HITLER REJECTS PLEBISCITE IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

FDR STRENGTH BEING TESTED IN MARYLAND

Record Balloting Is Forecast in Senatorial Contest

PRESIDENT SEEKS TO OUST TYDINGS

Maryland's Peculiar System Of Voting Might Becloud Outcome Several Days

Baltimore, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Voters of traditionally Democratic Maryland went to the primary election polls today to pass judgment on the efforts of the nation's number one Democrat, President Roosevelt, to "purge" Millard Tydings from the United States Senate.

Record balloting was forecast as a result of the intense interest aroused by the administration's fight to unseat the conservative Tydings, who has opposed some of Mr. Roosevelt's program, and to replace him with the liberal representative, David Lewis, "100 per cent New Dealer" twice praised publicly by the President.

By taking a hand in the Tydings Lewis fight for the Democratic senatorial nomination, Lewis placed his personal popularity and prestige directly at stake in a campaign unprecedented for bitterness in Maryland.

The third campaign in the Democratic senatorial race, Arthur Hunsford, New Dealer, known by the New Deal, made no claims, but issued a caustic statement suggesting that regardless of whether Lewis or Tydings won, "there should be grand jury and a Federal investigation of the methods used."

Dog Provided Burial By Sorrowing Owner

A man's best friend is his dog! Not only does this adage apply to men, but also to women. This was proved yesterday when a dog belonging to Mrs. Virginia Earle of Greenville died.

Mrs. Earle had owned the dog for a number of years. The dog, almost fourteen years old, was sent to her from Florida. The former owner of the dog, a friend of Mrs. Earle's was killed in a Florida hurricane, and the dog was sent to the Greenville woman after the tragedy.

No person is a better lover of animals than Mrs. Earle. She was particularly devoted to this dog because it became a close friend and was a remembrance of her friend, Mrs. Earle, heart-broken as a result of the animal's death, buried the pet in a specially made casket beneath her window.

Vote Brings Holiday For City Employees

All city offices were closed today on account of the bond election, but despite the fact that it had been publicized that both the Water and Light and city clerk's offices would be closed, several persons called by telephone to transact business and the telephones continued to ring.

One official who happened to be in the office remarked "if we get the new city hall we will be able to hold an election without halting business."

Also appropriate of today's election, a court attaché remarked that if a voter visits the crowded court room during a session he would be more inclined to favor a new city hall.

At Your Service

The Reflector office will remain open until at least 8:30 o'clock tonight for the purpose of giving persons calling in person or by telephone results of today's bond election.

The polls are scheduled to close at sunset this evening, and any person visiting with or telephoning will be furnished with returns.

A comparatively heavy vote was expected. A majority of the votes cast will decide the election, no special registration having been required necessary.

CLERKS' MEET IS HELD HERE

Rocky Mount Man Heads Eastern District Group

W. W. Mangum of Rocky Mount was elected president of the Eastern District of the North Carolina Federation of Post Office Clerks at an organization meeting here Saturday afternoon. E. H. Tankard of Washington, N. C., was elected vice-president and J. F. Ennis of Rocky Mount, secretary.

Cities and towns in the newly-formed district are Greenville, Goldsboro, Littleton, New Bern, Morehead City, Windsor, Tarboro, Williamston, Plymouth, Edenton, Roanoke Rapids, Wilson, Mount Olive, Farmville, Beaufort, Washington, Kinston, Elizabeth City, Hertford, Weldon, Scotland Neck and Camden.

Congressman Lindsay C. Warren, one of the featured speakers at a dinner meeting in the City-Country armory Saturday night, told the clerks that they were one of the most respected groups in government service. "A postoffice is no better than its clerks," declared the Congressman.

"There is always danger of an organization," he said, "unless conducted on a high plane, high ideals, and patriotic motives, to get off on the wrong foot." He urged the clerks to be ever mindful and promised his cooperation in their endeavors.

Col. E. G. Flanagan, who introduced the Congressman, said that a true Congressman must possess honesty, ability and character. He said that Congressman Warren had each of these traits. Mr. Flanagan (Continued on page six)

Civil Court Term Begun Here Today

A one week's session of civil court got under way here this morning with Judge Frizzelle of Snow Hill presiding.

Another term of civil court is scheduled for the week of September 26.

After that session no more Superior court is set before the last week in October. The week of October 24 will be devoted to civil cases, to be followed by a week of criminal court starting on October 31.

Negro Being Sought On Hit-Run Charges

Albert Winderly, Greenville Negro, is being sought on a charge of hit and run driving as a result of a wreck here Saturday night. Corporal L. L. Jackson of the State Highway patrol, reported today.

The officer reported that Winderly was operating a car without lights and run into one driven by Julius Harrett, Negro, of Greenville route three, at the intersection of College and Fourteenth streets. No one was seriously injured in the accident.

Corporal Jackson declared that Winderly also was wanted by police on a larceny charge.

British Cabinet Believed Satisfied Everything Done To Meet European Crisis

Seeks to Head Off War, But Ready If Conflict Comes

NATION AWAITS HITLER ADDRESS

Ministers Convinced Further Diplomatic Steps Before Address Be Futile

London, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The British cabinet apparently satisfied itself in a two-hour emergency meeting today that it has done all it could for the moment, both to head off war and to be ready if Adolf Hitler tells his army to march to the east.

