NON-FEDERAL PWA PROJECTS ARE APPROVED

List Contains 161 Proposals in Twenty-nine States

STEEL HINTS OF REDUCING WAGES

Democratic Candidates in Six States Launch Final Drives Before Primaries

Washington, July 26.—(AP)—The PWA approved $27,972,314 of non-federal projects today.

The list contained 161 projects in 29 states. The PWA will give municipalities $12,586,928 in grants to help finance their construction. The remainder must be put up by the municipalities.

Allocations announced today (grants only), included: Cumberland county, N. C., schools, $37,287; Sampson, N. C., schools, $35,145.

Meanwhile, E. S. Ballard, counsel for the Inland Steel Company, Chicago, testified that high wages "can not be maintained static in the face of present economic conditions without injury to employees and employers alike."

Ballard gave his statement to the Labor Department's public contracts board, which is taking testimony to determine the prevailing minimum wage rate employers must pay while performing government steel contracts.

Ballard's testimony was the first indication the steel industry might be considering the possibility of wage readjustment in the wake of recent steel price reductions.

Other developments:

Democratic candidates in six states launched into their final campaign this week before early August primaries testing President Roosevelt's party leadership, as well as their own vote-drawing power.

A week from today, August 2, primary elections will take place in Kansas, Missouri, Virginia and West Virginia. Two days later Tennessee Democrats will pick their candidates and August 6 will come the bitterly contested Kentucky primary.

Capital politicians wondered whether Secretary Ickes was hinting at a third term for President Roosevelt when he said:

"If the reactionaries in the Democratic party want a real test of President Roosevelt's strength with the people, I suggest that they continue to work for a situation that will result in the people being given an opportunity to vote directly on the proposition of whether or not they are for President Roosevelt and his policies."

To Test Accuracy Cotton Gin Scales

Raleigh, July 26.—A two-year program will be launched immediately by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture to determine the accuracy of cotton gin and other heavy-duty scales in the State, Weights and Measures Chief C. D. Bacon announced today.

Completion of a special truck to carry the 11,000 pounds of test weights will permit the testing work to get underway during the week of July 25. Vance County cotton gin scales will be the first tested with adjoining counties to be visited as rapidly as possible.

Fred P. Johnson, gin inspector for the Department's warehouse division, said that "the scales testing work will be kept as far ahead of the ginning season as possible."

"We are making these tests, not with the view of inconveniencing the ginners, but solely to aid them in securing correct scales," he added. "Often as not, incorrect scales are in favor of the farmer, and therefore it is as much benefit to the owner as to the grower to have scales in repair."

DON'T BE SHOT ACCIDENTALLY - WEAR A SOMBRERO

Mexico, D. F. (AP)—The Mexican sombrero is an institution here, but it may be a joke as well. If cartoonists desire to make a man look ridiculous, they put a big sombrero on him.

Yet the sombrero, or hat, may cost as much as $500. Some are made of finest felt, adorned with gold, silver and copper, and a few with precious stones. The big hat has practical advantages since it provides plenty of protection from the sun, spares the eyes from glare, and prevents hunting accidents.

In the United States a hunter might mistake a moving object in the woods for a deer, but the Mexican sombrero never has been taken for anything—but a sombrero.

JULY SNOW WHITENS PIKE'S PEAK

If the July heat is too much for you, go climb a mountain—a high mountain. Somewhere like Pike's Peak, which towers 14,101 feet above sea level. These two young people decided they didn't like the summery weather near Colorado Springs, Colo., so they discarded light tops for woollens and climbed Pike's Peak, reaching the summit on the heels of the worst July snowstorm in years. Yes, sir, that's snow you see on that thar mountain!

EASTERN N. C. RIVERS RISING

Crops in Lowgrounds of Neuse, Roanoke, and Tar Ruined

Raleigh, July 26.—(AP)—More heavy rains sent eastern North Carolina rivers toward new and higher flood levels today.

Crops in lowlands along the Roanoke, Neuse, Tar and Cape Fear rivers were covered by muddy waters. Small bridges on a number of county roads were washed out and numerous dirt roads were becoming impassible or nearly so.

Weatherman Lee Denson said more than three and one-half inches of rain during the last 24 hours at Rougemont, in Durham county, was forming a "new and very heavy flood in the upper Neuse."

A stage of 43 feet or above within 36 hours was forecast for the Roanoke at Weldon as a result of a new rain fall of nearly three inches at Clarksville, Va. The stage at Weldon was 41.4 feet today, 11 feet above bank level.

The upper Tar was considerably out of its banks at Lenoir and leaving the banks at Rocky Mount with a heavy flood in prospect. The upper Cape Fear also was in a stage of rise.

"The rain water is still flowing into the river and it will be this afternoon before we can figure out the probable new levels," Denson said.

It rained here most of the day, but the forecast for nearly two weeks of almost steady rain, was for fair or partly cloudy weather tonight and tomorrow.

Insurance companies usually have a lower salary range for women office workers than banks.

Counties To Seek Funds Erect School Buildings

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, July 26.—Various counties of North Carolina will seek a total of about two million dollars in PWA grants for the purpose of necessary school buildings, Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin estimates.

"This will mean a program of about five million dollars in absolutely necessary school construction this fall and winter," he told your correspondent.

