ANOTHER TALK IS SCHEDULED BY ROOSEVELT

President Adds Political Significance To Tour

GEORGIA SPEECH SET FOR AUG. 11

Chief Executive To Leave Washington 10:30 Tonight; Marietta, O., First Stop

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt added another politically significant speaking engagement to his cross country tour today by accepting an invitation to visit Barnesville, Ga., August 11.

The invitation was extended by a delegation of Georgians, including Lawrence Camp, Federal District Attorney at Atlanta, and candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, now held by Senator George. George, who frequently has opposed the administration, was not in the delegation.

The President's long trip, taking on some of the aspects of a stump tour for "liberal" candidates, will bring him also into three other states, Kentucky, Oklahoma and California, where he is expected to make it clear he would like to have New Deal supporters sent to the Senate.

After leaving Washington at 10:30 p. m. (EST), Mr. Roosevelt will stop at Marietta, Ohio. There he will speak tomorrow morning in connection with the 150th anniversary of the opening of the northwest territory.

Other developments: North and South Carolina were among 37 states and territories which the Civil Service Commission reported, on June 30 had fewer residents in civil service positions in Washington than they were entitled to under the opportunity law.

States which had not filled their quotas included North Carolina, 1,181 positions, and 761 unoccupied. President Roosevelt has appointed Robert W. Bruere of New York to be chairman of the new Maritime Labor Board.

He has named Floyd H. Roberts of Bristol to be Federal judge for the Western District of Virginia.

College President Claimed By Death

Dr. R. E. Blackwell, 84, Had Been Connected with Randolph-Macon Greater Part of Life

Atlanta, July 7.—(AP)—Dr. R. E. Blackwell, 84, president of Randolph-Macon college, Ashland, Va., and a former president of the Southern Association of Colleges, died in a hospital here early today.

Dr. Blackwell was born at Warrenton, Va., November 14, 1854, and was one of the oldest college presidents in the United States. He taught English to four generations at Randolph-Macon, a school where he spent the greater part of his life, starting as a student at 13.

He was elected vice president in 1900 and in 1902 was chosen president.

Dr. Blackwell was a member of joint commission on unification of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

THEIR STRIFE AND IN COURT

Through her lawyers in a London court, Countess Barbara Huton Haugwitz-Reventlow, the American dime store heiress, has described her noble husband, Count Curt Haugwitz-Reventlow, as an enraged man who demanded $5,000,000 for a divorce and threatened to shoot a London society man. During the hearing Barbara's name was linked with the "society gentleman" in talk of a new romance. Here are latest pictures of the count and countess. (Associated Press-Paramount News Photos).

Billions Are Spent On Gamble For An Empire

Damage and Cost Of Oriental War Staggering Sum

Shanghai, July 7.—(AP)—The first year of the Oriental war has seen treasure by the billions tossed into the gamble for an empire.

China has suffered material damage of perhaps $1,000,000,000, counting the displacement of the nation's economic life. Her costs for waging the war must be of similar amount, but cannot be estimated.

Japan has poured at least $2,000,000,000 into her bid for conquest, which has resulted in her nominal occupation of seven of China's richest provinces and spread destruction through nine others.

Foreigners have suffered heavily, too, and a fourth of the total foreign investment of some $3,000,000,000 is believed to have been lost.

American citizens' losses up to April were estimated at $150,000,000; British losses at perhaps twice that. These rough estimates take no account of the vast tragedy that has befallen the Chinese people and the cost in dead and wounded, civilians and soldiers, which has risen well above 1,000,000.

Yet despite this China still functions, as an economic and financial entity in the areas still outside the domination of Nippon's armies.

Japan counts the return from her vast speculation thus far in the occupation—only partial in some cases—of the following nine provinces, the occupied area embracing nearly 500,000 square miles with a population of 150,000,000.

The Japanese also have seized approximately 4,000 of China's 6,000 miles of railways; a gigantic network of highways linking the chief cities; and all important ports except Canton, Swatow and Foochow. Those three ports have been bombed, shelled and blockaded.

China's exports have been cut in half. China still is mainly dependent on agriculture for revenue and in those areas yet untouched by war agriculture goes on as usual. This dependence on agriculture has aided China in resisting Japan, even though industry has been wrecked.

In the area under Japanese control, meanwhile, a new economic program, designed to promote public health. Representatives have addressed civic clubs, mass meetings of citizens, and various other groups, giving information as to what a waterworks and sewerage plant should be, in order to meet the minimum requirements for adequacy and the promotion of public health, always urging the importance of extending water and sewer systems to eliminate the "fringe of privies" usually found on the outskirts of cities and towns.

"A privy has no social or sanitary standing in any incorporated municipality in North Carolina," is the slogan of the Division of Sanitary Engineering, Mr. Booker said. "There are a few 100 per cent watered and seweraged towns in North Carolina, including Boone, Chapel Hill, Coolee, Crossnore, Highlands, Carolina Beach, Kurens Beach, Proximity, Roanoke Rapids, Roaring Gap, and Sanford. Asheville rates 99.5 per cent in this respect; Winston-Salem 99.1; and Charlotte 98, among the cities in the larger brackets."

British Cruiser Sent To Scene Of Palestine Riots

One Hundred and Thirty-One Persons Killed or Wounded in Worst Arab-Jewish Strife Since Bloody Strike of 1936

Jerusalem, July 7.—(AP)—The British government today ordered the 7,550-ton cruiser Emerald to Haifa, where 131 persons had been killed or wounded in two days of rioting.

The blackest Holy Land situation since the bloody Arab general strike of 1936 caused the call for reinforcements.

Official sources said 22 Arabs and six Jews had died and 92 Arabs and 11 Jews had been wounded since a bomb yesterday fanned Arab-Jewish strife into new turmoil.

The Emerald, homeward bound from the East Indies, was diverted to Haifa from Malta and was due at the Palestine port today.

All Palestine was tense. Shops closed down as Arabs attempted to demonstrate.

Twenty-eight funerals were held at Haifa in the early morning under heavy police guard.

T. Dounia, 55, a contractor and brother-in-law of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the British Zionist Federation, who was killed in the rioting yesterday, was buried before dawn. A British police official narrowly escaped when a bomb was thrown at his car in the Holy city of Nazareth.

In the two and a half months since a British commission, under John Woodhead, arrived to study the Palestine snarl disorders have become as serious as they were in 1936, when the six months Arab general strike kept the country in deadly ferment.

