JAPS AT LAST SUCCESSFUL IN HANKOW DRIVE

Claim Army Finally Victorious in Juichang Assault

FIRST BIG GAIN SINCE JULY 26TH

Jap Observers Maintain Victory Places Invaders in Position Outflank Chinese

Shanghai, Aug. 25—(AP)—A final successful assault on Juichang, a major objective in the Japanese drive toward the provisional capital of Hankow, was reported this afternoon in a Japanese army communique.

The victory, the first notable Japanese advance since the invaders' occupation July 26 of Kiukiang, occurred in sweltering heat of 140 degrees.

Japanese observers maintained the fall of the walled city put the invaders in a position to outflank 30 Chinese divisions deployed along the 90-mile railway between Kiukiang and Nanchang, Chinese air base and another objective in the Hankow campaign.

Chinese military sources reported 30 Japanese war ships steamed along a lake lying between Kiukiang and Nanchang and heavily bombarded Chinese shore positions on a point on the west bank.

This was expected to inaugurate attempted Japanese landings about 40 miles north of Nanchang. Japanese airplanes, it was announced, conducted large-scale raids over an important Yangtze river center 170 air miles due west of Hankow.

Plan Publication Support New Deal

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 25—Raleigh shortly is to have a hundred per cent new deal publication, according to street gossip Tuesday and Wednesday.

Recently a radio station was announced for the capital, a small outfit designed to offset much of an anti-new deal matter which goes out over the Durham Life Insurance Company's WPTF. Now the proposed new deal paper is a sort of antidote for the Carl Goersch State, so the story goes, and in a few days the names of the operators will be available.

The new deal sheet isn't to be new deal in everything, but Rooseveltian from the word go. Any other new deal will sometime be dominated counterfeits. The paper hopes to get started and to be in the field when the next presidential campaign starts.

Such a weekly was given a big preliminary build up several years ago but it never issued. Better luck is promised this time and with the advent of the weekly a 100 per cent Roosevelt supporter.

Man Cut With Knife Carnival Last Night

Tom Nobles was slashed on the side with a knife at a Negro carnival on Albemarle avenue last night around 8:30 o'clock, but his condition is not serious.

He was taken to Pitt General Hospital immediately after the affray, where several stitches were required to close his wound. Greenville police are hunting Lewis Everett and Bud Allen, both of Pitt County, for allegedly attacking Nobles.

JINGOISTIC CARDS IN CIGARETTE PACKS EXCITE NAZI YOUTHS

Berlin—(AP)—Cards inserted in packs of cigarettes are catching the fancy of German youths now.

At first the cards were on such innocent subjects as flags, automobiles and sports; but now the favorite pictures are of a military character.

These cards started with warships and war planes of all nations, German army uniforms and later centered on military action itself. One series of these cards pictures the World War from beginning to end. Captions on the back of the cards describe the pictures.

With the scene shifting from the front in France to Russia, from the Italian front to the Balkans and to Palestine, the series touches—vaguely—on all phases of the war.

Fl. O'Connor

James H. Fay is shown as he broadcast a speech from New York accusing Rep. John O'Connor, his opponent for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 16th district, of "going out of his way to besmirch the President." Fay also accused O'Connor of using "words colored or transplanted by mercenary publicity agents in the employ of the power trust and other big financial interests which are out to get the President and destroy the New Deal."

EXPAND PROBE TO FIND FACTS

Investigators to Enter Cells Of Scalded Convicts

Philadelphia, Aug. 25—(AP)—Pennsylvania prison investigators said today they would "turn on the heat" and enter the stuffy cells where four hunger-striking convicts suffocated, to learn whether the punishment cell block was "a deliberately planned roaster."

Charles Engard, secretary of welfare, directing the state's investigation of the deaths in the Philadelphia county prison Monday, disclosed that men from his office and two state policemen would make the test.

He said they would subject themselves to the same conditions the prisoners faced in the heated cells, termed as horrible as the black hole of Calcutta.

"They planned to close the windows and ventilators," he said, "just as we understand they were closed Sunday night and have the steam pressure in the radiators turned on to the same degree they were when the prisoners were in there."

William Mills, superintendent of the prison, said if the building was deliberately planned as a "roaster" he was unaware of it.

White Store Addition Provides More Space

When the addition is completed at White's Stores, the establishment will have half again as much as its present floor space and an up-to-date meat market will be maintained.

The addition, practically completed, joins the old structure on the south side and will enable the store to display an even larger stock.

In addition to its regular grocery department, the store will carry all kinds of fresh and cured meat, as well as top-grade western meats.

Hoey's Commission May Furnish Him 1939 Fight

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 25—Governor Clyde R. Hoey's commission engaged now in the study of the state schools, is present-minded to recommend another year of eight months, making the minimum term 96 instead of 88 months.

Only one meeting has been held that in Raleigh Tuesday of the present week. But the commission in calling for suggestions is bearing down on the lengthened term and that is going to present to the General Assembly of 1939 its major issue.

The present eight months term of 11 years for high school graduation is financed entirely by the state which is the only commonwealth of the country which runs its schools entirely without property tax. There would be no objection from the 100 counties on the ground that the increased school burden would necessitate county levies. But should the state undertake to repeal the present county liquor laws it is feared by many good school men who are opposed to these ABC stores that the effort might result in a legislative bloc which in reality would block.

Undoubtedly there is going to be a serious effort to put the 25 per cent support of the counties to the social security burden, on the state itself. At present the federal government supplies 50, the state 25 and the counties 25 per cent. Many of these counties find it very difficult to raise their share with property taxes already very high and a good many losses in taxes by foreclosures.

