GOVERNOR CALLS SPECIAL SESSION NEXT MONDAY

GEORGIA ASKS QUOTA SYSTEM BE ABANDONED

Sec. Wallace Urged To Suspend Tobacco Allotments

STATE OFFICIALS REQUEST ACTION

Gov. Rivers Wires That Unless Quotas Abandoned 'We Face Financial Ruin'

Atlanta, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Senator Walter George and Governor E. D. Rivers today requested Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to suspend marketing quotas of flue-cured tobacco from allotted acreage without penalties.

Under the national quota system growers are limited in the amount of tobacco they may sell whether or not the crop is produced on allotted acreage.

Rivers wired that unless quotas are suspended "we face financial ruin."

Incomplete returns from the first week's sales in the South Georgia bright leaf tobacco markets showed $3,181,000 paid for 11,840,000 pounds of tobacco.

The reports were from 41 of the 56 tobacco warehouses in the state. The average in these warehouses was 27 cents a pound.

Official figures on the entire market for the opening week will not be released by the State Department of Agriculture until tomorrow.

With 16 warehouses still to report, the figures today compared with $3,248,275.02 paid in all markets during opening week of last year. The average last year was 25.23 cents and the poundage 12,875,254.

Protests and court attacks harried government tobacco officials. A mass meeting of Candler county growers was called today to protest permanent allotments issued by the AAA. Emanuel county growers wired Secretary Wallace that quotas were "unfair."

At Moultrie, 60 farmers held a temporary order restraining warehousemen from paying the penalty taxes and a similar order was granted at Valdosta and Lake City, Fla.

A meeting was scheduled at Waycross tonight in protest to quota limitations and sponsors indicated a temporary injunction imposing penalty assessments probably would be sought.

Only Few Charges Aired At Session

Confronted with a light docket, involving three white and two Negro defendants, Vice-Recorder Z. C. Skinner disposed of the cases before the noon recess today in the regular Monday morning session of city recorder's court.

A nolle proes was taken in the drunkenness.

Ray Koonce was adjudged not guilty on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Carlton Smith, charged with careless and reckless driving, was found not guilty. A $10 cash bond was forfeited when the prosecuting witness failed to appear.

Ben Overbridge, Negro, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was fined $25 and taxed with the costs, and sentenced to serve six months on the roads. Road sentence was suspended upon condition that he pay the fine and costs and remain of good behavior for a period of two years.

George Fields, Negro, charged with careless and reckless driving was found guilty of driving on the left center of the street. He was ordered to pay $5, to be applied on the costs, and satisfy the damage done to the automobile of Ben Randolph, prosecuting witness.

Semi-Annual Dollar Day Scheduled For Thursday

Feared Lost

In command of Pan American Airways' Hawaii Clipper when she disappeared on a flight between Guam and Manila, P. I., was Capt. Leo Terletzky, pictured above. The 26-ton flying boat last reported 500 miles out of Guam.

SLIGHT HOPES FINDING PLANE

Note of Optimism in Apparently Hopeless Search

Manila, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A new note of optimism sounded tonight in the apparently hopeless search for the lost Hawaii Clipper and its 15 passengers.

As army and navy craft ended their fourth day of far-flung search with the report "found nothing", aeronautical experts of the Philippine Department of Communication expressed belief that the 26-ton flying boat might still be afloat.

In support of their theory, they pointed to the fact that intensive search of the area where the clipper was heard from had failed to disclose a single bit of wreckage. They added the Clipper's radio might have failed after its last report and that it might have left its course for some unknown reason and landed at a spot outside the present search zone.

Local Man to Attend Pythian Convention

Attorney S. O. Worthington will leave Saturday for Chicago, where he will attend a biennial of the Supreme Lodge of nights of Pythians, to be held August 8-15.

The Greenville attorney and W. B. Burket, of Greensboro, have been chosen to represent the Grand Lodge of North Carolina at the eight-day session. B-sides delegates from various sections of the United States, representatives from Canada, Hawaiian Islands and other distant points will likely attend.

County Court On Schedule Tuesday

County court will be resumed tomorrow morning after having been in summer recess for several weeks. It was definitely stated by court attaches this morning.

Judge Dink Jame declared a court holiday while farmers were busy putting in tobacco, a custom practiced here for several years.

One week each of criminal and civil court also are scheduled for this month. The civil term will begin on August 22 and be followed by a criminal session the next week.

Judge J. Paul Fritzsche of Snow Hill is scheduled to preside over the sessions, the first of the fall term.

Forty-One Greenville Merchants Are To Cooperate

Here is the news, Greenville and its wide trading territory has been waiting for!

Dollar Day will be observed by 41 cooperating merchants of this city on Thursday, August 4.

Bargains by the thousands are being prepared for the semi-annual trading event. Officials and clerks will be busy the first part of the week arranging stock and marking down prices. The Wednesday afternoon holiday will be no vacation for many clerks this week as they will be making last-minute arrangements.

The cooperating merchants claim they will offer bargains never before exceeded.

Each of the 41 merchants taking part in the event will have Dollar Day cards displayed in their windows to guide shoppers to the bargains to be offered the shopping public.

Dollar Day, which is sponsored by the Merchants Association, has been staged in Greenville semi-annually for many years and shoppers who have attended before attest to the fact that the stores offer exceptional values on this day.

Still Is Located In Pactolus Township

Special ABC Law Enforcement Officers J. M. Ward and J. L. Taylor accidentally found a still in Pactolus Saturday afternoon, but the plant was not in operation and no arrest was made.

The officers were searching the home and premises of Marvin Jones in Pactolus township when they saw a path leading from the house. They followed it and came upon the still about a half mile in the woods. Jones was not at home when the officers searched it.

The still was of a 50-gallon capacity copper outfit. It was hot and the officers expressed the belief it has been operated the previous night. About 200 gallons of beer was found, but no whiskey was located.

YEGGMEN BLOW SAFE AT SPEED

Tarboro, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Experienced yeggmens blew open the post office safe at Speed a small town, 15 miles north of Tarboro, at three o'clock this morning and escaped with $100 in cash and $100 in checks.

Postmaster R. H. Langston found the safe blown off its hinges and in a mass of clothing when he opened the office at 8 o'clock to begin the day's business.

Small wires led from soap on the door to the outside window where car tracks were seen in the sand. Sheriff W. E. Martin said that the wires had been tapped to a car battery to set off nitro glycerine which had been poured into the safe.

Two Face Charges As Result of Wreck

Corporal L. L. Jackson of the State Highway Patrol said today he had cited Clifton Perry, 29, of Greenville, R. F. D. two and Oscar Ward, 22, Negro, of Pactolus, to court on charges growing out of an accident late Saturday night.

A Negro woman, Elizabeth Shephard, was the only one injured in the wreck. She lost several teeth.

According to the report Perry was parked on the dirt road leading from the highway to Pactolus without lights and will be charged with count. Ward, it is charged was driving recklessly and crashed into the parked vehicle.

Despite Repeated Clashes on Frontier, Differences are Not Regarded as Beginning of Large-Scale Russo-Japanese Conflict

Hsinking, Manchoukuo, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The Japanese army announced today that 50 Soviet war planes inflicted damage on railways in an afternoon raid on Changkufeng and vicinity in the disputed border region.

It said four Soviet aircraft were brought down on Korean territory, while one was believed down in Manchoukuo after the raiders dropped nearly 30 bombs.

The announcement said Japanese used only anti-aircraft fire as they were too near the border to use defensive planes.

In Moscow Japan was reported to have been "strongly rebuffed" in a clash on the Siberian-Manchoukuo frontier "enduring great losses both of men and materials."

Only brief newspaper reports of the incident were published, however. There was no specific editorial comment, except in the army organ, Red Star, and Soviet circles apparently did not regard the border differences as the beginning of a large-scale Russo-Japanese conflict.

Man Charged With Trying to Kill Wife

Chief of Police S. H. Martin of Bethel, said today that Hubert E'rett, lodged in the county jail Sunday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, will be given preliminary hearing next Monday morning at Bethel. Bond was set at $500.

The Bethel police chief said that Everett was jailed yesterday afternoon after he had shot at his wife with a gun. "When he aimed the gun at Mrs. Everett," declared Martin, "she dashed from the room and slammed the door behind her."

He pointed out that the door was splintered by the discharge from the gun, and said her closing the door apparently saved her life.

Spends Vacation At Historic Home

Dr. N. Thomas Emmett, Pitt County Health officer, has returned from his summer home, known as Borden Lodge on Beuse Sound near Swansboro. However, the lodge situated on the sandy shores of North Carolina's coast, is shrouded with history, and has been in Dr. Emmett's family since 1780.

In the early years of America's history, the cottage was made as a grant to Thomas Foy, Lord Proprietor to King George III of England in 1780. William Borden, ancestor of the Pitt health official, paid Lord Foy $5,000 in Spanish gold for the cottage.

A faded deed of the transaction is now on file in the Beaufort county court house.