The school system head was not able to give details as to which counties and cities will build new schools this fall, but he did cite Beaufort and Rutherford counties as among them.

Mr. Erwin has been getting in contact with county school officials all over the state this summer urging them to take advantage of PWA grants to do whatever school construction is needed at this time. He

Fall Of Kiukiang Opens Route For Drive On Hankow

Major Objective to the Japanese Campaign against Chinese Provisional Capital Taken After Three Weeks of Bitter Fighting

Shanghai, July 26.—(AP)—The Japanese command announced its army had at least opened a path for a major offensive against Hankow today by occupying Kiukiang and thereby breaking the main Chinese defense line at the Yangtze valley.

Kiukiang is 130 miles down the Yangtze river from Hankow, provisional Chinese capital. The Japanese had tried more than three weeks to force entry into the city.

The army of Nippon entered it this morning, the Japanese announced, after Chinese defenses began to crumble late Monday night.

Chinese claims to the contrary, the Japanese said General Chiang Kai Shek's troops were retreating to the west and southwest, presumably hoping later to swing back north to form new defenses for the capital.

While the army completed its occupation of Kiukiang, the Japanese announcement related Japanese war ships advanced slowly through mine fields in the Yangtze and with army and navy air forces, joined in shelling and bombing the retreating Chinese.

The Japanese said the fall of Kiukiang culminated a forceful offensive begun last Saturday, when troops landed on the west banks of Lake Poyang. Heavy rains hampered continuance of the advance until yesterday.

Despite the rains, however, the communique said the army defeated several Chinese divisions as it fought its way to Kiukiang.

CALL MEETING IN WINT'RVILLE TO FILL TANKS AT EARLY DATE

Proposed Water And Sewer System to be Discussed Hope Complete Work on Last Two During This Week

An open discussion of Winterville's proposed water and sewer system will be held in the city hall there Thursday night, starting at 8 o'clock, at which time all persons in the community are urged to be present and express their opinion on the subject.

An election has been set for Monday, August 1, at which time citizens will decide whether or not they desire to issue bonds in the amount of $37,000 to match a PWA grant of $28,000. Under the proposal Winterville will get the project at 55 per cent of the actual cost, the remaining 45 per cent being provided by an outright gift by the federal agency.

A number of persons familiar with the proposal will attend the meeting and discuss the project. Mayor W. L. Hunsucker will preside.

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer, will discuss the sanitary advantages to be derived from such a system and also will talk on other health advantages to be gained. Dr. J. S. Liverman, Winterville physician, also will discuss the advantages to be derived, speaking from a doctor's point of view.

Henry L. Rivers, Greenville engineer, who is handling the project, will explain the operations of the project from an engineer's point of view.

Judge Dink James, who is attending to the legal phase of the project will attend the meeting and advise the citizens as to the progress made and what the town will be required to do to secure the project.

C. D. Ward, principal of the school, will relate some of the advantages to be derived and others probably will be lined up for short talks before the meeting is called. All persons are invited to express their views on the matter, whether they are called upon to do so or not.

INCH AND HALF ARGUE BEFORE OF RAIN FALLS ELECTION BODY

Intermittent Showers Continue to Visit Vicinity State Board Continues Hear Election Protests

Intermittent showers throughout yesterday and today visited Greenville, bringing a total of 1.66 inches for the 24 hours ended at 8 o'clock this morning.

The more than an inch and a half for the period followed a fall of 2.59 inches for the 48 hours ended at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

Prior to this week it was beginning to appear that July would be an unusually dry month, following the heavy record set during June. Up to Saturday morning only 1.40 inches had been recorded here.

B. T. Clark, in charge of the local weather bureau station, said he had been advised that the Tar river probably would go out of its banks here. The stream has been rising at the rate of more than a foot a day since Saturday. Standing at 8.5 at 8 o'clock this morning, it had risen from 7.1 yesterday morning and from 5.3 Sunday morning.

Corrigan Decides Take Best Money-Making Job

Daring American Flier to Make Tour First, However

London, July 26.—(AP)—Douglas Corrigan apparently has changed his mind about money-making offers from the United States.

"When I get back," the young trans-Atlantic flier said today, "I'm going to take the best job offered—movies, vaudeville, newspapers, anything."

But he is planning a two-weeks tour first.

"There will be a couple of days in New York," he said. "Two days because the boys in Brooklyn seem to want to have a parade as well as the guys in New York; then Boston; then South to Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington."

He plans also to visit Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio ("where I was stationed six years"); Norfolk, Va. ("if I can make it"); Galveston ("where I was born"); then Los Angeles, San Francisco and St. Louis, ("where my plane was built").

Corrigan said he would attend the Cleveland air races, but not as a competitor.

Tomorrow Corrigan will go to Kensington Museum to see the plane which the Wright brothers first flew at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Survey Of Crops Nears Completion

Raleigh, July 26.—The North Carolina Department of Agriculture's annual farm census survey, giving complete information on the acreage for all 1938 crops, will be completed by September 15, Farm Census Supervisor S. M. Hines announced today.

Farmers desiring copies of the Farm Census, which will appear in the fall "Farm Forecaster" should write the statistics division, N. C. Department of Agriculture, Raleigh.

Tubulations of the crop reports furnished by county tax listers were begun May 15. North Carolina is the only Southern state rendering this service.

