Believe Move Made Permit Abductors Make Contact

$15,000 RANSOM BEEN DEMANDED

FBI Announces Withdrawal from Case Following Recall Of National Guardsmen

Yuba City, Calif., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Federal and state forces were abruptly withdrawn from the hunt for kidnapers of Mrs. W. R. Meeks in what observers suggested today might be a move to permit her abductors to make a contact with her orchardist husband.

Shortly after Gov. Frank Merriam recalled 120 national guardsmen and 100 state patrolmen, N. J. L. Pieper, Federal Bureau of Investigation chief from San Francisco, announced that the FBI was withdrawing from the case.

"There is no evidence thus far," Pieper said, "of the violation of any federal law. I am withdrawing federal men from the case, but the facilities of our office will be open."

The "G-men" withdrew just 24 hours after Meeks reported two roughly-dressed men had kidnaped his 55-year-old wife, demanding $15,000 ransom.

Ranchers, who had joined in yesterday's extensive hunt for trace of the kidnapers of Mrs. Meeks' body, expressed belief outside law agents withdrew to permit the abductors to give Meeks details of how to pay the ransom.

Local Boy Injured In Auto-Bike Crash

J. B. Morris, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Morris, was injured painfully in an auto-bicycle collision on Dickinson avenue shortly after 9 o'clock last night.

Morris, a messenger for Western Union, riding a bicycle, was struck by a truck driven by R. L. Spivey, employe of the Greenville branch of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The youth was taken to Pitt General Hospital for treatment. He sustained lacerations of the scalp, a shoulder injury, and body bruises. Dr. W. T. Wooten said the youth would be released from the hospital today or tomorrow.

Greenville police are still investigating the accident, which occurred in front of Forbes and Morton's warehouse. Spivey was convicted in city Recorder's court yesterday morning on a charge of operating a motor vehicle at an excessive rate of speed.

Negro Arrested Here For Hauling Whiskey

Rufus Williams, 27-year-old Greenville Negro, was lodged in the Pitt County jail last night under a $200 bond on a charge of transporting illegal liquor for purpose of sale.

The Negro was nabbed by J. M. Ward, law enforcement officer of the Pitt ABC Board, and E. G. McMullan, local police officer, on the corner of Wade and Broad streets. Officer Ward said that Williams' accomplices jumped from the automobile and ran, and has not yet been apprehended. A half gallon of illegal contraband was found in the Negro's possession.

Automobile Is Stolen And Later Wrecked

Officer E. G. McMullan said today that Sylvester Newsome is being held for investigation as an outgrowth of the theft of a Pontiac coupe belonging to C. Wesley Harvey, which was stolen from the city-county armory around 12 o'clock last night and later wrecked.

The officer said the car later failed to make a curve at the corner of Tenth and Clark streets and struck a telephone. The car was badly damaged, according to the officer. Although jailed for suspicion, Newsome's bond was set at $500.

Labor Commissioner Says More Tar Heels Working

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Sept. 3.—Employment in North Carolina reflects itself in all upward turn, Maj. A. L. Fletcher of the Department of Labor says, in a news release based on figures furnished by 424 manufacturing firms.

General revenues in the tax collecting departments of state and local units had suggested as much, but Major Fletcher's office makes the comparison. August generally is a recessive month. There is a natural decline in work. But there was a gain this year.

The firms reporting said that there were 83,237 employe by them during August, 3.8 per cent more than were at work in July. The weekly wage average in July was $12.93 for 34.25 hours. The August weekly wage average for 36.25 hours of work was $14.66. The gain was in hours alone as the average pay for each month was 41 cents.

There was a gain both in employment and in number of hours worked in 174 cotton mills reporting. The weekly wage for cotton mill workers was $12.71 for 34.5 hours. The average hourly earnings for these workers was 36.8 cents an hour, a decrease of 14 under the July average of 37.4 cents an hour.

But employment increased 2.9 per cent and hours worked 6.3 per cent. The information in these figures is contained in the August preliminary employment and pay roll report of the department of labor and includes all types of manufacturing industries.

PITT FARMERS TURN OUT FOR MASS MEETING

Court Room Unable To Accommodate Local Crowd

CALLED SUPPORT NEW FARM ACT

Will Rogers of State AAA Office Tells of Method Used Fix Tobacco Quotas

Farmers of Pitt county overflowed the court house here this afternoon at a meeting called to discuss the drop in tobacco prices shortly after the 1938-39 marketing season got under way.

This afternoon's mass meeting was one of series being held in various tobacco-producing areas, called by the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation for the purpose of discussing with the farmers, elements pertaining to marketing quotas and price declines.

Haywood Dail, president of the Pitt County Conservation program, in opening the session, asked the farmers, "Do you want a fair price for the crop of tobacco now in your packhouse?"

It was explained that tobacco company representatives had said that the reason for hesitancy in buying tobacco was due to opinions of dissatisfaction expressed by farmers on warehouse floors about crop control.