State To Ask Authority To Sell "Mullet" Road

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Aug. 1.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey will ask the North Carolina General Assembly—either in special or regular session—for legislation authorizing the State to sell the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad—the Mullet line connecting Goldsboro and Morehead City.

The Governor hasn't said so—not publicly at least—but the fact is verified by entirely reliable informants who know whereof they speak.

As a matter of fact the road would have been sold by the state some three months ago but for an opinion of the Attorney General that it cannot do so without specific authority from the General Assembly.

A bona fide offer for the line was made by highly solvent North Carolina interests—and the offer was sufficiently large to let the state, which is now more or less holding the bag for a losing venture, escape with some profit on its approximately $300,000 investment in Mullet Road stock.

'GOLDEN WEED' GOES ON BLOCK IN GEORGIA

The chant of the auctioneer was sweet music in the ears of South Georgia tobacco growers as sales of the 1938 crop opened in the "golden weed" belt of the state. Here an auctioneer (left) gestures as he chants, while buyers and farmers press close to examine the leaf on the block.

BRITAIN SENDS PROTEST NOTE

Objects to "Belligerent Attitude" Of Jap Sentries

Shanghai, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Great Britain protested to Japanese authorities today against what was called the "increasingly belligerent attitude" of sentries guarding bridges from the International Settlement into Japanese-controlled sections of Shanghai.

The protest was the outgrowth of the alleged rough-housing of Miss Dorothy Lintilhac when she crossed the garden bridge on the wrong side of the street.

Meanwhile, three Japanese columns attempting to fight their way up the Yangtze river toward Hankow, China's provisional capital, were held to a standstill by desperate Chinese resistance.

Northeast of captured Kiukiang, 135 miles down the river from Hankow, Japanese cavalry fought to within a mile of Susung, but were repulsed.

Latest dispatches from the front said the Japanese immediately threw in two regiments of reinforcements and renewed the assault while the Chinese attacked all along the line to Tienshan, 30 miles to the north.

Second Tank Here Now In Operation

Martin Schwartz, superintendent of the Water and Light Commission today revealed that a 300,000 gallon water pressure tank on the corner of Washington and Thirteenth was filled Sunday.

A tank of similar nature located in the southwestern section of the city was filled some time ago. Superintendent Schwartz said another 300,000 gallon tank on Jarvis street will be filled some time this week.

When all of the tanks supply pressure in the water mains, friction losses are expected to be overcome, especially where low-pressure water troubles have prevailed. An increase in average pressure will be noted in the water system throughout the city.

WPA Education Program Under Way in City

A two week's working conference in connection with the WPA Adult Education program got under way at East Carolina Teachers College yesterday evening with vespers services conducted by Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian church.

Eighty students, representing 53 Eastern Carolina counties, are taking the course, designed to train them in adult teaching.

Miss Margaret Joyner of Raleigh, WPA supervisor for areas four, five and six in the adult education program, is here in connection with the conference.

Several features are being planned during the two weeks of the conference. On Tuesday of next health day will be observed and Mrs. J. Henry Highsmith of the State Board of Health will make an address at the assembly hour.

NEW BUILDING DURING MONTH

Sixteen Permits Issued for Work to Cost $22,975

A total of 16 building permits were issued during July for new buildings and alterations to cost approximately $22,975, a figure far below the June figures.

During June the same number of permits, 16 were issued, but the estimated cost of construction was set at $105,494.

Permits for the month of July are as follows:

W. H. Humphrey, alterations to home on Clark street, $150.

A. C. Bowen, alter one-story brick dwelling on Liberty street, $225.

J. N. Harrison, erect two-story frame building on Ninth street, $2,900.

Belk-Tyler Company, alter four-story building on East Fifth street, $950.

M. L. Turnage, alter one story frame dwelling on Summit street $100.

Roy Harris, erect frame building on Cateneby street, $1,500.

G. R. Kenney, erect two-story brick building, $2,000.

A. C. Shade, erect two-story frame dwelling on Tyson street, $1,500.

H. C. Brown, erect one-story dwelling on Murtle street, $2,500.

J. S. Hines, alter dwelling on Murtle Street, $2,500.

L. C. Bartholomew, erect two-story buildings on Dickinson ave. to be used as storage warehouses. The estimated cost of each build is $1,500.

F. G. Flanagan, alter two-story building on Dickinson avenue, $1,500.

E. G. Flanagan, erect brick building on Dickinson avenue, $3,000.

Greenville police today were making an effort to recover merchandise stolen from an automobile belonging to H. B. Keck of Greenville, Sunday afternoon near a local theatre.

Keck, a salesman for a nationally known hardware firm, reported that four dozen pocket knives—used as samples—and a 22 calibre rifle were taken from the automobile.

TO PASS LAWS ENABLE STATE SHARE IN PWA

Call Made With Approval and Consent Council of State

DESIRES SESSION LAST ONE WEEK

All Members of 1937 Legislature sent Telegrams to Gather for 2nd Special Term

Raleigh, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Governor Hoey today called a special session of the North Carolina legislature to meet Monday, August 8, at noon.

The session will consider legislation to enable North Carolina to participate in the PWA program.

The formal call had not been prepared when the chief executive, by and with the consent and approval of the Council of State, issued his statement on the matter.

The Governor expressed hope the session would last only a week.

All members of the 1937 legislature were sent telegrams to be here Monday. It will be the second special session for the assemblymen, perhaps setting a precedent.

The Governor said a special session "is necessary if North Carolina is to receive any aid out of the PWA appropriations for the various state institutions in the way of necessary permanent improvements and new buildings."

Declining to estimate the probable amount of money to be involved in legislation, the Governor said the advisory budget commission, in special session here Thursday and Friday, would make recommendations.

Last week Hoey said that probably five to ten million dollars would be needed for permanent improvements. The state may issue around six million dollars in bonds to get its 55 per cent of the total cost of the government gives grants of 45 per cent for all proposed improvements.

The Governor said Attorney General Harry McMillan would prepare bills and have them ready when the legislators meet.

Belvoir Boy Dies Of Week's Illness

Cary Hardee, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Hardee of Belvoir township, died about noon today in Pitt General hospital following a week's illness.

Young Hardee was a popular student at the Belvoir school. He is survived by his parents; five brothers: Heber, Snodie, H. J. Lee, Jr., and David Earl Hardee; and five sisters: Mrs. Louis Moore, Mrs. Roy Grimesly, Mrs. Meekie Matthews, Miss Essie Mae Hardee and Mrs. William Campbell.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Hardee family cemetery near Will Smith's mill tomorrow afternoon and four o'clock by Rev. Ben Bell, Holiness minister.

On Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, Mrs. Leon Meadows entertained at bridge in honor of her house guest, Miss Sara Webster of Warren, Tenn.

Bridge was played throughout the afternoon. When the scores were added, high score prize was awarded Miss Emmy Lou Soales, low score prize going to Miss Dorothy Holler. Miss Webster was remembered with a gift. Following the presentation of gifts, the hostess served a delicious ice course.

Announcement Tea.
Friday afternoon, July 29, from four until half after five, Mrs. S. F. Thornton and Mrs. J. Aubrey Broome entertained at tea at their home on Paris avenue, announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Laura Thornton to Mr. Hugh R. Sides of East Spencer, the marriage to take place in August.

Greeting guests at the door and introducing them to the receiving line was Miss Mildred Horton. Receiving in the hall were Mrs. J. Aubrey Broome, Mrs. S. F. Thornton, and the bride-elect, Miss Laura Thornton. Inviting the guests into the living room was Miss Mary Council Horne.

The large living room was very beautiful with gladioli, other summer flowers and tapers. Folded in each guest's napkin was a small card tied with a green ribbon bow, bearing the names "Laura and Hugh. In August."

Mrs. E. W. Harvey served ice cream from a lace covered table centered with a miniature bridal party, flowers and candles, carrying out a green and white color note.

Passing cookies, mints and nuts were Misses Mattie Lawrence, Holliday, Artimesa Harris, Mary Donald and Doris McLawhorn.

At the register Mrs. Bruce Clark of Washington, presided.

Miss Marjorie Whitehurst bade the guests good-bye.

About fifty guests called during the afternoon.

Andrews-McGowan.
Miss Martha Frances McGowan and Arthur McGuire Andrews were married at ten o'clock this morning in a private ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Thomas McM. Grant, pastor of the Methodist Church here, and was witnessed only by the immediate families of the couple. The ring ceremony was used.

Tall baskets of lilies, palms, long leaf pine and lighted tapers in candleabra made an effective setting for the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a navy chiffon dress with matching accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Immediately following the ceremony, the young couple left for a motor trip through North Carolina and Virginia. For traveling the bride wore a beige costume with dubonnet accessories.

Mrs. Andrews is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Kinsey McGowan. She received her education at East Carolina Teachers College. Mr. Andrews is the youngest son of Mr. Esthers Garland Andrews and the late Mrs. Conie Tyson Andrews.

Christian Science Church.
"Love" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, July 31, 1938.