Almost 2-3 of women office workers are between the ages of 20 and 30.

Election Board Member Sought Banish Absentees

By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, July 26.—George McNeill, a member of the state Board of Elections now probing all manner of charges that the absentee ballot law has been abused this year, enjoys the distinction of being the only North Carolina legislator ever to get a bill through either house of the General Assembly abolishing absentee voting in primary elections.

This McNeill accomplished in the 1933 legislature when he was a Senator from Cumberland county. Oddly enough, J. O. Bell, of Hendersonville, likewise a member of the election board, was one of the McNeill opponents in his anti-absentee fight.

An inspection of the Senate Journal for that tempestuous session shows that Senator McNeill introduced his bill (Senate Bill 69) on January 18 and finally pushed through a committee substitute em-

Kentucky Officers Proceed With Investigation

GOVERNOR TAKEN ILL LAST FRIDAY

Chief Executive, Asking Renomination, Says Campaign Most Desperate in Years

Frankfort, Ky., July 26.—(AP)—Kentucky's highway patrol proceeded today with an investigation into the asserted "poisoning" of Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler.

Major Joe Burman, chief of the State Bureau of Identification, said it was "not the first time such a thing has happened during the campaign." Chandler is waging for the Democratic senatorial nomination against Senator Barkley, Senate majority leader.

"We have out suspicions," Major Burman said in promising an investigation "to determine who is responsible for the attempt on the Governor's life."

Chandler, ill since Friday when he was stricken in a Louisville hotel, is the victim of water "doctored with poison," Dr. J. W. Bryan, his Louisville physician, said in a statement. Dr. Bryan said he did not know what kind of poison it was but added "if consumed in sufficient quantities could have caused death."

Addressing a radio audience from his bedside in the executive mansion last night, Chandler said "in no campaign in recent years has a campaign been so desperate."

He recalled that he had just finished a broadcast from his Louisville hotel suite Friday when "two of my associates and I were stricken with intestinal poisoning." Dr. Bryan had said previously State Finance Commissioner Dan Talbot and State Highway Patrolman J. Wyatt "drank from the same pitcher of water" as the Governor and became ill at the same time, but not as seriously.

Auto And Trucks Purchased By City

Two trucks and one automobile were bought by the Greenville Board of Aldermen last night, but purchase of a motorcycle was postponed.

A four-door Ford sedan was ordered purchased for the police department to replace a 1935 model vehicle at a price of $628, plus the old worn-out automobile. Bids were also received on several other makes including Nash, Plymouth, Chevrolet, Pontiac, Hudson and Buick.

The city fathers ordered the purchase of two Chevrolet trucks for $1,475, plus the old vehicles. Bids were also made by dealers for GMC, Ford and International trucks. The trucks are for use by the street department.

Police Chief Clark and City Patrolman Wooten were instructed to get bids on a motorcycle and the mayor was invested with authority to make the purchase. Bids received last night on a motorcycle were rejected.

County Court Is Due to Resume Next Week

Today marks the last scheduled summer holiday for County Court, Judge Dink James having announced at the beginning of the recess following the July 12 session that the tribunal would resume hearings on August 2.

The recess was taken chiefly to allow defendants and witnesses to remain at home and harvest their tobacco crops.

"Truth" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, July 24.

The golden text was from Psalms 86:11. "Teach me thy way, O Lord; I will walk in thy truth; unite my heart to fear thy name."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people; and I will sing praises unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great above the heavens; and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds." (Ps. 108:3-4).

Colored Vacation Bible School Closes

On Thursday evening a group of women from the Presbyterian and Methodist churches enjoyed a program given by the children of the Colored Daily Vacation Bible School which closed on Friday evening after a three-week period. The program consisted of songs, recitations and quizzes on the Bible, also a dramatization of the birth of Christ. There was an interesting exhibit of handwork, drawing and sewing.

The program showed that the children had been well taught and that the school was a great success. There were over 100 children enrolled. The teaching was entirely volunteer and those who helped deserve high praise and many thanks for their service.

Besides Thelma Moore, who supervised the school, there were the following teachers: Belle Atkinson, Ethel Wilson, handwork; Sally Jackson, story telling; Thelma Lawrence, music; Griffin Edwards, with the help of some boys, manual work.

and buggy were parked in front of S. M. Schulz's store and the running team gave this rear-end collision that smashed two wheels. One of the Letchworth boys, a cripple, was sitting in the buggy and he was thrown over the spatter board with such force as to break his collar bone. The Carroll horse kept going and at the Five Points corner tangled in with Mrs. Allen Bowen's buggy, cutting that somewhat to pieces.

By this time a yelling crowd was in pursuit and the confusion and crashing of vehicles frightened a wagon team and away they dashed out Dickinson avenue. The wagon was heavily loaded and rather than pull it through the sand in the street the horses took to the sidewalk. They had clear going until Mr. W. B. Greene's front yard was reached and the fence not getting out of the way was moved down from the corner to the front gate, where they were brought up suddenly by the wheels on the other side locking with a tree.

Altogether it was an exciting run-away and several people came near being run over.

