. They hang up in my throat and then slowly disintegrate. But I guess that's better than my disintegrating.

And now, like something creeping out of a cocoon, I'm slowly emerging into the sun. I'm going back to the office, for a day or two days and get my desk in order and write some thank-you notes, and then, as I told you the other day, I'm going on that fishing trip with Mel Graff.

He says, "Well, they're here, they're here all right, but you've kicked around enough to know that sometimes you get them and sometimes you don't. I just don't want you to be disappointed if we don't get them." I won't Mel. I promise to be good. I won't even sulk if we don't get a strike. But somehow I have a hunch that this is going to be "IT". Somehow I feel it's going to be one of those times you dream about, or read about in the magazines.

And if it is you'll be hearing about it. And if I don't get along to that office I'll be hearing about it. So, so long until tomorrow.

Washington Daybook
 By Preston Greer
 Washington—By a harmonious little departmental agreement, members of Congress are given a two-hour "beat" on announcement of grants of WPA or PWA money to their home states. The result is that instead of the home paper simply announcing that a PWA grant of $5,432.37 has been made for a sewer in Burrs Crossing, a volupulous piece like the following may come out:
 "Rep. Jerry Doodle announced today that the PWA had granted $5,432.37 to build a sewer in Burrs Crossing."
 But reporters covering the departments are already shaking down the agreement. They don't like to be held off for two hours, even for the benefit of desperate congressmen.

Slums Near Capitol
 Senator Schwelmbach of Washington was stopped dead in his tracks in a capitol corridor by a 15 year old girl he had known since she was a tot. "Why," she asked, "does the government spend so much on Senators when there are hundreds of people living in slums within three blocks of the capitol?"
 He didn't have much of an answer for her. There are slums within three blocks.

Dreariest place in Washington
 Just now is the cavernous capitol building. Except when the tourists troop through it, it is so quiet a person can stand on the first floor and hear steps echoing along the tiled corridors of the third floor.
 A few members of Congress bob in from time to time, mostly Senators. House members have high-tailed it home. Every one of them has to stand for election. Only a third of the Senators are so trapped each election year.
 Steel gates have been drawn across entrances to the Senate and House restaurants. Here and there on the tables a random glass or plate remains to collect dust until the 76th Congress comes next January.

Two's A Famous Victory
 There is plenty of noise at times. Tourist parties are led through at frequent intervals by guides with loud, haranguing voices. "This is a painting of the battle of Lake Erie in the war of 1812. The man standing in the prow of the row-boat is 28-year-old Commodore Perry, being conveyed from his sinking flagship to another ship that carried him to victory over the British. Pointed in eighteen fifty-five at a cost of just-high tens and eight hundred dollars, it is one of the largest panels in the capitol."
 The party moves on to rest for a moment in forlorn quiet in the Senate gallery while the guide explains where such and such famous Senators sit—when Congress is in session. A clerk strolls across the Senate floor, stops to glance at a forgotten sheet on the vice president's desk and flounces out, leaving glass doors swinging squeakily.
 Pigeons tootle at each other from their perches on the draped marble females above the main entrance.
 Wish to blase? Billy Rose would come down from New York and fling a circus in the dizzy old barn. It needs something to keep it alive between congresses.

OLD IRON FROM MINES YIELDS $5,500 IN GOLD
 San Jose, Calif. (AP)—Olin M. Hayes is still a junk dealer, but he's working now in an entirely different way.
 Familiar with the practice of miners, who pile up scrap metal from the mines, he bought up the junk piles of several old mines. Then he loaded them into a concrete mixer, ground off all the rust and panned the latter for gold.
 He says that in four months of hard work he has recovered bullion worth $5,500.

Election Still Echoes—The primary song is over but the melody lingers on—only it isn't very melodious. Offensive odors still continue to rise from the voting in Johnston, Alamance, Halifax and Guilford, at least. The Guilford grand jury indicates it has heard evidence of "scandalous and criminal" conditions in High Point and has asked for an assistant Attorney General to help prosecution of the guilty. Poll officials have been ousted in Alamance and Johnston and the Halifax lid seems on the point of being blown off.
 Good Record—The State REA reports that for the third year in succession it has not used all the appropriation made for it by the legislature—a record practically unique among state agencies.