The golden text was from Psalms 145:9. "The Lord is good to all; and his tender mercies are over all his words."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his spirit. And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him." (I John 4: 12, 13, 16).

The lesson-sermon also included

RIGHT If you're looking for an effective way to get high school daughter back home from her dates at a conventional hour, entrust her with a key to the front door. That gives her a feeling of independence and she'll say good-night to her escort at the proper time.

WRONG This watch-dog mother is getting all ready to say, "Where have you been?" the minute daughter opens the front door. No wonder a girl dreads coming home. Since she's sure she's misunderstood, it's difficult to get her relationship with her mother on a mutual trust basis.

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, "God is not moved by the breath of praise to do more than He has already done, nor can the infinite do less than bestow all good, since He is unchanging wisdom and love. Do we expect to change perfection? Shall we plead for more at the open front, which is pouring forth more than we accept?"

Book Pilot

The fiscal year for library work closes on June 30th. While statistical reports do not show every detail there are always interesting items to be drawn from these reports as they are compiled for Sheppard Memorial Library.

Circulation per volume shows that every book in the library was read nine times last year. Since there are many reference volumes not read as a whole, this means that many books were read as many as 75 or 100 times, once every four days. By that time the book is worn out, has to be discarded, and a new one is needed to take its place. There are still empty shelves at the library, and workers who are always ready to fix new books for circulation.

THE BALL STARTS Greenville Market Opened With 50,000 Pounds

The Greenville Tobacco Market started its eighth season today with flying colors, the opening break footing up nearly 50,000 pounds. This was a fine beginning, and considering the heavy rain Sunday night it is really remarkable that so much tobacco was here. Both the warehousemen and the buyers were delighted the way the weed came in.

The Planters warehouse had first sale, starting at 9 o'clock, with 128 piles on the floor. Ola Forbes took the sale through in fine style giving everybody satisfaction. The Planters paid off in spot cash and did not draw checks.

The Eastern warehouse had second sale with 119 piles on the floor. "Old Man Gus" pushed the sale in a great way.

The Greenville warehouse had third sale with 112 piles. Leon Evans was right there to push the sale and some of the boys could hardly account for his being so happy. The new boy might have had something to do with it.

The Star warehouse had fourth sale with an even 100 piles. Wiley Brown and J. G. Bowling ran the sale and did it well. Auctioneer Timberlake got wound up and his tongue went fast as rain pattering on the roof.

The new warehouse, the Farmers, had the closing sale with 102 piles. Ollius Joyner and ex-Senator A. A. Forbes ran the sale. George Hughes did his own auctioneering and he fairly threw out thirty-second notes.

All through from beginning to end the opening sale was a fine one. The prices were good, too, ranging from $5 to $18. The farmers generally were expressing themselves as well pleased and they were loud in their praise of the Greenville market.

Cuban exports of sugar from January 1 to July 2, 1938, totalled 1,394,479 long tons, 12 per cent less than in the corresponding period last year.

borrowers. People from the whole trade area use this library as well as those who live in Ayden. Its circulation record shows an increase of 3347 volumes over last year. Keen local interest in this little library promises much in the near future. Leading business men are giving time and attention to library matters and substantial gifts of money are being made so that the small stock of books may have a few new additions.

Pitt county is fast becoming library conscious. The people want to read for pleasure and profit.

Public Assistance Administration Costs 10 Per Cent

Raleigh, Aug. 1—Slightly more than a half million dollars, less than ten per cent of the total allotted, including state, local and Federal funds, is the estimate placed on the total cost of administering public assistance in North Carolina for the next fiscal year, according to Nathan H. Yelton, state director, today.

With $5,115,196.80 allotted to the state for old age assistance and aid to dependent children, Welton figured it would take $508,355 or 9.94 per cent of the total amount to distribute the money. The percentage is small as compared with other states, he pointed out.

The percentage cost of helping needy children is expected to run above that estimated for old age assistance with the former being at 13.96 per cent and the latter at 8.34 per cent.

For the needy a total of $3,658,581 has been allotted with an administrative total cost estimated at $305,013, while $1,456,615 was set aside for North Carolina's dependent children with an estimated cost of $203,342 in distributing the money. "As the figures indicate," Welton said, "our funds are limited, but the state and national ratios of recipients to population so years old run closely parallel.

"The figures are given so that both clients and the public can see that the program is being administered as economically as possible, in some counties being too economical to render fine services that should be afforded by the program.

LOVE ON THE RANGE

BY NELSON C. BYT

The Story So Far
A plot is on foot to smash the Rafter T, and under another name "Blot" Ankrom takes a job there to help Loretta Lee. She saves his life by shooting an impostor, Kelton Dren, but he learns this only after Dren's accomplice, Betty, causes trouble between them. Ratchford, the sheriff and Claydell, a neighboring rancher, both tell Ankrom that the other is after the Trones' land. Lee's father has just learned Ankrom's identity.

Chapter 27 The Sheriff's Office

ANKROM took the old man's hand dazedly. "You - you mean you're figurin' to keep me on, anyway?"

"Why not?"

"But my reputation, man? You can't employ me openly!"

"Can't? The hell I can't! I employ whom I please - when I can get 'em. I wish I had six more of you!"

A sudden thought struck Ankrom. His lips curled. "I see you're hirin' me for my guns."

"Course I'm hirin' you for your guns!" Trone snorted. "You got the biggest reputation of any man in this part of the country. In my position your name's worth more to me than twenty guns and the men to man 'em! I'm raisin' your pay."

Ankrom stopped him. "You're join' nothing of the kind. If I stay on here I take the same pay I been gettin' Foreman's pay. I'm not hirin' out my guns."

Trone sat down and his scowl ripened. "Well, if you're darn fool enough to take all that risk for reg'lar pay, I'm sure I ain't the man to better. Have you got any line on who's back of this business yet?"

"The sheriff claims it's Claydell."

Trone laughed. "Where'd he get that fool notion?"

"He says there's a railroad plan to lay track from Amarillo to El Paso; they'll have to cross the Rafter T. Claydell, according to Ratchford, aims to build a town outside this valley some place and persuade the railroad to bring him 'n' homeseekers."

"Ratchford belongs in an asylum!" Trone snapped. "Who'd want to locate in this desert? An' who ever heard of a railroad bein'..."

Ankrom held up his hand. "Did you ever stop to think that this valley could be dammed? The resulting irrigation project would supply water for one whole of it over of land. Think it over. Some of the color washed from the old man's cheeks. Ankrom let his remarks sink in. Then said "Claydell blames this trouble on Ratchford."

Trone's eyes brightened. "I'll sell straight up in his chair. You're talkin' to me, ain't you?"

"Ratchford's the man, ain't it?" Trone said. "That breed would nurse a grudge till he froze over!"

Ankrom's soft laugh mocked the old man's interest. "That suits you right down to the ground, don't it? Well, it would suit me, too. I don't like Tom Ratchford none, what ever but - like you; this thing's not me fightin' my hat. I can't tell up from down about it."

"What's Claydell say? Didn't he offer any reasons?"

"He said that a man who can be bought once can be bought again - meanin' Hefle, of course. Well, you evidently bought Hefle away from Ratchford's old man in that war you had here back awhile. It seems to be Claydell's notion Ratchford bought him back. Another thing he said was that an outfit would use sheep once will try 'em out again - he aimed that slam at the sheriff. But things like that are only opinions."

The old, worried light had returned again to the old man's glance. He seemed tired and weak to Ankrom as he sat huddled in his chair.

Ankrom sighed. This business would have been far had enough if a rugged, dominant man were boss of Rafter T. But with this gaunt old relic rodding the spread with a whisky bottle in his hand, he felt that the end was but around the corner.

Cause Of Action

IN ANKROM'S mind one thing stood out above all others. The force against the Rafter T was contemptuous of its owner! Were Trone the fire-eater he once had been, no man would dared have raise his hand against this ranch.

Plain to Ankrom also was the fact that if this spread were to be saved for Lee, Ankrom himself would have to be the man to save it. He could place no trust in Trone.

He suddenly resolved a course of action. The golden girl knew something; somehow he must get it out of her. "Where's that imitation Struthers dame?" he asked.

"Ratchford took her back to town with him - said he had some questions he wanted to ask her about that gambler's death."

WANTS GOVERNMENT TO WATCH VOLCANOES

Manila, P. I. (AP)—As a result of the recent eruption of Mayon volcano, a "volcano watch" by the government is advocated by Dr. Jose M. Feliciano.

Dr. Feliciano, head of the department of geology at the University of the Philippines, points out that there are 11 active volcanoes in the island and eight between the active and extinct stages.

Calif Is Prodigy

Julian, N. C.—(AP)—V. E. Coltrane owns a Guernsey cow "Queen Patsy," which has been giving milk since it was six days old. At the age of seven weeks, the calf was giving about half a pint of milk a day.

Four hundred and eighty-five new Kansas oil wells completed in the first half of 1938 with potential production totalling 621,333 barrels a day.