Arabs, Jews Britons alike have been victims of the deep-seated quarrel. Old animosities have been intensified by the Jewish need for migration to a national home from Germany and elsewhere and by the campaign of the Arabs to keep Palestine for themselves.

PLEA IS MADE FOR REFUGEES

Famed Vienna Specialist Speaks Before Conference

Evian-les-Bains, France, July 7.—(AP)—Dr. Heinrich Neumann, famed Vienna specialist, brought an informal message from German authorities to the Inter-Governmental Committee on Refugees today asking the evacuation of 40,000 Austrian political victims by August 1.

Professor Neumann, who was arrested after Nazi Germany's annexation of Austria March 13 and who gained prominence through his treatment of the Duke of Windsor for an ear ailment, said he had no "positive" instruction, but intended merely to follow suggestions of the German officials with whom he conferred recently in Vienna.

Reason for Dr. Norman's reluctance to discuss the refugee question—the problem before a conference here of representatives of 32 nations—became apparent when he said he had left his wife and children in Vienna and hoped to join them there shortly.

Neumann's appearance coincided with a meeting of leaders of refugee organizations scheduled to make technical suggestions for solving the plight of German and Austrian unwanted Jews and other political fugitives.

Conference officials said there was some possibility of another public session in the next few days to allow additional statements on policy, particularly by delegates of South American nations.

Prospect Lost To Legal Profession

Raleigh, July 7.—The legal profession lost a prospective new member when Carol Posey enrolled in a CCC camp assigned to the Soil Conservation Service at Villa Rica, Georgia.

Before enrolling in the camp, Posey had studied law for a year at college. But work in the camp aroused interests of a different sort. He found forestry such a fascinating study that he decided to make it his life work.

With the aid of funds saved during enrollment in the camp, Posey returned to college in 1936. He will enroll for his senior year at North Carolina State College this year and expects to enter forestry work when his college training is complete. Posey's home is at Horse Shoe, North Carolina.

Florida Kidnaper Denied Clemency

Tallahassee, Fla., July 7.—(AP)—The Florida Pardons Board refused today to commute the death sentence of Franklin P. McCall for the ransom-kidnaping of James Bailey Cash, Jr., at Princeton, Fla., on May 29.

His decision was announced after a brief executive session following pleas by McCall's attorneys for commutation, and by his prosecutor that the death sentence be carried out. Earlier the Cash child's mother had refused to join the mother of McCall in a plea for mercy for him.

Mrs. Lily McCall, a widow, and the prisoner's wife came in from the family home at Jasper, Fla., in an attempt to save him from electrocution. He is in the death house at the state prison.

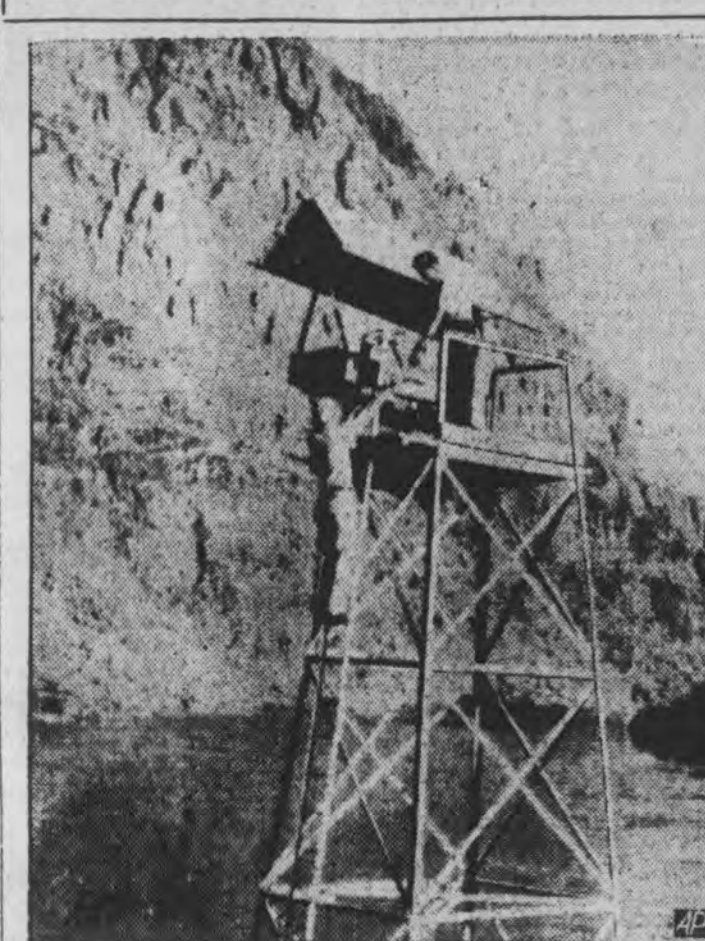

The mothers met at the Florida Pardon Board arranged to hear a plea from Mrs. McCall for commutation of the sentence.

Mrs. McCall said she had asked Mrs. Cash to join in seeking to save her son's life. She said Mrs. Cash told her:

"Your son not only killed my son, but he has figuratively killed my husband and me.

"No penalty can pay for the crime or relieve us of our misery."

ON THE WATCH FOR EXPEDITION

A. J. Hanson and F. S. Anderson, United States geologists who are the only residents of Lee's Ferry, Ariz., are shown on the watch for the Nevils expedition, long overdue in a hazardous scientific cruise through the Grand Canyon. The six-member expedition, including scientists from the University of Michigan, left Green River, Utah, in small boats June 20. No word from it has been heard from it since.

NEW PROJECTS DISCUSSED BY BOARD OF ALDERMEN

City Hall, Fire Dept. Sub-Station Among Proposals

George A. Snyder, associate of Frank W. Benton, architect of Wilson, discussed in detail a proposed new city hall, fire department, sub-station and a street department yard with members of the Greenville Board of Aldermen this morning, but no action was taken on any of the projects.

The meeting was called by Mayor Pro Tem L. B. Fleming, in the absence of Mayor M. K. Blount. A quorum was not present and the aldermen were without authority to act on any of the projects.

Mr. Snyder went through plans for the proposed municipal building which, if erected, probably will be on a new site, yet to be determined.

The architect's drawing provides for offices of the city clerk and tax collector and the city utilities on the first floor, offices on the mezzanine, a court room and other offices on the top story with the jail on the roof of the building.