Standard food measurements: Two cups of solid fat equal one pound, as do two cups of granulated sugar, two and two-thirds cups of confectioner's sugar, two and two-thirds cups of dark brown sugar, three and three-quarter cups of regular flour of four cups of pastry flour. Three teaspoons equal one tablespoon. Sixteen tablespoons equals one cup. Two cups make a pint.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—Honey, the old let-downs got me. I dunno why it is, but I can't come home from vacations like other people, full of pep and raring to go. I gotta be gloomy. I gotta feel sorry for myself. I gotta sit around with my chin in my hand, feeling like the drag end of Gloomy Sunday and wondering what Blue Monday's gonna be like.

Nobody has a better time than I do, but next day there's a fly in my hand. And that usnay, if you ask me. Here I am back from as pleasant a stay as I was ever on, in Connecticut it was, and instead of feeling keenly reminiscent and alibe, instead of bubbling over with suppressed energy and excitement, I am lost in apathy, kindred to a whipped houn' dog.

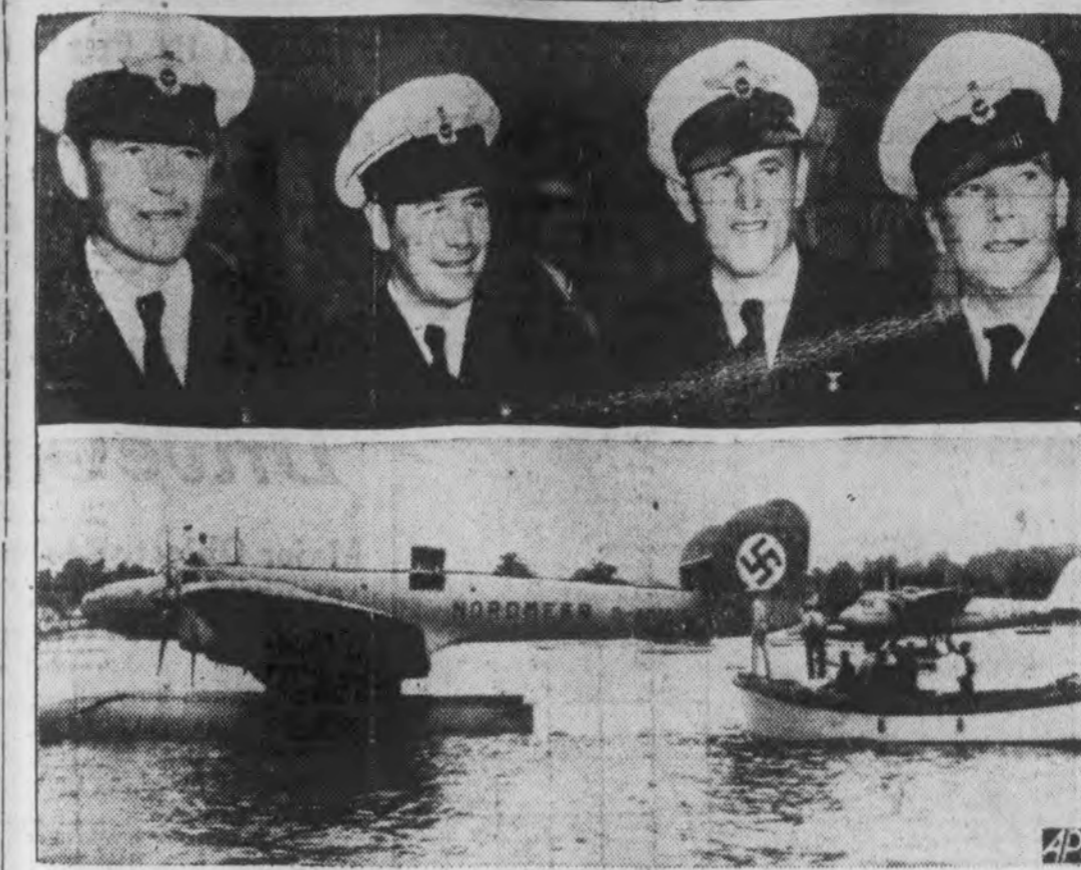

The rambler rose may be beautiful to Robert Burns, but it is only a blossom to me, and a thorny one at that. This metropolis may be a magic city to others, replete with romance and glamor, but it doesn't thrill me. Not today it doesn't. Tomorrow—that's something else again. But today it's only a big dull town. There's no savor to the goulash. All the bush has gone from the peach.

There's something else, too, that makes me feel pretty bad. I passed a ghost on the street just now, the ghost of the old White Horse Tavern. Coming across 45th street I just happened to look up and caught sight of a sign. It said, simply: "For Rent." And it came to me with something of a start that here indeed was the scene of many a gay old time. Almost everybody remembers the Tavern in prohibition days. It was picturesque and it was well managed. You had to have credentials to get past the door, and the attendants looked like fox hunters in scarlet coats. There was an ancient darkie inside named Chester who banged a little two-by-four piano and sang any song you wanted to hear. They tried him out one night and he sang 167 requests without repeating himself. That's coming through the rye.

Chester was a book darkie. I'm sure he came out of a book. I never saw one like him before, or since. Looking at the place now it makes you feel a little sad. The rains and the sheets of the years of Repeal have washed away the bright front of the Tavern. Today the windows, little diamond-shaped squares of stained glass, like those in cathedrals, are dusty and dim. Spiders make their homes in the cracks of the door, and cobwebs are the only lace curtains there.