"I have been told by tobacco factory associates," declared Dail, "that unless crop control prevails in 1939, we can give only eight or 10 cents for next year's crop of tobacco."

To explain the reason for the 1939 outlook, Dail said the tobacco companies had indicated that if crop control does not prevail during the ensuing year, they would have to "complete 25 cent tobacco of 1938, with 8 or 10 cent tobacco of 1939."

J. E. Winslow, president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, present at the session, said the mass meeting had been called to acquaint tobacco growers with information about the crop control program, and to urge the necessity of going to the review committee of the county to work out any irregularities, misunderstandings or injustices that arise in tobacco marketing quotas.

Winslow said that unless crop control prevails in 1939, the farmers are assured that crop control will prevail, that tobacco being placed on warehouse floors now cannot bring a fair price as would be realized if they were certain about the 1939 outlook.

In view of the fact that farmers will vote during the middle of December to determine whether or not crop control shall prevail, it is essential at this time, according to Winslow, to ascertain the sentiments of the farmers. Winslow said that our tobacco markets will have concluded their auction season when (Continued on Page Six)

While the President said in discussing the subject at his press conference yesterday that he was talking about principles and not specific candidates, his statement that "the good of the country rises above party" created these questions:

Would he seek to give practical effect to the assertion by approving the candidacies of other than Democratic members.

In a race between a Republican considered "liberal" and a Democrat he viewed as "conservative," would he espouse the candidacy of the Republican?

Mr. Roosevelt's definition of "liberal" as given in a radio address last June follows:

"Roughly speaking, the liberal school of thought recognizes that the new conditions throughout the world call for new remedies.

"Those of us in America who hold to the school of thought insist that these new remedies can be (Continued on Page Six)

Plans Being Made For School Opening

V. M. Mulholland, principal of Greenville high school, said today that any students who desire to make a change in their schedules for the 1938-39 session, or any students who have not made out a schedule, should come to the high school any day next week from 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. to handle such matters.

Principal Mulholland will be in his office at the high school to assist students in making changes in schedules, or preparing new schedules. The Greenville city schools will open Monday, Sept. 12. All seventh graders are requested to be at the high school Thursday morning of next week, September 8 at 9:30 o'clock to receive schedules and familiarize themselves with the assistance of Supt. Rose and Principal Mulholland, will supervise the session.

Bright Belt Markets Report Weekly Average of $21.18

Raleigh, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Tobacco prices dropped this week on the New Bright and Border belt markets, the state and federal departments of agriculture reported today.

Nine of the 14 bright belt markets reported 21,843,624 pounds sold during the week at an average of $21.16 a hundred pounds. Season sales for the same market were 33,550,168 at $21.39.

In general new bright tobacco prices were firm at the beginning of the week, but dropped at the end. Rejections were heavy on some of the markets. Primings, particularly fair to fine grades, predominated, but leaf and lugs were offered in increasing quantities.

No average was listed for the North Carolina and South Carolina border markets, but price declines "were general in all groups," the departments reports said. Offerings were principally leaf with few to good qualities predominating.

POLITICIANS WROTE LOTS OF LETTERS Austin, Tex.—(AP)—The post-office department should be grateful for this year's crop of candidates for Texas public offices. Postal receipts at the capital were 25 per cent greater this July than last and officials said the chief reason was that several candidates had headquarters in Austin and carried on heavy mail campaigns.

Three Occupants Of House Injured When Army Plane Crashes Near Reidsville

Lands on Small Building After Striking Trees

TRIO OCCUPANTS OF PLANE ESCAPE

Crew Members Bail Out of Ship, One of Eleven Forced Down In Piedmont Area

Reidsville, Sept. 3.—(AP)—An army pursuit plane from Langley Field, Va., crashed into a three-room house near here today and injured three of the eight occupants in a fog and rain that forced down 11 other pursuit planes in this vicinity.

The plane, flying from Langley Field to Montgomery, Ala., left their base about 2 a. m. today.

The three occupants of the wrecked plane bailed out before the crash and were reported not hurt. The names on the wrecked plane were Commander L. P. Beverly, Aerial Gunner C. S. Dower, and C. L. Guyer. They left the scene for an unannounced destination before reporters arrived.

Six-year-old Fred Lee Gann was the most seriously injured when the plane plunged through the roof of Share-cropper Harry B. Gann's house about 6 a. m. His brother, nine year old Donald, and the father, Harry, suffered minor cuts. Several of the household members were in bed at the time.

The pilotless plane whirled to earth through a clump of popular trees in the front yard of Gann's home and part of the wreckage was left in the trees, thus breaking the fall on the house. The wings, rudder and piston heads crashed thru the roof and front part of the house.

Major R. L. Maugham, flight commander, who did not have the details of the Reidsville crash, reported at Greensboro that six of the planes had been forced down at Greensboro, two at High Point and three others in that vicinity.