It is proposed to erect the building with PWA funds. The Federal agency provided 45 per cent as an outright grant and 55 per cent to be furnished by the city through the sale of bonds. The question would be in the hands of the citizens as an election would be necessary for the issuance of the bonds.

A sub-station of the fire department to be located on Dickinson avenue also is being discussed and plans for such a building were shown by Mr. Snyder. Fire Chief George Gardner contends the city is sorely in need of an additional station as the town is growing rapidly and a blaze can develop into a major fire before the trucks can reach certain sections of the city.

He called attention to the fact that permits were issued last month for construction to cost more than $100,000 and added that the city is not able to cope with a serious fire. "We would be lost if two fires would break out at one time now," said the fire chief, who is strongly in favor of the sub-station if the Federal (Continued on page six)

EMPLOYMENT UP IN TEXTILE INDUSTRY

General Pickup in Activity Noted in North Carolina by Labor Commissioner Fletcher

Raleigh, July 7.—(AP)—Labor Commissioner A. L. Fletcher reported today employment in more than 140 textile mills in all parts of North Carolina increased 3.59 per cent in June.

Fletcher said employment in the furniture industry, however, showed a seasonable decline of 5.43 per cent.

At Lexington, he said "The Er-langer mills are heading toward capacity operation after a complete close-down of two or three months. The company normally employs more than 600. It had cut to about 300 on part-time before it closed. It will take several weeks to get back to capacity and 600 working employees, but a start is being made."

CHINESE WAGE ATTACKS UPON SHANGHAI JAPS

Terrorism Resumed on First Anniversary of War

FOREIGN GUARDS ARE BOLSTERED

Japanese Meanwhile Observe Occasion With Moment of Silence at High Noon

Shanghai, July 7.—(AP)—Terrorist attacks against Japanese were resumed in Shanghai today on the first anniversary of the China war.

Foreign troops, including U. S. marines and police reserves, intensified their patrol of sultry streets to guard the International Settlement and the French Concession.

Four were killed and five wounded by bombs, grenades and bullets. Two of the dead were Japanese and two Chinese. A British colonial soldier was injured.

There were flurries of machine-gun fire in outlying districts and reports of sporadic shooting in industrial Pootung, across the Whang-poo river from Shanghai proper, that may have been a new series of attacks by Chinese guerrilla units. There had been similar outbreaks since the Japanese established control of Shanghai and drove the Chinese toward Nanking last November 9.

The Chinese and Japanese armies now are in a near deadlock along the Yangtze about Hukow and Kiang-ling, 150 miles from Hankow and 450 miles from Shanghai.

Tokyo, July 7.—(AP)—Japan observed the first anniversary of her undeclared war on China today with a serious mingling of deep religious solemnity and bitter war-time practicality.

A moment of silence was observed at high noon. Throughout the day thousands made solemn pilgrimages to military shrines, where, according to the Shinto belief, still live the souls of men killed in battle.

HOEY SPARES LIFE OF FRANKLIN NEGRO

Death Sentence of Kenneth Taylor, Convicted in July, 1937, Commuted to Life Imprisonment

Raleigh, July 7.—(AP)—Kenneth Taylor, Negro, who was to have died in the central prison gas chamber tomorrow for murder, today received a commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment.

Governor Hoey, in announcing his decision, said he did not think the prisoner went to the house of the deceased for the purpose of committing a murder.

Taylor was convicted in Franklin county of the murder of Margaret Aleston in July 1937. "I incline to the opinion," the Governor commented, "that after entering the house a quarrel ensued, and that the prisoner, upon the spur of the moment, committed a homicide for which there is no excuse."

"I do not think that the prisoner killed in self-defense, but I do think that he killed upon sudden impulse rather than in cold blood.

"Under the circumstances, and in view of the prisoner's good character, I feel this is a case for the exercise of mercy and I, therefore commute the sentence of death to life imprisonment."

Besides her parents, the little girl is survived by two brothers, Charles, Jr., and Cecil Thomas Martin; one sister, Dorothy Ellen Martin, and her paternal grandfather, J. W. Martin of the home place, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Keel of Pamlico.

Court Decides 473 Cases With Only 34 Dissents

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, July 7.—During its fall and spring terms a full year's work North Carolina's Supreme court handed down a total of 473 opinions, and in all but 34 of them all justices who participated were in unanimous agreement—at least to the point where none felt impelled to write a dissent from the majority of his colleagues.

Only 13 times in these 473 cases was the majority opinion the prevailing one by a 4 to 3 count, but there were 101 remands of these narrow squeaks to remind observers of the much talked of 5-4 decisions of the United States Supreme court.

An analysis of the dissents, however, fails to reveal any division of the North Carolina court into rival groups of economic or judicial views—nothing like the split of the "Nine Old Men" into Liberals and Conservatives.

The nearest thing to a "clique" shown by the analysis is the inclination of Justice Wallace Winborne to go along with Justice M. V. Barnhill when the Rocky Mount judge finds himself at variance with his fellow justices.

Incidentally, Judge Barnhill proved the greatest dissenter of the court, with a total of 15 occasions on which he found himself unable to go along with the reasoning of the majority.

This topped by one the dissenting record of the court's oldest member both in years and service—Justice Heriot Clarkson—who put in the records 14 dissents. Judge Clarkson stood alone in opposition to the rest of the court more often than anyone else—with five lone challenges to the logic of the prevailing views.

Every justice dissented alone on at least one occasion except the "baby" of the court, Justice A. A. F. Seawell who was recently named and Justice Winborne.

Here's the record of dissents: Justices Barnhill 15; Clarkson 14; W. A. Bevin 10; Chief Justice W. P. Stacy 9; Winborne 8; Michael (Continued on page two)

Speaks At College Assembly.
Dr. Roy Norton, of the State Board of Health, spoke yesterday at the college assembly on health matters of interest to the teachers gathered there from all over Eastern North Carolina for the summer session of the college.

Admitting that there are a good many older persons alive and well who have always ignored vaccination and other modern aids in fighting disease, Dr. Norton pointed out that in their day there was no sense in trying to control things beyond their power. Now, however, we do know something about the ways of germs. We understand, for example, that typhoid germs taken into the body through a scratch on the arm will not cause the disease, but that the same germs will produce the disease if swallowed in food and drink.

After giving other examples of modern knowledge of germs, Dr. Norton said that, knowing such things, teachers in the public schools must teach them and see that they are applied wherever possible.

He suggested as one means of health education that the teachers help the children understand health and sanitation measures being applied in the community, that they visit water purification plants and observe the sanitary precautions taken to keep milk pure in dairies.