The ABC counties have reduced their tax burdens in some instances. It is said, and have found raising their share of the social security obligations somewhat easier. The added year for high school graduation would cost about a million dollars.

JAMES FARLEY IS SUMMONED BY PRESIDENT

Confab May Result In Drive to Defeat New Deal Foes

FDR CRITICIZED BY GOP LEADER

Hamilton Says President Must Have His Tongue in Cheek In Scoring Republicans

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 25—(AP)—President Roosevelt called James A. Farley today for a conference which may result in an intensified administration drive to defeat anti-New Deal Democrats in Congress.

The Roosevelt-Farley talk, scheduled for some time today or tomorrow, was considered one of the most politically important of the President's stay here.

Mr. Roosevelt presumably wanted to talk with his political generalissimo about campaign developments in half a dozen states. Farley's advice was expected to determine, in part, whether the President will make a personal bid in Maryland for the defeat of Senator Tydings, an aggressive foe of the administration.

Also among probable topics of conversation between the two were the political situations in New York, Idaho, Georgia, South Carolina, and Connecticut.

Washington developments included: Republican Chairman Hamilton contends President Roosevelt "must have had his tongue in his cheek" when he criticized Republican participation in Democratic primaries.

He issued a statement shortly after two Democratic Senators, Brown of Michigan, and Sheppard of Texas, had expressed agreement with the President's comment.

Chairman Dies (D-Tex.), replied to critics of the House Un-American Committee by charging a "calculated campaign" of abuse and "fabricated reports" had been directed at the committee.

"There is no question about what they are trying to do," the chairman told reporters.

"The fullest harmony prevails among all members, who are working in the closest cooperation. Actually we feel we are on the right track and we'll keep right on sawing wood."

Work Progressing On Local Stadium

Henry L. Rivers, civil engineer, said today that erection of the grandstand for Greenville's municipal stadium will begin as soon as the steel arrives.

About 70 workmen are now busy doing necessary ground work, which includes laying underground pipe, tile, and other drainage facilities.

Rivers explained that concrete footings have already been poured, and that the steel company has already been advised that the steel is needed.

The stadium, when completed, will seat about 1,500 persons. It is being erected with local and Federal appropriations.

HAWKS, COMPANION DIE IN CRASH

DEATH CLAIMS JUDGE DARDEN

Succumbs At Duke Hospital Following Critical Illness

W. A. Darden, judge of municipal recorder's court here, and former judge of county recorder's court, died shortly before noon today in Duke Hospital, where he had been critically ill for the past three weeks.

The body will be returned to Greenville late today. While definite funeral arrangements had not been announced this afternoon, it was understood that services will be held in this city, followed by interment at Scotland Neck where he will be buried by his late father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Darden.

Mr. Darden was a native of Scotland Neck, but had made his home and practiced law in Greenville for approximately 25 years. He was educated at Wake Forest College and received his license to practice law in February, 1911. For a short time he practiced in Farmville and Ayden, later moving to Greenville.

Since coming to Greenville, he has served two terms as judge of the county recorder's court and early this year, when the municipal recorder's court was established, he was appointed judge of that court and was re-elected to the position without opposition in the city election in May.

In 1917, when this country became involved in the World War, he gave up his law practice and entered the first officers' training camp and served as a commissioned officer throughout the war.

He was a member of the Immanuel Baptist Church of this city. Besides his wife, the former Miss Sallie Bel Quinerly of Ayden, survivors include his step-mother, of Scotland Neck; a brother, W. H. "Buck" Darden, of Scotland Neck, and a sister, Mrs. Richard Witchin, of Nashville, Tenn.

Charges Are Brought After Auto Accident

Greenville police charged Noah Williams and Russell Gray, Negroes, with operating motor vehicle in a careless and reckless manner as an outgrowth of an accident on Dickinson avenue last night around 10:30 o'clock.

Neither of the drivers was injured and their automobiles were damaged slightly. The case will be aired in Recorder's court tomorrow morning.

City Court Deferred Due to Death of Judge

Due to the death of W. A. Darden, judge of the Greenville Recorder's court, there will be no session of this court tomorrow morning.

All cases on docket for Friday will be deferred until Monday morning.

Other Eastern Carolina Markets Report Heavy Sales

FIRST AVERAGES RANGE UP TO $25

No Immediate Hints of Any Legal Steps to Challenge Validity New Farm Act

Raleigh, Aug. 25—(AP)—Opening prices which averaged more than $25 a hundred pleased Eastern North Carolina tobacco farmers today as they swarmed into the 14 bright belt towns.

Warehousemen predicted the average of $25.43 of last season would be exceeded.

Block sales were expected tomorrow on several of the markets as offerings broke previous records. Lower grades appeared unusually strong on most markets.

Thousands of farmers and visitors were reported in all the market towns.

The carnival atmosphere at the sales was enhanced by the presence of Governor Hoy to auction off the initial three baskets at Wendell.

Raleigh, Aug. 25—(AP)—Long lines of buyers farmers and warehousemen, led by singing auctioneers, moved along rows of golden tobacco in Eastern North Carolina today—the new bright belt had begun to sell.

There were no immediate hints of legal steps to prevent imposition of fines for selling tobacco in excess of quotas allowed under the 1938 farm law.

R. G. Debnam, sales supervisor of the Farmville market, estimated that 650,000 pounds of tobacco would be sold there today, with the price averaging approximately 25 cents.

Most of the offerings there were said to be of poor quality, a big portion of it first and second printings.

At Goldsboro William Moore, sales supervisor, expressed the belief growers would suppress their irritation in the face of a good price average.

At Rocky Mount, where Sales Manager George Arrington said well over 1,000,000 pounds were on the floors, the first 100 baskets sold for an average of 23.95 cents a pound. The official opening average price last year was $22.09. Growers appeared satisfied as prices ranged as high as 31 cents.