Purchase Of Vehicle Authorized By Board

The Greenville Board of Aldermen, in a brief session this morning, authorized the purchase of a truck to be used by the city, from White Chevrolet Company. The purchase was authorized after competitive bids were submitted to the board.

J. O. Duval, city clerk, said the motor vehicle will be a combination body truck and can be used either for hauling trash or dirt. Routine matters were also taken up at the session.

PLANES SPEED TO CLEVELAND

Cleveland, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Frank Fuller, 1937 champion, and Miss Jacqueline Cochran, only woman entrant, set a speedy pace today in the Bendix classic heading toward Cleveland at 200 to 250 miles an hour.

Several other planes of the nine remaining in the race after one was forced out were flying at such great heights that they were unreported on the 2042-mile leg from Burbank, California, to Cleveland.

Three of the fliers, including Miss Cochran, had hoped to make the flight non-stop.

Motor and radio trouble forced George Armistead of Los Angeles, to quit the race at Winslow, Ariz. Miss Cochran flew over St. Louis at 12:38 p. m., six hours and 25 minutes after her take-off from Burbank.

Fuller landed his ship, almost identical to Miss Cochran's, at Wichita, Kan., at 12:21 p. m. (Times are Eastern Standard).

He took off 19 minutes later after refueling. He was five hours and 30 minutes out of Burbank when he left Wichita.

The fliers were seeking $30,000 in prizes, $20,000 for the hop to Cleveland and $10,000 for continuing the 404 miles to Bendix, N. J.

The Bendix race heralded the opening of the national air races. More than 50 planes, including the 27th squadron of the first pursuit group, army air corps, Selbridge field, Michigan, and marine fighting squadron, one of the finest marine forces of Quantico, Va., took off at Cleveland airport to fly past the stand.

PRISON CHIEFS UNDER FIRE

William B. Mills (right), superintendent of the Philadelphia County prison, and Deputy Warden Frank Craven (left) are shown at a coroner's hearing in Philadelphia at which Deputy Coroner Vincent Moran demanded that the seven and six guards be held for grand jury action for the death of four convicts who were "baked" to death in a punishment cell. A guard sergeant testified he heated radiators in the cells under standing instructions from the deputy warden.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The main demonstration was conducted in Paris, where Leftist labor leaders reiterated their support for any workers refusing to work the "illegal" additional hour ordered by the government decree.

A hopeful note was seen, however, in the fact that most of the speakers urged the workers to remain calm in view of the Czech-German crisis and declared labor had never raised obstacles to the increase of production for national defense.

Recall Bad Storm Here Twenty-Five Years Ago

One Person Killed, Heavy Loss of Property Suffered

Dark clouds and rain this morning helped to remind Greenville citizens of the worst storm ever to strike in Greenville—exactly 25 years ago today. Many other towns between here and the coast, experienced the same, some of them with much more damage. A strange thing, however, was that there was but one recorded death—but many injuries. Property damage, however, ran into the millions, caused by water and wind.

The one fatality was the result of an electrocution of a man who stepped on the metal door sill which had been charged by a short circuit during the storm, when entering a store.

The storm was in the nature of a hurricane, whipped in from the sea and following sounds and rivers across the eastern half of the state. The gale struck Greenville full force in the early morning—lasting perhaps three or four hours. At daybreak, old residents recall that trees and telephone an electric line poles, were strewn across the principal streets of the town. Many buildings were unroofed, some few blown down. One of those unroofed was a large tobacco warehouse. Smokestacks and chimneys went down as reeds before the high wind.

Washington and New Bern experienced the greatest damage. At the former city, the gale drove in from the east, whipping Pamlico river and the creek west of the city so high that nearly half the town was under water. Much livestock was lost. The railroad and highway bridges at both New Bern and Washington were swept away. Traffic was paralyzed for several days.

A local resident recalled this morning witnessing a part of the early morning storm. Taking refuge between blasts of the high wind in (Continued on page four)

WINSLOW SAYS FARMERS FOR ACT; PLAN TEST ELSEWHERE

Raleigh, Sept. 3.—(AP)—North Carolina Bright Belt tobacco farmers, faced with dropping and irregular prices, appeared divided today in their support of the federal crop control program.

Averages on the 14 markets which opened August 25 have nose-dived from $24 to about $21 a hundred pounds, unofficial figures indicated. Rejections of price offerings have been reported on both the New Bright and Border Belts.

Before the opening of the New Bright markets, officials of the State Agriculture department predicted an average of $22. In general, however, low prices paid for high quality weed have pulled the average down. Medium and low grade tobacco was reported bringing "satisfactory" prices.

Eastern North Carolina farmers will assemble in eight mass meetings this afternoon to discuss present prices and the "current downward trend." AAA officials will attend each session.

J. E. Winslow of Greenville, president of the Farm Bureau, said North Carolina farmers were 90 per cent for crop control and asserted that the whole-hearted endorsement of the federal program would be given at the mass meetings.