Dr. Norton urged the teachers to cooperate with the health units near them, saying that there would be such units functioning in at least eight counties in the near future.

All who wished had an opportunity to obtain free material which Dr. Norton had brought with him for distribution.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Picnic Hints: Don't peel potatoes for use in salads until you have cooked and chilled them. Then dice or cut them into thin slices, using a sharp knife. Don't prepare salads with too much dressing. Carry an extra supply in a jar to be passed at the picnic.

Want a seasoning to pour over campfire-cooked meats when they are served? Mix half a cup of butter, one teaspoon each of dry mustard, salt, paprika, horseradish and chili sauce. Heat and serve.

Wrap cantaloupe, pineapple and other fruits with pronounced flavors in waxed papers. Doing so will help prevent their flavors from penetrating other foods in the ice box. Use rubber bands to hold the papers in place.

In preparing toast to serve with poached eggs, spread it with highly seasoned minced ham mixed with a little butter, then reheat it before putting the eggs on top of the slices.

WHAT IT MEANS: THE WAR IN SPAIN

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
(AP Feature Service Writer)
Washington—The simple truth about the Spanish war at this stage of the game can be covered in two sentences:

1. Franco's drive to end the war has bogged down, so that he will require at least another year if he keeps on going at his present pace to clean up both Valencia and Barcelona.

2. Most of the other nations in Europe, whatever their sympathies in Spain, have heretofore decided to do some serious horse-trading to isolate the Spanish firebrands and remove them from the other power kegs on the Continent.

The business of horse-trading among governments is naturally a complicated one and requires a lot of high-sounding terms, such as non-intervention, belligerent rights, etc. But from the viewpoint of American experts, it's beginning to look as if Great Britain and France are quite willing to see the Franco-Mussolini-Hitler combination win out in Spain. If, in return, Mussolini and Hitler get out of the Spanish theater of action.

String It Up
Here's how they figure that out: Every time you get down to cases, the meddling of outside nations in Spain has nothing at all to do with principles, but rather with the peculiar geography of the Mediterranean ocean and the Spanish peninsula.

The special points of interest in the Mediterranean are the Balearic islands and Gibraltar. The islands are the property of Spain and lie just off the east coast of that country. Probably a major reason why Mussolini supported Franco was the opportunity the alliance offered to base his submarines and airplanes in the Balearics.

For the Balearics are the military keys to the African colonies of France—colonies that would pour men and supplies across the Mediterranean to France if she were engaged in a bitter-end war. With the Balearics in Mussolini's hands, and filled with Italian submarine and airplane bases, France's line of supply from Africa would be menaced.

Guns Toward Gibraltar
Then there's Gibraltar, now in British hands, which gives Britain control of both ends of the Mediterranean. If Germany could erect a big gun emplacement and other war machinery in Spain just across from Gibraltar, and rumor says she has already done this, British control of the ocean would be menaced beyond comfort.

Therefore, it's quite natural for the British and French to offer any proposition, even if it means a Franco victory, if only Germany and Italy would take their volunteers—so-called—out of Spain and the Balearics. It's quite natural for these two powerful nations to allow Franco to bomb vessels carrying their flags, and otherwise offer them insult, so long as they figure they can eventually lure Mussolini and Hitler away, without risking a war.

That explains why France's planes, which probably are Italian planes, based at ships in the Balearics, without any interference. Any show of anger on the part of the British just now might wreck the British treaty with Italy, under which Italy promises eventually to get out of the Balearics and ease the tension in the Mediterranean.

Then, too, the British and French are well aware of the fact that Mussolini and Hitler haven't got any too much money to throw Franco's way even on a credit basis. They must feel that both Mussolini and Hitler would be willing to call it quits in Spain, if they could only get out in a blaze of glory.

Belligerent Rights
The latest Franco-British scheme for a truce, and, failing that, a new plan for withdrawal of volunteers, would seem to be all set up for an eventual Franco-Mussolini-Hitler victory in Spain.

The disinterested expert will tell you this is true because of a single, little clause in the withdrawal scheme, under which Franco would be recognized as a "belligerent," with all the rights of a fighting government that are now extended to Republican (Loyalist) Spain.

That might sound to you and me like a purely technical point, but it is really very clever and practical from the diplomatic point of view. Here's why:

England, France, and most other countries except Italy and Germany, technically classify Franco as an insurgent attempting to unseat the regular government of his country. To most nations, the republican government of Spain is the legal government.

But if Franco had so-called "belligerent rights," he could establish a legal blockade against Loyalist Spain along the east coast, and thereby completely surround and beleaguer the republicans until they submitted. Any ship that attempted to pierce the blockade would be nothing more than a smuggling vessel operating outside the law and entitled to no protection whatever.

Great Britain's decision to take no action against air raiders who sink her ships in Loyalist waters in effect is recognition of Franco's rights as a belligerent, without admitting the fact to the world at large.

So, the horse-trading is a scheme to assure a Franco victory in time, but at the same time, to get Italy and Germany out of the Spanish stage.

Whether it works or not, remains to be seen.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Robbin Coons, our Hollywood columnist, is in New York for two weeks to see what movie activities are like in the east.

New York—It seems odd for a business whose most popular stars have been personalities rather than dramatic artists, but the screen still is looking for people who can act. And it is inability to deliver the dramatic goods that beats most eastern candidates out of a one-way ticket to Hollywood, says Boris Kaplan.

Kaplan heads the only major studio talent school in the east. His office high in the Paramount building overlooks the human flood of Broadway, but his "eyes"—three scouts and various key city contacts—scan the entire territory east of the Mississippi.

Two Big Hurdes
"It's not difficult," he says, "to find pretty girls. It's tougher to find pretty girls with attractive, glowing personality. It's still more difficult to find girls like that who have pleasing voices. About 75 per cent of the candidates flop on dialogue. And then comes the last hurdle—dramatic ability. It floors 95 per cent."

The eastern school gives each prospect at least six weeks of intensive training before deciding to put out the $500 to $1,000 it costs to give a screen test. Sometimes, with an exceptionally promising failure, it works overtime or gives a second chance. Fred MacMurray had the looks and personality from the start, but he couldn't begin to act. They kept him on, Fred still can't act, but he makes a pretty good stab at it—and it's people like MacMurray who justify the cost of the talent hunts.

This New York school sent Paramount people like Frances G. John Howard, Dorothy Lamour, Olympe Brandna, Eleanore Whitney and Louise Campbell. It sent each to the coast fully tested and contracted.