BRITISH TRANSFER BARS OF GOLD BULLION IN OPEN CART

London (AP)—American gangsters who are used to seeing gold transported in armored cars watched over by guards with drawn pistols will weep at this news of how the British do it.

Three men in an open horse-drawn van pulled up in front of the London branch of a new York bank recently with 50 bars of gold, worth $15,000 each.

A messenger greeted them with three cups of tea. The men set the cups on the bars, lit their pipes. Ten minutes later they took the empty cups into the bank and casually unloaded the $750,000 worth of gold.

LOVE ON THE RANGE

BY NELSON C. NEE

The Story So Far
A net is tightening around the Rafter T. Going by the name of Streeter, "Blair" Ankrum takes a job there to help lovely Lee Trone. Betty Struthers gets on the ranch under false pretenses. She makes a play for Ankrum which puts him in bad with Lee.

damn well please!" Ratchford's heavy voice rode through the puncher's words like a knife through cheese. "I'm the law around these parts an' I say Heffie's in the right. I've looked his title up an' it's good as gold. You pull any rough stuff out there an' you smack square up against the law!"

Chapter 22 Speeding Up

THIS thing was bad, thought Ankrum, and would be worse. Whether ancient animosities, jealousy of water rights, or a railroad and the prospect of a future town lay behind this web, he had no means of knowing. But of one thing he was certain: things were speeding up and Trone needed him—a powder-smoke show-down could not be far away. These men against Trone were dangerous, and their next move might well be directed at himself.

"You heard me!" Ankrum drawled. "What you figure to do about this, Trone?" "Do! Streeter, you go down there an' run them water pirates off!"

He looked at Trone and saw the old man lift a shaking bottle to his lips. When the bottle was empty Trone hurried it from him with a muttered oath. Ankrum's lips curled a little. This old hel-

The sheriff stared at the numbed fingers of his shaking hand.

High, he thought, is trying to bolster up his shattered nerves.

"Trone glared at Ring-Legs wildly. 'Say that again.' 'Them fellas,' the puncher growled, 'say there's been a mistake in boundary lines. They claim we been hoggin' too much land. They say that tank ain't on our land at all. They been given orders to string a fence that'll keep our cattle away from it. An' Boone Heffie give 'em orders.'

"Boone Heffie!" Trone whistled the name and licked his lips. His courage seemed to be ebbing swiftly.

"You made a mistake lettin' that sheepman live," said Ring-Legs. "When you was fightin' Ratchford's father an' them others years ago you oughta tromped the bunch of 'em underground—partic'lar Heffie!"

"But Heffie was on my side," Trone protested. "Why should he be strikin' at me now after all these years?"

"The Heffies of this world ain't on nobody's side but the man that's payin' the highest," the bow-legged puncher snarled. "It's plain as a sin at the crossroads that this Heffie snake's been bought!"

The clump of boots turned Ankrum's glance. He saw Ratchford and Lee come running toward them. When they came up Ratchford shoved his burly frame to the front, grasped the puncher by the shoulder and whirled him round.

"What's up?"

"Boone Heffie's jumped the tank an' cabin at our southwest line camp!"

"I'm The Law!"

RATCHFORD released his grip and swung on Trone. "Jumped your tank, has he? Well, I'm here to say he hasn't. The tank an' cabin at your southwest line ain't on your ground, an' you know it. You've been squattin' on that government land for twenty years—but that don't make it yours!"

Trone opened his mouth, but Ratchford's voice came first: "Let's see your patent to that land."

Ankrum saw the color wash from Trone's cheeks; he seemed to shrink under the impact of the sheriff's words. But not Ring-Legs. "Spreadin' it thick won't buy yuh nothin'," he jeered. "You jest watch how long Heffie stays there. Mister—"

HIS COWS CAN NOW GET MORE CUDS PER ACRE

Zenda, Kans.—(AP)—Clarence Beat, farmer, thinks he has discovered a way his cattle can "eat" their cake and have it too.

The way, he said, is to contour-turrow the range land. He plows deep ditches at intervals across the range on a level line, so that rain and snow water catch there and penetrate the soil instead of running off.

"After constructing furrows on a 73-acre pasture, the height of the grass increased even though more cattle used it for grazing," Beat said.

Of the 25 voting against the motion to table, equivalent to supporting the bill, fifteen were from the east and ten from the west. Of the 19 who wanted to drop the matter seven were easterners, twelve from the west.

Among those who opposed abolition of the absentee ballot in primaries were Dudley Bagley, now head of the state Rural Electrification Authority; Carl Bailey, of Washington county, whose motion killed the McLenon recommendations at the Democratic state committee meeting prior to the 1937 legislature; Lloyd Griffin, now secretary of the State School Commission; S. Gilmer Sparger, of Stokes, now chief lobbyist for the oil companies; and Capus Wayne, former Highway Commission chairman.

Voting for the absentee repeal were, among others, J. Abner Barker whose right to the Fourth District solicitor's nomination is being challenged by Rivers Johnson of Warsaw; Allen H. Gwyn, who defeated Judge E. C. Bivins for nomination in the Twenty-first judicial this year; and the late Angus Dhu McLean of Beaufort who died last year.

Only one Senator who will be a member of the 1939 upper house voted to table the veteran W. G. (Cousin Willie) Clark of Edgecombe county that way.

