MAY ANNOUNCE HOSPITAL SITE ANY TIME NOW

Decision Probably To Be Revealed Tomorrow

FDR TO LEAVE ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Federal Housing Administration To Insure Billion Dollars in New Building

Washington, July 6. (AP) — Brigadier General Frank Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, said today President Roosevelt might approve a site for a new veterans' hospital in North Carolina before leaving Thursday night on his trip west.

A recommendation for a site has been approved by the Budget Bureau and now is on the way to the White House, Hines said. "It would not be made public," he added, until it received presidential approval.

The hospital, to contain 350 beds, will cost $1,250,000.

Hines called on President Roosevelt today for a general discussion of veterans' hospital projects, but said he did not take up the one in North Carolina.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt heard from Stewart McDonald, Federal Housing Administrator, that the FHA would insure $1,000,000,000 of new building this year.

McDonald reported this total would be more than double of last year.

Carrying numerous charts and tables to give Mr. Roosevelt a picture of the trend in home construction, McDonald said he reported the FHA did a $96,000,000 business in home mortgages during June, an increase of 74 per cent over the same month last year.

The total excluded $17,000,000 in modernization and repair loans and $8,000,000 in large-scale rental projects.

The President's heavy calling list was designed to leave him free to begin preparation tomorrow of the first of his addresses that he will make on his trans-continental speaking tour.

Other developments: The President studied a list of candidates for wage-hour administrator, presumably intent on filling the new post before starting westward.

Capital speculation over his possible choice for the $10,000-a-year job centered on two persons, Don Nelson, vice-president of Sears-Roebuck and Company, and a former NRA official, and Lowell Mellett, executive director of the National Emergency Council.

The Naval Hospital said Frank McNinch, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, was undergoing treatment for colitis.

Senator Burke (D-N.C.), predicted that administration efforts to defeat anti-Roosevelt Democrats would be limited to three senatorial primaries, including that of Senator Smith of South Carolina.

Farmville Voters For School Bonds

Election Carried Yesterday to Provide Funds for New Heating System and Gymnasium

Farmville citizens yesterday voted for the issuance of $45,000 in bonds, the money to be used for school improvements. Of the 440 persons registered, 311 voted for the proposal and only 10 against. The voting was against the registration.

The fund will be used for the installation of a new heating system, the old plant having been condemned by the State Insurance Commission, and for the erection of a gymnasium.

It is proposed to secure a PWA grant of 45 per cent of the total cost of the project, the $45,000 being 55 per cent required by the sponsor. An application is pending with the PWA and officials expressed little doubt the grant would be forthcoming.

But the river won again. Here's the wreckage of their small home-made boat after it struck a submerged rock near Cerro, N. M. Wakefield is missing and it is feared he was drowned. Hunt was injured but managed to reach the bank.

NEW REQUESTS FILED BY A.C.L.

System Would Discontinue Passenger Train Service

Raleigh, July 7.—(AP)—Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne took under advisement today requests of the Atlantic Coast Line system to stop Sunday passenger train operations between Wilmington and Sanford and the tri-weekly passenger service between Wilmington and New Bern.

Winborne asked the railroad to provide him with further information to support its contention the trains should be stopped due to losses.

Three other applications of the company, to stop service between Kingston and Weldon, between Washington and Parmele and between Plymouth and Tarboro, were set for hearing Friday, but may be postponed.

J. C. Pittman of Sanford appeared to protest against the Wilmington-Sanford discontinuance, and Clifton Moore of Burgaw appeared to represent Atkinson citizens opposing the stoppage.

Tomorrow protesting communities involved in the other three petitions are to file written requests for information they contend the railroad should furnish them and Friday Winborne is to decide whether to postpone the hearings or not.

Work on Parkway Goes on At Unusually Fast Rate

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, July 6.—Work on the $20,000,000 Blue Ridge Parkway which will extend for almost 500 miles from the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Western North Carolina through to the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia is progressing rapidly on the North Carolina links, according to information at the Highway Commission here.

To date there are 114 miles completed, under construction or under contract. By the middle of the month, it is hoped that contracts will be let for an additional 30 or 40 miles, so that every link in it from the Virginia line to the Asheville area will either be completed or under way.

Approximately 60 miles of the parkway have been completed in North Carolina from the Virginia line southwest to Deep Gap, where it intersects U. S. Highway 421 about ten miles east of Boone. This portion of the parkway is not open to travel this summer, however, due to the fact that it is now being surfaced and the paving work will keep it closed until about October 15. After that time it will be open to travel.

Construction work has been started on two segments of the parkway beginning at Grandmother Gap, 14 miles southwest of Blowing Rock on U. S. Highway 221, known as the Yonahlossee Trail, which will become a part of the parkway when the State of North Carolina deeds it to the National Park Service.

These two segments amount to about 22 miles and take the parkway completely through the Linville Falls-McKinney Gap and Gooch Gap sections.

Still more recently the contract has been let for a third sector of almost 10 miles, which will extend the parkway through and beyond the Little Switzerland area toward Buck Creek Gap.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and the National Park Service are now considering letting contracts

PITT WELFARE OFFICES BUSY

Officer Releases Summary of 1937-1938 Activities

A summary of activities of the Pitt County Department of Public Welfare, prepared by K. T. Furell, welfare officer, was released today, showing the various work carried on by the division during the fiscal year 1937-38.