Contradictory claims, however, were made at a meeting of anti-control farmers here last night. Growers representing 14 counties made plans to test the validity of the control act and to raise $15,000 to finance their legal battle.

Employer-Worker Rift Widening Are Labor Chiefs Misguiding Workers?

By ROGER W. BABSON Babson Park Mass., Sept. 3.—A parade by the Knights of Labor in New York City fifty years ago started Labor Day. Now, in every state it is a legal holiday, highlighted by speeches from politicians and labor leaders. Monday's speakers, however, will say little about the Number One problem of the day—namely, the widening gulf between employers and workers. Scant attention will be paid to the great need for a new spirit of cooperation in business.

Recently in this column, I discussed the railroads. I told of their financial troubles and how they were trying to avoid additional receiverships through big economies in operating costs. I forecast that railroad workers would be forced to accept a compromise reduction in pay as their contribution to keeping the carriers in operation. I emphasized that because pay rates had been unjustly boosted last fall, thousands more of employees are now jobless than would be if wage scales had been more in line with railroad revenues.

A Labor Leader's Reply Several days later I received the following letter from the president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen—one of the four big unions which control railroad labor. I am quoting it because it gives an interesting insight into the attitude of those who strongly influence workers' actions:

WORKERS SEEK FORCE FRANCE 'RESPECT' LAW

Thousands of Laborers Join in Sit-Down Strike

RAISE RED FLAG OVER BUILDINGS

Workers, Taking Advantage of Factories, Call for Resignation of Daladier

Paris, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Thousands of workers occupied textile mills in the Amiens region of northern France today in the first of a series of strikes threatened by French labor to force the cabinet to "respect labor laws."

Chanting "Daladier (Premier Daladier) resign," 14,000 workers took possession of the buildings and raised red flags over 24 factories in Amiens and Abbeville after hasty arbitration efforts of the government—worrying by the international situation—failed.

Labor leaders estimated 150,000 workers throughout France joined in mass meetings last night protesting against Daladier's extension of the work week beyond the legal 40-hour week limit in industries outside those working for the national defense.

The main demonstration was conducted in Paris, where Leftist labor leaders reiterated their support for any workers refusing to work the "illegal" additional hour ordered by the government decree.

A hopeful note was seen, however, in the fact that most of the speakers urged the workers to remain calm in view of the Czech-German crisis and declared labor had never raised obstacles to the increase of production for national defense.

Project Plans To Be Heard By Rotarians

Mayor M. K. Blount and Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Water and Light plant, will familiarize Rotarians with the proposed Public Works Administration improvement program anticipated for the city, at a regular meeting of the Rotary Club Monday night.

A bond election will be held Sept. 12 to determine if the city will be allowed to sell bonds to provide 55 per cent of the total cost of the projects, which include a city hall, fire station, and other improvements. The remaining forty-five per cent would be made available through a PWA appropriation.

Crutchfield-Herring.
The Immanuel Baptist Church was the scene of a lovely wedding at high noon today, when Miss Lois Herring of this city, became the bride of Robert Crutchfield of Albemarle and Chapel Hill.

Prior to the ceremony a program of wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Paul Davenport, organist, who played Schubert's "Serenade," "Love Song" and "Liebestraum" by Liszt. Miss Ida Fuller of Louisville, gown in wood-pane velvet with matching turban and a corsage of pink roses, sang "Because" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told."

The wedding party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march from the opera "Lohengrin." The ushers were Richard Evans of Greenville, Francis Nickson, Jr. of Hertford, D. L. Stallings and M. T. Cameron of Chapel Hill. Miss Annie Laurie Herring, sister of the bride, was Maid of Honor. Miss Herring wore a dress of Kumba Rust velvet with a turban of the same material trimmed with a nose veil of matching tone. Rust accessories completed her costume. She carried an arm's length of tulle roses.

The bride entered the church with her father, C. L. Herring, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, his brother, Edward Crutchfield, of Boston, Mass. The bride was attired in a Pabou model of Royal Blue velvet with a heart-shaped neckline, short puffed sleeves, tight bodice, and long full skirt. She wore a matching turban of the same material with a nose veil of the same tone. Her wedding bouquet was composed of pink roses and valley lilies. The vows were spoken before an altar of fern, palms, and baskets of white lilies. Seven-branched candelabra holding lighted tapers shed a soft light for the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Clarence Patrick, pastor of the church. Mrs. Davenport played the "Recessional" by Mendelssohn.

Mrs. C. L. Herring, mother of the bride, wore a Teal blue dress and hat, and a corsage of tulle roses. The mother of the groom, Mrs. T. S. Crutchfield, was attired in a black crepe and lace dress and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Immediately after the wedding, a luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents to the members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Crutchfield is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Herring of Greenville. She is a graduate of East Carolina Teachers College and for the past few years has been teaching in the Weaverville, N. C., schools.