Officials estimated nearly two million and a half pounds were on the floors of warehouses at Greenville as opening prices ranged from 18 to 29 cents. The warehouses were jammed with spectators, hindering auctions. Lugs and common grades were selling higher than last year and medium prevailed in the offerings.

Warehousemen estimated around 1,500,000 pounds were offered at Kingston. The average price there appeared to be between 24 and 25 cents.

At Wilson Sales Supervisor Geo. Wainwright said about 1,500,000 pounds were on the floors and the average was expected to be at least 26 cents a pound.

Majority Of Offerings Sold On Market Today Medium Quality Weed

Says He Paid Hines

George Weinberg (above) faced hard cross-examination after accusing James J. Hines, veteran Tammany leader, of accepting $500 a week to protect the $20,000,000 Harlem policy racket of the slain Dutch Schultz. Hines is on trial in New York on charges of being the political buffer for the ring. Weinberg said he personally paid Hines the money.

Most Sales Bring Between 18c and 29c Per Pound

POOR QUALITIES SELLING HIGHER

Today's Average Expected To Exceed Last Year's Opening Day Figure of 23.62 Cents

Unofficial estimates indicated farmers selling their tobacco on the Greenville market today were paid an average of approximately 25 cents a pound.

A majority of the leaf sold this morning brought between 18 and 29 cents and most of it was of medium quality. As sales started in the 1938 auction season lugs and common tobacco sold somewhat higher than on opening day last year. Medium grades, which constituted a big majority of the offerings, also were bringing prices which apparently were satisfactory to the growers. The better grades were believed to be selling a little lower than on opening day last year.

On opening day last year the 1,317,484 pounds sold brought $311,155.73, or an official average of $23.62 per hundredweight. Today's official average is expected to exceed this figure by at least one dollar on the hundred.

It was estimated that approximately 2,500,000 pounds of the local warehouses as auctions got under way this morning.

What was believed to be the largest crowd in the history of the market filled the warehouses, hindering sales, and the entire city, especially "Tobacco Town" was jammed with farmers and others here for the opening day sales.

Farmers received their marketing cards yesterday and there was outward opposition to the new farm act, limiting sales to certain quotas. Farmers on the whole, appeared to be satisfied with prices being paid and there was little likelihood court action would be resorted to in an effort to prevent imposition of a tax of 50 per cent of the sales price on all tobacco sold in excess of quotas.

So large was the crowd of farmers, and others in Greenville today, parking space within several blocks of the warehouse districts was at a premium. There was no hope of selling all the tobacco on the floors today and more than a million pounds are expected to be sold both today and tomorrow.

The crop is much earlier this year and a good percentage of the yield in this immediate territory is ready to be sold.

Farmers from far-away distances were among those selling their crop on the warehouse floors in Greenville today.

Charges Are Dropped In Windham Matter

Chief of Police George Clark today released William A. Windham from the city jail after being advised by Virginia authorities that a warrant against Windham charging him with larceny had been withdrawn.

Windham was nabbed by Highway Patrolman C. R. Williams Tuesday on a charge of larceny of clothing and a radio from Virginia Beach, and placed in jail here to be returned over to Virginia police.

Pilot Expresses Belief Passengers Slain or Wounded

Hongkong, Aug. 25—(AP)—Rescue parties spread throughout the South China countryside today to ascertain the fate of 14 persons missing from a China-American owned airliner which was forced down by Japanese airmen.

The American pilot, H. I. Woods of Winfield, Kansas, who radioed that the Japanese machine-gunned the plane, was reported safe with a Chinese radio operator and three passengers.

The others, Woods thought, must have either been killed or wounded when the plane landed in a small river between Canton and Matiao on the South China coast yesterday.

There were 19 in all, passengers and crew. All but Woods were Chinese.

The searching units included a United States gunboat, a British gunboat and detachments of Chinese troops which set out from Canton.

Woods, who escaped serious injury, was taken aboard a United States gunboat at Matiao after he made a difficult journey along narrow creeks. With him were the radio operator, Joe Loh, and a passenger, C. N. Lou.

Woods reached Hongkong today to verify reports Japanese planes attacked the transport.

Praise For Textile School In Magazine

Man Dies As Result Of Fall From Truck

J. H. Dunshee of Washington died yesterday as the result of an injury received while working on A. L. Tucker's farm.

Mr. Dunshee was packing hay on a truck at the time the accident occurred. He fell from the truck between two mules breaking two cervical vertebrae.

Contrary to popular opinion, the absentee ballot law was the fulfillment of a campaign pledge. The measure has been retained and somewhat glorified as "a war measure."

It happens to be unrelated in the least. It was a pledge of both T. W. Bicket and E. L. Daughtridge in their campaign for the Democratic nomination in 1916. The railway trainmen, traveling salesmen and numerous residents of Washington had sought such legislation and because engineers and commercial travelers found it often impossible to vote in person in their home precincts and the absentee act was proposed, and it was enacted before America entered the world war.

From the start it has been badly abused and was used in wholesale fashion in the world war. Soldiers who never heard of North Carolina contests voted, and in one instance it appears that a good Democrat of North Carolina crossed the Atlantic in an enterprise signed to throw hundreds of absentee ballots into the election. Bicket saw it used in the 1918 primaries and elections again in 1920. He perceived by that time that his ideal measure was being handled pretty familiarly by practical men.

But Broughton can hop to an immediate vantage point, his friends think, by making his primary and paramount issue election reform. He would beat the opposition hitherto impersonated in the Fountain and McDonald candidates for governor, to the punch. And it is the kind of blow is most effective when delivered earliest.