The summary follows: In July, 1937, the administration of the Public Assistance Program, a part of the Social Security Program, was added to the eleven legislative duties of the County Welfare Department.

During the fiscal year, 670 investigations were made for Old Age Assistance. Of this number 437 persons of the allotted quota of 500 received Old Age Assistance checks for June. The quarterly averages reported by the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare for Pitt County corresponded closely to the state average. During the year, 59 cases have been closed; 7 were transferred to other counties by reason of the change in residence; 47 have died. Of the remaining 5 cases closed some became able to support themselves or their relatives or their assumed support.

One hundred and sixty-five inquiries were made during the year. (Continued on page two)

ERROR BOOSTS BURGIN'S LEAD

Lexington Attorney Won Seat by Margin of 75 Votes

Charlotte, July 6.—(AP)—A revision in Hoke county official returns from Saturday's run-off primary today made increases in the lead of W. O. Burgin, Lexington attorney, over C. B. Deane's, Rockingham lawyer, for the eighth district Democratic Congressional nomination to 75 votes. On previous figures, the margin was only 39 votes.

The latest returns, all official except those from Wilkes and Montgomery counties, gave Burgin 19,342, Deane 19,267.

Hoke officials said the correct vote, in the county was Deane 571, Burgin 334, instead of 589 and 316 as originally announced.

In the other congressional race, in the sixth district, official returns gave Lewis Teague, High Point municipal judge, 16,509 votes and Oscar Barker, Durham lawyer, 15,787.

Dissatisfaction over the way the voting was conducted was voiced by Burgin and Deane. Deane asked the impounding of ballot boxes in Union and Davidson counties and filed a protest in Montgomery which resulted in postponement of the official canvass until Friday.

The Davidson board late yesterday dismissed Deane's protest against certification of the vote and the Union board dismissed his request for a recount of ballots in forty city of Monroe boxes.

Burgin asked a recount in Richmond, Deane's home county. It will be held Friday.

There was also discontent in the 11th judicial district as unofficial returns gave J. Abner Barker of Roseboro the solicitor nomination over Rivers Johnston of Warsaw. The vote was Barker 6,793; Johnston 6,552.

Greater Revenues Were Not Results Of Heavier Taxes

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, July 6.—The fact that North Carolina's revenue collections have soared so high in recent years does not mean that the state's citizens have been carrying a correspondingly heavier burden of taxation. State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson said today.

"The tremendous increase has come about as the result of the state's assumption of functions once reserved to the counties and cities he said.

For example, he cited the fact that North Carolina is the only state in the Union in which every warrant for every teacher is paid through the state treasury. With the exception of local supplements for a nine-months term in some localities, the state pays out—and accordingly collects—all school funds of all kinds whatsoever.

The same is true of the highway department, Mr. Johnson observed. Even down to the lowest and least important road employ the state does the paying, he said.

It follows as a natural result that the collections of the state have increased not because the citizens are being more heavily taxed, but because the duty of collecting the taxes has been shifted from local units to the state.

The tremendous increase in state collections began only when the state took over financing schools roads. In 1928, for example, it was somewhat gleefully reported that the state had made the largest collections in its history—having taken in something more than $13,000,000 in total revenues—a sum less than one-fifth of the almost seventy million dollars which clinked into the till during the fiscal year ended last week.

During one year of the California gold strike in 1849 10,000 men died of various diseases caused by lack of food, shelter and medical supplies.

BRITAIN SLOW IN EFFECTING ITALIAN PACT

Contend Full Terms of Agreement Not Fulfilled

CIVIL WAR END ONE REQUISITE

Special Agents Sent to Both Spanish Capitals; Meanwhile, Insurgents Push Drive

London, July 6.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today refused to hasten the Anglo-Italian agreement in effect or even name a definite date for its coming into force.

He told the House of Commons he felt conditions for making the accord, signed at Rome April 16, operative had not been fulfilled. These included "settlement" of the Spanish Civil war.

Some progress in that direction was made today when Britain sent special messengers to capitals of both Spanish factions seeking approval of the European non-intervention committee $13,750,000 plan for withdrawal of alien troops from Spain.

Replying to a question by J. J. Davidson, laborite, the Prime Minister said:

"His Majesty's government have repeatedly said they were not in the position to give full effect to the agreement until certain conditions had been fulfilled. At the same time, as I stated in this house June 22, His Majesty's government are anxious to see the agreement brought into force at the earliest date possible so long as it is with fulfillment of the above mentioned condition."

Italy is known to have been urging Britain for quick fulfillment of the agreement, but Chamberlain is understood to have been holding out for a "substantial" withdrawal of Italians fighting for the Italian Insurgents.

Hendaye, France, July 6.—(AP)—Insurgent troops fanned out into the foothills of the Sierra de Espadana and attack Government positions along a 12-mile front today.

Flood Surges Through Principal Japan Port

Estimates Place Number of Dead at More Than 400

Tokyo, July 6.—(AP)—A disastrous flood surged tonight through Kobe, principal port of western Japan, and reliable estimates placed the number of dead at between 400 and 480 persons.

A Kobe resident telephoned to Tokyo that destruction was heavy. He said the final death toll might reach 1,000.