The groom is the son of Rev. and Mrs. T. S. Crutchfield of Albemarle, N. C. He is a graduate of Wake Forest College and later attended the University of North Carolina. He is at present a member of the faculty of the University of North Carolina in the accounting department.

Directly after the luncheon the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Western North Carolina. For traveling, Mrs. Crutchfield wore a two-piece suit of Osomo gray wool, trimmed in terra cotta, with accessories to match. Upon their return they will be at home in Chapel Hill.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. T. S. Crutchfield, Albemarle; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Russell, Charlotte; Mrs. T. W. Standen, Suffolk, Va.; Mrs. F. B. Entertainers For Mrs. Davis.
As a compliment to her sister-in-law, Mrs. F. W. Davis, Jr., of Durham, Mrs. Raymond L. Smith was hostess Friday evening at an attractive bridge party at the home of Mrs. S. A. Smith on Cotanche street.

Guests arrived shortly after eight o'clock and found six tables arranged for playing. The residence was attractively decorated throughout with summer flowers.

While bridge was being played, a refreshing ice course was served.

After several progressions of cards tallies were added. Prizes were presented to Mrs. Hugh Hughes, who held high score; Mrs. John Bullock, low score; Mrs. Hugh Cox, consolation; and Mrs. C. L. Dupree, floating prize. To Mrs. Davis, the honoree, the hostess presented a novel gift.

As a fitting climax Mrs. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Roland Davenport and Mrs. S. A. Smith, served a delicious salad course with tea.

Guests invited for the occasion included: Mrs. Davis, honor guest, Misses Elizabeth Moore, Elizabeth Kennedy; Mesdames Addie J. Hudson, L. M. Ernest, C. B. Rice, Ed. Hester, W. S. Stafford, Mitchell White, John Bullock, Edward Ricks, Joe Dees, C. L. Dupree, Virginia Stokes, Leslie Briley, Ben Wilson, R. J. Armstrong, Hugh Cox, Reta Vincent, Milo Smith, Wm. Hugh Hughes, Helen Summerell, Roland Davenport and Thelma Joyner.

Chapter 24
Meeting With A Banker
As I entered the corridor of the Chateau la Vague, a loose tile in the flooring cracked sharply under my tread, and on the instant a door opposite flashed open, and I saw the housekeeper standing staring out at me.

"She" was wrapped in a faded kimono. A pair of shell-rimmed spectacles perched incongruously on her nose, and she held a book in her hand. No one, to look at her, would have doubted that she had been spending a quiet evening in her room.

"You, Mr. Lumsden?" she said. "Have you been out?"

It was useless to deny it, for the dust of the roads was thick on the shoes in my hand. "Yes," I said meekly. "I've been calling on my friend, Mr. Stern."

"But how did you get in?" she parried sharply. "A key—someone gave you a key?" She pursed her lips tightly, ominously. "Pierre, of course," she said, half to herself, and then suddenly her expression lightened and she smiled. "You must not think of a mind!" she said, with a sprightly earnestness that I found much more alarming than her disapproval. "Only, another time, if you will tell me during the day, I will give you a key myself."

I thanked her, promising obedience, and retired to my room. As I undressed I was still uneasy, and the cause of my unease was, funny enough, the memory of her smile. There had been something so catlike, so indescribably sinister in the wrinkling of her small green eyes that I still seemed to see them gleaming at me.

As I threw my trousers across a chair, something jingled in a pocket, and I realized with a shock that the key still lay there. Either she had forgotten to ask me for it or had decided that I could do no more harm till morning; but I had to have that key, or a duplicate of it, and I could see that it wasn't going to be easy to hang on to it.

A thought struck me. I opened my door cautiously, and peered out into the corridor. All was dark; the door opposite was safely shut and the house was still and sleeping. With infinite caution I dropped to my knees, fumbled for the loose tile, and gently raised it with my nails. There was a little cavity beneath and into this I thrust the key, lowering the tile back into place without so much as a clink. Then, feeling uncomfortably pleased with myself, I retired to rest.

I had locked my door and jammed a chair beneath the handle, and it seemed to me that I had barely laid my head on the pillow before a rattling at the key-hole brought me out of bed with a bound to find that it was morning, and that a buxom chambermaid was waiting impatiently to serve my coffee and rolls.

I gulped down my coffee, pulled on a pair of bathing-trunks, and made my way downstairs, a towel round my shoulders. As I crossed the lounge a sudden sound pulled me to my tracks.

It was the sound of a lift in action. The noise ceased abruptly, and an oblong tapestry at the end of a smaller corridor was pushed aside. An invalid's wheelchair was gently pushed out by the blue-overalled servant who had carried up my bag the night before.

Mr. Venner.
IT WAS an old, old man who sat crouched in the chair, a man with a bald, bony head and a fleshless face on which the parchment-like skin was stretched as tightly as an artist's canvas. The rheumy eyes looked sightless in their gaunt sockets, but as the servant wheeled him down the passage towards me, he glanced up sharply, with a quick, scrutinizing stare. Then he turned abruptly to the man behind him.