(By The AP Feature Service) In the year 1872, readers of Le Temps, Paris newspaper, were astonished to read that Mr. Phileas Fogg of London, had started on a trip around the world in 80 days.

Mr. Phileas Fogg

Today's intrepid airman are but his followers. Mr. Fogg, methodical English clubman, had wagered 20,000 pounds he could do it. His venture was ridiculed, bets were laid against him, and thus was launched one of the most fascinating novels of the 19th century—"Around the World in 80 Days." Its author was Jules Verne.

To win his stupendous wager, Mr. Fogg had to catch every train, every steamer, on the dot. But those who bet against him did not count on his iron will. He encountered the most unexpected calamities. While drifting an eye including the rescue of a beautiful young woman who became his wife. He was harassed all the way by a detective who mistook him for a thief who had robbed the Bank of England a few days before Mr. Fogg left London.

Mr. Fogg made it—on the dot. He used every means of conveyance then known—steamers, railways, carriages, yachts, trading vessels that he hired or purchased, sledges—over America's plains—and an elephant.

"The novels of Jules Verne," writes an authority, "are dreams come true, dreams of submarines, airplanes, television; they look forward—not backward. Therefore they are still the books of youth."

Tobacco growers know "inside" reasons for preferring Camels. These planters tell what they know about Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos. "At the warehouse sales," says Leon Mullen, experienced planter, "Camel buys the choice grades of tobacco. That's the reason why most of us men who grow and know tobacco smoke Camel cigarettes. We certainly appreciate the difference in the tobacco Camel buys." "Almost every one of my fine baskets of tobacco went to Camel buyers last year," says G. A. Langley, who knows tobacco growing from every angle. "Better tobacco means better smoking," he adds. "That means Camels to me—and to most other growers too." Alton Barnes, a planter who has grown and graded many a fine crop, says this about Camels: "Year after year the choicest lots of my tobacco have gone to the Camel buyers. Naturally, we growers select the best tobacco for our own smoking. So we choose Camels." "I know from experience that Camel buys choice tobaccos," says Mr. Cecil Claybourne, veteran planter. "Many a time they've paid more to get my finest lots of tobacco. Yes, most of us planters smoke Camels. We sure find a difference in their finer tobaccos."

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—Next to dreaming about life in the South Seas and the rustle of grass skirts we can dream best about life in the sobbing breezes of the West Indies. So it was soothing to learn that a fellow can buy himself a little island kingdom in the Bahamas and become master of the place from coast to coast.

We wrote to Mr. H. G. Christie, a real estate dealer in Nassau, to ask more about it. Mr. Christie is not reticent about the enticements of the sub-tropics and such a spell we wrote about it that not until we bored through a stack of literature did we discover he had not quoted prices. We had to get those elsewhere.

A Master of Innuendo
The Bahamas are strung out eastward from Florida as if Paul Bunyan had stood at Miami and flung them out of the front yard. They range all the way from dots that the waves wash over to big jobs of several thousand acres.

"Most of the islands have great agricultural possibilities," says Mr. Christie, whose cable address is Christland, "and are abounded with very fine fishing and sea food of every description, also coral beaches which are incomparable in the Universe."

The temperature doesn't seem to vary much, ranging from a low of about 65 degrees in the winter months to a top of 88 degrees in the summer. These temperatures were measured in the "shade." It may get hotter out in the sun and no doubt does.

The Bahamas are right in the old-time pirate belt in the triangle between Florida and Cuba. They belong to England. When you buy an island you don't become an Englishman, but you have leisure to practice an English accent. On one or two of the larger islands there are forts erected to beat off the freebooters. During the Civil War the islands were a favorite stopping place for blockade runners heading for Confederate ports.

Mr. Grover Waxos Poetic
But the attractions are obvious to any South Sea dreamer. Palms grow there, the seas are as blue as coat linings, little breezes nuzzle at your linen slacks and the mail is delivered every once in a while by boat or you can hop into your own skiff and sail over to the village for it, catching fish on the way.

Take Goat cay. (Down there, they call islands cays. It is in the Exuma range in the middle of the Bahamas. "Goat island," says Mr. Christie, "is one of the prettiest of the Exuma cays, with its perpendicular cliffs and high hill sloping down to a coral beach. A sea garden lies off the shore. Tete-a-tand den lies off the shore. The cay is over half a mile long, and comprises 30 acres of land."

Now 30 acres of land in the heart of New York would be quite a sizeable piece. It is a comparatively small island. If it were in a lump it would be about two-blocks square. Strung out for half a mile, as is Goat island, would make it a trifle narrow.

As to prices, we heard a quotation on Goat island of $3,500. Other prices indicate these little kingdoms can be had for about $120 an acre. Lord Beaverbrook has bought one, says Mr. Christie.

Occasionally a hurricane comes stepping over the islands in the late summer months but except for that there is uninterrupted peace and quiet, swimming, fishing, practically no taxes, and few auto horns. Ho-hum.

lice of the peace had notarized some affidavits in the Deane-Burgin contest, he slyly remarked:
"Can't we gerrymander that town ship so as to get rid of him?"
To which Republican Board Member Adrian Mitchell added: "Well, well! They must have a democracy over there after all."

Anyone who thinks the election board is getting rich off its per diem compensation for holding all these sessions, can disabuse his mind right now. The rate of pay is $3.50 per day which, as Mr. Mitchell remarked, is "just about WPA rates."