SHORT SHOTS
 By HENRY AVERILL
 Raleigh, June 27.—Recently this correspondent characterized the Housing Act decision of the North Carolina Supreme Court as by far the most important event of a week in Raleigh; and the publicity that decision is now getting out of Washington clearly attests the fact that the writer was indulging in no overstatement.
 Straight from the office of the Federal Housing Administrator come words of high praise for the court and for the decision—one which is cited as a precedent for others in similar vein throughout the country.
 In this connection the City of Wilmington—and particularly its sometimes erratic, but always energetic and progressive Mayor Thomas E. Cooper—is entitled to more than a leaf of laurel for being the first in North Carolina to come to real grips with the slums problem which, contrary to the opinion of some of our ostrich like folks who stick their heads in the sand, exists in every one of the cities (even the smaller ones) of the state.
 The expense accounts being filed by candidates in the late and unlamented primary of June 4 indicate that all is not always beer and skittles even for the successful political aspirant.
 Take a look at the size of the bills footed by them. In many cases a chap who has been nominated for a four-year term spent close to a year's salary in so doing.
 Politics, like jail, is a good thing to be on the outside looking on the inside, rather than vice versa.
 In connection with campaign expenses, the radio stations of the land must be viewing with alarm the announced intention of an Oklahoma woman candidate to broadcast by telepathy, which doesn't net the stations even a time. Suppose it works.
 This is passed along to the Safety Division as about the best advice on proper methods of being a pedestrian—
 Starting up Fayetteville street recently your correspondent was stopped by a red light. On the same corner were two Negro women, one very old, the other obviously young and frisky.
 The lights changed, the younger woman grabbed the older by the arm and started off without a glance in either direction.
 Old Auntie hung back; looked right; looked left.
 "O, come on, we've got the lights," urged the young one quite impatiently.
 "Now, chile, always look at dem clyars, dem lights can't run over you" replied the sage old age.
 Your correspondent has no fundamental objection as a matter of principle to the new gadget which will cause the license plate to fall off every time the bumper hits anything. It's designed to identify hit-and-run drivers.
 But it would be a lot of trouble putting that license plate back on after every trim into and out of that triply-condemned garage some idiot located in the middle of a jigsaw puzzle in our back yard.
 Orchids to Judge Clawson L. Williams for his "Let 'em wait, they've been married before" remark in answer to pleas to hasten a lot of divorce cases on the plea that many of the principals wanted to get married right away.
 Scallions to the same jurist for the use of what approximated "third degree" tactics in forcing a verdict from a Vance county jury in a manslaughter case.

What It Means
 gooding American public opinion into alertness.
 4.—The American government is responding to the increased interest of citizens by changing the pattern of its foreign policy to include more show of backbone, and a new element of mystery. Secretary Hull publicly calls it the middle of the road policy. It is definitely not a chip on the shoulder, fight at the drop of a hat policy. Neither is it a peace at any price policy. The main idea is to keep our powder dry (represented by a big navy) and keep aggressor nations dark about what America may or may not do in the future.
 Lessons Of The Past
 Here is the way the men who make our foreign policy have the international picture analyzed:
 The most powerful nation in the world cannot afford to say at this critical hour in world affairs that she will not fight for freedom of the seas, or any other principle. Neither can she risk a war by keeping her rifles pointed at anybody else's head, and threaten to fire, for Americans actively oppose war.
 On the other hand, the men in high places know what American public opinion can do when it gets stirred up. They know what happened in World War days. They recognize that Wilson's ultimatum against the submarines in 1915 was ultimately the piece of paper that drew us into war.
 They know that the statesmen of the world blundered after the war when they strangled Central Europe in an economic vice, until Germany and her sympathetic neighbors were driven in desperation to retaliate.
 They feel that America can offer to the world a program of economic freedom, and fair treatment to all, but that she must also stand for the principles laid down in treaties such as the nine-power pact, which Japan is now ignoring.
 No Entangling Alliances
 These men reason that Germany's advances in Central Europe, and Japan's conquests in the Orient, however justified they may seem, could lead to the formation of a tremendous bloc of nations—nations that would put up "no trespassing" signs on great sections of the world's oceans.
 Such a state of affairs, they argue, would inevitably run into America's century-old stand for freedom of the seas. In the event of incidents, American public opinion would flare up as it has in the past.
 So the strategy of the moment is to delay the advances of Germany and Japan as long as possible, until those nations themselves make up their minds, (1) that world opinion and (2) the fleets of other nations should not be tempted too far. At the same time America, whatever else happens, must still avoid entangling alliances.
 That's why the element of mystery—that business of keeping the other fellow guessing—has been injected into our foreign policy. The men who mold that policy see signs of increased interest in foreign affairs. They feel justified in stiffening our diplomatic tone. They want Germany and Japan to see our millions standing together, plus a tremendous battle fleet, when they look over Uncle Sam's shoulder—any they don't want anybody to know exactly what those millions or that fleet will do in a pinch.