"Where is Pierre?" he demanded in a thin, brittle voice. "He knows that this is the hour for my promenade. How does he expect that you, alone, can take my chair to the beach?"

I stepped forward. "Can I be of any help?" I asked politely.

He looked at me considerably suspiciously. "You're English?" he demanded abruptly, and when I agreed, "Ah!" he said and nodded to himself. "You are Mr. Lumsden. I heard you had arrived last night. Thank you!" he said suddenly. "If you give Amedee a little assistance, I'll be much obliged to you!"

We were almost at the door when a sudden sound made me turn my head, and I saw standing beside us, tall, bony, grimly militant, the housekeeper. She gave me one glance and primly inclined her head in greeting; then: "Good morning, Mr. Venner," she said abruptly. "You're early today."

"Good morning, Henrietta," he retorted sharply. "I am not at all early—I am exactly punctual, and where, may I ask, is Pierre?"

For a moment she hesitated, then she spoke with a seeming reluctance.

Most Unpleasant Surprise
AS WE turned into the sloping path that led to the gate, the old gentleman spoke suddenly. "You know, sir," he said, "it is a great pleasure for me to talk to an English person again. I get very tired of these continentals and their chatter, very tired indeed."

He checked a sigh. "Unfortunately my health does not permit me to return home, but I am always eager for news. Tell me—a note of uncontrollable witfulness crept into the 'in voice'—'how is London looking these days? Is it much changed?'"

Filled with a queer, overmastering pity, I racked my brains and told him what I could of the strange new London that he would never see, feeling an unaccountable lump in my throat as I did so.

One, on the promenade, I tucked him up in his thick llama rug while Amedee settled himself with a cigarette on a near-by chair, then threw off my towel and took a running header into the water. The beach had been deserted; we came to it, and for a while I disported myself in an empty ocean, revelling in the tingle of the buoyant water, but after ten minutes or so there came a sudden and most unwelcome interruption. A big, shabby touring car came rattling along the macadam and drew up, and half a dozen men in bathing-suits emerged.

I swam on another stroke or two when I turned on my back and floated lazily; and as I did so, the foremost men took to the water, wading through the shallows in a purposeful way and shouting to each other as they came. It was then that I received a most unpleasant surprise; for their leader was the fellow who had acted as doorkeeper at the Caves des Muettes the night before.

It was a shock, and a nasty one at that, and as I floated on my back to all appearances sunk in drowsy contentment, I did a minute's furious thinking. The thing was too pat, too neatly timed, to be accidental.

It had taken us a good fifteen minutes to reach the beach, and the other five had passed in talk before I took to the water, and perhaps ten more while I swam. Thirty minutes in all, I thought, since we had parted from the housekeeper time enough for her to telephone instructions, time enough for six men to collect a car and drive along the kilometer of beach road to the bathing-place; and as the thought came to me I remembered my early suicide, and thanked my stars that I was a powerful swimmer, for all six men were in the water now.

I turned over, swam a couple of strokes, and beat water, as the nearest man approached me; but he gave no sign of being aware of my presence, driving on past me with a powerful out-arm stroke. The others seemed disposed to keep in nearer shore. Two of them had got an immense rubber ball and were playing a kind of ephraim water-polo. The other three—and then, as I looked, I metaphorically rubbed my eyes for where there had been three there were now only two.

Instinctively I looked down. The water, clear as crystal, showed every pebble and shell on the ocean bed, but there was no sign of the missing man; an even as I looked a sudden outcry made me raise my head, and I saw the man farther out to sea fling up his arms with a sudden, despairing cry and disappear.

I had one glimpse of his distorted, agonized face, and then I struck out towards him, for I had seen men stricken down with cramp before. He came up again, thrashing the water and shouting hoarsely, and next instant I was beside him and had caught him by the hair. It was then that I knew just how many kinds of a fool I had been, for a pair of powerful hands gripped my throat, and at the same instant other hands caught me by the ankles, dragging me down.

CANADA COULD DEFEND FRONT

Ready Summon 56,000 Men to Arms on Short Notice

Canada says she would allow no invasion of the United States across her soil, just as President Roosevelt says America would stand for no threat to Canada. But how could Canada prevent invasion? Here a Canadian press writer reviews the armed strength and defense preparations of the Dominion.

By CAPT. W. W. MURRAY, M. C. Canadian Press Staff Writer Ottawa—To resist "domination of her soil by any other empire," Canada could at this moment summon to arms 56,000 men.

Canada was late in the armament race but is marking great strides to catch up. The defense estimate for this year is $34,034,364. Practically all the Canadian aircraft plants are working on national defense orders.

The country's naval power does not amount to much. Its present strength is six destroyers and four minesweepers, with 116 officers and 1,352 ratings.

The Canadian army numbers 444 officers and 3,692 other ranks of the permanent force, and 6,212 officers and 46,104 other ranks of the militia.