Official silence effectively blocked efforts to learn what the ministers said and did. But the fact that they decided not to meet later today was taken unofficially to mean they were convinced that further diplomatic steps before Hitler's address at Nurnberg would be futile.

Encouraged by a political and public support on all sides the cabinet was believed to have given first place to military steps if British warnings proved ineffective and there developed a likelihood of war over Czechoslovakia.

The ministers were said to feel that they had taken every step advisable in advance of Hitler's speech to convince Germany that Britain would fight at the moment France's integrity was menaced.

They were understood to have reviewed in their meeting the military, naval and aerial precautionary measures already taken. Observers thought these were considerably more extensive than meagre announcements would indicate.

The most obvious naval movements were that at Invergordon on the north coast of Scotland, where numerous volunteer reserve joined home fleet cruise ships for two weeks "normal" training.

SCHOOLS OPEN IN CITY TODAY

Enrollment Is Heavier than Last Year's Opening

The familiar expression "It's time to get up and get ready for school," echoed through a number of Greenville homes today as mothers confined their efforts to getting their children off to school, which opened this morning at 8:30 o'clock for the 1938-39 session.

Although no official enrollment figures were available at either of the city schools, Supt. J. H. Rose said attendance in the first grades exceeded the opening-day figures of last year, and that the Negro schools of the city were overflowing.

Combined enrollment for white and Negro schools of the city ranges at 3,000 or better. Of this number, approximately 1,650 are enrolled in the white schools. According to Supt. Rose, today's enrollment for the city school system has been elevated 50 or 75 above the opening figure of last year.

V. M. Muiholland, principal of Greenville high school, gave the approximate enrollment at 640 students. There are 42 twelfth graders in the high school this year. Part of these students are those who finished the eleventh grade in the county schools and are attending the local high school for the twelfth grade.

New teachers at the high school this year are Richard Walser, English; Miss Helen Dugan, history; Miss Mabel Lacy, home economics; and Herman Fulkerson, commercial subjects. He will also assist Bo Farney in directing the athletic program. Miss Mary Ann Cobb is the new faculty member at the Training school. Ethel C. Johnson has joined the faculty of the Training street (Negro) school.

Gobbler Holds Nest Full of Guinea Eggs

Mrs. John Whichard, of near Stokes, witnessed an unusual sight the other day when she saw a turkey gobbler sitting on a nest of guinea eggs in an open field. The gobbler would not be shocked from his nest and indicated anger when approached.

The superficial area of the earth is 196,850,000 square miles, nearly three-quarters of which is covered by water.

HELP YOURSELF—IT'S FREE!

Tables laden with 60,000 ears of corn, the meat of three oxen, 50,000 buns, gallons of olives and several bushels of tomatoes were overturned as several thousand hungry persons attending a state Republican rally at Pittsburgh, Pa., broke through police lines and invaded a dining hall. For the most part food was trampled underfoot, but some of the "raiders" were able to help themselves (above). Police estimated 55,000 persons were attracted by promises of free food. A party leader described the commotion as worse than "ladies' day at a ball park."

French Ministers Review Situation

Paris, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Ambassador William Bullitt conferred today with Foreign Minister Bonnaud as the French cabinet, worried over complications in the grave Central European crisis, assembled to review once again France's military and political preparedness.

Sources close to the government said the cabinet discussions would include a report on "exterior problems and diplomatic conversation" as well as from a preliminary to the anxiously awaited speech of Hitler on German Foreign policy tonight.

Bonnet returned from League of Nations meeting at Geneva and his conversations there were expected to furnish much of the review before the cabinet.

Besides Bullitt the French Minister also saw the Czechoslovakia minister to Paris and the Belgian Ambassador.

MIDDLE MARTS AUTO STRIKES OPEN TUESDAY NEGRO'S HOME

Experts Decline To Forecast Opening Day Prices

Durham, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The chisel of the tobacco auctioneer will move northward again Tuesday as another North Carolina tobacco belt, the Middle Belt, opens its 1938 season.

The markets in the belt are at Durham, Aberdeen, Carthage, Piquette Springs, Henderson, Louisville, Oxford, Sanford and Warren. Last year Middle and Old Belt farmers sold their crop of 192,000,000 pounds at an average price of $23.07 a hundred-weight.

Experts declined to forecast opening day price range on the Middle Belt since prices recently have slumped on the New Bright Belt in the Eastern part of the state.

W. P. Hedrick, tobacco marketing specialist of the State Agriculture Department, said, however, the outlook for the Middle Belt season was "optimistic."

The Old Belt, which includes markets in North Carolina and Virginia is next to open. A movement is now underway to advance the opening days from September 27 to September 20.

Harvard astronomers announce that they have found a temperature drop of 1,500 degrees between the surface of the sun and its overlying atmosphere.

PRAGUE PLANS MARTIAL LAW IF NECESSARY

Stands Ready To Invoke Military Rule In Sections

HODZA PROMISES MAINTAIN ORDER

Officials Emphasize Adequate Measures Taken, But No General Mobilization

Prague, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government today reached a decision to invoke martial law in sections of the Sudeten-German region tonight if serious disorders developed following Hitler's Nurnberg speech.