Washington Daybook
By Preston Greaver

Washington — From European centers comes increasing inside evidence that the war danger so potent only a few weeks ago is rapidly diminishing.

There are several reasons given by close observers. Important among these are the effect of British re-arming and the impact of her latest diplomatic gestures to cauterize the Spanish sore and to break down the Italo-German axis. Another is the calming effect on Germany of plucky Czechoslovakia's mobilization.

Less measurable in exact terms, but nonetheless important, is the horrible experience of Japan in attempting a quick conquest of China. One observer with access to unimpeachable sources said the experience of Japan had an appalling effect on the ambitious schemes of aggressive nations.

It was just a year ago that Japan, one of the best armed nations in the world, engaged with more or less helplessness, sprawling China in a conflict which all but a few experts expected would last no more than six weeks. Yet it is still going, and opinion here is that Japan would be only too glad if something now would intervene to save her face and her present conquests before she cracks.

Overnight Conquest?

Japan's experience has demonstrated to such interested countries as Germany and Italy, our informants report, that the modern day high-speed "spark plug army" cannot bring overnight conquest. In spite of the airplane, the fast tank and gasoline infantry, a war can be prolonged to waste away nations deficient in the important sinews of modern war—raw materials and money.

The view isn't unanimous that danger is distant. It is reported that one American minister to a European country insists that the big tinder box awaits only the most casual spark to set it going. But exactly an opposite report comes from another minister and his attitude is more generally accepted here.

There are two other factors credited with acting as brakes on warlike gestures. One is the belief that, despite any agreements that might be reached beforehand, the next war will see civilian populations in cities bombed until their tongues hang out. A second is that every point of danger of war is so widely discussed both by the populace and by the diplomats.

It's Different There

With respect to bombing of cities, Americans might keep in mind that Europe is surprisingly compact and that war between France and Germany would be skin, for bombing purposes, to a war between New York and Boston—an hour's flight apart.

From the German border to Paris is only 200 miles, the same as New York to Boston or from New York to Washington. From Marseille, France, to Rome, is 350 miles, the same as from New York to Pittsburgh, or from San Francisco to Los Angeles. From London to Berlin is 600 miles but German planes launched from Hamburg are only 450 miles from London.

Modern bombing planes can make raids on any of those spots and return home during the dark hours. Czechoslovakian guns could bombard Vienna without crossing the border.

To Europeans these figures are not the impersonal things they appear here. During the tense moments of the German-Czech crisis many British and some American sent their families out of Berlin.

SHORT SHOTS
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, July 7.—On the desk of Bob Thompson, secretary to the Governor, your correspondent spied a treatise with the following typed on the back:

"The Eternal Spring—Ovid."

And below: "This arrangement has led a number of children to take pleasure in oral Latin."

Well, maybe so. Who am I to doubt it? But if it is true, then children have changed mightily since the days when this scrooge learned that "amo, amas, amat" meant "I love, thou lovest, he (she or it) loves," because in those days Latin was to all school children just about in the same category with castor oil and that good old-fashioned spring tonic, sulphur and molasses.

Governor Clyde R. Hoey hasn't forgotten that the Guilford grand jury asked him to lend the assistance of the Attorney General's office to the election fraud probe over there.

He told your correspondent Wednesday there just hasn't yet been a convenient time to get in touch with Solicitor H. L. Koozitz to confer about the situation.

He indicates there will be action in the near future, however.

By the time he gets round to that particular phase, he's likely to find more trouble in the Sixth, Eleventh and Eighth congressional races.

Burlington's Mayor Cooper Hall was in Raleigh Wednesday, rejoicing over the defeat of Alamance's veteran Sheriff Stockard, who went down by about 50 votes in the second primary.

"It's the first time I ever knew a combination of liquor and money to be beaten," he bragged.

"I don't know whether they are turning Democrats permanently or whether they've come to the conclusion that the only way they can have any part in electing their local officials is to vote in the Democratic primaries," said the Governor in an informal discussion with reporters of the obvious fact that more and more G.O.P. members are casting their ballots in primaries of the Democratic party.

Far be it from this correspondent to get into any argument with any other Raleigh correspondent—particularly not with one of as great ability and uncanny knowledge of Tar Heels and their history as Tom Bost—but let's look at his statement that in 1936 "there was an uncommonly large number of Republicans who registered in the Democratic primary, voted 'against the machine' and then returned to their own party."

This would indicate that McDonald was the chief beneficiary of G.O.P. votes in the 1936 joustings; but as pointed out by this bureau recently Governor Hoey's principal strength was in the counties having the most Republicans—and it was in these same counties that in 1936 vote was extremely heavy, with Hoey getting practically all of it. Which would indicate that such Hamiltonians as participated were for the most part "for" rather than "against" the machine.

If Sandy Graham's supporters of Oscar Barker went any further than a mere bit of vocal approbation in one speech, the former Lieutenant Governor must have lost most of his influence in his home county of Orange—which is almost inconceivable. Barker carried Orange by about 200, in one of the lightest of votes.

How's Your Health?
Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
By Igo Goldston, M.D.
Man-Made Diseases

Just about everyone used to believe that disease was the whip of some malignant or disciplining power which ruled over mankind. The idea that man made his own diseases was hardly conceivable.

But modern studies reveal that man's "free" create many of his own maladies. The great plagues of antiquity, from that of Athens to the Black Death, did not strike like lightning out of a clear sky but were rather the slow, built-up results of unhygienic living and the unsanitary huddling together of vast numbers of humans.

With overcrowding came the many disabilities suffered by the slum classes: bad and inadequate food, overwork and moral and physical degradation.

The debilitated populations fell easy victims to disease while the dense crowding in restricted centers favored the spread of disease and the intensification of the noxious powers of disease agents.

We hear a great deal about the decline of tuberculosis during the last 50 years. Generally it is assumed that the white plague always ravaged mankind. Of course tuberculosis is a very ancient disease, but it was not always widespread. It developed as a major plague step by step as the early industrial system developed.

The Cobbefts of England, who wrote a history of the rise of the modern industrial system, graphically record the destructive dislodging of millions of humans incidental to the development of the early manufacturing centers.