The Kobe inundation came on the heels of serious floods which swept widespread areas of Japan, including Tokyo, last week, the results of extreme heavy rains.

The home ministry announced that 861 persons were killed, injured or are missing in last week's flood and in western Japan up to yesterday.

Tokyo, July 7 (Thursday)—(AP)—Scores of American residents were imperiled early today by a flood roaring out of its surrounding hills into Kobe, principal port of Western Japan, where the dead were estimated at between 400 and 480.

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—The State Department received word from Walter McConaughy, American consul at Kobe, Japan, today that he believed all Americans in Kobe had escaped the torrential flood. He said, however, he was making further checks on American residents.

CHINESE SCORE AGAINST JAPS

Gain Momentary Advantage on Three War Fronts

Shanghai, July 6.—(AP)—Chinese forces, at the end of the first year of war with Japan, gained momentary advantage on three fronts today.

Along the Yangtze river about Hukow they succeeded in laying new mines to harry Japanese in a newly planned offensive toward Hankow, the provisional capital of China.

Along the Yellow river, where disastrous floods halted the Japanese rush toward Hankow in June, Chinese asserted they had inflicted 700 casualties and forced Japanese to retreat in southern Shansi province points after three days of fighting.

Along the coast, northeast of Nanking in Kiangsu province Chinese said they captured two towns, one 90 miles south of Hanchow and the other 130 miles south.

The Japanese were reported to have retreated to Tungshai, reversing their offensive to establish a stronger grip on the province.

United States Delegate Warns Forced Migration Can Prove To Be Serious

MEET CALLED BY ROOSEVELT

Thirty-Two Nation Conference Told By Head of U. S. Delegation that Pressure Against Minority Groups Can Bring "Catastrophic Suffering"

Evian-Les-Bains, France, July 6.—(AP)—M. C. Taylor, head of the United States delegation, gave a blunt warning to the 32-nation conference on refugees today that forced migration of political and racial groups can bring "catastrophic suffering" upon the world.

Addressing the opening session of the meeting, result of President Roosevelt invitation, to other nations to discuss the refugee problem, Taylor said "General unrest and international strains were unavoidable results of this migration."

He named only one country, Germany.

"I need not emphasize that discrimination and pressure against minority groups still disregard of elementary human life are contrary to the principles of what we have come to regard as accepted standards of civilization," the former head of the U. S. State Department declared.

He outlined the scope of the conference as to take in all problems dealing with the "great bodies of reluctant migrants who must be absorbed in abnormal circumstances with a disregard of economic conditions and at a time of stress."

Taylor's address was the main business of the opening session. The conference was inaugurated by Henry Berenson, chairman of the French Senate commission on Foreign Affairs, who formally welcomed the delegates.

The conference program listed four important items: 1—Steps to facilitate settlement in other countries of German political refugees who for the purpose of the conference were defined as "persons desiring to leave Germany as well as those who have left already."

2—Immediate assistance for the most urgent cases within existing immigration laws.

3—A system of registering refugees who lack official papers and are unable to obtain any.

4—Establishment of a permanent inter-governmental committee to work out long-range refugee problems and in co-operation with existing agencies.

New School Commission Has Broad Field Of Work

Raleigh, July 6.—While nothing was said directly about the matter, either in the legislative act empowering its appointment or in Governor Clyde R. Hoey's statement accompanying his nominations to the Commission to Examine and report upon the Public Education system, fate of the plan to establish a Twelfth Grade in North Carolina depends upon the recommendations made by this new board, whose field of activity is an extremely wide one.

Asked specifically about it today, the Governor told your correspondent that one of the subjects of investigation, report and recommendation would undoubtedly be the Twelfth Grade, though he was careful to specify that this problem isn't the only one which the commission will grapple.

Inasmuch as the Governor himself is definitely and positively committed to the principle of a Twelfth Grade there is little likelihood that he has named to the Commission anyone who is not generally sympathetic to the plan.

It is conceded in many school quarters, however, that in any investigation of the cost and feasibility of the Twelfth Grade plan there are many factors not entirely favorable to inauguration of such a system.

Composition of the Commission covers a wide field of activity. It is truly representative both of school and lay opinion, though it is obvious that at least five of the nine members are directly connected with the educational system, North Carolina and Duke University each has a representative from its faculty.

Junius Rose of Greenville represents city schools, J. H. Grigg, Shelby, is from a county system; while H. E. Stacy of Lumberton is a school board member. Lay members are Dr. Julian Miller of the press, Mrs. H. O. Etheridge of Asheville, representative of women's organizations; George Ross of Jackson Springs as Agriculture's spokesman; and Ben Cone of Greensboro, an industrialist.

Surviving are the parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Haddock, and Mr. and Mrs. Doremus Haddock, grandparents.

Mr. Emis, Free Will Baptist minister, held charge of the services.

Lost in Rockies

On a holiday outing with his parents in the Rocky Mountain National Park near Estes Park, Colo., four-year-old Alfred Bellhartz (above) vanished in the vicinity of swift-flowing Roaring river. Work is planned to divert the water from the riverbed in the belief the child fell into the turbulent stream.