Martial law will be imposed "only in case of extreme necessities" according to the decision reached by Premier Hodza in and his chief Ministers.

But, in government offices it was said that order would be maintained at all cost.

A meeting of the government's inner council heard a report by Josef Cerny, minister of the Interior, concerning disorder in the Sudeten districts last night, where Nazi fervor reached new heights.

Meanwhile the little republic, fearing a bitter and threatening speech by Hitler, kept her troops in readiness along her border with Germany.

Officials emphasized that adequate measures had been taken to resist any display by force by Germany in the dispute between Prague and the autonomy-demanding Sudeten-Germans, but reiterated there had been no general mobilization.

They said no military measures such as strengthening of garrisons in the Sudeten regions were contemplated, nor was it considered necessary to have soldiers on patrol.

'14 WAR FEARS BEING REVIVED

Observers Watching European Military Movements

Washington, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A striking parallel to the tragic weeks preceding the World war arises in the minds of informed observers here who watch the military movements in Europe.

Germany partly mobilizes for maneuvers; then come French and Czechoslovakian partial mobilization orders. As France pours men into the Maginot line along the German border, Germany sends men into her Siegfried line just opposite.

On the sea, Great Britain concentrates her fleet off north Scotland in position to blockade Germany. France cancels leaves of naval men and place Marseilles under military law. Italy stands by ready for action.

Persons close to the State Department still believe conflict can be averted if civil government and diplomats make the decisions. But they fear the part the European military element might play in the negotiations.

Thus it was in 1914. The story of the military snowball is quickly told.

Austria mobilized against Serbia after the assassination June 28 of Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne, and his wife by a young Serb. After diplomatic exchanges and an ultimatum Austria invaded Serbia.

Other Washington developments: Eimer F. Andrews, administrator of the wage-hour law, said he would announce tomorrow the membership of an industry committee to determine minimum wage rates for the textile industry.

A similar committee on wage conditions in the tobacco industry, he declared, would be announced later in the week.

The Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee decided there was no basis for criticizing the RFC for its dismissal of an attorney (E. B. Dunlap of Atlanta, formerly of RFC counsel), politically active in behalf of Senator Georgia (D-Ga.).

Sees Array Between Democracy And Bolshevism

DECLARES BOTH AGAINST NAZISM

Says Millions Are Being "Man-Handled and Suppressed" In Czechoslovakia

Nurnberg, Germany, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today rejected the idea of a plebiscite on Czechoslovakia after declaring 3,500,000 Sudeten-Germans there were "being systematically ruined and doomed to slow extinction."

"A plebiscite in Czechoslovakia," the fuhrer said, would be only conducted under brutal oppression. He had declared previously in the declaration of German foreign policy the world had waited tensely to hear that in Czechoslovakia "millions of people are being manhandled and suppressed."

He also told his cheering followers that "we see democracy and Bolshevism arrayed in a solid front" against Nazi Germany.

The Fuhrer, opening the speech, spoke at length at what he called the "suffering" of Nazi adherents in Austria before the annexation.

The first portion of his pronouncement before the climactic meeting of the tenth annual Nazi party congress was devoted entirely to recalling the party's fight for supreme power in Germany.

Then he turned to his attack against the democracies and bolshevism, asserting that they were united against Nazism under "the slogan of liberty, equality, fraternity."

"It is a bloody mockery of history," the fuhrer continued, "that the democracies are allied with the most brutal dictatorship in the world."

"It was they which attempted to hinder Italy's action in Ethiopia. Hammering home the point that the Nazis have built Germany into a mighty nation again, Hitler turned to Czechoslovakia.

"Scorn is being heaped upon us today, but thank God we are in a position to prevent any rape of Germany" he declared.

"I am now speaking about Czechoslovakia. This state was founded according to democratic principles. "As these democratic principles are applied millions of people are being man-handled and suppressed. The great democracies want to convince the world that Czechoslovakia has a special political and military mission to fulfill."

"Three and a half million Germans in Czechoslovakia are being systematically ruined and doomed to slow extinction.

"The depriving of these human beings of all rights must come to an end," the fuhrer thundered.

But again the German chancellor held out an olive branch to France. "Strasbourg means much, but we have surrendered it in the interest of peace to settle for once and for all the eternal strife with France he said, referring to cessation of Alsace Lorraine after the World war.

"On other frontiers, too, we have made sacrifices. We have acted more than loyally."

Ramona Museum Hemet, Calif. (AP)—Although Ramona was a fictional character, a museum devoted to her "relics" will be established here. It will contain Indian and Colonial material of the period in which the celebrated romance was led.

THE CLOVE MOON

By MAX SALIMARSH

The Characters
 Archie Lumsden, myself, visitor to the French Riviera.
 René Geiss, master mind behind a murder plot.
 Verner, one of Geiss's confederates, who objected to killing me.

Yesterday: The hotel servant comes out of Verner's room with bloody hands.

Chapter 31

Circumstantial Evidence

THE door was locked. I sent Amédée for the key to the room next door, unlocked it, and entered Verner's room from the balcony. The bed lay directly before me, and a tumbled heap of blankets upon it showed me that for once Mr. Verner had overslept. But as I took a step forward, something brought me up with a jerk, and wave after wave of cold terror swept over me.