TEACHER LIST IS ANNOUNCED

County Units to Begin Term Thursday, Sept. 1st

A list of teachers for the various schools in the county system was released at the offices of the County Board of Education today, showing 58 high school and 136 elementary instructors for the coming season, the same number as last year.

The schools, both white and colored, will open one week from today, Thursday, September 1.

There will be 148 teachers in the various Negro schools of the county. Only one change will be effective in principals for the coming season. G. N. Nobles of Trenton, will succeed O. H. Boettcher, who will go to Snow Hill.

The list of white teachers is complete, with the exception of two in Fountain and two at Farmville. The two at Farmville have been employed, but their names have not been sent in to the county office. It also was explained that the two at Fountain also had been "practically" employed.

The list, with these exceptions, follows: Belvoir School—H. H. Deaton, principal; C. F. Wildman, Richard Matthews, Thelma Peele, Beale Kearney, M. L. Farrior, Thelma Whitehead, Marguerite Rogerson, Mamie F. Waterfield, Inez Hermitage May, Sallie Maude Atkinson, Dorothy Vernon Brooks, Alda Vick Moring, Margaret Register, Kathleen Stout, Clea Zanisher.

Broughton Gets Jump On Ballot Reform Proposal

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 25—Candidate J. Melville Broughton, who pulled up in Charlotte Tuesday night with quite an assault on North Carolina's election practices and inferentially upon the laws themselves, beat the bunch of fellow aspirants.

Contrary to popular opinion, the absentee ballot law was the fulfillment of a campaign pledge. The measure has been retained and somewhat glorified as "a war measure."

It happens to be unrelated in the least. It was a pledge of both T. W. Bicket and E. L. Daughtridge in their campaign for the Democratic nomination in 1916. The railway trainmen, traveling salesmen and numerous residents of Washington had sought such legislation and because engineers and commercial travelers found it often impossible to vote in person in their home precincts and the absentee act was proposed, and it was enacted before America entered the world war.

From the start it has been badly abused and was used in wholesale fashion in the world war. Soldiers who never heard of North Carolina contests voted, and in one instance it appears that a good Democrat of North Carolina crossed the Atlantic in an enterprise signed to throw hundreds of absentee ballots into the election. Bicket saw it used in the 1918 primaries and elections again in 1920. He perceived by that time that his ideal measure was being handled pretty familiarly by practical men.

TWO LAWYERS STILL FRIENDS

Ehringhaus - McLendon Feud Suggestion Won't Work

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Aug. 25—Former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and Major L. P. McLendon, who are on different sides in the Burgh-Deane congressional controversy, haven't fallen out and the daily suggestions that they may be entering a sort of feud won't work.

Major McLendon dined with the former governor Tuesday evening after having fought an all-day bout with the Burgh counsel during the day. They enjoyed being at meat as much as ever and came back for further hostilities Wednesday. But nothing has happened in the case to make them change their personal attitudes.

Governor Ehringhaus has more doubt as to the legality of the state Board of Elections authority than McLendon has, and is therefore more persuaded of its illegal act.

in declaring Deane the winner. McLendon as the Ehringhaus appointee on the State Board, studied the laws a great deal and made an effort to get better elections from them. In that enterprise he had the Governor's help.

Their tangle at the hearings moves newspaper boys to comment, but after the legal sparring they are as chummy as ever. It so happens that Chairman W. A. Lucas of the State Board is an Ehringhaus appointee, and his disagreement with the chief is as intense as that of Lucas' predecessor.

There isn't any Roosevelt-Farley feud in the naming. Ehringhaus says that if he were running again he would wish to have McLendon as his manager and that if the Major would take a Supreme court appointment it would again be offered. The pugnacity of the pair grows entirely from their appearances as attorneys.

Early day baseball umpires were not league officials. The managers met before each game and agreed upon "a gentleman of high repute in the community" to act.

Assistant Manager

E. B. HORNE

Belk-Tyler's Greenville store opened today with thousands of customers crowding into the establishment throughout the day. Officials said patrons came from throughout this section of the state. The one hundred and twenty-five sales people were kept busy serving the throngs.

A. L. Tyler, vice president of the Belk-Tyler system declared he was "delighted" with the opening and added that a force adequate to take care of the customers would be maintained.

He said that opening day always was confusing and pledged his support of the best of service after the opening day crowds. He also said that opening day was confusing because the salespeople were new and a new plan of merchandising was adopted.

C. A. Plyler, comes here from Williamston, while E. B. Horne, the assistant manager, hails from Rocky Mount.

WILL REPLACE STATE'S BOATS

New Craft To Be Used in Enforcing the Fishing Laws

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Aug. 24.—Two new motor cruisers for the Commercial Fisheries Division of the Department of Conservation and Development are soon to be purchased to replace two old boats that have been in use for almost 40 years. It was announced today by Captain John A. Nelson of Morehead City, chief of the division.

The two new boats will cost $15,000 of which amount 55 per cent will be borne by the state and 45 per cent will come from a grant from the PWA. The state's portion is included in the bond issue authorized by the recent special session of the General Assembly.

Each of the new cruisers will be 38 feet long with a beam of 11 feet 6 inches, powered by a Diesel motor motor capable of driving the boat at least 15 miles an hour. These will replace the "Pamlico" and the "Albemarle" which have been in use so many years that they are no longer considered safe and seaworthy.

Each of the new boats will be in command of a deputy fisheries commissioner and will be used in enforcing the fishing laws in the many sounds and rivers. These deputy commissioners have been considerably handicapped during the past few years by having these old, slow boats making it impossible for them to cover as much territory as they should. Captain Nelson feels that the work of his division will be made much more effective when these two new cruisers are put into service. They are expected to be delivered before the commercial fishing season gets under way this fall.