OCTAGON HOUSE
 BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR
 The Story So Far: Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has enraged her. She was killed by a left handed blow from the knife of her sister Pam Frye. Interested parties are Tim Carr, once married to Marina, Roddy Strutt, whose alibiing plane crash was deliberate; Peggy Boone, an artist; Jennings, a state plumber, and persons unknown who burned down the Frye barn, destroyed Jack Lorne's mural sketches and defaced the mural itself. Missing is a $50,000 lump of ambergris belonging to Pam. Then Roddy is killed by carbon monoxide poisoning.
 Chapter 45
 No Clues
 "STRUTT said they expected trouble," the officer said. "They don't seem to know just what kind, but they expected it. They had the place all armed and fortified. Under those circumstances, now did anyone get here without being seen? And why did Strutt unlock the garage and go in? He must have, too. The garage key is on the same ring with the car keys that were in the roadster, and they tell me that no one else had a key to this garage. Seems there'd been a bit of trouble with the servants swiping the roadster for their joy rides, and that's why it was here all by itself. What was the idea, Asey?"
 "No one knows any ideas," Asey said wearily. "It's my opinion that the servants was fed up with this armin' an' the fortifyin', and that except for the two in at the driveway gates, no one was doin' any guardin' at all. I've got some pretty good evidence that the rest was mostly occupied with a crap game an' field day, in the basement. It was gettin' dark when Roddy disappeared. Someone could have sneaked along the shore all right, without being seen. I can't find out why Roddy come here."
 "Date, maybe?" Lane suggested. "He had every opportunity to make dates," Asey said. "He's been phonin' they're right an' left all day, an' they been phonin' him. Carveth put his foot down on a couple of parties Roddy'd planned here for today, but you can't tell how many other dates he might have made."
 "But if they were afraid of trouble," Lane said, "would Roddy have made dates, or come down here without telling anyone? And if he'd seen a prowler, why'n't he yell?"
 Asey shrugged. "I think, myself, that he must of had a date with someone that he wanted to keep quiet about, or one with someone he never thought of as bein' a menace. He came here, met 'em, went into the garage for a chat—this is a secluded sort of place, here. An' durin' the chat, he got his. Did you find anythin' in the garage, by the way?"
 "Clues? No. It's a clean garage. There were things in the car, but they were the sort of things you'd expect to find in a car of his. Hairpins and a lipstick or two, and a glass bead, and compacts, and a powder puff—all shades lead me to feel that he preferred blondes. Come on and look."
 Asey went into the garage.
 "You know," Lane said, displaying the articles, "you don't get clues in a thing of this sort, unless—"
 "Less," Asey said, "you have someone step into some fresh cement, or write names an' addresses an' phone numbers on the corpse's shirt front. Doc, I'm drivin' back in Tim's car. You're comin' to see Aaron, ain't you? Well, I'll meet you at the Octagon House. Thanks. Lane. Happy huntin'."
 Offhand, he thought as he drove along home, offhand he couldn't remember when he had ever felt more bitterly named of himself. More so than when he had seen the Strutt home the night before! If only he had gone to see Roddy, and ironed out the situation. If only he had shown some trace of common sense! If only he had, Roddy might still be alive.
 He reproached himself steadily and forcefully all the way along the beach road.
 "Gentle Philosophizing"
 OF COURSE, even if he had gone, he'd only have learned about the Jennings episode, and considered Jennings the menace. That wouldn't have helped matters much. He might have talked with Roddy, but he wouldn't have gone far without the pilot's side of the story to use as a crowbar in prying out the truth.
 The chances were that whoever set out to kill Roddy would have killed him in any case. Everyone in the town knew of the guarding and the fortifications of the Strutt house, but the preparations had not deterred the murderer in the least. He had made up his mind to kill Roddy, and he did just that.
 And Marina had been killed in that same grimly determined way. The barn had been burned by someone with the same determination and disregard for consequences. The mural had been obliterated with finality and deliberation. The key stealing was neat and deliberate. Everything, in fact, that seemed to matter was characterized by the same quiet and efficient force. By neat timing and firm thinking. The fellow thought things out, and things went with a fine smoothness for him.
 He turned into the driveway of the Octagon House.
 Mrs. Carr, followed by Emma on her leash, walked down from the porch to meet him. They were the only ones up, she informed him.
 "Pam and Peg were tired to death, and so was Tim. I packed them to bed. Aaron's asleep, mercifully, but he—Asey, what's happened now, you seem so dejected—I know. You need food!"
 "I always wondered," Asey said as they went indoors, why a woman always thinks that all anyone needs to make 'em feel better is just a little food. I do," he added hurriedly, before Mrs. Carr could retort, "need food. An' if you can find me some super-spinach that'll give me the brains to settle this—don't yell at the news—this murder of Roddy Strutt, I'll be willin' to trail you around on Emma's leash."
 "So he's been killed, has he?" She didn't seem perturbed by the information. "It doesn't surprise me—oh, here's the chicken Pam was saving—no, not a bit. Nothing would surprise me at this point. Why was he killed?"
 "I ain't at the who or why stage yet," Asey said, attacking the chicken.
 "Is it the same one who killed Marina that did this? Really? Why?"
 "I can't give you facts," Asey said. "Only a sort of gentle philosophizin' about the simple murder. I don't think I ever seen anythin' more simple than these two murders. Girl stabbed with someone else's knife. No clues. Man stunned an' stuck under exhaust pipe. No clues. There you are. Smart Smooth. Unobtrusive. Like. Use poison, an' toxicologist'll get you. But use a stolen knife an' carbon monoxide, an' combine 'em with a passion for removin' finger prints. An' a lack of collar buttons an' false teeth left behind—oh, you got somethin' here, you have! We got to prove you took the knife. We got to prove you started the car, so to speak. An' very few murderers invite audiences."
 "Some Nice Person?"
 "WHAT were the motives?" Mrs. Carr asked.
 "Roddy an' Marina," Asey said. "sort of inspired motives. The place is littered with reasons for people to kill 'em."
 "Why," Mrs. Carr asked, "do people kill people, anyway? I was tryin' to think, today, just why I wanted to kill Marina, and all I could think of was, she'd hurt Tim. That seems so vague!"
 "Usually it's love or money," Asey said, "or variations on 'em. There are others, of course. I once knew a man who killed another man on account of bein' unduly sensitive about his toupee, but that ain't a normal one."
 "Well, murderers aren't normal, anyway," Mrs. Carr said.
 "Emma," Asey said, "is a normal cat. She eats, an' she sleeps, an' she's bright enough to be trained to a leash. How normal would Emma be, if she got a real chance at that parrot?"
 "I almost wish," Mrs. Carr said sincerely, "that she would. Toots is the most inhuman bird—just sits and stares and stares, and never a word! I suppose that Toots and Emma, between them, know the whole story. They pretend to, anyway. But Asey, murderers aren't normal. They can't be."
 "I don't see why there's this far-reachin' theory," Asey said, "that murderers have to be either eccentric people with too many brains, or dumb clods without any. More often than not, it's a nice person who turns out to be a murderer. 'Course, by the time the experts get through, they've got all the symptoms listed in the doc's book, an' you wonder why they wasn't put away behind bars at the age of three an' a half."
 "You think it was some nice person who killed Marina and Roddy?" Mrs. Carr asked anxiously.
 "Oh, dear, I thought it would be someone—well, not with a beard, and teeth missing, but someone—"
 "With a leer and no socks," Asey said. "I know. Praps it is. But they got a nice way of thinkin'. I give 'em credit."
 "How'll you find him?"
 "By time," Asey said. "Time, an' some other odds an' ends, like who ruined the mural—"
 "Oh, has that been ruined? How perfectly splendid! How perfectly wonderful!"
 Asey chuckled. "An' I got to find out who burned the barn," he said, "an' who saw Roddy Strutt on Friday night—"
 "That sounds terribly difficult!"
 "It is," Asey said. "An' I got to find out if Lorne's drawings was burned for spite, or a purpose. An' just the time element alone is enough to keep one man busy for the end of his days."