A cold wave rushed over Ankrom; a recollection clicked in his mind. With cheeks drawn taut he yanked the door open, plunged down the hall and out across the broad veranda.

Mounted on a big-boned strawberry roan Ankrom crossed the range. He let the big horse have its head and it ran with a will. When he entered town the big animal was moving at an easy jog trot.

Through a series of back streets he approached the brick building which housed the sheriff's office. One or two open touring cars were drawn up at the curb across the street, their tonneaus being rapidly filled by men carrying rifles, and from whose vests the glint of metal was reflected by the street lamps. Directly before Ratchford's office a group of horsemen were collecting.

Ankrom swung from the roan and ignoring these signs of unaccustomed activity, strode within. His glance raked the office. Three or four men were conversing here but Ratchford's burly form was not among them. He passed down a hall that led to the cells.

A frail old man with a bunch of keys at his belt sat on a stool at the end of the passage. He rose as Ankrom approached.

"Yes, si-?"

"I want," said Ankrom curtly "to speak with a prisoner the sheriff brought in. A girl."

"Yes, You mean Miss Betty?"

"That's the one. Lead the way. I'm a little pressed for time."

"I shouldn't wonder, sir," the jailer said. "The posse will be leaving any minute. They rounded the corner. 'Here you are, sir—Number Eighteen.'"

Ankrom waited till the fellow walked away, then approached the bars. The golden girl's frail figure slumped dejectedly on the tiny cot within. She did not look up; but as there drearily regarding the floor. There were dark circles under her eyes. For a moment Ankrom felt a trace of pity. "Miss Struthers—"

'Just A Stall'

SHE looked up wildly at sound of his voice, came surging to her feet and grasped the bars. "You!" she said and Ankrom caught a noise of hope leaping upward through the word. "I didn't think you'd come!" She pressed her face against the bars, reached a hand through eagerly to grasp his own. "God bless you, Abe," she whispered huskily. "I didn't think you'd come!"

Ankrom held her hand unconsciously. He dared not disillusion her. So much depended on who she might have to tell him. Hatred itself for the part circumstance were forcing him to play her patten cold hand reassuringly. "There, there," he said. "I came as soon as I learned you'd been brought in. What was Ratchford's idea in bringing you here?"

"He overheard what I told you about the railroad. He was furious. I thought for awhile he was going to let me go. He took me away as soon as you left."

"Did he question you about Dren's killing?"

"That was just a stall."

"How?"

"He wanted to get me away from the ranch. He had to give it to Trone some kind of an excuse."

"Yes, but..."

She broke in hurriedly. Her eyes pleading and a warmer color in her cheeks. "I told you I shot Dren. I didn't realize but Ratchford knew."

"Knew what?" Ankrom demanded. "What did Ratchford know?"

"He knew that you were the one who killed Dren. He told me to night on the way to town."

Ankrom shot a quick glance over his shoulder toward the office. No danger yet. Those men out there were still talking. "When I found you bent over Dren that night, what were you taking from his pockets?"

Her eyes flew wide. "Didn't you know? Haven't you guessed?"

"I saw you take some papers and a gun - Dren's gun?"

"Yes, I took it from the sand where it fell when he went down. She flushed.

Ankrom guessed she was thinking of how she had forced that gun upon him later, making him think it was the murder gun.

"That's all right," he said. "What was in the papers? Why were they so important you risked detection to remove them when you must have heard us running toward you?"

"I didn't want them found in Dren's pockets—they would have given everything away if the wrong person had gotten hold of them."

"Why?" Restlessness was creeping over him. He looked toward the office again and saw the men going out. "Why would they have given things away?"

"Ratchford's name was on them—they were I. O. U.'s he'd given Dren."

With crystal clarity things stood out in Ankrom's mind. Dren and this girl had been Ratchford's tools!

Hospitality Committee Summarizes 'First Year'

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Aug. 1.—The Governor's Hospitality Committee for North Carolina Advertising Division of the Department of Conservation and Development has mailed out 2,500 copies of a mimeographed pamphlet, "Our First Year," in which the tremendous strides made by the state's advertising program are briefly summarized.

The pamphlet touches on practically every phase of the program. Some of the results and achievements of the program are listed thus:

Hospitality: Since the program was put into operation there have been organized 85 county committees, numbering 2,600 committee members, the groups ranging in size from ten to 400.

Inquiries: The average inquiry returns of the program totals 71 for the fiscal year 1937-38. The largest return for any one day totalled 526 on June 15, 1938, as compared with one lone inquiry received on July 24, 1937. Total inquiries for the year amounted to 21,050. Most inquiries came from New York, with 3,255; fewest from Nevada, with only five.

News Bureau: The News Bureau attempts to call attention to the work of all state departments. Ahead of any other state it has capitalized on news pictures. On July 1, 1937, the bureau did not have a single picture. Within the year it collected some 6,000 negatives of its own, and several thousand other prints. For the first time in history North Carolina has at least the rudiments of a photo library. The bureau has created six sizeable pieces of literature (Outdoors in North Carolina, Opportunities in North Carolina, Industrial North Carolina and North Carolina Today, Nos. 1, 2 and 3) in addition to furnishing several hundred news articles for circulation outside the state by news agencies, newspapers, syndicates, industrial and financial publications.

In July, 1937, an agency hired to do the task could find in the nation's press only about 175 articles pertaining to North Carolina. In April, 1938, the same agency found 2,000 and currently it is clipping the limit of 1,000 imposed upon it.

Industrial Division: This division continues to develop new prospects for North Carolina industrial locations. The N. C. industrial advertising appears mostly in prominent publications of the nation. During the first four months of 1938 no less than 23 new industrial plants were located in North Carolina, in practically all of which the industrial division had a hand. The industrial division lends its assistance to Chambers of Commerce and to towns and cities of the state.

State Courtesy Card: The hospitality committee is now mailing to the thousands of people inquiring for tourist information in North Carolina weekly a message of welcome from our Governor and a State Courtesy Card.

Hospitality Committee Badges: Identification badges for each member of the Governor's Hospitality Committee will be mailed shortly.

Among the local hospitality committees found particularly active by the state group, and so mentioned in the pamphlet, are:

Henderson County, James E. Shipman, cooperated in promotion of Centennial celebration for the county; Buncombe, Bob Phillips, suggested that young men's clubs of Asheville entertain young people visiting in Buncombe county and Asheville; Chowan, E. W. Spire, secured publication of all stories on hospitality. New Hanover, J. B. Allegood, courtesy, and consideration for beach visitors; Nash, Dallas L. Alfred, broadcast of hospitality stories over local radio station; Durham, C. T. Council, development of better facilities for tourist camps in Durham county.

Hoppers Bring Darkness
Sidney, Mont.—(AP)—When millions of young grasshoppers sprouted wings near here recently and took to flight, residents reported the swarm was so dense it partially darkened the sky for more than an hour.

HOEY TO SPEAK AT TEST FARM

Governor to be Principal Speaker at Annual Field Day

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Aug. 1.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey will be principal speaker at the North Carolina Department of Agriculture's Upper Coastal Plains Test Farm, near Rocky Mount, at the field day exercises, August 11. Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott announced today.

Millard F. Jones, president of the Planters National Bank, Rocky Mount, will be chairman for the day which will be devoted to tours of the test farm, agricultural exhibits, and a number of speeches.

Commissioner Scott will continue his campaign for a better marketing plan in North Carolina, speaking on the topic, "An Adequate Marketing Program, a Need in North Carolina Today."

Assistant to the Commissioner, D. S. Coltrane, will explain "Methods by which the N. C. Fertilizer Bill Can Be Reduced by $2,000,000."

Peanut disease problems will be discussed by Dr. R. F. Poole, North Carolina Experiment Station pathologist.

E. F. Arnold, secretary of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, will also speak.

Governor Hoey will be introduced by State Senator W. G. (Cousin Willie) Clark of Tarboro.

The ladies program will be under the direction of Mrs. E. P. Van Landingham, Edgecombe county home demonstration agent, Miss Rose Ellwood Bryan, extension agent at large, will give a demonstration of "The Charmier Hostess."

A workstock pulling contest will be featured in the afternoon under direction of Edgecombe county agent J. C. Powell, assisted by Gus E. Lancaster, an Edgecombe county farmer. David Weaver of State College, and Paul L. Fletcher of the State Department of Agriculture, will have charge of the dynamometer, device used to measure the pulling strength of workstock teams.

A new travel record was set at Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado on July 4, 1938, when 16,493 passed through the highway gateways.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—At the time he showed off from the West Coast to fish, President Roosevelt's so-called "puff" tour had shown no clear-cut indication either of his power to purge or of the power of his congressional critics to withstand it.

In the territory covered already by the President, there is not a case, even in Kentucky, where his influence can be considered the one deciding factor. But Georgia stacks up differently. Before it developed that the President might intervene, there could be found little substantial opinion that Senator George would be defeated.

Now if Senator George survives any attack the President may make, it will be a blow at presidential prestige. If the Senator falls under it, the President will be given full credit.