Captain Nelson will continue to use "The Hatteras" for patrol work in the ocean outside the sounds, to keep check on the large steam trawlers which come down from New England and fish off the North Carolina coast each fall, winter and spring. The law prohibits their fishing within less than three miles from the shore line.

lars and there might be opposition to it on the ground of its burdensomeness.

The commission is choosing the extra year rather than an additional month because North Carolina is so generally agricultural, and particularly so in the east. Seasonal work would require the presence of school children during school months and the commission thinks the 96 months stretched out over 12 years would be better than 99 in 11 years. There is a good deal of evidence before the commission that the 12 grades promote more boys and girls in 96 months than 11 grades would in 99.

But unless there is quite a change in public sentiment since the earlier informal surveys, there may be considerable opposition to the proposal. The cost of the eight months term has moved many professional men to question whether the state can undertake a bigger burden. If the public assistance load is laid upon the state an appropriate new million is put upon the schools there will be difficulty finding the money. Nearly all the known sources of taxation have been pretty well tapped.

The demand for further exemptions in the sales tax, not to mention the agitation for its repeal outright, looks rather to a lessening than an increased revenue haul. It will be interesting to watch how the public reacts to the suggestion made months ago by Governor Hoey and nothing to do when his destination is reached? Who doesn't periodically neglect necessary repairs to brakes, lights or steering mechanisms, on the theory that he will get around to it, when more convenient?

 We'll go a good way toward reducing accidents when the average driver begins asking himself such questions and returning honest answers. Accident prevention, so far as it concerns the human element, is a personal, individual matter—and each individual has to really want to drive safely at all times before he can analyze his driving errors and correct them.—(Industrial News Review).

Washington Daybook
 By Preston Greener
 Washington—From a liquor standpoint this country is turning into a legislative Balkans.
 State arrays itself against state, enacting first one law and then another to shut out competitive liquor. Already it is down to a point where various states seem to be in need of reciprocal trade treaties.
 It all started with the 21st amendment to the Constitution which provides, as a protection to the dry states, that no liquor could be imported into a state in violation of its laws. That sounded just fine to all concerned until California (these native sons are enterprising) enacted a law imposing a $500 tax on wholesalers bringing beer into the state from other states.
 In effect it was simply a tariff to protect California beer brewers. Evidently nobody had thought of that possibility arising out of the 21st amendment. But it did. And the Supreme Court said the act was strictly in accord with the last amendment, even if it did upset that earlier part of the Constitution which prohibited any state setting up barriers to commerce among the states.
 Follow The Leader
 California with a plenty of wine to sell, soon saw a warning light and repealed its law, but the seed was sown. Other states began taking it up. Indiana imposed a $1,500 special tax on wholesalers who imported out-of-state beer, and Minnesota added some flourishes by prohibiting import of hard liquor unless it was either a patented brand or had been re-processed in Minnesota after importation.
 The Minnesota law came quickly to the Supreme Court and brought out one of the strangest colloquies the Supreme Court has heard in days. The following quotations are not exact but the substance is there:
 "Minnesota argues," said the state attorney general in effect, "that it may impose any terms it choose upon the importation of liquor and it will be constitutional under the 21st amendment."
 "Do you mean," asked Chief Justice Hughes in effect, "that if Minnesota says that out-of-state liquor may be imported only by people who wear a certain kind of clothes, such legislation will be valid? Let me out it another way. Do you mean that the state could enact a law permitting importation of liquor only by those who voted a certain way, and it would be valid?"
 "The state attorney general thought that one over for a long moment, then answered: "Yes."
 And what happened? The Supreme Court upheld the Minnesota law.
 Liquid skim milk or buttermilk is a valuable supplement to the regular ration of hens during the summer, and helps to keep the hens in condition.

QUOTAS UNSATISFACTORY
 Many complaints have been heard since distribution of the tobacco marketing cards throughout the county yesterday. Some farmers who own farms in both Pitt and outside counties complain that while their Pitt County farms are more productive their poundage allotments on these farms are lower than those in the other counties. The chief basis of the complaint, it seems, is that the farmers are not aware of the formula by which the department figured the allotments and therefore cannot do their own figuring. It seems to us that the department in charge of setting up the allotments should make known immediately the basis on which it figured, in order that the farmers might be able to tell whether or not their individual allotments are in line. So long as the farmers are aware that all are being treated alike, there will be no complaint, but until they are satisfied of this fact they have a just kick in view of the apparent discrepancies.

ARE YOU A HYPOCRITE?
 The average motorist is an unconscious hypocrite. That's a strong characterization—but a little impersonal analysis will substantiate it.
 How often have you roundly criticized some driver for an offense which you commit periodically yourself? How often have you taken comfort in the thought that accidents are caused by some reckless breed of motorists with whom you have nothing in common, thus dodging the fact that only pure fool's luck has saved you from a crash on a dozen occasions? Have you ever attempted to get a ticket "fixed"—even though you pay lip service to the cause of aggressive, impartial law enforcement?
 It is a fact that a large proportion of accidents are caused by the reckless ten per cent, but the other ninety per cent periodically take chances and are responsible for many of our annual auto deaths.
 Who, for example, doesn't sometimes pass a car when the stretch of empty road that can be seen is too short for safety? Who doesn't occasionally succumb to the lure of excessive speed—even though he has little or

THE CLOUDED MOON

The Characters
 Hugo Stern, French author, living on the French Riviera.
 Archie Lumsden, muscle, Hugo's friend.
 Otilie Wills, a beautiful American heiress.
 Yesterday: To investigate the Château la Vague I take a room there. Back at Hugo's, Dunning finds the murder gun planted in my bed.