Wall Street Points to a Gloomy Half Year
 Though Stocks Held Up Better Than in '37
 STOCK PRICES COMPLETE A CYCLE
 This shows what happened to the longest uninterrupted bull market in stocks ever recorded. After 24 months without any month-end closing below the first trading day, ticker quotations collapsed in one of the sharpest declines in history.
 (Associated Press Financial Writer)
 NEW YORK — Wall street limped through the first half of 1938 with trading in the stock exchange at the slowest pace since the early post-war days.
 The half-year saw a March slump bring share prices to the lowest levels since April of 1933. But prices recovered moderately after that, and went into the summer well above their lows.
 A highlight of the period was a drastic shakeup of the stock exchange's administrative machinery, no doubt hastened by the insolvency and sending to prison of Richard Whitney, a former president and leader of the so-called "old guard" faction of its membership.
 An End To "Cracking Down"
 Toward mid-year, the money street was encouraged by the subsidence of telling, slight signs of life in the market for new securities after months of stagnation and statement by SEC Chairman Wm. O. Douglas that a new period of cooperation seemed under way, and "cracking down" on the stock exchange at an end.
 Despite the March slump, stocks held up much better in the first half of 1938 than in the last half of 1937. As of June 1, the exchange calculated the total quoted value of all listed shares at $34,500,000,000, only four billion, three hundred million dollars from January 2, but down $2,700,000,000 from a year previously.
 But bonds, which held up well through 1937, joined the decline of shares in the early months of 1938. This was particularly true of rails. The total quoted value of all issues listed in the stock exchange was $42,300,000,000 as of June 1, off about four billion seven hundred million dollars since the start of the year.
 Big Drop In Sales
 Transactions on the stock exchange for the half year, approximately 100,000,000 shares, were the lowest for a comparable period since 1921 and less than half the volume in the same months last year.
 In the listed bond market, the face value of transactions was the smallest for a similar period since 1918.
 As midyear approached there was wide discussion in Wall street as to whether this inertia, invoking comparisons with conditions preceding upswings in 1932 and 1935, signalled the end of the bear market and transition to another recovery movement.
 Late in the Spring, speculation appeared to be guided chiefly by opinion as to how effective credit-expansion and federal spending would be in promoting recovery in the second half of 1938 and in '39. Tunes of "inflation" sentiment again appeared on the surface of markets. Disclosure of the administration's program early in April