'Yes-But' Senator George probably is a "case in point" of one whom the President calls the "yes-but" people. The Georgian strung along with the President during the first hectic years, then began to diverge. He voted against the court plan, the reorganization bill, the wage-hour bill, and voted for the AAA bill only after denouncing it bitterly in the Senate.

First open hint of the President's attitude toward Senator George came at Gainesville, Ga., when he ignored him in a speech but commended Governor Ed Rivers. Evidently it stirred George to a fury. Returning to Washington, he joined rebellious Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi in scuttling the undistributed profits tax.

Enter Coincidence Until the last hours for filing, there were two candidates against George, neither claiming White House support. One was former Governor Eugene Talmadge, anti-New Deal and anti-George. The other was William G. McRae of Atlanta, wanting the New Deal Townsend.

On the last day for filing candidacies in the primary, Marvin McIntyre, presidential secretary, was in Georgia to receive an honorary degree. On that same day Lawrence Camp, U. S. district attorney for the Atlanta district, filed for the Senate. Two weeks later Camp was in-and-out of a White House conference, the traditional way of donning New Deal trimmings.

There is always the possibility that the President, long way from his more excitable White House advisers, may choose simply to dedicate the Barnesville power plant without pulling the switch on George. But if he does, Barnesville's power plant will be about the smallest that ever won such special presidential attention.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Aug. 1.—As Governor Clyde R. Hoey debates or not to call a special session of the General Assembly, speculation increases among observers on the question of whether or not such a session could be confined to consideration of authorization of PWA grants to the State for use in construction of indispensable buildings at State institutions.

In the forefront of the speculation is the matter of election law reform—a matter very much in the public eye because of the current probe of many and varied charges of fraud, corruption, connivance and neglect in the administration of the laws now on the statute books.

It would appear clear that Governor Hoey isn't going to call any special session unless he has the assurance of enough legislative leaders that there's no danger of the Assembly running wild and prolonging the out of routine gathering to great lengths by taking up controversial matters like the election laws.

It would also appear sufficiently clear that the Governor can count on a large majority of the legislators to accede to his wishes in the matter, as there was a decided preponderance of Administration strength in the Assembly of 1937—the one which would come back in response to a special session call.

Wherefore, the debate about the point seems more or less academic despite the intense public interest in and resentment to some of the election laws now on the books.

There will be a special session, it seems, because there isn't any other way for North Carolina to participate in the PWA construction grants but this special session will consider that and nothing else unless the Governor and his advisers so decide.

Which is quite logical. A session of the legislature cost several thousand dollars a day. A PWA session can be completed in a minimum of six days and maximum of ten. Election reform would take weeks.

Another reason against any idea that election laws would get consideration at a special assembly is to be found in the fact that both House and Senate election law committee are unequivocally hostile to any drastic revision of the present code—they showed that last year. And these are the committees which would function at a special session.

Incidentally, it's interesting. If not significant, that Swain county, which has been singled out by the state election board for findings of "rotten" conditions, has both election law chairman—Kelly Bennett of the Senate group and B. C. Jones of the House.

Back from his trip north and west, Governor Clyde R. Hoey appeared at his office with a different kind of red flowers from his usual carnation.

He denied there was any "foreign influence," however, and declared the blossom he wore is a native product.

Interesting events during this week in North Carolina will include Farm and Home Week at State College here, Southern Vacation Conference on Gardening at Blue Ridge, Fourth Annual Co-operative Art Education Conference at Blue Ridge, Eleventh Annual Mountain Folk Dance Contest and Music Festival at Asheville, North Carolina League of Municipalities convention at Asheville, twelfth annual Horse Show at Blowing Rock, American Rock Garden Society meeting at Blue Ridge, Henderson county Centennial celebration at Hendersonville.

How's Your Health?

By Isaac Goldston, M.D.

"That which we know is a great hindrance to our learning that which is as yet unknown to us," the great French physiologist, Claude Bernard, once said. This saying reflects the present state of our knowledge of diabetes.

Some time ago it appeared as if the mystery of diabetes was completely solved. Diabetes was considered a disease due to inadequate functioning of the pancreas, and this inadequacy was met by the periodic injection of insulin.

Recently, however, this neat explanation has been radically upset. A series of impressive experiments has again opened wide the problem of diabetes.

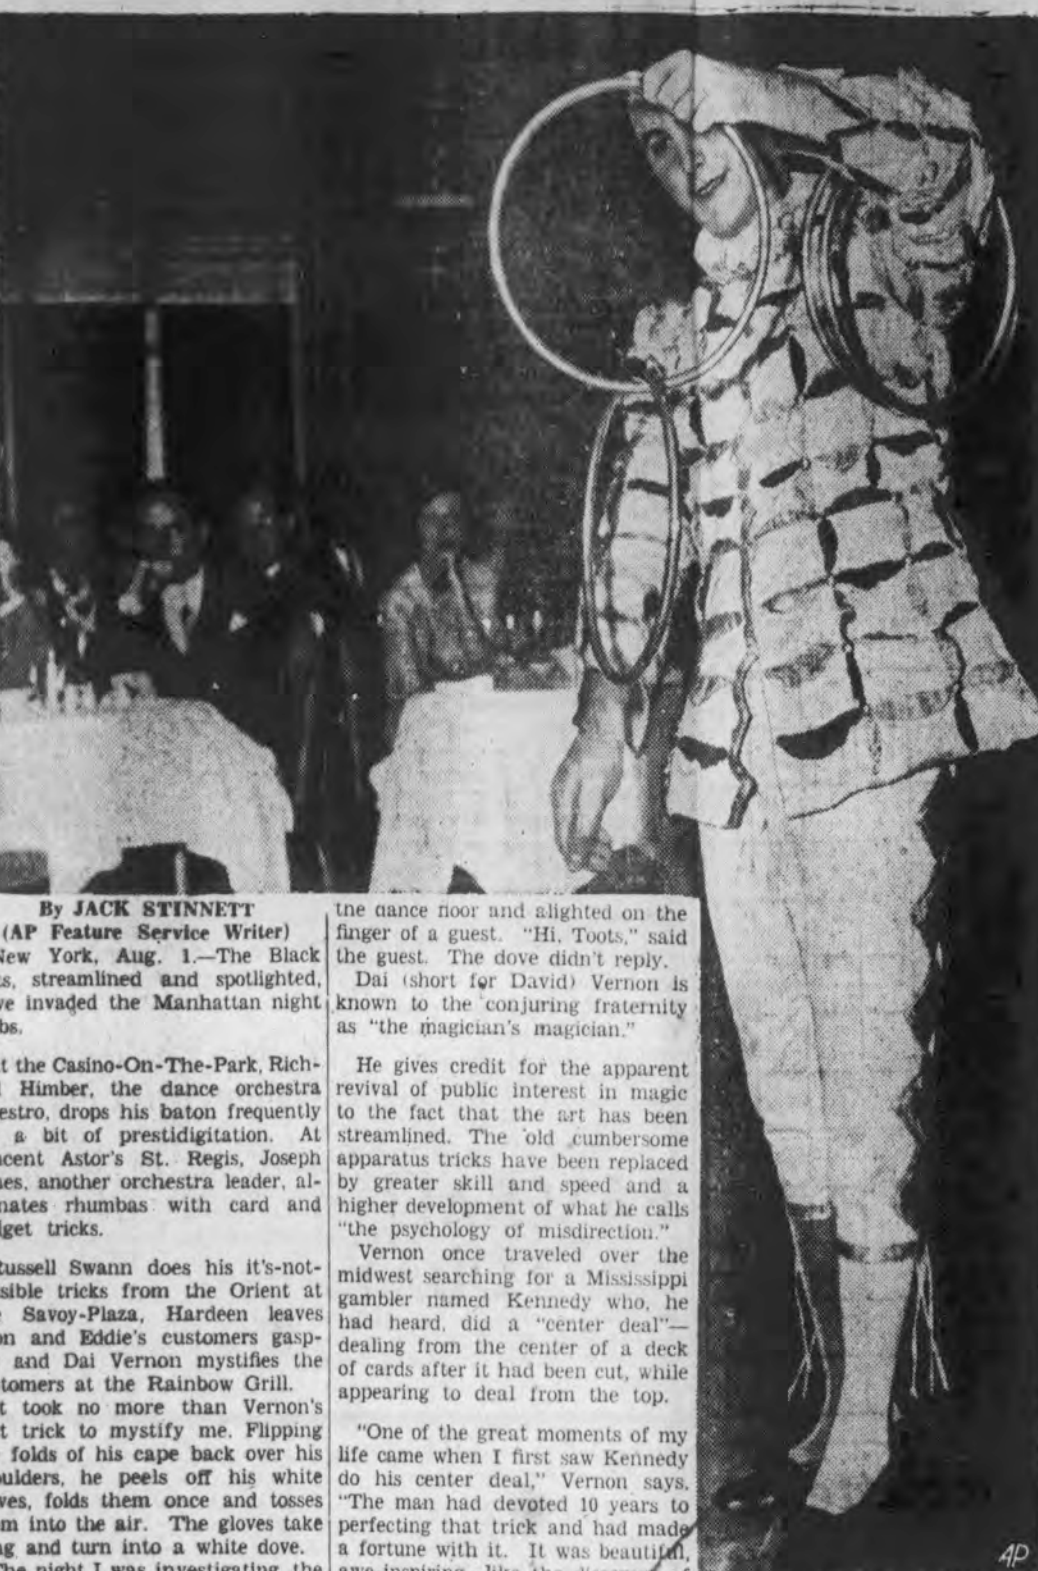

Certain extracts taken from the anterior portion of the pituitary gland—a gland of internal secretion located at the base of the brain—have produced a temporary diabetic condition, when injected into dogs and certain other animals.