Investigations were made for Aid to Dependent Children representing 414 children. 123 applications were approved for grants; 325 children benefiting from the aid. These funds are enabling the home to be more securely established; close supervision and constructive case work aims to improve the family relationships, standard of living; and community participation. Each mother is required to furnish the Superintendent of Welfare a monthly record of the expenditure of income earned and granted. The budgets are carefully studied and instructions given when needed to make the funds cover more necessities. Nine ADC cases have been closed by reason of change in residence to another county or because the mother became self-supporting.

More than 45 applications for Aid to the Blind were received. At this time 26 are receiving monthly checks. Operations for the removal of cataracts and other impairment of vision have been provided. In the preventative program of the Commission to the Blind the Welfare Office co-operated in providing more than 300 pairs of glasses to school children.

In co-operation with the County Health Department, the County Commissioners and the Welfare Department have provided 11 Burr cottages for tuberculosis patients. These screened cottages made by the NYA workers enable the patient to "take the cure" and remain at home—often a necessity in homes of low-income; and also, because the State Sanatoriums have long waiting lists. Patients in the Burr cottages are often able to improve their health so that the stay at the sanatorium is shortened with correspondingly reduced expense to the patient or the county. A monthly average of 10 patients are provided hospitalization. The Department co-operates with the Health Department also in the venereal clinic. Wassermann tests are requested for any case suspected of needing treatment. The Orthopedic Clinics held each month have called for hospitalization of 24 patients. Operations, treatments, braces, and specially built shoes for physically handicapped, have been provided.

The Superintendent of Public Parole and youths from the State Welfare supervises prisoners on Training Schools. A monthly average of 41 adult parolees have made reports. It is interesting that there are no women on parole at this time. Supervision of school attendance and some general relief for indigent children is provided during the school term. Three parents were brought to Court for failure to have their minor children within the compulsory school age attend school. The County Home, which accommodates 36 inmates, has only 24 at this time. Modern social work aims to provide for the aged and sponable relatives. This work plus unemployable in the homes of the grants of the Old Age Assistance program has decreased the number applying for admission to the County Home. It will continue to reduce the number; in some counties the hours have been turned into county hospitals.

The department has provided for about 30 babies during the year. One boarding home is maintained and supervised by the Superintendent of Welfare. Out of state and intra-state inquiries and investigations average 50 cases each month. There have been 3 enrollments.

of boys in the OCC. At this time between 50 and 60 boys are enrolled receiving the benefits of the work and educational program of the OCC while their respective families receive the allotments which each enrollee must make to his dependents.
The department issues work certificates for minors under the Labor Law. Of the number applying for WPA, 361 were found eligible and referred to the Works Progress Administration or the National Youth Administration.

Washington Daybook

Washington—Almost every Saturday, Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal reserve-board, drives over to the Treasury for lunch with Secretary Morgenthau. Often it is a pleasant little affair.

But in late weeks if the luncheon has been pleasant it is to the surprise of observers, who have noted growing rivalry between the two for the ear of the President and for the advancement of conflicting views.

More recently an equally sharp conflict arose between the two on an important bit of government policy that was hard to write into headlines but was nonetheless important.

By an agreement of the Treasury and controller of the currency (both Morgenthau's), the Deposit Insurance Corporation (independent) and Eccles' federal reserve, banks were given leeway, such as they had not had in many a day, in lending money to small local industry.

Out of the agreement expected several things: 1—Expansion of bank loans to small industry for modernization and repairs amounting in estimates here, to many millions, or perhaps a billion or more.

2—Benefit to big industry in filling machinery and equipment orders for little industry's modernization. 3—A healthier glow in the banking community as it expands its business and checks the tendency of the Federal government to step in with credit where banks lately have refused to go.

For Liberal Attitude Keynote in the agreement is the liberalization of the attitude of bank examiners toward banks in approving loans to small industry. For 70 years or more the controller of the currency, director of bank examiners has emphasized the importance of keeping banks not only sound but liquid. At the time of the "big flood" in 1929 and later, runs on banks were so frequent and furious that many went under because they could not sell perfectly "sound" but "slow" securities in a depression market.

The banking laws were revised in 1933 to provide that federal bank examiners would approve long-term loans by banks except to concerns whose securities were listed on stock exchanges or otherwise nationally rated so as to be readily salable. That practically eliminated long-term loans to the local lumber company or foundry.

Rating Cost Out The Eccles faction argues that several elements justify a change of policy. First, that reserve bank laws now make it possible for banks to convert even slow securities into cash, if they are sound. Second, the Federal guarantee of deposits has decreased the prospect of bank runs, thus reducing the need for extremely liquid assets.

Third (and this is a matter of long-range credit policy), in times of stress such as the present, bank examiners should encourage sound expansion of bank credit. Only on approaching booms should credit be contracted. Fourth, the soundness of banks will be sustained best by reviving industry.

Under the new schedule, sound long-term loans can be approved without any rating and registering cost. It wasn't a complete victory for Eccles, who had to compromise on several points.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, July 6.—This column takes what it hopes is pardonable pride in pointing out that in its "limb-climbing" venture in advance of the run-offs last Saturday it picked four winners in four efforts—that is, unless recounts, canvasses or recriminations result in reversing results shown on the face of the returns.