 Washington—By a harmonious little departmental agreement, members of Congress are given a two-hour "beat" on announcement of grants of WPA or PWA money to their home states. The result is that instead of the home paper simply announcing that a PWA grant of $5,432.37 has been made for a sewer in Burrs Crossing, a volupulous piece like the following may come out:
 "Rep. Jerry Doodle announced today that the PWA had granted $5,432.37 to build a sewer in Burrs Crossing."
 But reporters covering the departments are already shaking down the agreement. They don't like to be held off for two hours, even for the benefit of desperate congressmen.

Greenies Win Saturday, 6-3; Sunday's Tilt Rained Out

PLAY TARBORO HERE TUESDAY

Locals also Have Trio Other Contests with Serpents During the Week

With a big crowd on hand and everything set for yesterday's contest between Greenville and Williamston at Third Street, a small "cloudburst" sent fans scampering to shelter and the game was called off after 35 minutes of rainfall.

The Greenies today were in Kingston to play a rained-out game postponed there recently. If the Greenies could be given credit for the runs they made in the game that was called in account of rain, they would have a good lead, but such is not the case. The game was called at the end of the fourth with the locals leading 6-0.

Following today's contest, the Greenies will open a two-game series with the Serpents in Greenville tomorrow, going there Wednesday to engage the top rung club. Goldsboro will be here Thursday. Greenville there Friday. The week-end series will be with Tarboro, the teams playing here Saturday and in Tarboro Sunday.

Greenville is paired with Ayden for the Fourth of July contests. The Pitt teams meeting at Third Street park in the morning and going to Ayden for the afternoon contest.