This diabetic condition disappears in a few days but can be evoked again by the injection of an increased amount of the same pituitary extract.

Repeated injections ultimately bring on a permanent diabetes in the experimental animal.

Previously diabetes was produced in dogs by the surgical removal of portions, or the whole, of the dog's pancreas. Now diabetes can be produced by repeated injection of increasing doses of the

Broadway Falls For Black Magic

By JACK STINNETT (AP Feature Service Writer)

New York, Aug. 1.—The Black Arts, streamlined and spotlighted, have invaded the Manhattan night clubs.

At the Casino-On-The-Park, Richard Humber, the dance orchestra maestro, drops his baton frequently for a bit of prestidigitation. At Vincent Astor's St. Regis, Joseph Rines, another orchestra leader, alternates rumbas with card and gadget tricks.

Russell Swann does his it's-not-possible tricks from the Orient at the Savoy-Plaza, Hardeen leaves Leon and Eddie's customers gasping and Dal Vernon mystifies the customers at the Rainbow Grill.

It took no more than Vernon's first trick to mystify me. Flipping the folds of his cape back over his shoulders, he peels off his white gloves, folds them once and tosses them into the air. The gloves take wing and turn into a white dove.

The night I was investigating, the dove described a half arc around the dance floor and alighted on the finger of a guest. "Hi, Toots," said the guest. The dove didn't reply. Dal (short for David) Vernon is known to the conjuring fraternity as "the magician's magician."

He gives credit for the apparent revival of public interest in magic to the fact that the art has been streamlined. The old cumbersome apparatus tricks have been replaced by greater skill and speed and a higher development of what he calls "the psychology of misdirection."

Vernon once traveled over the Midwest searching for a Mississippi gambler named Kennedy who, he had heard, did a "center deal"—dealing from the center of a deck of cards after it had been cut, while appearing to deal from the top.

"One of the great moments of my life came when I first saw Kennedy do his center deal," Vernon says. "The man had devoted 10 years to perfecting that trick and had made a fortune with it. It was beautiful, awe-inspiring—like the discovery of a new world."

Greenies Held Scoreless In Week-End Series by Eagles

LOCALS FAIL TO SOLVE HURLING

Greenies Get Only 10 Base Hits in Last 22 Innings

Greenville's Greenies dropped a pair of contests to the Kinston Eagles over the week-end, and believe it or not, the local boys have been unable to push even a single run across in the last 22 innings.

In the game at Kinston Saturday the game lasted for 13 innings, with neither Kinston nor the locals being able to score but one run. And that one run was made by the Eagles thirteen.

Lefty Spence, who started for the Greenies was pulled for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. Dove finished. Wentz went the route for the Eagles, turning in a six-hit job.

In yesterday's game the Greenies suffered their second successive shut-out at the hands of the Eagles—and Eddie Nowak was doing the "chucking" for the Kinstonians. John Delaney went the route for the Greenies and was touched for fourteen hits and seven runs.

The Greenies were able to garner only four hits off Nowak. Singles by Daniels and Delaney were the only Greenie hits prior to the 8th. Smith and Delaney hit safely in the eighth.

The Eagles mixed a number of extra base blows among their hits. Only four Greenies reach base, and all four of these "died" there. Nowak issued no walks and had "super-control" all through the game.

Kinston Fans Take Wrestling Seriously

Kinston Aug. 1.—Police and Albert Simon got together recently to plan protection for "Bald Ernie" Dugan and the "Masked Marvel". Dugan and the Marvel are wrestlers. Simon is the manager of a "sports arena" here.

Simon and the police fear fans will mar the many beauty of Dugan and the Masked Marvel at this week's mat show. The fans tried to do it last week. They rushed in to the ring and threatened to take Bald Ernie to pieces. They also threatened to snatch the Marvel's mask, and his trunks as well. Also they threatened to beat up the wrestlers. It was all policemen and Simon could do to save the pair.

The spectators resolved themselves into a mob when Dugan got rough with "Gentlemanly" Dick Gammien. The latter is a favorite. They stormed the ring again and when the Marvel got rough with Cowboy Williams, also a favorite. Simon pleaded with the fans. "After all, they're only wrestlers," he said. But it took the cops to prevent the customers from breaking up the show—and the Marvel and Handsome Ernie.

Incidentally, the Masked Marvel is scheduled to meet Eddie Williams at the local mat show in the City-County Armory tonight.

Aces Frightened Bear Outfit with Late Rally

New Bern, Aug. 1.—New Berns Bears stopped Ayden's ninth-inning rally in time to save a victory yesterday. The score was 6-5, and four of the Aces tallies came in the final inning.

Riley and Jirak singled in Ayden's ninth, and Purcell walked. At this point, Lefty Archer relieved Babe's fly scored Riley. Jirak tallied when Thornton erred on the throw-in following Biershenk's single. Archer picked Biershenk off first base, and that was a timely play as Pinch-Hitter Herring then hit a homer.

Purcell's third-inning homer accounted for Ayden's other score. Anderson of New Bern, honored twice. Knowles single drove in a run in the second, and Burres' double sent in two in the fourth. A double by Anderson drove in the winning run, in the fifth.

Score by innings: R H E. Ayden 000 000 004—5 10 3. New Bern 120 210 00x—6 13 2. Gurth, Rhodes, and Purcell; Hamons, Archer and Thornton.

Mooney Gets His 15th Victory of Season

Tarboro, Aug. 1.—Tarboro hit often and hard to make it easy for Big Ben Mooney yesterday as the Serpent Ace registered his 15th victory of the season. Although his mates piled up scores, Mooney kept bearing down and turned in a 3-hit job for a 10-1 victory over the Goldsboro Gold Bugs.

Solly Myers and Catcher Dick contributed homers to Tarboro's attack, while Bennie Bullock chimed in with a triple.

Tarboro offered sparkling defensive play.

Buck Overton's double, following a walk in an infield out, drove in Goldsboro's only run.

Lefty Flora, Goldsboro flinger, walked eight.

Score by innings: R H E. Goldsboro 000 001 000—1 3 3. Tarboro 102 321 01x—10 12 1. Flora and Overton; Mooney and Dick.

Eddie Williams In Return Match with Marvel Tonight

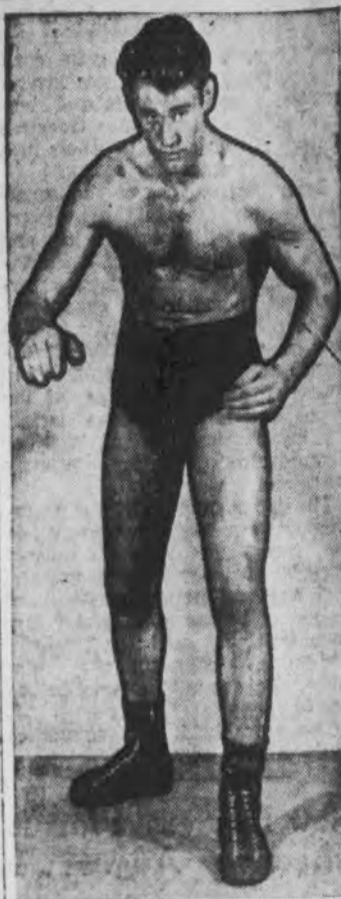

Tonight at 8:30 in the City-County Armory another in a series of wrestling shows put on by "Big Jim" Johnson will take place.

The Masked Marvel, who has appeared here in the last three shows is scheduled to meet Eddie Williams, whom he defeated two weeks ago, in a return match. The Marvel punished Williams severely in their last match, and Eddie is out for revenge.