Chapter 16
Breaking The Bad News
PENELOPE came flying, "Monsieur!" she gasped. "The police!"
 "Show them in," said Hugo gravely but even as he spoke, Dunning caught me by the arm.
 "That letter from the girl—where is it? In your pocket?"
 I nodded. The letter had never left my person since I had received it the night before, and now I pulled it out and showed it to him. He snatched it and thrust it and the pistol into one capacious pocket.
 "I don't know which would be worst to have found on you—that or the gun," said he. "But never fear—you'll have them back shortly."
 The large shape of the chief of police, with three uniformed gendarmes behind him, darkened the doorway. "Monsieur," he said, with a formal bow to Hugo, and with a much dignity that I guessed he was feeling desperately uncomfortable. "I regret that it is my painful duty to make a search of your house. Information has been received—" He broke off suddenly. "Monsieur Dunning!" he exclaimed, startled. "One had no expected to find you here!"
 "Monsieur Thiers," said the big man solemnly, "each one of us must pursue his appointed task. I wish you better luck if yours that I've had in mine!" And with a stupefied sense of immense relief I saw him saunter across the courtyard and through the open gate. Next moment the sound of an aged motor starting up told me that the Fiat was bearing evidence that might have been my death-warrant away to Cannes.
 Hugo was facing the commissaire with no very welcoming expression on his face. "I don't understand you, Thiers," he said sharply. "Are you trying to say you've got a search-warrant?"
 The chief of police wriggled unhappily. "It is indeed so, Monsieur Stern," he agreed. "Certain information reached us this morning that made such a course inevitable, but it is a pure formalité, I assure you!" But his action belied his words, for as he spoke he turned suddenly to me and ran his hands over my body in a very workmanlike manner.
 I was wearing nothing but a shirt and trousers, so that the inspection was both easy and short, and with a muttered word of apology and a visible reddening of the neck, he turned his attention to Hugo. "Thiers," said Hugo sternly, making, however, no attempt at resistance. "I warn you that this stupidity may have serious consequences for you. I have friends in Paris who will not be pleased to hear about it."
 The fat man set his jaw obstinately. "Monsieur," he said, with a certain dignity, "I am carrying out the orders of the examining magistrate. And besides," he added hopefully, "we have yet to search the house."
 And search the house they did, with a thoroughness that filled me with a reluctant admiration. When it was over, Hugo moved to the front door and held it open.
 "I shall just have time to catch the Paris mail," he remarked stonily, disregarding the commissaire's proffered hand. The fat man wiped his perspiring forehead. "Monsieur Stern," he said, unhappily, "will you not accept a truce for a little matter of a day or two? Give us time to find the real criminal, and perhaps then the letter will not be necessary?"
 Hugo stared at him coldly, but the twitching of his mouth told me that he was secretly amused.
 "On one condition," he said. "Tell us what it was that you expected to find, and who it was that told you you would find it."
 "Monsieur," said the commissaire miserably, "we did not find the gun, therefore I can say nothing, and as for our informant—he is the friend of Monsieur le Juge, and I dare not mention his name." And having thus given a satisfactory answer on both heads, he ambled after his men out through the gate.

Introductions
AS THE Hispano pulled up on the little front of Juan-les-Pins, Hugo looked at his wrist-watch. "A quarter to twelve," he said. "Just time for a swim before Otilie Wills shows up." He led the way along the boardwalk.
 Taking off his robe and watch, he took a running jump into the water and I followed him, swimming out in his wake till we were clear of the crowd by the shore.
 "Let's hope the lady will be late," said I, turning on my back and floating in luxurious idleness, but next moment I exclaimed:

"Devil take it, there she is!" And there, sure enough, she was, a slim, graceful creature in dark-blue pajamas, watching us from the water's edge.
 We came out of the water at her feet, shaking ourselves like a couple of dripping spaniels and brushing the wet hair from our eyes, and she laughed down at us, her black eyes dancing, a very gay and pretty sight.
 "Never," she said, "have I seen such brown and muscle outside the life-savers at Atlantic City! I am honored to be escorted by the two huskiest men on the beach. Gentlemen, the top of the morning to you!"
 Hugo reddened. "Miss Wills," he began formally, "I have a good deal to say to you, and this beach is a trifle crowded. Will you try some lunch at the hotel café?"
 She nodded cheerfully, falling into step between us as we made our way along the boardwalk.
 "But there's just one point," she observed. "You know my name but I don't know yours."
 Hugo drew out a chair for her. "That's easily remedied," he answered, still with a certain constraint in his manner. "I am Hugo Stern, and this is my friend Archibald Lumsden."
 She exclaimed sharply. "Hugo Stern? Why, you're not Hugo Stern? I think you're a terrible impostor for my sex is spoiling your work. You'll never achieve true balance until you make your heroine a real, human woman. Take any girl you know and study her actions and reactions. Take me, if you like—I'm an ordinary, completely healthy, averagely intelligent female—unpick me, turn me inside out, and see what I'm made of. Then write your next book, and it'll be a classic."
 "I am honored," said Hugo gravely, "but I'm afraid our time is too short. Now, if you're ready, Miss Wills, I think we ought to get down to business."