The Greenies took Saturday's contest with Williamston, 6-3, by piling up two runs in each of the first three innings. Williamston got three in the third after which both teams were held scoreless.

Fred Caligiuri held the Martins to four hits until the eighth when he got into trouble, putting two on base as a result of a single and a walk with none out. Don King went in and held Williamston hitless and runless for the remainder of the game.

Mooney Rescues His Mates From the Aces

Tarboro, June 27.—The Big Ben was ticking again yesterday. Called on in the third inning to rescue Wally Sleminski, Bernard (Big Ben) Mooney came through with a fine performance and cashed in with his third victory within a week. Ayden's Aces furnished the opposition for Tarboro, and margin of the Serpents' win was 5-3.

Bill Herring Ayden's starter, also was shelled from the hill in a hurry. Danny York, former Serpent, relieved Herring and offered two-run and five-hit pitching in a seven-inning turn.

Mooney came to the hill after Sleminski had walked two batters and yielded one hit in the third. An error by Myers led in two runs. The Aces' other score came in the fifth—Schuerholz singled, stole second, scored on Gasaway's single.

The Serpents made three runs at Herring's expense. A single by Lehman started it. Hits by Ware, Myers, Lowery and Henry finished the job, with the help of an error.

Ware tripled in the third, and scored on Myers' single.

Yesterday's win enabled Tarboro to pull out of a first-place tie with Kingston's Eagles, who were rained out.

Rain blocked half of Sunday's 4-game schedule. All clubs in the league are scheduled to perform today in play-off of postponed contests.

PHOTO MEMO The City's Full Of Pitfalls

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW

THERE'S plenty of danger lurking about when the city child plays in the summer time. The crowded park playground and the street are likely to be his only play spots, and there are hazards in both.

PLAYGROUND: Blisters ahead

STREET: Strictly a business proposition

PARKED AUTO: No place to fool

The small youngster may find it hard even to get near the equipment in a park. And if he isn't used to doing front-face flops down the slide, he's likely to forget and grab hold with his hands. That means blisters and skinned fingers.

At that, a playground is better than the street. But if no playground is accessible, see to it that your child plays in streets shut off from traffic. He may get hit in the eye with a baseball, but at least he won't be run down by a truck. Most cities shut off a few streets for at least part of the day.

Parked cars look enticing to the youngster wandering about in search of excitement. He hops in and experiments with the self-starter and choke—often disastrously. Emphasize—with hair-brush, if necessary—that cars get started a lot more easily than they stop.

Climbing fire escapes is on the black list, too. Even if mother is at the window to supervise, a youngster may lose his footing.

UNIVERSAL THE WASHER WITH THE Safety Switch

You will find that all UNIVERSAL DeLuxe Washers have this extra safety feature—an automatic safety switch, quick and positive in its action which protects operator and machine—other features are—an oversized tub, moisture proof motor, direct transmission and precision cut gears. Equipped with a UNIVERSAL Streamlined Agitator it is so designed that it automatically separates each piece of laundry and washes thoroughly. When you see this washer, you will be surprised that a washer of such outstanding quality can possibly be priced so low.

Extra size improved motor.
 Modern chromium plated wringer.
 Balloon rolls.
 Adjustable wringer pressure.
 Instantaneous safety release.
 Quiet running transmission.
 Capacity, 8 pounds.

See the UNIVERSAL before you buy. Let us give you a 3 minute demonstration. It will convince you that the UNIVERSAL is the washer you will want to own.

Remove Penalties
On Lax Employers

Raleigh, June 27—Attention of employers who are delinquent in their payments of contributions for 1936, or who paid after the limit of April 1, 1937, is again called to the attention of the Revenue Act passed by Congress which will relieve them of penalties if they pay the nine-tenths of one per cent to the State Unemployment Compensation Commission and the one-tenth to the Internal Revenue office within 60 days after May 27, by July 25 of this year.

Those who failed to make the payments, as required by rulings of the Internal Revenue Department at the time, are now relieved of the penalty, if they pay the State Commission by July 25, the new law provides. Those employers who paid the full one per cent to the U. S. Internal Revenue office, should file claim for a refund. Chairman C. G. Powell, of the State Commission advises. This does not apply to 1937 contributions.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 27.—(AP)—Selected stocks, led by aircrafts, shook off profit selling in today's market and moved up fractions to two or more points.