Military activities were not popular in Canada after the war and financial support was hard to come by. Officers of the militia were forced to forego pay and to spend private funds to support their privates.

The Royal Canadian air force is composed of 218 officers and 1,762 other ranks, plus 84 officers and 752 other ranks in the militia.

No Prosperity Without Teamwork Yet, the government is helping labor leaders antagonize employers. Through relief, the government is supporting labor leaders in their organizing and striking efforts.

DIXIE HIGHLIGHTS

The CHARLESTON MUSEUM was the first to be conceived and started in the American Colonies, being founded in 1773. Its first four curators, distinguished men of the day, were Charles Colesworth Pinckney, Thomas Heyward, Jr., Dr. Alex. Baron and Dr. Peter Fayssoux.

Much Interest Shown In Commission On Schools

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Sep. 1—Members of the Governor's school commission studying school needs for the state, find so much interest in their survey and the program based upon it that another eastern meeting after the Asheville session a week hence probably will be necessary.

Divesting the public of many understandings may be the first step. The findings of the commission are concerned principally with an additional year and an extended term.

Financing such a term of course, comes first in importance and the research work done is having considerable influence upon the belief that the twelve years will cost little more than the eleven.

There is a wide misunderstanding about the way that grade will be added. The general impression has been that the state's standard educational structure is 11 stories high and that the purpose of the commission is the recommendation that a 12th story be piled on the eleventh.

There will of course be better preparation for college, but the 12th year is not to be superimposed. It is to be built into the student's life. In some of the audiences listening to the commission's conferences there have been persons who were suspicious that the schools mean to do a lot of college work and that these institutions are putting off some of their courses on the primary schools. No member of the commission appears to have the slightest impulse in that direction.

Likewise, the 12th year would not affect college standards. The commission is seeking the re-formation of school courses so that the life of the student will begin earlier to articulate with the world on the outside of the schools.

Of time they have had little. Governor Hoey appointed the commission only a few weeks ago and it held its first sitting just a week or so ago. Its second was in Greensboro Wednesday of this week and its third will be in Asheville Friday night of next week.

Judging from the number of speeders who have appeared in the city court during the past few days, there is either an epidemic of carelessness and recklessness on the part of local motorists or else the officers have just begun to "bear down" on the speeders. With increased traffic on our narrow streets speeding is certainly dangerous to both motorists and pedestrians, and especially to children. We commend the officers for their efforts so far to break up "speeding" on our streets and we hope the campaign against this form of recklessness will continue.

It was not so very long ago that Senator Bailey was being severely criticized and there was talk of reading him out of the Democratic party because his "conservative" stand regarding certain issues received praise from some Republicans. Now President Roosevelt comes out with a declaration that he will not object to the election of "liberal" Republicans over Democrats in certain instances, which is apparently an invitation to voters to support Republicans in preference to those legally nominated Democrats who will not play "yes men" to the President. All our lives we have heard "party loyalty" preached and proclaimed by all, from the head of the party down to the smallest precinct chairman, but now that it suits the plans of the party's titular head, the President, to endeavor to get rid of every one who does not see eye to eye with him, we presume it is perfectly all right for him to change all this too.

GREENIES TAKE TWELFTH GAME

Locals Make It Four Straights Over Kingston Eagles

Kingston, Sept. 3—Greenville's Greenies, officially not going anywhere, handed Kingston a 6 to 5 defeat Friday and thus wrapped up their Coast Plain League program with a winning streak of a dozen games. Despite this great play in the stretch, the Greenies missed landing a place in the post-season semifinals. In Friday's game, Greenville made a couple of runs in each of three innings. Rube Wilson's boys sewed up the game in the eighth on singles by Christopher, Daniels, Calliguri and Douglas.

GRID HOPEFULS TO BEGIN WORK

High School Aspirants to Report at 2 O'clock Monday

Bo Farley and Herman Fulker, athletic directors of Greenville high school, have issued a call to practice for all high school gridiron aspirants seeking berths on the high team during approaching football season. Director Farley said today that the football hopefuls had been requested to report at Third Street stadium at 2 o'clock Monday. Although the boys will not undergo regular training tactics, the coaches are anxious to get a conception of the material they have to "whip into shape." Several members of last year's second and third strings will likely receive elevations during the coming season, in that several mainstays of the 1937 squad were lost through graduation. A decided improvement in playing ability was exhibited by "green" Greenies before last season ended. Due to renewed interest in the gridiron sport, a heavy roster of aspirants is expected to show up during the first few days of practice. A competitive spirit is already prevailing for some of the positions. This element is expected to display their playing characteristics shortly after practice begins.