But how close three of those four races were! Yet that is something to feel even greater pride about, because anyone can pick the pushovers. Talking with Governor Clyde R. Roys today, this correspondent learned that even the chief executive, during his long political career, has never known so many tight tussles in one day as there were Saturday.

Teague and Barker were close enough in the Eighth, with the High Pointer winning by around 800; but when Burgin and Deane finished only 26 apart in the Eighth that was something to write home about. Even that was a runaway when put beside the Mecklenburg recorder's race, where one man had, on the face of unofficial returns 5,975 votes to his opponent's 5,974. Everywhere else, it seemed, the voting was extremely close.

Nominated for the State House of Representatives in run-offs Saturday were Forest A. Pollard of Durham, Dallas Mallison of Pamlico, R. T. Fulghum of Johnston, Carroll P. Rogers of Polk, W. C. Pittman, Republican, of Avery, C. T. Nicholson of Franklin, R. B. Mallard of Columbus, George W. Phillips, Jr., of Onslow, Marvin L. Ritch and J. W. Alexander of Mecklenburg, and U. S. (Bombshell) Page of Bladen. For the State Senate: Fred S. Thomas of Harnett, W. E. Harrison of Richmond, and George R. Ward of Duplin.

The only kind of fool worse than a plain old fool is an amorous old fool—as practically all will agree who have watched the antics of some senile old cronie smitten with the charms of a young person of the opposite sex.

Being just that kind of an amorous old fool appears to have been the death of "Old Barnacle Back," the 300 pound, 100-year-old loggerhead turtle who used to paddle lazily about the pool at the U. S. Biological Laboratory on Pivers Island, a few hundred yards from the Beaufort-Morehead City bridge, according to reports reaching here from down Carteret way.

It seems that "Barney" went screwy over an attractive female loggerhead—a mere flapper of 35 years and 600 pounds, one publisher in the pool with Barney a few weeks ago.

But he just couldn't take it, and now he's dead of a "busted" heart (not broken, you'll note). "We thought Old Barney was so old and sluggish that he would pay no attention to the young lady loggerhead we put in with him," said Dr. H. F. Prytherch, director of the laboratory. "But we sure missed our guess. He came to life with a bang, and started swimming after her around the pool. One time he caught up with her and bit part of her head off. He kept the fast pace for two days—24 hours a day. The third day we found him dead—his heart had burst with the strain.

"Old Barney just couldn't take it."

The Story So Far

Under the name of Abe Street, "Blue" Ankrum accepts a job at the Trone's Rattle. T alter rescuing Lee Trone from a band of thugs. She has concealed the adventure from her father and tells him that Ankrum knows friends of theirs, the Strutherses. Then she hears the Strutherses are coming for a visit.

Chapter 5

'Lies Are Dangerous'

ANKRUM looked up and found Lee Trone's glance upon him. The laughter now had left her eyes and in its stead he saw a tiny cloud. As plainly as though she had spoken aloud, he realized that she was now recalling the lie in which she had involved him. Malicious satisfaction stirred him as he saw how the possibilities of the situation were coming home to her.

He said goodnight to her father and with a nod to her passed down the hall. She caught up with him among the shadows of the veranda and placed a hand upon his arm. "Abe! What will I do? Those people are coming here tomorrow."

"Didn't you think they might when you told your Dad I was a friend of theirs?"

"Of course not! I had no idea they were coming." She bit her lip in vexation. "This is not going to be exactly comfortable for any of us."

"I expect not. I shouldn't wonder but we'll manage to live through it, though." The mockery in his voice was plain. "Why didn't you tell your Dad about that affair in Paso Pinto? Lies are dangerous things—especially when they come home to roost."

"But I never dreamed... I couldn't have told Dad about that business in town. You don't understand. He has troubles enough of his own without my bringing him any of mine."

"Well," he said roughly, "I might be able to understand better if you gave me a hint as to what this is all about. You can't expect me to be much help while I'm going blind."

He could see the vague outline of her face among the shadows and knew that she was trying to read his expression; knew, too, that she could not. Had it been daylight now she still would have been unable to come to any conclusion by the sight of his features, for his face was inscrutable.

'A Volcano'

"YOU—you don't understand," she began when he cut in. "You said that before. We're wastin' time, I'll say goodnight to you, ma'am."

Her grip tightened on his arm and stopped him. "I'll trust you, Abe," her voice came huskily. "Let's get in the car. You can drive it into the stable. We can talk there without anyone seeing us."

He helped her into the machine, climbed in behind the wheel and drove the car into the stable. He shut off the motor and the lights. "Well?" he said, a perverse mood upon him. "Let's hear the yarn."

Her breath was indrawn sharply. He felt a twinge of conscience. "I'm sorry—"

But she cut him off: "I know—you think I'm a little liar! Go on and say it!"

He could not see her face in this darkness, but he knew that she was mad—mad at herself for the position into which she had lied them both, and mad at him for taunting her. He changed the subject:

"Are these troubles of your Dad's connected with the ranch?" "I think so."

"Don't you know?" "I'm not sure. He never confides in me. These last few months he's become very reticent. He's grown moody. It's—it's so difficult to explain; it's nothing you can put your finger on, but there's a feeling about this place that never used to be here. It's like sitting on a volcano and waiting for it to erupt."