At the same time many of last week's soaring favorites took a rest behind modest minus signs during the greater part of the session, although some of these edged upwards in the slowing period.

Hogs—Receipts very moderate; market 10¢ higher at top of $8.80 paid for good and choice 160 to 225 lb. run of corn fed hard finished gilts and barrows. Light and medium sows to $7.35; heavies to $7; soft and oily hogs sold subject to discount.

Cattle—Receipts very light, scarcely enough on offer to judge market. Quotations nominal. Good and choice vealers $8 to $8.50; mediums $7 to $7.50; common down to as low as $5; cows, all grades included in range, $3.25 to $6 or slightly better on fat butchers. Bulls $4 to $6.50; common steers $5 to $6.50; mediums $7 to $7.50; good $8 to $8.50; choice steers $9 to $9.50.

Weather cloudy, temperature 82.

An image of Marco Polo, who visited Hangchow (which he called Kinsay) in the 13th century, is still to be seen in the picturesque Lingyin Monastery.

There are no jury trials in China. In the lower courts, all powers are vested in a single judge. In the case of appeal to the high court, three judges render final decision.

New York Cotton

New York, June 24.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened two to four advance on higher Liverpool cables and rains in the cotton belt over the week-end.

After October had sold off from 8.80 to 8.76, it recovered to 8.79 shortly after the first half hour, when the list was net unchanged to three higher.

At midday October had sold off from 8.83 to 8.80, with the market net unchanged to four points higher.

Futures closed four to six lower. Spot steady, middling 8.81.

Many Big Counties Fail to Get Share in Assembly

Raleigh, June 27.—Any idea that representation of North Carolina counties in the state House is based on the votes cast in the counties is an entirely erroneous one, a casual review of the votes cast in the 1936 General Election for Governor shows quite clearly.

As a matter of theory, the representatives are apportioned on the basis of population as of the last decennial census, but the present apportionment doesn't even conform to that requirement of the Constitution—it's based on the census of 1920, not 1930.

Four counties have three representatives each—Gulfport, Mecklenburg, Wake and Forsyth. But these counties weren't the four high voting units in the 1936 race. Buncombe which has only two seats, was second only to Guilford, which carried off high with 34,202 votes.

Buncombe voted 32,674 for second place, followed by Mecklenburg in third with 29,817 and Forsyth in fourth with 22,885. Wake wasn't even fifth. Gaston (a two-representative county), getting that place with 21,473 to Wake's 20,832, which landed it sixth.

No less than five counties entitled at present to two seats cast less than 10,000 votes each in the 1936 gubernatorial race, the low of this group being reached in Halifax where only 7,959 voters went to the polls to make a choice between Clyde R. Hoey and Gilliam Grissom (in justice to Halifax it should be pointed out that more than that many voted in the 1936 gubernatorial primary). Other less than ten thousand two-seat counties were: Pitt 9,207; Wayne 8,449; Nash 8,290; and New

Hanover 8,182.

On the other hand there were seventeen counties which get only one representative each which cast more than ten thousand votes in the same contest. They were Alamance, Ashe, Burke, Cabarrus, Caldwell, Catawba, Cleveland, Davidson, Haywood, Henderson, Iredell, Randolph, Rutherford, Surry, Sampson, Stanley and Wilkes.

RUSSIANS LEARNING IN SPECIAL COURSES HOW TO SPOT SPIES

Moscow, (AP)—Detection of spies is being taught to red army officers and political commissars, the latter the communist party's "eyes and ears" among the troops.

A new course in this training classes is entitled, "Methods of the struggle against spying, wrecking Service."

diversion and terrorist activity of the intelligence services of capitalist countries and of their Trotskyist-Bukharinite agents.

Another indication of the interest in secret police activities was the announcement that a detachment of troops in Middle Asia would climb, as part of their training, a mountain in Tajikistan.

give millions of smokers MORE PLEASURE than any other cigarette

Makes 'em all take Notice...
... just a wisp of Chesterfield's aroma tells you right away—there's a real cigarette.

That's because Chesterfields are blended with skill from aromatic Turkish and mild, ripe home-grown tobaccos.

Light one and at once you'll know that Chesterfields are milder and taste better.