Aces Lick Bears; Doc Smith Gets Presents

New Bern, Sept. 3—Jiggs Gasaway set the pace in Ayden's 18-hit barrage as the Aces defeated New Bern, 9-7, Friday. Rain ended play at the end of the eighth. Jiggs hit a homer, a single and two doubles in five tries. He also turned in a good game afield. Also featuring in the Aces' triumph was the three-hit relief pitcher of Herring, who went in for Biershenk, regular Ayden shortstop. Biershenk was relieved in the third after yielding seven runs on four hits and two errors. Fans turned out today to honor Doc Smith, local manager, with many presents. Before the gift-making and speechifying was all over Manager Frank Rodgers of the Aces, was given a few kind words and a present. It Was A Fight, If We Did Lose

Greenies Won 24 Of Last 28 Games Of This Season

It was a great fight, mates, and our boys did all within their power to get in the series, but despite the fact that the Greenies won 24 games and lost only four in the last month of the season, they were eliminated from the play-off. Had the top four teams been forced to play off rained-out games and ties—as was the understanding at the history-making meeting in Tarboro about the first of August, Greenville undoubtedly would have been in and not out, and not one Greenville fan ever will be made to believe otherwise.

Tarboro's Walter Sieminski and Goldboro's Pet Kunis started, but both were driven to cover in the sixth. Mike Briscose accounted for four of the Serpents' runs. He hit a three-run homer in the sixth frame, and his outfield fly in the seventh tallied another run. COURT SESSION COMPLETED (Continued from Page One)

Agent and Health Department. So far as we could ascertain, the offices and records are in first class condition, and the officers and assistants courteous and efficient. We did, however, find the County Agent's offices over-crowded, and should the present farm program continue, we would recommend that additional quarters be provided for such offices. We especially commend the books and records in the Auditor's offices as a fine example of capable and efficient work.

We would recommend that old or obsolete records now in the vault in the office of the Register of Deeds, be removed to the basement under such vault and that proper facilities for their safekeeping, such as steel shelves, bins and tables be provided.

We find the jail in excellent condition, with proper and complete records of commitment and discharge of prisoners, together with fees collected. The condition of the jail shows that the jailor is doing his work in a very able and efficient manner.

The County Home was visited and found in good condition, and well supervised. The inmates are well cared for both as to food and treatment. The corn, hay and potato crops are excellent and will be entirely sufficient to supply the Home for another year. There are some eighty or more hogs being grown for meat and lard, which will produce more than enough for the use of the Home, and we would recommend that the surplus of meats, lard and vegetable including potatoes, be sold to the County jail for use of the prisoners. All the milk, butter, poultry, and vegetables of all kinds (both green and canned) necessary for the use of the Home, is produced on the Farm.

We find the Prison Camp in excellent condition, properly and efficiently managed. The prisoners are well cared for in every respect, and provided with plenty of food and clothing.

The lack of time precluded an investigation of the schools and school buses, and other matters which have been called to our attention at this term of Court. A full and complete report on these matters will be made at the October Term of Court.

We wish to request that all attorneys appearing in this Court, do not advise witnesses, who are subpoenaed to appear before the Grand Jury, when they may come and go but first ascertain from the Foreman of the Grand Jury the wishes and desires of the Grand Jury relative to such matters. Such cooperation on the part of the attorneys would save in both time and expense.

We wish to request further, that attorneys and others who may procure or remove warrants and or bills of indictments from the files in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court, or wherever else, the Clerk may have placed them, to return to the proper files as promptly as possible, all such warrants and bills of indictment, in order that the Grand Jury properly and promptly dispatch its business, and thus save the County much needless expense.

In submitting this report, we wish to express our appreciation to His Honor J. Paul Prizzelle, Judge presiding, and the Hon. D. M. Clark, Solicitor, and all Court officers for the assistance rendered, and the courtesies extended to us during this term of Court.

the crop control vote is cast, and unless the companies know, or have an idea, what is to be done, that the low-price conditions will apparently continue to prevail.

W. H. (Will) Rogers, affiliated with the office of E. V. Floyd, state administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, Raleigh, attended the session and retraced some of the past tobacco history of the state.

Rogers, whose talk was confined chiefly to marketing quotas, familiarized the farmers as to how the tobacco marketing quotas were prepared by officials in Washington. He also answered questions that would help the tobacco growers understand and interpret more clearly marketing quota factors.

IT'S NO WONDER THE RADIO RATTLED

Atlanta, Tex.—(AP)—A. O. Petty, an oilman, entered the office of the Atlanta Electric Company carrying a radio.

"The darned thing won't work," he said. "It rattles!" Repairmen discovered a 30-inch diamondback rattlesnake among the tubes and spent the next two hours gingerly getting rid of it.

Where the snake came from not even Petty could guess.

Medical service rates to farmers in the United States increased 21 per cent between 1910 and 1929.

LOTS OF RAIN BRINGS LOTS OF GREEN GRASS

Danville, Ill.—(AP)—Hardware merchants here report an unusually large sale of lawn mowers this year and claim that heavy rains throughout the summer have taxed old machines beyond their capacity.

One man who has a large lawn was quoted as saying that the day after finishing cutting he could start again where he started.

The public safety department estimates there are 189,000 miles of highways, county roads and city streets in Texas.