It was a human leg. With one stride I was beside the bed and had dragged aside the shrouding blankets. Blood was everywhere.

My nerve cracked. I made one bolt for the door, tore it open, wrestled with the lock of the ante-room, and flung through into the corridor, sending the tray crashing from Amédée's hands.

"What is it, monsieur?" he gasped.

"His death," I said soberly. "Listen man; your patron has been murdered. I'm sorry for you, but you must come and see."

I gripped him by one shaking arm, dragged him into that dreadful dratted place, and showed him what lay there. Next minute we were both back in the corridor, staring at each other's gray faces.

"The police," I said. "You must telephone at once for them and a doctor, but first the door must be locked."

"After he had locked the door and pocketed the key, I drew him into my room and gave him a pull from my flask.

Then I propelled him gently from the room, but as I turned to follow him, something caught my eye, and halted me sharply in my tracks. My room was small and bare, apart from the bed, a dresser, and a couple of chairs, the only furnishing was the somewhat lurid floral decoration of the walls, but now, as I took a step towards the door, my eye lighted on a peculiarly gaudy rose, half-hidden by the wooden head-board of the bed.

Straight across it showed a long scratch of white, and as I looked more closely I saw the narrow sliver of torn paper hanging from it. It was a fresh scratch, and it seemed to me that it had been made by shifting the bed from its accustomed position.

I gave the bed an experimental shove, and something heavy fell with a muffled thud on the polished boards. In a flash I was on my knees beside the bed and next instant I held it in my hands—a foot-long roll of brown paper that felt something heavy unrolled it carefully and found myself staring at a formidable-looking wrench, whose end was cloaked with dried blood.

I laid the grisly thing on the floor, still in its paper wrapping, sprang to the door, and shut and locked it, then I sat down on the edge of the bed and took my head between my hands. Here was Geiss's final effort, the murder that I should, as he had told the superintendent, inevitably commit. Here was the damning evidence that would, if it hadn't been for that single scratch on the wall-paper, infallibly have sent me to the guillotine; but somehow I didn't think that the weapon alone would be considered evidence enough. There would be something else, something to suggest a motive for the crime.

Framed

I TORE open the drawers of the heavy walnut dresser and found them empty. I flung wide the door of the hanging cupboard and found nothing. The bed was quickly examined, but it was equally unproductive, and there remained only my suitcase. I dragged it out, unsnapped the locks, and there, neatly tucked into the folds of a clean shirt, was a thick morocco wallet with a gold "V" stamped in one corner.

It was full of notes, English and French of all denominations, but it was not its contents that worried me; I had to find some safe hiding place for it and the wrench—Amédée quickly, for even now Amédée must be wondering at my absence.

I could not tell which of the other bedrooms were occupied, and I dared not take the risk of opening strange doors. There was only one solution—the loose tile in the corridor. I peered out cautiously, found no one in sight, and slipped wallet and grisly weapon into the friendly hole.

Amédée was emerging from the office as I came down the stairs.

"They are coming," said he. "The police chief himself and the police surgeon and the rest." He broke off, looking at me with a troubled face.

"Well," I said impatiently, "what's up, man?"

"Monsieur," he answered hesitantly, "I do not understand it. The first question they asked was, 'If you were in the hotel.'"

"Oh, well," said I, "they doubt less wanted to be sure of having a reliable witness," but though I spoke cheerfully enough, I was conscious of a distinct uneasiness in the pit of the stomach.

My chief desire at the moment was to get some clothes on, for I was still sketchily attired in bathing shorts and a damp towel, but I had a feeling that the farther I kept away from my room until the arrival of the police, the better, so for the next half-hour I kicked my heels in Amédée's little pantry, until, with a grinding of brakes, two big cars pulled up on the gravel sweep outside.

They came pouring into the hall, the commissaire in the lead and a stout, cheerful-looking man at his heels to whom he seemed to pay a certain deference. Following them came the doctor, and after him a horde of men in uniform, men in plain clothes, men with cameras, men with attaché-cases.

The commissaire bowed formally to me, but it was to Amédée he turned.

"The key of the room?" he demanded, and when the big fellow handed it over: "You, my friend, will accompany us upstairs, but you, on the other hand, Monsieur Lumsden, will remain here until I send for you."

After about half an hour I saw a uniformed gendarme coming down the stairs, and when he beckoned me to follow him back to the first floor, I obeyed with as good a grace as I could.

The windows of the bedroom were flung wide. The blanket had been decently drawn over the huddled shape on the bed, but as I pushed my way through the crowd of men who seemed to fill the room, I saw something black stretched on the floor beneath it, and paused on my way across the window, where the commissaire sat installed behind a table, to drop on one knee and see what it was.

Fingerprinted

IT WAS the big black dog, Lulu, and he lay on his back, glazed eyes half-closed. But as I laid a hand on his big chest, I felt the heart still faintly beating, and when I lifted his head I saw that though he had a nasty crack over one eye, he was otherwise untouched.

"Great Scott!" I said wrathfully. "This poor brute is still alive, and you leave him lying there! Amédée, get a man to help you carry him down to the kitchen and let the women to look after him."