A silence fell between them. "Perhaps," Ankrum suggested, "it's money matters that's botherin' him. This has been a tough year, water holes dryin' up, springs peterin' out, an' grass burned to a crisp. You've got better water here than your neighbors, I expect. They might let their resentment spur 'em into something that would end in powder smoke. No tellin' what a fella'll do when he sees his cow-brutes droppin' like flies. Maybe your Dad's sort of anticipatin' what might start to pop round here if we don't get some rain dang soon."

'It's Uncanny!' "I DON'T think that is it," she said slowly. "It might aggravate the trouble, like this rustling that's been going on—we seem to be losing more than anyone else. But Dad's been acting odd for months. This rustling is something new around here. One night the boys notice a little tad of critters in a certain spot—say twenty or thirty prime beaves. Next morning those critters have disappeared—vanished. The range boss says there's not a sign to show where they went or how. It's uncanny!"

"And you think maybe this Hackett gent might be sort of... on the make?"

"I—I don't know what to think, Abe. It seems so fantastic to connect him with this rustling or with this other thing that's been botherin' Dad. Hackett's been with us over two years. Dad swears by him—and at him, sometimes. He has been trying all sorts of things in an effort to trap these cattle thieves. Don't you think perhaps you're letting your personal feelings toward Hackett warp your judgment of the man? After all, you don't really know him. You two seem to have taken a dislike to each other on sight. I was watching that scene before the bunkhouse this evening. I couldn't catch much of the conversation. What was it about? What started it?"

"Well, I expect maybe there wasn't any start to it, ma'am. We just sort of fell out before we'd had time to get acquainted. Hackett sort of made it plain he wasn't aimin' to hire any help. He was mad mainly I reckon because I didn't pay much attention to him. He's the sort of gent that has to have attention, if you get what I mean. He wasn't built for the background."

"Well," Lee decided, "he certainly wasn't out to be a cow thief, either. He's much too smart—"

Ankrum chuckled. "Smart, ma'am? Shucks, I'd say he was not so much smart as foxy. Cunning, I'd say he even had a heavy leannin' toward the coyote side."

IT'S BIRTHDAY TIME FOR THE WORLD'S TWO WARS

(By The AP Feature Service)

The world's two wars have their birthdays in July. The civil war in Spain is two years old—it started July 18, 1936, in Spanish Morocco, and quickly swept to the mainland. With Germany and Italy openly helping the insurgents, all Europe has had a jittery two years. The undeclared war in China is one year old—it started July 7, 1937. The Japanese have been having things pretty much their own way so far as occupying territory is concerned. But the deeper they advance, the more difficulties they run into. For the first 11 months of the war in China, casualties were estimated at 300,000 for the Japanese, more than 1,000,000 for the Chinese. The war cost to Japan has been put at $5,000,000 a day. Total casualties in Spain during the first 18 months of war were estimated at 2,000,000. The war has been costing the loyalist government about $1,410,000 a day. These maps give the highlights of the two conflicts.

In Spain the insurgents apparently have the upper hand.

In China the Japanese continue to go places.

Williamston Martins Pound 6-2 Victory over Greenies

MARTINS LOVE KNUCKLE BALL

Allen, Local Shortstop, Out with Injured Ankle; Playing in Williamston This Afternoon.

Sam Lankford's knuckle ball proved to be very popular with Williamston's Martins—in fact it was so popular that the Martins collected one dozen hits and a half dozen runs off Mrs. Lankford's little boy Sam. The final score was 6-2.

Hard luck seems to continue on the Greenies' trail. Yesterday afternoon, Shortstop Allen, newly acquired by the locals, sprained an ankle during the seventh inning and will be out of the lineup for several days. Allen has proved to be a very important cog in the new Greenie baseball machine. Alex Daniels who can play most anywhere on a baseball diamond, except shortstop (his own words), held down the hot corner and Johnny Korba was transferred over to shortstop yesterday.

The Greenies' runs came in the second inning. Korba and Christopher singled, and Smith singled to score Korba. Stanley errored on the play and Christopher tallied. That was the start and finish of the locals' run-making yesterday. Swain held the Greenies to five scattered hits over the rest of the route.

The Martins coupled three singles and an outfield fly to chalk up four runs in the sixth, and then in the ninth Wilcox and Shipway singled and tallied on Villepique's double to leftfield.

The Greenies are over in Martin county this afternoon, and will return here tomorrow afternoon for a contest with the Ayden Aces.

ROBINSON TOP LOOP BATSMAN

Ex-Greenie Joyner Is Second and Locals' Phil Morris Third

Tarboro's Robinson with 406 for 16 games, is leading the pack of Coastal Plain League batters.

Monk Joyner of Snow Hill, who started the season with the Greenies as manager, and who has been on the injured list for some time, has returned to action with Snow Hill after several weeks and is in No. 2 place with 387 for 30 games.

The real leader for season's play, however, is Phil Morris of the Greenies, formerly of New Bern, who has hit 368 for 53 games. Close behind Phil is Kinston's slugging Johnny Wyrostek, with 362 for 58 contests.

Morris and Wyrostek were tied for third place last week, with 365.

The Greenies have two other players listed in the 300 class. Christopher with 333 and Birch Douglass with 328.

Latest official averages for the loop were announced yesterday by J. Gaskill McDaniel of New Bern, league statistician.