This dislodging of the English farm population degraded the physique and hygienic habits of the people. It made them susceptible

LOVE ON THE RANGE

The Story So Far

Trying to escape trouble, "Blur" Ankrom gets in it up to his neck when he rescues Lee Trone from a band of thugs. Under the name of Abe Streeter, he accepts a job at the Promer Rafter T, which is in difficulties, and has a run-in with Mose Hackett, the range boss. Lee tells her father Ankrom knows their friends, the Strutherses, then learns they are coming for a visit.

Chapter Six

'You Imitation Bad Man'

THERE was conviction in Lee's low voice when she spoke of Mose Hackett is no fourflusher. If he's bad, which I don't believe for a minute, then he's a curly wolf. He's not the 'yes-man' type.

"Neither is a coyote," Ankrom countered. "He's a believer in the motto: 'Them as fights an' runs away, will live to fight another day.' Now let's talk about something else. As a conversational topic, Brother Hackett grows extremely odious."

He was aware that in the darkness his eyes still remained upon his face; he realized his slip almost as soon as he made it and so was not surprised to hear her say:

"Where did you learn to sling words around like that?"

He answered carelessly, "I wasted a number of years at a university once," and was relieved that she let it go like that and did not press him. Several moments passed, then he put a question to her that caused her breath to be indrawn sharply.

"What makes you connect what happened in Peso Pinto last night with these troubles of your father? What makes you think someone might be trying to strike at him through you?"

"Who said that's what I think?"

"But you do, don't you?"

After dragging seconds she said, "Yes" slowly. Then, "You don't miss much, do you?"

"Can't afford to," he answered. "In my business a man has to stay awake." His voice went grim and a little bitter. "It's the price a gun-man pays for continued existence."

"But you're not a gun-man—"

"Some people have called me one. I can recall a number of occasions."

"Those people were fools," she snapped. The beating of Blur Ankrom's heart stopped up terrifically.

"Lee—" he dropped the arm that had lain across the back of the seat upon her shoulders in the earnestness of what he was about to say. "Lee—"

But he felt the sudden stiffening of her supple form beneath that arm and the words he had been about to launch were scattered. The moment was lost, and in the darkness a cynical curve twisted the line of his lips. He removed the offending arm as though it had been burnt.

"I think I'd better go," said Lee coldly.

He watched her leave. When she had gone, the bitter mood clamped more firmly down upon him than ever. Her passing left the gulf between them plain. He'd been a fool to ever think—

He stepped from the car, strode toward the lighter space that marked the door. A figure loomed there, grew straight and blocked his path; he read a definite menace in its rigidity.

"Hold on, you."

Ankrom's muscles tensed; that voice belonged to Hackett!

Primed For Trouble

"HACKETT!"

Ankrom's face reflected no surprise nor showed the faintest to tuberculosis which soon flourished in their midst. Even today where manufacturing processes are introduced into an agricultural community, tuberculosis grows more prevalent and severe.

The man-made diseases are not restricted to those of a bacterial or germ nature. To such we must add the diseases due to toxic

Martins Defeat Greenies As Error in Ninth Causes Run

ERRORS CAUSE ANOTHER LOSS

You Can Just Take A Squint at The Runs, Hits and Errors and Tell Who Pitched for The Greenies - Yes, It Was 'Hard-Luck' Delaney

Greenville's hard luck hurler, John Delaney, lost another game in Williamston yesterday by one run.

The Greenies held a two-run lead until the seventh when the Martins made two on a walk, single, error and two-base hit. The locals had made one each in the second and third and the two single markers looked mighty big until the seventh—up to which time Delaney had allowed only one safe hit, a single by Steve Lakotas. With the count tied at 2-all in the last half of the ninth, Dutch Stanley, first man up in the frame tripled and came home when the Greenie third-sacker, Simpson, erred the throw-in.

It was a pitchers' duel with Delaney holding the edge over Bill Averette, with the Greenie hurler holding the edge by striking out 6 men, allowing only four hits and two walks, while Averette yielded even hits, fanned 11 and walked one.

The Greenies start a two-game series with Ayden here this afternoon with the locals only one game ahead of their cellarite neighbors.

Zschau Hurls Win for Snow Hill; Score, 4-3

Kinston, July 7.—Lefty Zschau held the Eagles to four hits in a 10-inning game yesterday and the Snow Hill Billies triumphed by a 4-3 score.

Eddie Nowak pitched the route for the Eagles. Peahead Walker's Billies reached him for 10 hits. Errors figured in most of the runs. A couple of bad throws gave the Billies the winning run.

Snow Hill opened the scoring by getting a run in the third on an error, Taylor's double and Baker's fly. Kinston counted two in the fourth on a hit—Stringfellow singled, and two errors which followed sent him and Patton around the sacks.

The Billies tied it by scoring in timing with a single Rabb follow-up of singles by Baker and Bistroff. They went ahead in the 8th—Malsano and Rabb sandwiched singles around Soufas' sacrifice.

Kinston rallies in the ninth to catch up—Southworth walked, Patton and Crouch singled, and then Wright's fly scored Southworth.

Malsano opened the Billies' extra inning with a single Rabb followed suit. Malsano scored when the throw in went over third, and a throw to the plate was too high. The errors came with two out.

NATIONALS BEAT AMERICANS 4-1 BEFORE A CROWD OF 28,000

Here's a general view of Crosley Field in Cincinnati during the All-Star game that drew nearly 28,000 spectators. The National League team defeated the Americans 4-1 in the sixth annual battle waged for charity.

NATIONALS WIN ALL-STAR GAME

Senior Major Nine Downs Junior Foes At Cincinnati

By ALAN NGOULD

Cincinnati, O., July 7.—(AP)—The American League's All-Stars put on an explosive display yesterday, but it was their defense that blew up instead of the expected display of hitting fireworks, with the result that the Nationals combined superb pitching with alert all-around play to capture the sixth inter-league baseball classic.

The final tally was 4-1 as the Nationals, achieving their first triumph since 1936 and their second since the "dream game" was inaugurated in 1933, cracked the vaunted supremacy of their powerhouse rivals.

Paced in the pitching department by the youthful home-town hero, 23-year-old Johnny Vander Meer, the Nationals seized all available opportunities to gain an early lead, and then stood off two closing threats that had a packed gallery of 27,067 fans at Crosley Field on the anxious seat in the seventh and ninth innings.

Vander Meer, who set the American League sluggers down with a solitary single in the first three innings as he outpitched his south-paw rival, Vernon Gomez, of the Yankees, received credit for the victory, thus topping off a glorious rookie season for the New Jersey boy who made baseball history by pitching two successive no-hit games.