The commissaire signed to me to be seated, and in the same gesture indicated the stout man who had entered with him and was now sitting on his right. This was Monsieur Fleuriot, head of the police mobile of Marseille; he explained: "All we wish from you at the moment, Monsieur Lumsden, is to tell us your story and to allow us to take your fingerprints."

"Surely," said I, and in as few words as I could, I told him what had happened from the time I returned from my swim.

He nodded. "That will do," he said indifferently, and added with a certain emphasis: "For the present." And so, after I had read through my statement and signed it, and allowed my fingers to be pressed on a black oily pad several sheets of paper, I made my way once more down the stairs.

It was more than an hour before I was sent for again, and as I followed the gendarme up the stair for the second time I reflected that I must watch my step and keep my tongue in my cheek if I didn't want to land myself deeper in the mess.

My room door was open, and I passed it and a nasty glance to the side showed me the bedclothes tumbled untidily on the floor at the content of my suitcase strewn over the uncovered mattress by the broken tile cracked resoundingly under my tread as I walked on, and I entered the place inquisition with my head held high.

I realized, with an unpleasant shock, that the door-district was also present. We exchanged formal bows, but I saw by the glint in his eye that he had forgotten our last exchange of compliments and bore me no ill will.

"Monsieur Lumsden," he said, and tapped a closely written slip of paper on the table before him. "I have here your account of your movements this morning from the time that you went for a bath, but I find that Monsieur le Commissaire has omitted to ask why you were doing yesterday evening and through the night."

"That's easy," said I. "I started the evening by calling with my friend Mr. Stern on Monsieur René Geiss at his villa."

My eye was upon him, and saw him start at the cartoonist name. "Indeed," said he, "and may I ask what took you there?"

"I grinned at him. "Surely!" I retorted. "A friend of Mr. Stern, Mr. Virgus Willis, was alarmed by some news which was rumored from a sitting place, he was giving Monsieur Geiss. He did not at all together care for what he heard of Monsieur Geiss's reputation and asked us to fetch her which we were delighted to do. After that I returned to the hotel here, had a short talk with Mr. Verner, and went to the Chateau d'Amour where I remained until ten."

"And the subject of your conversation with Monsieur Verner? What did you speak of during the half-hour you spent with him?"

"The subject of that conversation was the last thing I was prepared to disclose."

RISE SEEN FOR STOCK PRICES

Specialist Predicts Bright Prospects For Fall

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—New enthusiasm in the cattle trade has led to belief that prices for livestock of all kinds are likely to fall no lower and probably to go higher during the fall, according to Paul L. Fletcher, livestock marketing specialist of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

"With a new top of $13.35 for fed cattle having been scored, one school of market thought contends that stocker and feeder cattle will not sell any lower this fall," said Fletcher. "However, the more conservative view of thought holds the view that stocker and feeder prices are still too high, and that higher prices are out of the question unless cattle bought are to be fed and sold at a loss, as was true last winter."

Fletcher points out that feeders are scarce as compared with available feed, but at the conservative wing, he says, points to a strong tendency for the finished cattle market to head into a recession around September 20 after enjoying a late August, and early September boom.

Much of the recent price gain is attributed to increased demand resulting from cooler weather and a rapid return of summer vacationers to their city homes.

Simultaneously market supplies of cattle held to moderate proportions and pork, a competing meat, sold at increasing prices, a seasonal tendency of short duration in September when the last of the previous fall pig crop is being rapidly depleted and the spring crop supply barely getting underway.

SPEAKER PLAN BEING CHANGED

Cherry Come-Back Brings Legislative Discussions

Reflector Bureau
 Raleigh, Sept. 10.—Political wise acres in the neck of the woods are willing to lay a few small wagers that the name of Gregg Cherry will be frequently mentioned in connection with the Speakership of 1939's House, despite the fact that in taking a committee nomination for one of Gaston's seats the "Iron Major" tried to make it clear that he will come back as a private in the legislative ranks and not with any aspirations again to occupy the dais from which he hurled so many barbed wisecracks at hapless members in 1937.

Nobody thinks that Cherry is going to make a fight for the Speakership, all conceding that he is absolutely sincere in his present intention to come back just as one of the boys.

On the other hand those who peer into the crystal ball of the political future see the possibility of a deadlock when it comes to naming the 1939 presiding officer for the House, with Victor Bryant, Libby Ward and Bill Penner dividing the votes in such a manner that none of them will have the majority need to nominate in caucus.

It is then, these peepers point out, that Cherry's name will come back into the picture. What could be more natural or logical, they ask, than that the man who so ably, if ruthlessly, kept the 1937 House working at full speed and strictly on the Administration's side of the fence?

As a matter of fact, it is decidedly doubtful that Gregg would accept the post, even under the conditions cited. He is now state chairman of the Democratic party, and it is hardly likely that he would want to hog all the honors lying about.

Just the same the Cherry name is going to be bandied about in connection with the Speakership.

27 NEW ROOMS WILL BE READY

Sir Walter Hotel Is Preparing For Legislation

Raleigh, Sept. 11.—Announcement is made that the construction work on the Sir Walter Hotel will have ready 27 new rooms for legislators who will arrive here from the 1938 elections early in January.