He lamented the fact, however, that the board's labors do not come under the limitations of the new wage-hour bill.

Former Governor Ehringhaus and Major L. P. McLendon ought to feel a bit proud that certain observers, even experienced men, have thought their clashes involved at least some personal animosity.

All good lawyers are good actors and all good actors can make their wrath and indignation appear genuine and all-embracing. And both the former governor and his one-time campaign manager are even better than average good lawyers.

Much more important than the hundreds of affidavits and counter-affidavits in the Deane-Burgin contest is the fact that Chairman Lucas has been to Davidson county and seen the situation there at first hand.

The Hartford Times prints a picture of Governor Clyde R. Hoey and Connecticut's Governor Cross making talk together in the latter's office. It is headed "The Governor of North Carolina Said—"

The lines under this picture say the two governors "avoided controversial subjects as they exchanged pleasantries."

In a story on the same page the paper has an interview with Governor Hoey in which the Tar Heel's views on freight rate differentials against the South are quoted in some detail.

Liege, Liege, Belgium—(AP)—Twenty-four years after the start of the World War, Belgium still is bolstering her defense against an invasion like the one in August, 1914, when German legions tramped across the border on their way to France.

It was on June 18, 1914, that Archduke Ferdinand was assassinated. That act led to the World War. On August 4, the Germans crossed the border and bombarded Liege, which fell August 16.

Liege still is Belgium's key point in her defense against eastern attack.

The 13 forts girding the city—six on either bank of the River Maas—have been rebuilt and re-equipped. Commanding all roads and bridges into Liege, they are garrisoned on a permanent wartime footing.

'Pill-Boxes' In Gaps
Gaps between the forts are studied with "pill-boxes" and concealed machine gun nests. Underground, bombproof shelters link neighboring forts.

Belgian military experts say this steel honeycomb would prevent a surprise infiltration like the one the Germans made in 1914, when they crossed the border from Aachen and Eupen. Now an invader might storm the city, but only at suicidal cost, they say.

Two forts also have been built at Battlie, midway between Liege and Aachen, and Ebben-Emael, extreme northern point of the Liege fortification system.

Ebben-Emael commands the river between Liege and the Dutch frontier, protecting the approaches to Governor Clyde R. Hoey will speak tonight to the Criminal Law section of the American Bar Association at a banquet meeting in Cleveland, Ohio.

He will discuss parole and probation, two phases of criminal law administration in which he has exhibited particular interest. The Governor is a staunch defender of both systems and will no doubt cite facts and figures from North Carolina's records to sustain the position he has taken on the matter.

He has frequently said: "I am definitely committed to the work of human reclamation in connection with our prisons."

It's Really True, Prof. Finds--Some Women Do Not Like Mice

ON THE OTHER HAND, this psychology student at Denver University has made a pet out of a rat.

(By The AP Feature Service)
Denver—Prof. Thomas R. Garth's psychology experiments at Denver University proved one thing—some women never can learn to like a mouse.

Some of them come to love Professor Garth's white mice and rats. Others just leave them alone. The rest scream—nearly always—when they see one.

This discovery was a "by-product" of experiments in which Dr. Garth used white rats to determine their ability to learn and as subjects for the study of the cause and effect of right- or left-handedness.

"But the most interesting thing I found out was that some women students seem to have a congenital fear of mice and rats that you never can overcome," said Dr. Garth. "No matter how much they associate with rats, they always fear them. They never will touch one."

Belgium, Remembering 1914 Invasion, Keep On Building Border Defenses

Belgium's newly created regiment of frontier cyclists maneuvers near border.

The canal, which Belgians say greatly has increased Liege's security, follows the river from Liege to the Dutch border near Maastricht.

But Liege is only a key point to the main Maas line, which still is defended, as in 1914, by the Huy and Namur forts.

The approaches to this main protective belt are guarded by field defenses. They follow the German border from the Dutch frontier to the Luxembourg frontier, and along the latter south to Arlon, where the Belgian system joins up with French fortifications.

These field defenses are permanently manned by a division of motorized troops and the newly-created regiment of frontier cyclists.

More Machine Gun Nests
The army chiefs have made you the permanent incarnation of the country's resistance as from the frontier line." King Leopold told the cyclists May 19 when he presented their colors.

The natural defenses of the Ardennes highlands have been studded with machine gun nests. Concrete defensive works plug all most every pocket in the hills. Beneath them are underground shelters.

If a Belgian army fighting an invader had to give up the Maas line it could concentrate around Ghent and Antwerp. There a second defensive line is being established to protect the new munition factories built to supply the army if Liege were cut off from the rest of Belgium as in 1914.

N. C. ALLOWED LARGER QUOTA

Four Per Ct. Increase Granted for Growers of Tobacco

Raleigh, July 26.—North Carolina, the nation's No. 1 producer of flue-cured tobacco, has been allotted 485,678,000 pounds of the leaf under the 1938 program. E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive officer at State College, announced today.

Originally granted 466,998,000 pounds, this State had its total boosted by 4 per cent as a result of Congressional amendments to the long-debated farm bill. The small increase added 18,680,000 pounds.

As the Act was set up, it did not provide state quotas for new producers, but authorized allotments to this group without regard to state lines. New farms were defined as those on which flue-cured tobacco is being produced for the first time this year since 1933.