'I'm A Moral Coward'
IN ONE moment all the youth and gaiety drained from her face. She looked down, shading her eyes, and I noticed that the curling lashes that veiled them were chestnut-red and fiery-tipped like her hair. "You had better know at once," she said, very low, "that I'm a moral coward. I've been fooling up to now, putting off time, trying to avoid hearing what I was afraid to hear. But I guess I'll have to face it. Mr. Stern, where did you get that one-cent piece?"
 "Just a minute," said Hugo. His face, too, was white under the tan and the lines of his jaw were set. "There are one or two names that I want to mention to you before we start any explanations. I am aware that you know Baron Stahl but I should like to hear if you have met a certain Mr. Venner, a banker, and a gentleman who calls himself Vladimir Rakovsky?"
 I looked up at him quickly, a hint of fear in his eyes, and slowly inclined her head. "I have never met them," she answered, "but I know them by name."
 "And Monsieur René Geiss?" pursued Hugo, his eyes never leaving her face. "You probably know him better as Shevr, the cartoonist."
 "Shevr?" she echoed. "Why, of course I've heard of him, but I'm happy to say I've never met him, and I hope I never will. His work makes me sick!"
 "And now one last name. Miss Wills, have you ever heard of Pat O'Donnell?"
 At once light and color flashed back into her face. "Pat?" she cried. "Do you know him? Oh, where is he, Mr. Stern? Is he here in Juan?"
 He shook his head. "We'll come to that later," he told her gently. "Now for the immediate business."
 He pulled his wallet from the pocket of his bath-robe, extracted the one-cent piece, and laid it on the table between them, and at once she fumbled in the depths of her big blue satchel and produced its twin.
 "I'll match you, Mr. Stern," she said with an attempt at a smile, but I saw that her lips were trembling. "My uncle gave these coins to my sister and me when we were little girls, as a reward for good conduct."
 Hugo nodded slowly. "I'll match your story in turn," he said. "Your sister's coin was given to me by the waiter—of a small café. It had been left there two days ago by a young lady calling herself Eve Monet. Miss Wills, does that name convey anything to you?"
 She shook her head dumbly, her eyes imploring him to go on, but he turned suddenly to me. "I can't do it, Archie," he said harshly. "You must carry on."
 I had no more liking than he for the task ahead, but to delay longer would be like leaving a dumb animal in torture. I leaned across the table and gripped her hands. "Miss Wills," I said, as gently as I could, "Eve Monet was the man-quin who was shot down by an unknown man at Palm Beach two nights ago, and we have reason to believe she was your sister."

SAYS SCHOOL GIRLS SPEND MOST TIME 'KILLING TIME'

Knoxville, Tenn.—(AP)—Velma E. Shaffer, University of Tennessee graduate student, decided—after questioning 239 girls—that the special interests of most high school girls appear to be only "time-killing amusements."
 Mrs. Shaffer reported that movies were first among the girls' special interests; listening to the radio, second; going to parties, third; talking with friends, fourth; making candy, fifth; and reading, sixth.
 Cooking was far down the list and "caring for children" at the very bottom. More consideration, Mrs. Shaffer concluded, "might well be given to movie appreciation, worthwhile reading materials, pursuance of hobbies, and other personal interests."

Greenies Again Swamp Gold Bugs In Night Game Here

KING LETS BUGS HAVE FEW HITS

Locals Played Errorless Ball Before Large Crowd

Rube Wilson's Greenville Greenies went on another scoring spree last night to down Goldsboro's Bugs 11-1, under the arcs.

One of the largest crowds ever to witness a ball game in Greenville saw Don King master the Bugs. He allowed only three hits and one run.

The Goldberg run came in the seventh frame. Hahn walked to start the inning and advanced on Kepler's single. Morris forced Kepler, and Hahn gained third safely. Pawlock hit an infield ball and Hahn scored.

The locals won the game in the fourth, after one run had been scored in the first in the winning frame. Heaver and Wilson were given free tickets to first and then scored on Christopher's triple. Christopher scored on an infield out.

Those Martins Use Homers in This Game

Williamston, Aug. 25.—Williamston bunched 11 hits for a half-dozen runs to defeat New Bern, 6-2, here yesterday afternoon. Harry (Red) Swain, local pitcher, yielded only six hits.

Four of the Martins' hits were homers. Eddie Ignasiak contributed two round-trippers and Larry Wade and George Bowen each hit one. Note of the homers came with men on base.

Yesterday's game came near beating yesterday's Kinston-Tarboro tilt for the shortest-time-played record in the Coastal Plain League. It took only 1:28 to play the contest. The Kinston-Tarboro game took 1:25.

The Williamston-Ayden game, originally scheduled for Ayden, will be moved here on account of the tobacco market opening.

Big Jim Tatum Hits Two Homers for Bills

Snow Hill, Aug. 25.—Snow Hill turned in a 19-2 victory over Ayden here yesterday.

The Billies jumped on the offerings of Northcutt for seven runs in the first inning and clinched the game.

Tony Maisano's double started the first-inning scoring, bringing in Mewborn, who had singled, and Taylor, who had walked. Joyner and Soufas walked to fill the bases, and Jim Tatum hit a 400-foot homer over left-center fence to account for four more. Northcutt got himself in trouble again by hitting Rabb and walking Zschau and Mewborn. Stewart's long fly then scored Rabb.

Tatum hit another homer in the eighth, and Zschau hit a four-bagger in the seventh.

The Billies turned in five double plays during five successive innings and racked up eight combinations for the afternoon.

Eagles and Serps Call Quits After 12 Boxes

Kinston, Aug. 25.—Darkness called a halt in proceedings of the Kinston-Tarboro game here yesterday, with the score tied at 4-all. The teams battle for 12 innings.

Henry Muhlenbein, local twirler, yielded 17 hits and was in hot water most of the day, but his mates managed to pull him out of the hole. Ed Malone, Tarboro pitcher, was touched for 12 hits. He fanned eight.

In the twelfth frame, with two on base, Wyrostek fielded the ball for a put-out and threw to West for a double play to cut off a Tarboro run that would have given the Serpents victory. In the 10th, two runners were caught off bases by local players.