To compass this enlargement the hasty is forced to build on the base which is now furnished by the unemployment compensation quarters. The enlargement was announced many weeks ago, the progress of the construction was declared the last of the week.

Hotel extensions have been numerous throughout the state, one of the surest signs of quick business pick-up, business men say. It was only a short while ago that hotels were collapsing in almost every large town. All of them appear to be going well.

Mr. Daniels' jail was a suite in the Yarborough where he had the time of his life, until Judge Jeter C. Pritchard came along and ordered the editor released. No great man has since served a term in the Sir Walter.

ORGANIZED FIRST FREE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

UNDER THE LEADERSHIP OF JAMES ROBERTSON, GREAT TENNESSEE PIONEER, THE WATAUGA ASSOCIATION WAS FORMED IN 1772 BECOMING THE FIRST ENTIRELY FREE GOVERNMENT IN AMERICA.

Located on a remote and dangerous frontier, the early settlers of Tennessee were faced with the necessity of adopting some form of local self government in order to promote protection and security. Under the leadership of James Robertson, who later founded Nashville, and John Sevier, later Tennessee's first governor, a representative body was assembled and in 1772 a constitution was drawn up instituting a government with judicial and executive functions. This government was known as the Watauga Association. While not designed to be independent it was the first government in this country absolutely free of religious tests, class distinctions, or kindly dictation. The articles of the Watauga Association had the further distinction of being the first written constitution drawn up on the American continent. Robertson was later, in 1796, a member of the convention that framed the Tennessee State Constitution. He has been justly called "Father of Middle Tennessee."

A GOOD CHOICE

At the meeting of post-office clerks here Saturday evening the name of Col. E. G. Flanagan, one of the speakers, was boosted as a gubernatorial candidate in the 1940 Democratic primary in this state.

SENATOR BAILEY RIGHT

Senator Bailey was right in his address before the state Young Democrats Saturday when he declared that what the south wanted and needed was a fair and equal chance in the national policy and an opportunity to work out its own problems without outside interference.

"Federal efforts to destroy accepted Southern leaders cannot succeed," declared the Senator, and the voters of South Carolina and Texas recently proved the truth of this statement by standing by their leaders whom the President was attempting to unseat in his party "purge."

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Sept. 12—Pushing the highway safety campaign on all fronts, Major Arthur Pulk, commander of the State Highway Patrol and head of the Motor Safety Division, headed offensives on three sectors last week.

First he spoke at a gathering of truck owners and drivers in Pasquotank. Then he endorsed and assisted in launching an essay contest in co-operation with the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners. Lastly, he secured the co-operation of Assistant Commissioner W. J. Spain in continuing the weekly series of safety broadcasts "It Happened So Quick."

Picturesque Cow Boy Not Typical Of Plains

HOOT GIBSON, KING OF COWBOYS, AND ROWDY

"Trick riding, roping, and even the picturesque cowboy of the movies are not typical of the plains," says Hoot Gibson, the screen celebrated Western star.

"Ten years ago, there was little roping among cow hands, and those who practiced it today received their inspiration largely from circus performers," he continued.

"As a matter of fact, the first trick roper in this country was Ora Peco (Gold Dollar), who was a Mexican brought to the United States to join Buffalo Bill's Wild West."

"Women are responsible for the cowboys of today. They love the artistic and picturesque and when boys from the ranges began riding before the ladies, the feminine mind dressed him in tailored breeches, monogrammed silk shirts, muffers and the like."

"The hat is the best friend the cowboy has, and he spends as much time and money buying it as a woman does her Easter bonnet."

"Riding came naturally to me, just as talents of any kind are born in some of us. My first rodeo appearance was in 1918. A few years later I won the world's championship for roping and trick riding in Chicago."

"To be a good rider one must be born with love of it. I came from Great Falls, Montana, and spent all my summers on ranches around there learning all I could from cow hands. Soon their roping are like any other profession. The thought constantly in mind 'What can I do to be different.' All depends on muscular development, nerve and practice."

Hoot Gibson and his great congress of rough riders, Indians and Cossacks will be seen with the Robbins Bros. circus in Greenville Tuesday, Sept. 20, at the old Fair Grounds.

Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m. Doors to the menagerie will open at 1 and 7 p. m. An immense street parade will be seen on the downtown streets at 11 a. m.

As an added feature attraction Clyde Beatty, greatest wild animal trainer of all time, will present the world's largest wild animal act, battling 40 ferocious jungle bred lions and tigers.

MICKEY ROONEY'S ESCORTS DEPRIVED OF THEIR SIREN Omaha, Neb. (AP)—Mickey Rooney, youthful screen actor, failed to make a hit with Police Commissioner Jepsen.

The commissioner ordered removal of the siren attached to a police car used to transport Mickey through the city. He said he received a flood of complaints that the car had sped past stop lights with siren screaming.

He is enthusiastic in praise of the beauties of this far western strip of the State. But says he was surprised that he did not have to sleep under sheets the night he spent in Murphy.

In a foreword to the official program and premium list of the State Fair, to be held here October 11 to 15, Governor Clyde R. Hoey urges every "man, woman and child who can" to visit the Fair this year.