North Carolina was granted 9,256,000 pounds for its new producers. This, when added to the allotments for old growers, represents 95.3 per cent of the average marketings during the 1936 and 1937 seasons.

Individual farm quotas are now being determined in the tobacco-producing counties, Floyd explained. In administering the quotas, each farm operator will be given a marketing card showing the amount of tobacco he can sell without penalty.

estimated at 84,000, is 14 per cent less than that harvested in 1937.

Rhodes said that the commercial potato crop experienced unusually early planting and growing conditions.

"The month of May was dry, but the soil in an excellent shape for maturing the crop," he added. "All of these conditions have contributed to the excellent yield and carrying quality of the potato crop. The proportion of No. 1 potatoes harvested has been greater than usual. In spite of the continuously rainy June, the early maturing conditions permitted growers to save their crop and get it to market. Prices received have been better than were anticipated."

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
By Isaac Goldstein, M.D.

GRANNY'S VINDICATION
Granny will be grateful to Dr. Robert Paschke who has thoroughly upheld her views about the disturbances that are frequently associated with the teething process.

In time past when baby was cutting his teeth and suffered some degree of fever, weakness and gastric upset, it was Granny's habit to pass the disturbance off as a common complication of teething.

More recently her simple diagnosis was brushed aside as old-fashioned. The modern mother, as well as her pediatrician, reasoned that teething was a normal process and that whatever disturbances the child manifested at that time were due not to the teething but to some other condition, possibly to rickets, to allergy, or to "neuropathic tendencies."

Now Dr. Paschke, on the basis of certain careful studies, has proved that there is such a condition as "tooth fever," that is, a constitutional disturbance associated in some cases with the teething process.

The dental experts inform us that the final stages of the growth of the teeth call for the destruction of the soft parts which lie between the tooth sac and the gum margin.

Some 8 to 21 days before the actual appearance of the teeth in the gum, a destructive process, sometimes complicated by infection, takes place.

This infection of the dying tissues does not occur in every teething child. The health of the child is the determining factor. About 10 per cent of all children, Dr. Paschke estimates, are affected.

A careful study of Dr. Paschke's thesis shows that while Granny's diagnosis is vindicated, the modern pediatrician's viewpoint is not repudiated. When the nutrition of the teething child is good and its hygienic care up to standard, it is likely to escape bacterial complications of the gum tissue.

Tooth fever therefore is not an entirely normal process and should be guarded against, as well as adequately treated.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 26.—(AP)—The stock market ran into profit taking trouble today and suffered losses running to around two points.

Activity was most pronounced in the selling wave that swept down recent leaders shortly after the opening. Volume dried up appreciably on the subsequent comeback in which extreme declines were halved in many instances. Late offerings put final prices near their lows, although a handful of specialties helped soften the general relapse.

The selling pace quickened somewhat near the finish and transfers approximated 2,250,000 shares.

Modest W.A. Lucas Is Ringmaster Of Elections Circus

Wilson Man Unruffled by Bickering of "Big Shots" Appearing Before Current Hearings

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, July 26.—Former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and Major L. P. McLendon; Neil McK. Salmon, Bob Young's lawyer, and L. L. Levinson, counsel for Solicitor C. P. Canada; and some other expert pleaders have been much in the public prints during the many-sided probe of election fraud charges; but the real ringmaster, the man who is cracking the whip and making 'em like it, is nobody but modest, unassuming W. A. Lucas, chairman of the State Board of Elections.

Lawyers have snarled at each other in bitter exchanges—have clinched their fists, waved their arms and grown red in the face. But one and all—big shots and little fellows—have sat down and behaved themselves when the chairman has remarked evenly, as he did at the height of one Ehringhaus-McLendon brush, "Gentlemen, we'll proceed a little bit more orderly if you don't mind."

Nobody has doubted the Lucas sincerity and fairness. Nobody has failed to notice the obvious intention of the board head to get to the bottom of every charge and counter charge.

But withal it's an impossibility to get this same chairman, who runs the board hearings with the poise and equanimity of a veteran judge, to tell a thing about his accomplishments.

Today this correspondent tried. "What have you done, Mr. Lucas?" he asked as something of a starter. "Nothing," came back the chairman without batting an eye.

By dint of continuous questionings, which drew for the most part monosyllabic replies, it was learned that Mr. Lucas has practiced law in Wilson for years; that he has never run for any public office (never intends to); that he has been a member of the State Elections Board of which he became chairman this year, since August, 1932; and that, to use his words:

"I'm innocent of politics, ignorant of statecraft."

Estimated Potato Crop 2nd Largest In State's History

Indicated Harvest of 9,912,000 Bushels, 28 Per Cent Larger Than Ten-Year Average

Raleigh, July 26.—North Carolina Irish potato growers indicate they produced their second largest crop this year, reports the State Department of Agriculture in the July 1 crop survey.

W. H. Rhodes, chief statistician for the Department, said that farmers reports indicate a harvest of 9,912,000 "spuds" this season.

"The 1938 estimated production is only 18,000 bushels more than the 1937 crop, but is 28 per cent larger than the past 10-year average crop," he reported. "The increase in production prospects is due primarily to the record yield per acre, at a 118 bushel average for the State."

The acreage cultivated this year,