Tarboro Loses Again; Aces Took Victory

Tarboro, July 6.—Ayden's Aces

tallied three runs in their half of the ninth inning to win 6-3, over Tarboro here Tuesday. The locals had tied the score at 3-all in the seventh, but failed to furnish enough runs to win.

After scoring twice in the third and once in the fifth, Ayden added its three ninth-inning runs. The locals scored once in the fifth, and knotted the score in the seventh on two singles, a sacrifice walk, and a couple of Tarboro errors.

The Aces hit for extra bases, to win Carnahan tripled and came home on Gasaway's double. Riley fanned, Purcell was hit by pitcher, and Jirak's single scored Gasaway and Purcell. A last minute rally, with two away, gave locals plenty of hope, but with Mooney on second, Ware filed out.

BATTLE ROYAL PLANNED HERE

Added Attraction To Feature the Weekly Wrestling Show

In addition to the regular wrestling program presented at the Armory each Monday evening, the management is arranging a "Battle Royal" to start off the night's doings Monday night, July 11.

Different business firms of the city are entering their colored champions in this fistle fray. The spectators will be able to tell who is sponsoring each of the colored lads by the placards pinned to their backs. The Proctor Hotel Service Station, the Dixie Lunch, The Five Points Billiard Parlor, and the John Rivers Service Station have already entered their champions, and any other business firms who wish to enter a fighter are urged to get in touch with Promoter Jimmy Johnson before Friday night.

Besides the "Battle Royal", the preliminaries also include three rounds of amateur boxing. Stanley Wooten of Greenville will meet John Purser of Ayden. These boys weigh in the neighborhood of 150 pounds each, and both are capable feather pushers.

The attendance at last week's show was small due to the fact that many left town for the Fourth, but the management is expecting an overflow crowd for next week's show, which will start promptly at 8:30, so those looking for good seats had better come early.

The semi-final wrestling match will be between Jimmy Logas, the Green champion, and Chin Lee, the noted Chinese wrestler. The main bout will be between the Masked Marvel and "Dynamite" Lay, both said to be among the best.

Ladies are again specially invited and will be admitted free with one paid admission. There will be accommodations in the balcony for colored people.

Bear's Berry Pitches 2-Hitter Against Bugs

New Bern, July 6.—Dwight Morris, former Wake Forest baseball star, was the only thing that kept New Bern's Leonard (Bulpen) Berry from getting a no-hit game against the Goldsboro Bugs yesterday. New Bern won the game, 6-2.

Berry yielded only a pair of hits to the Goldsboro—and Morris got both. In the sixth frame, with Jans on base via a walk, Morris tripled. Then, in the eighth, Nicholas reached first on an error. Jans walked, and Morris singled to tally Nicholas.

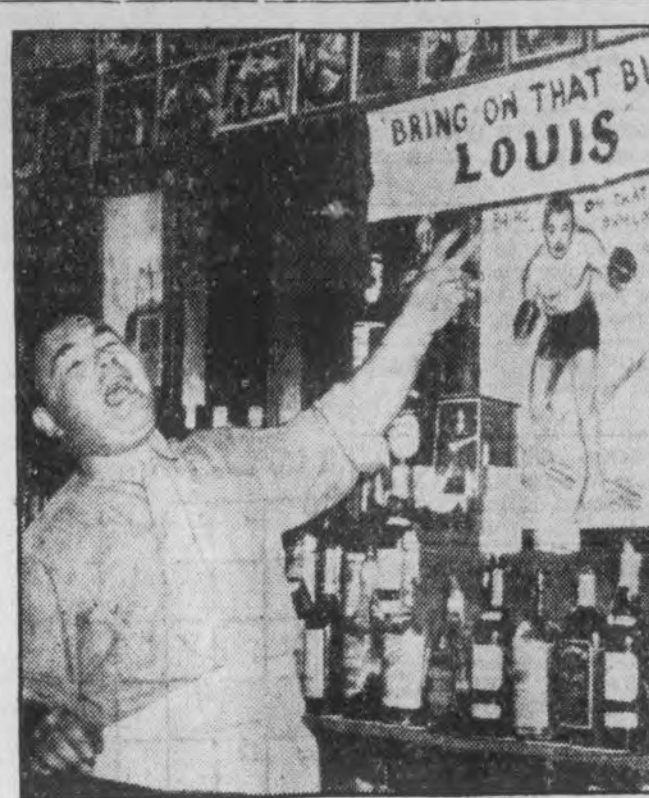

The Bears scored three in the third. Thornton singled, Mack beat out a bunt, and Berry's sacrifice advanced both runners. Anderson singled Thornton and Mack home. He reached third on a wild throw by Overton and scored on Swamp Norwood's high fly.

New Bern added two runs in the sixth and finished things up with one in the eighth.

TONY RATED NEXT TO LOUIS

Two-ton Tony Galento was in very, very happy and ambitious mood behind his bar in Orange, N. J., when news reached him that the National Boxing Association has rated him as the

No. 1 challenger of Champion Joe Louis. Just so there'll be no mistaking his eagerness to knock the heavyweight crown from Joe's head, Tony plastered his bar with a sign reading "Bring On That Bum, Louis!"