Said he: "It should be the desire of every loyal North Carolinian to know more about our state and there is no institution which offers a greater opportunity in this regard than our annual State Fair."

Each year the Fair brings together the East and the West. The people and the products of the mountains, Piedmont and Coastal Plain. Representatives of agriculture, industry and business who attended the Fair have impressed upon them their interdependence. The continued progress of our great state depends upon the co-operation and mutual understanding of us all, and it is primarily for this reason that I urge every man, woman and child who can to visit the Fair this year."

Neutral observers, if there are such animals, seem to think the Young Democrats rather went out of their way for no particular good reason to express the anti-Roosevelt sentiments of many of its members. Indignation over the presidential purge seems to have observers a bit premature and uncalled for in view of the fact that there is no such purge on in North Carolina.

In fact, it is pointed out, the President kept himself strictly out of North Carolina's Senate race this year. Though "Our Bob" Reynolds tried to make it appear he was the anointed of P. D. R.

Incidentally, election of Gordon Gray to presidency of an organization which displayed such national New Deal inclination isn't likely to help the ambitious Forsyth publisher in any future statewide campaign. At least, it seems to be generally agreed that Roosevelt is still tops with the rank and file in North Carolina.

TODAY'S GAME
At Snow Hill, 3:30 P. M.

New Bern, Sept. 11—New Bern's Bruins survived a six-run Snow Hill spurge in the third inning, then came from behind to register a 15-6 victory over the Billies today in the opener of the Coastal Plain League's championship finals.

Doc Smith's Bruins got away to a three-run start in the opening stanza but saw this advantage quickly dissolve during Snow Hill's third. Undaunted, the locals put over four runs in their half of the third to go ahead—and that was the ball game although the greedy Bears kept adding tallies. What proved to be the necessary run to win—tally No. 7—was that by Swamp Norwood, centerfielder for the Bears, who scored from second base on Roth's fly to deep left. Joyner made the catch near the temporary bleachers, made no effort to try to head off Norwood at third who tagged second after the catch. As Joyner walked in toward the diamond with the ball still in his hand, Norwood gave one last look toward the Billies' manager and dashed for home. He beat the throw easily.

The Bears chased Lefty Zschau from the hill in the fourth, and Sudol finished.

Paced by Alf Anderson, who hit four for four, the Bears collected 17 safeties.

Burgess Fanned Ten
A feature of New Bern's victory was the relief huring of Charlie (Hard Luck) Burgess. He took over in the third when Berry lost control. Burgess struck out ten while pitching six scoreless innings.

New Bern's attack was without the usual homer touch until the seventh, when Lester Burgess hit over the flag pole in center field. The blow came with Anderson above.

Despite overcast skies, an overflow crowd jammed Kafer Park. Paid admissions were over the 2,700 mark.

The clubs play in Snow Hill on Monday. Bull Hamons probably will pitch for the Bears, and it is likely that his opponent will be Cecil Longest—perhaps Al Gettel.

SON OUTSHINES HIS DAD IN RAISING PIGS

Henderson, N. C.—(AP)—Edward Bullock, 11-year-old Negro 4-H club boy, did so well with his club pig this year that his father asked him to take charge of all the pigs on the farm.

The boy's pig gained 190.6 pounds in 122 days while four from the same litter cared for by his father put on an average of only 147 pounds of weight each.

After weighing the pigs and figuring the profits, the elder Bullock decided to let his boy look after all the pigs from now on.

THREE BOXING BOUTS ON TAP

Heavy Card For Big Wrestling Show at Armory Tonight

In addition to wrestling, three boxing bouts are on tap in the fight doings in the city-county armory tonight.

One of the preliminary boxing affairs will find two local youths supplying the punches. Roscoe Cox, in the 151-pound division, will exchange blows with Milton Stafford, who tips the scales at 146 pounds.

Ben Pullet of Greenville, 163-pounder, and former Duke University biter, will seek to overcome the powerful punches to be produced by Sol B. dam, Y. M. C. A. boxer of Charlotte, registered in the 154-pound class. Bedam is experienced in the pugilist field. He has previously participated in Golden and A. A. U. boxing tournaments.

Now for the darker side of the boxing game, a Negro from Tarboro and another from Greenville will furnish the excitement in the last punching duel. Both have boxed before. You'll have to see em to determine the power of their punches.

In the main wrestling event, Jimmie Logas, Greek champion, will lock arms with Red Roberts of Birmingham, Ala. This bout will last 90 minutes and the winner will be determined by two out of three falls.

Eddie Williams of Springfield, Mo., and Al Caddell of Boston, Mass., will be in the semi-finals.

Frisch Released As Manager Of Cards

St. Louis, Sept. 11—(AP)—Frank Frisch today was released as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The announcement was made by President Sam Breadon just before the start of today's game with the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates. Frisch's release became effective after today's game.

Coach Mike Gonzales will run the team during the remainder of the season.

The Fordham Flash had been with the eGashouse Gang since 1927. He became manager during the middle of the 1933 season.

In a formal statement, Breadon said: "Frank has been with us longer than any other manager since Branch Rickey (Rickey is now general manager). I do not blame Frank for the position of the club this year. He has not done anything we can find fault with, and he has been a good manager."