Gomez was charged with his first defeat in All-Star competition. The Yankee portender, who was a starting pitcher for the fifth time in six years, previously had been credited with three of the four American triumphs. The one run made off Gomez's pitching was unearned, but it was enough to produce his first setback. The score came in the first inning.

The Nationals barely outdid their fees 8 to 7, but backed up the superb pitching of Vander Meer. Bill Lee of the Cubs, and Mace Brown of the Pirates, with spectacular and errorless defensive play. Lee, like Vander Meer, yielded only one hit. Brown was touched for five safeties in the last three innings, and needed some luck as well as his own skill in the pinches, to pull through without serious damage.

By contrast, the American defense came apart in several places. They committed no less than four errors, climaxed by a pair of wild throws by Jimmy Foxx and Joe DiMaggio, in the seventh, that let the last two National League runs cross the plate and sewed up the ball game.

All told, three of the four National markers were unearned, which tells a big share of the story and indicates how times have changed since the Giants were victims of the jitters in the last world series with the Yankees.

The Americans averted the first shutout of the All-Star competition by rallying briskly in the ninth with a succession of long range wall-pops of the delivery of Mace Brown, best relief pitcher in the National league. In fact, only some heroic work by Brown himself, plus spectacular support, in both the 7th and ninth frames, prevented the Americans from breaking loose with a typical scoring outburst.

Aces Again Defeat Tarboro's Serpents

Ayden, July 7.—Ayden scored three runs in the eighth inning to turn back Tarboro, 8-6 here Wednesday.

The Snakes scored two runs in the first inning and added four more in the seventh. Then came the locals' uprising in the eighth.

Jirak doubled, Herring beat out a hit and Carnahan walked to fill the sacks. Jiggs Gasaway singled to deep right to score two runs. Casaway and Carnahan pulled a double steal with Carnahan continuing home.

Tarboro's Campbell hit a home run in the first and Ayden's Jirak hit a homer in the sixth.

Ayden's Bill Herring and Tarboro's Solly Myers each had a perfect day at bat. Bill hit a double and three singles in four tries. Myers collected two singles in a pair of times at bat.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—Sometimes on rainy nights or when the mood is just right I sponsor myself a Bing Crosby by concert. I am the producer, the director, and the audience. I am the only one there I have about 60 Crosby records and from this list I make up a program I want to hear. And Crosby sings what I tell him to, because on this program I'm boss and he's just another guy, taking orders.

This is really the ideal way to enjoy any concert, because you get just what you want and nothing else. And it's so simple. You put the records on the phonograph, you sink back into the softest cushion you can find; you listen. And when you listen to 60 sides of Crosby you get about the most gratifying cross-section of American music in existence. Imagine a program that takes in Stephen Foster, touches the spirituals, dandles under Hawaiian skies, and swings up through the modern melodies. It's something you remember a long, long time.

One of the things I like best about Crosby is his superb enunciation. If you doubt this, put on any of his records and watch him play around with syllables. And I go for that "barbershop" note he injects into his delivery now and then. To get this he has to reach right down into the good earth. But he gets it. And when he does it's something special.

In my files of Crosbians are five or six special numbers that preface and close all programs. These are the "musts" the ones you like to hear over and over. And when I come to them I make old Bing sing encore after encore.

It may be that you would like to know what these special numbers are. All right: first comes "Darlin' Nelly Gray." I think it is a real pity that Stephen Foster will never hear his song as Crosby sings it. To me he gives it something of the utter sensitiveness that Foster must have felt when he composed it.

Then come "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Sweet Lullaby." And after that, "Adeste Fideles," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and "A Fine Romance."

When Crosby recorded "A Fine Romance" he made it with Dixie Lee, his wife, and it is perhaps the cutest thing he ever did. But for some inexplicable reason they never made another record together, and I wonder why. As only a man and his wife could, they crowned deliciously through the lyrics, just as Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, who are man and wife clown thru their appearances together on the stage.

Now take "Adeste Fideles." You think a hymn is out of place between modern numbers, do you? Sugar, you're wrong. Listen to him sing it. He gives it something it never got from a church choir.

Your Mid-Year Sports Exam

Each question counts 20; each part of a two-part question, 10. A score of 60 is fair; 80, good.

1. Who is this former Oregon University ace who was the most talked of baseball rookie of last spring?
2. Which horse won the Freakness?
3. What jockey rode six straight winners in April at San Mateo, Calif.?
4. Who was the Boston pitcher who became the first rookie to win an opening-day major-league baseball game?
5. Who was the Wisconsin youngster who showed great promise last spring as a miler?

(Answers Will Be Found Elsewhere On This Page)

And "Sweet Lullaby"—but I'm all out of adjectives. All I can say is I've worn out three duplicates, which gives you an idea.

And now I've got to sponsor myself another concert. There's only one justification for a concert, you know, and that's because it entertains. And it always does if Crosby sings. That's his business. Let the darkies in the song, that's why he was born.

The league leading Transportation-Nehi softball team took a 10-5 victory over the Water and Light team at Third Street park yesterday afternoon, the first loss for the Water and Light boys in several games.

Coastline Jones looked good both at bat and in the field for the winners. The losers' trouble seemed to be too many butter fingers, although Roebuck could be named as the outstanding man for the Water and Light team; if one is to be named. A game between Furniture Dealers and Carolina Sales earlier in the week was won by the latter and the results are included in today's club standings.

Gold Bugs Turn Back New Bern Bears, 5-2

Goldsboro, July 7.—Jim McMullan had the better of Doug Hantz in the pitching department as Goldsboro turned back New Bern, 5-2, yesterday. The locals outdid the Bears, 8 to 7.

Chester Jans was the big man for the Bugs. He batted .750, as a result of a triple, a double and a single, and drove in three runs. The Bugs made four runs in the first two innings, two walks, and a triple by Jans. The other runs in the fifth, resulted from one hit and two walks.

Swamp Norwood of the Bears opened the game by hitting a home run. The visitors' other run came in the next inning—on a single, a walk, and an error. Thereafter, as usual, was everything under control.

Overton, with two for four, followed Jans in the Goldsboro attack.

Few N. C. Workers Will Be Affected By Pay Provision

More Than 200,000, However, Will Likely Work Shorter Hours as Result of New Law

Raleigh, July 7.—Comparatively few of North Carolina's wage earners will be affected by the 25-cent hourly minimum pay provision of the Federal Wage-Hour bill, but more than 200,000 will likely work shorter hours each week as a result of the measure's 44-hour limitation, Major A. L. Fletcher, State Commissioner of Labor, said today.