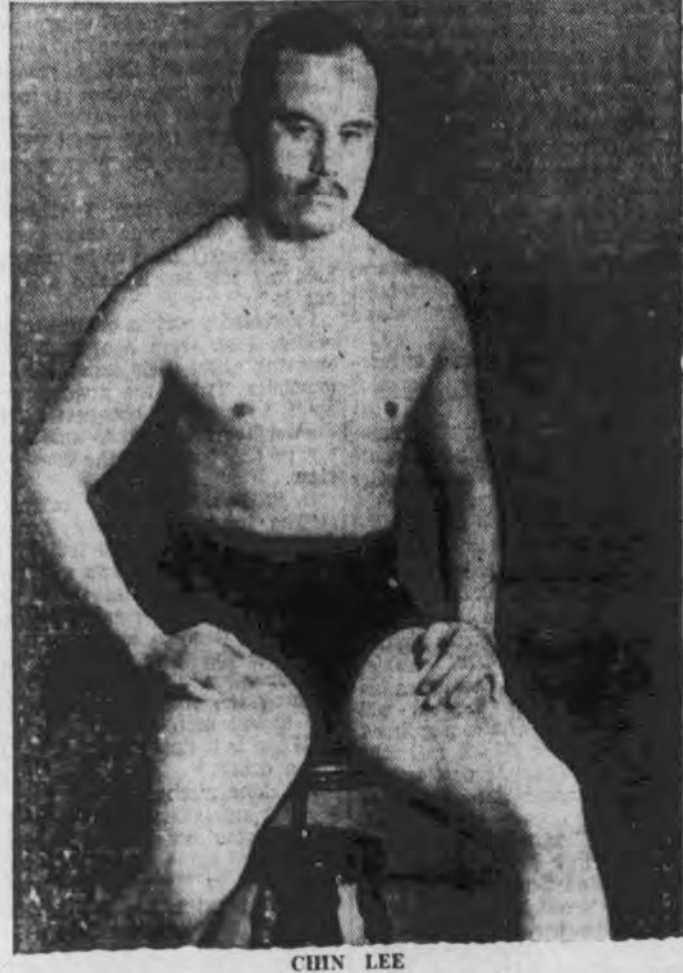

In the semi-final match, Chin Lee, San Francisco Chinaman, is to meet Farmer Miller, the bearded bad man. The Chinaman, who wrestled here last week, defeated Ernie Dugan two out of three falls. Fans will recall that Chin is full of tricks and that Miller is also a tricky wrestler. Plenty of thrills are expected from both these bouts.

The Masked Marvel is fast becoming known as a "dirty wrestler" in Eastern Carolina. In Kinston last week, a repetition of what happened here two weeks ago, occurred. Fans became aroused at the "rough" tactics used by the Marvel and entered the ring to stop the Masked One's treatment of his opponent. The police and promoter, however, controlled the fracas after a few minutes and the show went on.

A colored battle royal is scheduled to start the show off tonight.

Zschau Pitches Billies Shutout Over Martins

Snow Hill, Aug. 1.—The combination of Raymond Zschau's pitching and Tony Maisano's homer-hitting proved entirely too much for Williamston Martins yesterday. Zschau held the visitors to five hits while doing a whitewashing job. Maisano hit a pair of homers to account for half of the Billies' six runs. Zschau—pronounced as is "pshaw"—struck out nine.

Only once did Williamston succeed in advancing a runner past first base. Bowen, first up in the seventh, walked. He moved to second on Steve Lakotas' single. But that was all—Wilcox filed out, Wry fanned, and Earp grounded to Maisano, forcing Lakotas.

Each of Maisano's round-trippers came with two away. The first, in the opening inning, followed a walk to Monk Joyner. The other came in the third.

The Billies collected nine hits off Wry. Walter Rabb and Harry Soufas joined Maisano in the two-hit club.

Eddie Ignasiak, who cracked two safeties for a 500 average, led the Martins.

Local Tank Team To Meet Kinston

The Greenville swimming team will journey to Kinston Tuesday, where they will compete with Kinston's aquatic stars in a return meet tomorrow night at 7:30 in the municipal pool there.

In its first meet of the year, the locals took a decisive win over the Lenoir county swimmers. On Friday night of last week the Greenville swimming team took their second win of the season when they defeated the swift Belhaven tanksters.

Judson White, student at East Carolina Teachers College, is coaching the local team. Through J. Nat Harrison, president of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, swimming suits are being obtained for the team.

Man About Manhattan

By Gerard Tucker

New York—People occasionally write me letters and when they do I answer them as best I can. I am not a good letter writer. My letters seem forced and are never as clever as I wish them to be. But I write them just the same. And when they seem less satisfactory than usual I try to take consolation in the old bromide that writers aren't supposed to be good correspondents anyway.

But that isn't very convincing—not when you have letters in your files from people who can really write letters, people like Paul Stong and Jim Tulley. When you read your own letters after reading theirs it makes you wince. But there isn't anything you can do about it but drop them in the mailbox and look the other way.

My Friends tell me I am silly for wasting time on individual letters to people who ask questions about New York. They say: "You ought to have your secretary knock out a form letter, a sort of thank-you note and let it go at that. That's all that's necessary."

But I am not of this opinion. When someone takes the trouble to write a personal letter I think he is entitled to a prompt and considered reply. I have not always lived up to this but I believe it just the same. And I doubt that a rubber stamp is altogether satisfactory to a man who inquires: "Are the horse cars still running on 14th street? And what hotel would you recommend when I come to New York on my vacation?"

I think if I were to write someone a letter and it went unacknowledged I would experience a secret twinge of embarrassment. I wouldn't say anything about it but I would resent it just the same. And for that reason I am wondering what Mrs. R. S. of Berkeley, and Mr. R. H. S. of St. Paul must think of me today. Not much, I imagine. For this is what happened: Today while transferring a lot of bric-a-brac to a new desk, I came across letters from these people, letters received months ago and still unanswered.

I think if they could view the nameless purgatory of this old desk, they would understand how anything might get lost in there—a goat, an old auto, anything! And that's what I told them I wrote them at once, explaining everything as best I knew how. But the letters weren't very convincing. They sounded mighty thin. And if I were either of them I doubt if I would believe them myself.

Today there was a letter from a girl in Connecticut who says if it doesn't stop raining they are going to change the name of the town to Pago-Pago.

And from a Wisconsin hospital: "So you like Crosby too. Say, have you heard these numbers?" And he names three favorite tunes. There is a note from an Alabama plantation, and another from a New England village, another Cross by fan this one: "You're one up on us on that 'Nellie Grey' record. I shall pitch my wigwag on the Cambridge Music Shoppe's steps and howl like a she-coyote until they bring it forth."

Form letters for these? To those of my comrades who recommend rubber-stamps I can only say: Pooh! It isn't a very good word. Too nearly strong enough. But under the circumstances it's the best I can hope to get by with here.

Have You Tride a 7-Up Float?

A tall glass, a scoop of ice cream, fill up by pouring 7-Up from the bottle on the ice cream. Eat or drink part of it, then use the balance of the bottle. This makes a food and drink "Fresh Up" that simply delights everybody.

After drinking this, many people have been loud in their praise of the unusual taste sensation produced by 7-Up on the cream. It seems to make keener your taste, to make the cream taste better

GUARDSMEN MOBILIZE FOR PRIMARY DUTY

Tennessee's strained political situation became even more tense as Governor Gordon Browning, who seeks renomination, prepared to send National guardsmen into Memphis, stronghold of National Committeeman E. H. Crump, supporter of Prentice Cooper, for duty in the Democratic primary on Thursday, August 4. Here Nashville militia men prepare for mobilization.

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened four to seven points lower under liquidation and hedge-selling with off-take poor. December, which had sold off to 6.63, recovered to 8.66 late in the first hour on local and trade-buying when the list showed net losses of four to six points. At midday December was selling at 8.64, with the list six points net lower. Futures closed 11 to 14 points lower. Spot quiet. Middling 8.61.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Leading issues backed down fractions to a point or more today in one of the slowest sessions since the inauguration of the June-July upsurge. The ticker-tape fairly crawled throughout the proceedings and transfers approximated only 600,000 shares. The list attempted a feeble comeback near the final hour when the American Iron & Steel Institute placed this week's mill operating rate at 39.8 per cent of capacity, up 2.8 points from the previous week. It was a high mark since last November and the fourth consecutive weekly advance.

(Continued From Page One) combination. Langston ran a combination small store and post office and he said that about $40 of the cash taken by the yegmen belonged to the government for stamps and money orders and that the rest of it was his own store sales. There were no indications of anyone having seen the yegmen. The Sheriff and his men took fingerprints, but held small hopes for any arrests.

AGENCY SEEKS TRAIN ADULTS

(Continued From Page One) expected to attend. WPA day will be observed Friday and George W. Coan, Jr., WPA administrator for North Carolina, and other officials, are expected. It is the objective of the program to wipe out much of the illiteracy in the state before the 1940 census. There are 236,000 illiterates in North Carolina today and Kentucky is the only state with a greater white illiterate population than North Carolina. In addition to the 236,000 both white and colored, there are 500,000 near-illiterates in the state. After the 30 students are trained during the conference being conducted here and those who are to be instructed at Hickory and Cullowhee they will be sent out over the state to conduct "community schools" for illiterate citizens.