Eagles Get Rough In 10th To Defeat Bills

Snow Hill, July 6.—The Eagles scored four runs in the 10th to defeat Peashead Walker's Billies by a 9-6 score here yesterday and strengthen its hold on first place in Coastal Plain League standings as Tarboro lost to Ayden 6-3.

Johnny Wyrostek's ninth-inning homer over the right field fence tied the score at 5-5, and sent the game into extra innings.

Kinston scored in the fourth on Kratzer's single, a walk, a bunt by Stringfellow, and an infield out. Snow Hill forged into the lead in the fifth by scoring two runs as the result of singles by Baker and Druce and a double by Taylor. The Billies added singletons in the 6th and 7th and looked to have the ball game on ice.

However, Druce, starting local pitcher, hurt his arm during the seventh-inning turn, and with this accident the Billies' hopes went a-fleeting.

The Eagles rallied for three runs in the eighth, making successive hits by Stringfellow, Wyrostek, Patton, Crouch, and with Rabb's error.

PLAN STUDY OF TOBACCO CROP

Latest Developments in Production To Be Analyzed

Raleigh, July 6—Latest developments in tobacco production will be analyzed by members of the tobacco research committee meeting at Oxford, July 19-21, it was announced today by C. B. Williams, of State College, chairman of the committee.

Among the subjects will be the plant food requirements of tobacco and what fertilizers will best supply these on various soil types, the best methods of controlling tobacco plant diseases and insects, and various cultural practices to improve the quality of the crop.

Each year the committee meets to study the latest findings of research with tobacco, to study the results of practices followed by farmers during the preceding year, and make recommendations for the coming year. The recommendations are published and distributed free to tobacco growers of the Southeast.

The committee is composed of research men from the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia, Florida and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. North Carolina members are: C. B. Williams, chairman; and E. Y. Floyd, extension tobacco specialist; L. T. Weeks, assistant extension tobacco specialist; Dr. R. F. Poole, plant pathologist; L. G. Willis, soil chemist, all of State College; and E. G. Moss and J. F. Bullock, of the tobacco branch experiment station at Oxford.

Among the speakers to present research findings and explain current problems to the committee will be: Dr. Z. P. Metcalf, Dr. B. B. Fulton, and J. O. Rowell, State College entomologist.

ZACHARAY TAYLOR'S FORT YIELDS HIDDEN CELL

Prairie Du Chen, Wis.—(AP)—An underground prison cell on the site of old Fort Crawford, where Zachary Taylor and Lieutenant Jeff Davis held sway during the Indian wars, has been unearthed as work of restoration proceeds. Other discoveries at the 120-year-old site include an oven, bread pans, remnants of a forge, horseshoes and smithy's tools.

HURGLAR FINDS DUMB ARE NOT 'EASY SPOTS'

South Bend, Ind.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Watkins, deaf mutes, were wakened by a "rumbling vibrations" of a burglar early the other day and frightened him from their home.

Watkins and his wife told police they were wakened at 3 a. m., by vibrations resembling the passing of a railroad train.

Watkins went down stairs and confronted the man in the dining room. The intruder fled through a window he had shattered by his entry.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

New York—Now I know why the movie people come to New York. In this biggest, noisiest, rushing-est of American cities they can find peace and quiet. They can get away from it all.

If you're a movie star and you or your press agent or both, desire it, you can also get INTO it all. If you are a heralds your coming loudly enough, you may be met by a couple of photographers at the Grand Central. And if you're a glamor boy and they shush-shush your sailing loudly enough, you may even find a couple of autograph-hunting girls under your bunk when the ship pulls out.

But as we from Hollywood understand it, all is peace and quiet in New York.

Meal Minus Mobs

If Robert Taylor walked into a restaurant in Hollywood, he would have at least a mild attack of writer's cramp before he reached his table. He would be slightly disarranged as to clothing, probably a bit flushed in the face, and a myriad of goggling eyes would follow with scientific interest each round-trip of his fork between plate and face.

In New York the other day Taylor walked into Toots Schorr's Tavern with a small party of friends, sat down even as you and I, and finished the business of lunch quite undisturbed.

At the 21 club Hiram Sherman (comic hit of "The Shoemaker's Holiday") and Orson Welles (a real boy wonder to make Hollywood green-eyed) sat an hour or two the other day without once being ogled.

At first this kind of aloofness seems to indicate that New Yorkers are merely blasé. But after a while you get the idea: New York believes in laissez-faire.

Some Get Their
Not that a star can't get mobbed in this old town. Mae West got hers at Loew's State, and Martha Raye at the Paramount, and Jimmy Cagney when he attended his sister's graduation at Hunter College. Clark Gable and Robert Taylor both have been pursued by hysterical women—so much so that Gable, back in the comparatively safe madhouse of Hollywood, swore off unnecessary trips east.

But generally, if a P. A. wants that sort of thing, he has to advertise where his people will be, and plant the persons who will lead the sheep to his star's slaughter.

While the Parkway will run exclusively through the western section of North Carolina, officials of the Highway Commission, as well as of the Department of Conservation and Development's advertising division, feel that it is a project which in reality belongs to all parts of the state, because it will when finished, attract tourists from all sections of the country, many of whom will travel through other areas in North Carolina in order to reach the Parkway.

It is also expected that contracts will be let by fall for one or two parkway segments west of Asheville.