The Commissioner has consistently favored the Wage-Hour act and he still believes it will be a step toward putting the South on an economic equality with the rest of the country.

He commented that President Roosevelt is right in his recent statement that the South is the nation's economic sore spot.

"We've got to get used to paying better wages," he said. "Higher pay for the workers would profit everyone, top and bottom, in the long run. Our manufacturers are overlooking a mighty good bet. Higher wages for their employees would increase their market tremendously by giving the workers more purchasing power."

The Major pointed out that in the textile industries only a very few small mills are now paying less than the 25-cent hourly wage minimum, but he added that North Carolina's legal work limit of 48 hours is four above the Wage-Hour's provision for a maximum week of 44 hours.

About 97,000 workers in cotton mills, 30,000 in hosiery plants, 20,000 in furniture factories and 20,000 in tobacco processing factories will be affected by the hour provisions, he said.

But chief objection to the federal measure has come from "small lumber and saw mills," he said. "They can now hire Negroes for $1 or $1.25 a day and work them from sunup to sundown," he said. "Under the federal law they will not be able to do this, and so that's where the big complaining is coming from."

4-H Club members Being Trained At Camps Over State

Approximately 4,000 Rural Boys and Girls Are Getting an Educational Vacation

Raleigh, July 7.—Around 4,000 North Carolina rural boys and girls "are getting an educational vacation this summer" at five 4-H club camps in the state and one in Virginia, said L. R. Harrill, 4-H club leader at N. C. State College.

Club members from the different counties who have done superior project work and have taken an active part in club affairs during the preceding year are given a week at camp both as a reward and as an inspiration to do better work in the future.

The camps are kept busy most of the summer as various counties send delegates for a week's stay. Some of the camps can accommodate delegates from several counties at the same time. Athletic coaches from State College have been placed in charge of three camps, and the others are under the direction of competent leaders.

At camp the young folks have a good time living outdoors, playing open air games, going on tours to places of interest, and studying various subjects in farming, home-making, wild-life, and "more graceful living," commented Miss Frances MacGregor, assistant 4-H club leader.

The camps are located at Swannanoa, White Lake, Indian Springs near Hoffman, Johns River in Caldwell county, Camp Leach in Beaufort county, and Jamestown, Virginia. The Jamestown 4-H camp is a Virginia camp, but nearby North Carolina counties have been granted the privilege of using it.

The first camp opened in May and the last will close about September 1. Club members from most of the organized counties of the state have or will attend camp during the summer.

VICTIMS OF UNCONQUERED RIVER

E. R. Wakefield (left), an official of the Western Union Telegraph company in Denver, Colo., and A. S. Hunt, Denver & Rio Grande Railroad executive, are shown planning their trip shortly before they set out to navigate the dangerous Rio Grande river through unconquered Black Canyon. The expedition ended in tragedy when their small boat upset, Wakefield was swept away, Hunt was injured but reached shore and wandered all night in a rattlesnake-infested wilderness.

The new streamlined Twentieth-Century limited will cut the running time between New York and Chicago to 16 hours.

In the naval battle of Jutland in the World War, the Germans lost 11 vessels, and 2,883 men; the British, 14 vessels, 6,817 men.

T. L. Crossley, consulting chemist, and his co-experimenters, H. B. Peterson and R. J. Hart, said in making the announcement that pulp from fruit-tree prunings and forest slash is peculiarly adapted to making the highest grades of paper.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

New York—The death ray that could be used to attack armies becomes more and more difficult to make as science progresses.

For every lethal form of ray, science sooner or later finds that nature herself has set up barriers to protect her children. The neutron is an example.

This is the newest ray, the deadliest, the first one to penetrate very far from its generator. It is made of a stream of the primordial particles of matter. It can be seen as a bluish transparent flame, shooting a foot or more into the air. Beyond the visible end it can be measured for 50 feet or more. It is dangerous at 50 feet.

But that is far too short a distance for military uses. If, however, the air were not 80 per cent nitrogen, neutrons might penetrate long distances.

This discovery about nitrogen's stopping power was found in Columbia University's cyclotron. It was reported to the American Physical Society by Dr. J. T. Dunning, P. N. Powers and H. G. Bever. Oxygen, hydrogen, the other most common gases are "transparent" to neutrons—not stopped so quickly.

system is making its appearance. Enormous semi-official Japanese companies are being organized for North and Central China, as the Rising Sun Empire works at the task of getting some financial return out of war.

New customs tariffs have been decreed, favorable to Japan. A new currency has been established in North China.

Whether Japan will profit by the war, and whether the Nipponese can succeed in their dreams of an Asiatic empire, are questions which still demand an answer.

There are economic observers who see a conquered China as no more than an economic liability for a Japan already seriously burdened with the costs of war. There are other observers who see the possibility that Japan may succeed, with the combination of Japanese organizing ability and Chinese labor, in making herself independent of both foreign trade and foreign capital.

For China the war has brought new direction to development and industrial enterprise. Chinese capital is being applied to interior provinces long backward. New roads are being built. If the war were to end today, it is agreed, China would have a good chance of rehabilitation.

NEW PROJECTS DISCUSSED BY BOARD OF ALDERMEN

eral government will bear 45 per cent of the cost.

The third project discussed this morning, a street department yard to be located adjacent to the Water and Light plant, also received favorable comment.

The chief's argument advanced by those in favor of proceeding with the projects at the present time is the fact that the city should go ahead with these proposals now when it can secure almost half of the cost from the Federal government.

Add Cucumbers to Money Crop List

Enfield, July 7.—Add cucumbers to the list of money crops that can be grown profitably in North Carolina. J. H. Whitaker, Negro farmer, advised D. J. Knight, local Negro farm agent of the State College Extension Service.

From an acre of cucumbers, Whitaker harvested an average of 13 bushels a day for 15 days and sold them for $98. In addition, plenty of cucumbers were available for family use and the culls were fed to livestock. The cucumbers were carried to Scotland Neck for shipment to city markets.

Whitaker also has 500 Barred Rock chickens weighing an average of 2 1/2 pounds a piece which he can sell as broilers and make a good profit, Knight said. "I like to see farmers getting away from the old money crops and making a nice income from other things that can be produced under a diversified farming program."

The Antwerp printing house of Christopher Plantin, one of the earliest printers in Europe, is a museum now and you can enter it and find its presses, workshouses and offices exactly as they were in the 16th century.