Kinston tied the score in the seventh, when Kratzer singled, and gained third on an error, and scored third on an error, and scored.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

MORRIS HOLDS TO TOP RUNG

Ayden Slugger Closely Pursued by Joyner In Hitting

It's a regular habit with Phillip Morris, heavy-hitting Ayden outfielder. For the sixth consecutive week Phil is holding down the No. 1 spot in Coastal Plain batting averages.

The latest figures, including tilts of last Sunday, give Morris a percentage of .377 and a 13 point lead over Snow Hill's Monk Joyner.

J. Gaskill McDaniel, league statistician of New Bern, released the averages yesterday.

Averages for players at bat 25 or more times and hitting 300 or better.

GIRLS TAUGHT DRIVE SAFELY

Dean of AC College Encourages Traffic Program

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Aug. 24.—Dean Cecil A. Jarman of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, brought about 18 of his girls, most of them teachers, to Raleigh Tuesday and talked in the safety campaign for better driving in North Carolina.

The dean represents the only institution which has put into its courses this very modern way of life. That institution seeing menace of the recklessly driven machine not only has introduced safety education into its curriculum, but takes the girls and shows them as something worth saving.

Primarily this institution is concerned in making the highways safe. It is endorsing the program to widen the routes and add the shoulders. It is working with the engineers who are concerned primarily with properly laid out thoroughfares and correctly drawn curves. But the college is even more concerned with a human attitude which does not stop merely with recoiling at the unconscionable slaughter on the highways; but gets out and in a highly missionary mood does something about it.

Revenue Commissioner Allen J. Maxwell, under whose administration the killing, the maiming and the saving go on, finds much to make him happy over the evidence aroused citizenship. North Carolina in past years has been marked for the nation for the murderous record of its automobile drivers. The state held the supremacy a long time, the largest number of killings in proportion to gasoline consumed. There is a big reduction

Large Bridge Opened Today

10,000, See New Albemarle Span Presented to Public

Pea Ridge, Aug. 25—(AP)—With the snap of a ribbon, the Albemarle Sound bridge, North Carolina's longest bridge, was formally opened this morning under a cloudy sky that drew an estimated crowd of 10,000 persons in holiday mood.

In a seven-minute speech, Chairman Frank Dunlap of the State Highway and Public Works Commission presented the three and a half mile span to the people of the Albemarle. It was accepted by Vance Norman, Plymouth Attorney, and Julian Wood of Edenton, former highway Commissioner.

Opening of the bridge marks the culmination of the efforts of several years. The structure provides a much shorter route north for the 38,000 persons residing south of the sound.

Fourteen little boys and girls, representatives of the participating counties, slowly swung open the gates to launch the colorful parade across to the south side where the official dedicatory exercises took place.

Dr. John Berkley spoke his words of invocation. Representative Lindsay Warren of Washington, introduced Governor Hoey, who made the address of welcome. Hoey touched on the significance of the project, which, he said, marks only the beginning of a new era in the history of this section of North Carolina.

Colonel E. E. Holland of Virginia, spoke as the representative of Governor James Price in response to Hoey's welcome.

Jerome Flora, mayor of Elizabeth City, presented former Governor Ehringhaus, in whose administration funds were earmarked to make the bridge a reality.

Ehringhaus spoke in rapt praise of what the bridge would mean to the section.

INDIGNANT WIVES MAY PICKET HUSBANDS

Calcutta, —(AP)—A number of women of Sadhaura, in the Punjab, have decided that one wife is enough for their husbands. They have formed themselves into a "monogamy brigade" to force their husbands not to take second wives.

Should moral persuasion fail, peaceful picketing of the "pandal"—the tent where the second marriage takes place—will be resorted to.

Finally, the weapon of social boycott will be used.

AUSTRALIAN NATIVES GET SPECIAL COURT

Marble Bar, West Australia (AP)—A new court of native affairs—established as an experiment in dealing with native crimes—gave its first decision recently.

It sentenced "Smiler," an aged native, to two years banishment from his tribe for killing a fellow tribesman.

The court is composed of a special magistrate, a superintendent of native hospitals, a Crown law representative, the protector of native affairs, and "Sambo," headman of "Smiler's" tribe.

SPENT TOO MUCH TIME PLAYING DARTS

Chatham, England, —(AP)—Most people know about the "Golf Widow" whose husband lives on the golf course.

Now the "darts widow" has arrived.

She is 22-year old Mrs. Patricia Baker of Cuxton who obtained a court order for maintenance against her husband.

She complained he fell for the dart craze, spent most nights playing darts in public houses, neglected her and the home was broken up.

PRICES RANGE ABOUT SAME IN BELT CENTERS

Farmers appeared satisfied with prices ranging from 18 to 35 cents and no tags were turned on the first 365 baskets sold. Offerings were of medium quality.

At Wendel about 450,000 pounds were offered and tobacco men forecast an average of 25 cents.

Supervisor W. D. Moore said opening sales in Goldsboro averaged "22 to 25 cents". More than 335,000 pounds were on the floors of the warehouses, mostly tops a few primings and lugs.

Three first row of the approximately 200,000 pounds offered on the Tarboro market brought an average of $3. Farmers appeared well pleased with prices.

Prices averaged between $24 and $26 at the opening of the Ashekie markets, where all floor space was jammed long before the first sale. Lower grades were unusually strong and offerings were mainly lugs and low grades. Officials said it would be noon tomorrow before all the estimated 375,000 pounds could be cleared.

Wallace warehousemen said prices there averaged close to $28. About 500,000 pounds were offered.

At Smithfield, W. H. Edwards, Jr., sales supervisor, estimated the poundage at 700,000. First prices