WEAR YOUR CLOTHES AND EAT 'EM, TOO

By Howard W. Blakeslee AP Science Editor New York—Future scientists may discover how to make clothes which can be eaten. The beginning of this idea is already a fact—in the new synthetic wool, made from milk, in Italy. Men cannot eat this synthetic wool. But numerous kinds of bacteria can. Furthermore they do eat it, according to tests announced by Jan Smit and B. vander Eide of Wageningen, Holland, in the British science journal, Nature. Italy's artificial wool, made from the casein, or cheese part of milk, is so good that chemists are predicting a great industry in this kind of textile. It occurred to Dutch scientists these clothes might be subject to unusual threats. They found many varieties of bacteria which liked the wool. Scientifically the presumption is that chemists will be able to add a bit taste to the artificial wool which will keep the bacteria from eating it—if any one lives where germs start to take the clothes off his back.

Waits, Hopes

The usual news, too, about Gloria Swanson. She is NOT going to make "Lady in the News" for Republic. She is NOT going to make anything for Republic. This makes Gloria the signing-est of movie stars in Hollywood. She signed with Metro, Columbia, Republic in turn and hasn't made a picture yet. Understood here she'll do a New York play which might make her a lady-in-the-news again. Meanwhile the movie script, originally planned for Preida Inescort, but revised for Swanson, is being revised again for Inescort. The usual title changes. "Cavivar" will be "The World's Applause" because producers fear the man in the street would think the new Geo. Raft'er a foreign flicker. Fear also the same man in the street wouldn't know what cavivar is. And the customary "big excitement"—this time Uncle Sam's legal look-see into the picture business—about which the rank and file of Hollywood aren't concerned in the least, although the big shots are plenty annoyed. Hollywood isn't really Hollywood unless it has a "big excitement." It's Hollywood again all right. And if this doesn't sound properly bored the act has failed. It was an act, you know, because like most of the scries who pretend to be bored with Hollywood I can't think of a place I'd rather be.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

Hollywood—This is Hollywood again, all right. Be gone a week, a month, a year. Come back, and the first day you can take up where you left off. The usual stack of mail, including accumulated mountains of publicity copy. The usual preview notices, telephone messages. On the streets, the usual scare heads; Lupe Again Seeks Divorce. (What, Again?) Or maybe it's Joan and Tone part. Or Somebody Else. And the usual impulse to hurry back and do a screed on the Pity of It All, or Why Can't Hollywood Marriages Endure. (Impulse nobly resisted.) After all, when a movie marriage lasts, that's NEWS. And the Richard Arlens have said their ar vevoirs, with the usual regrets. That was another of those ideal Hollywood marriages. If I were in pictures I'd go gunning for the first scribe who called my marriage "ideal." And they're still casting "Gone With the Wind," and announcing a new starting date. Last one was September, new one is January. So next August or thereabouts we'll see seeing it—but there's more than a possibility that Norma Shearer won't be in it. Private hunch is that premature casting announcement was but a straw in the wind—and the straw is out of sight in the cyclone from the opposite direction. But Norma can do it—and as well as the next one—if she gets the part. In fact, I'll bet my preview tickets she can. I mean the stubs thereof. And while on the subject—which is also usual—there's a Scarlett test which knocked 'em for the loop. Of all people you'd not suspect, Frances Dec. They say she's just about perfect. And then there's usual casting talk—Paul Muni isn't going to play Juarez in "The Phantom Crown" after all—it's going to be Edward G. Robinson instead. But today Paul Muni IS going to play Juarez in "The Phantom Crown" after all.

Jurist Rules Legislation Investigation

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Judge Paul Shaeffer held today that the Pennsylvania legislature could not suspend a grand jury investigation of political graft and corruption charges against Governor George H. Earle and 13 others high in State Democratic ranks. Legislation to permit the general assembly to take the projected inquiry away from a grand jury and place it in the hands of a legislative committee was passed Saturday and signed by the governor. Judge Shaeffer's opinion today was on a petition by District Attorney Carl Shelley of Dauphin county. He is in charge of the grand jury inquiry, based largely on accusations growing out of Pennsylvania's Spring primary campaign. The judge, named by the Pennsylvania Supreme court to sit in the investigation, also ordered Shelley's evidence locked up and prohibited all persons subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury from testifying before a legislative committee. Under the new legislation the committee was to be named today. The judge held the committee could proceed separately.

Correspondent Finds Lots Of Crackpots

When Alvin J. Steinkopf joined the AP Foreign staff in Europe three years ago, he expected to see many strange customs. But not until he revisited America did he realize how strange are the customs and appliances of his native land. Now, back again in Europe, he has written the following letter to a friend. It wasn't meant for publication, but we thought it was too good to pass up. In Chicago we saw a mechanical cocktail shaker. This marvel of American ingenuity is a complicated set of chromium arms which grab the shaker and agitate the liver out of it. The saving in wear and tear on the bartender is astonishing. In a Randolph street shop we saw underwear with secret pockets in most extraordinary places. They're designed to fool pickpockets. We rode a streamlined train, the conductor of which said: "Give me a Model T any day, now you seem to be in a hell of a hurry to get to Minneapolis, but what's the good of it? When you get there you'll just waste all the time you are saving on these nice seats." In Wisconsin we saw my father, who said: "What the world needs is a good grasshopper plague. If folks had something real to worry about they would stop bellyaching about trifles." In Minnesota I met girl cousins who have stopped drinking because they are saving all their dimes for slot machines. In Milwaukee I asked about a salty old friend whose job it is to go down into clogged sewers to see what is impeding progress. "He's in the sewer," I was told by the foreman, "but if you'll wait until he gets to the Walnut street junction, I'll telephone to him." And so I learned that, in amazing America, it's impossible to escape telephones even in a sewer. I suppose my salty friend could talk to ships at sea from the Walnut street junction. In Milwaukee, also, I visited a managing editor who said: "One doesn't have to be crazy to hold my job—but it helps a lot if one is." I detected a curious change in my uncle's. Five years ago they were bragging about their expensive automobiles. Today, the greatest virtue is to have the cheapest car in the neighborhood, and to tone down life to the tempo of the five-cent cigar. In St. Paul Aunt Laura said: "The trouble with my daughters is that they never had to go barefooted. I guess that's why they waste their money on these silly sandals with not enough honest leather in them to cover the toes." And to the Morrison hotel and its ingenious direction must be credited the solution of that old and urgent problem. "When is it time for the house to buy a drink?" It's done mechanically. When a red star shows on the cash register you get your money back. With a mechanical smile. We are in Hungary now, discussing paprika, the pasta, parboiled potatoes and cockroaches in the apartment. Several advantages are expected to accrue to the shipping public, as the result of this elimination of duplicated express service, offices and equipment. Consolidation of business will make possible the inauguration of additional scheduled through cars between principal Southern cities and those in the country generally. There will likewise be an elimination of delays involved in transfers between companies. Express shippers and receivers at new points served by the Express Agency, in the view of its representatives, will find their express shipping greatly simplified by the new direct contact with the single nation-wide Railway Express system. Eight out of every 100 motorists on the main highway today are headed for destinations less than 20 miles from home, and only two out of 100 are going more than 100 miles.

Witness

The Senate Civil Liberties committee at Washington heard a Congregational pastor from Cleveland, the Rev. Orville C. Jones (above), testify that an official of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube corporation "practically commanded" pastors of Youngstown to use their influence against the CIO in 1936. The witness, who formerly occupied a Youngstown pulpit, said the president of the company, gray-haired Frank Purnell, "withdrew his support and membership" from the church.

PRISONERS APT TO STRAY BEFORE COTTON-PICKING

Huntsville, Tex. (AP)—Jack Ellington, general manager of the Texas prison system, says he always expects unrest and attempted escapes just before cotton picking season. "The prisoners don't like to pick cotton," he says. "They hate it above all work; and they know that in picking time the blood-hounds will be least likely to pick up their trail if they try to escape."

THKES MONEY TO MAKE IT

Sidcup, England (AP)—Sentenced to 18 months for making counterfeit coins, John Smith, 28, said to be a successful coiner, $24,550 capital is required to do the job thoroughly.

LANDS BIG TROUT

Port William, Ontario (AP)—Nine-year-old Jimmie Jarvis is starting early in life to collect his rare fish stories. Jimmie landed a 14-pound trout from Lake Superior.

Ice-Wagon Got Hot, Too.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Even the ice wagon got hot in a recent Tulsa warm spell. The motor overheated, backfired and the truck caught fire. Firemen reported the damage was $10, mostly in melted ice.

Named After Franklin.

At Auray, on the coast of France, the harbor quay is named after Benjamin Franklin. There he landed in a rowboat in 1776, too impatient to wait for a wind to blow his ship into Nantes, his destination.

HAS FIRST WEDDING

New Glasgow, N. S. (AP)—Although more than 100 years old, Sutherland's River, a small district near here, had its first wedding recently.

COP SAYS CRACK-UPS GO UP WHEN STOCKS GO UP

Tyler, Tex. (AP)—The rise and fall of the stock market is reflected in the way people drive, says Capt. Walter Elliott of the Texas highway patrol. "Not only traffic violations but other law violations increase when the market is on the rise," he says. "When the market is falling, people quiet down again. I don't know why it is, but it is what I find."