"He has been paid up for the remainder of the season and is leaving the club today so he can be free to negotiate with other clubs seeking managers."

Frisch declined to comment on the action of Breadon.

"I intend to stay in St. Louis for a couple of days, and then go to my home in New York. I have nothing in prospect at this time in the way of a baseball offer."

Going to Giants?
At various times the last two seasons there has been baseball gossip that Frisch might become manager of the New York Giants if Bill Terry moved into the front office.

Terry is reported to be eager to give up active field management and regards Frisch favorably for his successor.

WOMAN TELLS FEMINISTS THEY'RE TOO AGGRESSIVE

London (AP)—The first woman to become a member of the General Bar Council lit into the members of her sex. The woman, Hannah Cross, says her fellow feminists are not popular because they are too aggressive.

"This aggressiveness," she declares, "is shown by the feminist who finds slight where none are intended, by the over-manly woman, and by those who depend purely on sex appeal."

"Women's talons have to learn delicacy of touch."

AMATEUR GOLF ACES: They're Shooting For The U. S. Championship

John Goodman

John Fischer

Charles Yates

Ellsworth Vines

Frank Strafaci

Johnny Goodman, the defending champion; Johnny Fischer, who won in 1936, and Charles Yates, victor in this year's British amateur, are among the favorites in the blue ribbon event of American amateur golf, the National amateur championship at Oakmont, Pa., September 12-17. All were members of this year's American Walker cup team. Frank Strafaci, overlooked in the Walker cup selections and later winner of several major sectional tournaments, is also a strong contender. Another whose play will be closely watched is Ellsworth Vines, who, after reaching the top in amateur and professional tennis, turned to the links game. This is his first competition in the National amateur.

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE SHOT

James R. (Jimmy) Morrison, candidate for Congress from the 6th Louisiana district, who was shot in the left arm at his summer camp near Hammond, La., here is shown at a New Orleans hospital. Morrison said he was shot by an unidentified man whom he described as "tall and heavy-set, middle-aged, and wearing a heavy coat." Physicians termed the wound not serious.

Fletcher Not A Willing "Yes Man" For Governor

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, Sept. 12—With departure of Major A. L. Fletcher, erstwhile Commissioner of Labor, the state today lost virtually its only department head who has not been a willing ditto mark for Governor Clyde R. Hoey and his policies.

For all that the stocky Major appointment of Forrest Shuford as his successor, most observers and commentators are already tabbing the new Labor Department boss as a bit more on the conservative side than his predecessor. The very fact that he was acceptable to the Governor is taken as good circumstantial evidence that Mr. Shuford isn't quite as far to the left in his labor views as was Major Fletcher.

This Hoey administration has been notable for the unanimity with which its department bosses have shouted "Hallelujah!" and "Amen, Me, too, brother" every time the Governor has opened his mouth. In fact many of them—notably Highway Chairman Frank Dunlap and Highway Chairman Frank Dunlap to give out anything from their Departments without the definite approval of the Chief. In fact, news papers here will tell you that most news they get out of the Highway Commission comes through the Governor himself, not the commission.

In all this chorus of agreement, Major Fletcher has been something of a lone voice. He has consistently called for more liberal and as he sees it, more enlightened labor laws in the state. Governor Hoey has been silent in all languages, including the Scandinavian, on these matters.

Major Fletcher has kept his shirt on and refused to get excited about the C. I. O. and its progress in unionizing North Carolina's textile operatives. He has warned audiences of obviously hostile industrialists that they are being extremely short-sighted in opposing organization by their workers in whatever union they choose.

In one respect, however, the commissioner and the Governor have been in complete agreement. Both believe that "sit-down" strikers are illegal and should not be permitted in North Carolina, but even here Major Fletcher is much closer to the labor side of the controversy than is the Governor.

There has been no great public show of it, but Major Fletcher has had much to do with keeping the Unemployment Compensation Commission from being a much more reactionary and employer-minded group than it has been. The other two members, Charles G. Powell and Mrs. J. B. Spillman are gubernatorial appointees. The Major was an ex-officio member. Certain it is that his consistent opposition stopped dead in its tracks the Powell idea of getting the Commissioner out of Raleigh where he could be a bigger fish in the puddle than he is here.

All in all, it is safe to say that Major Fletcher would never have been chosen by Governor Hoey for the Labor Post, and the mere fact that the executive has approved Shuford indicates there will be a more "conservative" administration of the Labor Department than under Fletcher.

agan predicted that Congressman Warren would be one of the future speakers of the House. Earlier, Ralph Deal, toastmaster, who introduced Mr. Flanagan, endorsed the Greenville man for governor of North Carolina.

William I. Horner, National Legislative representative, of Washington, D. C., main speaker of the evening, spoke on State and District Federations, legislative program, affiliations with the American Federation of Labor, and the Woman's Auxiliary. He had an open forum discussion of post office clerk regulations in the afternoon.

In the afternoon, O. L. Whitesell, National State representative of Greensboro, retraced the growth of the organization. He said that the clerks' federation was stronger in the west than in the east, but attributed this to the fact that organization efforts had started earlier in the western section of the State.

Mayor M. K. Blount welcomed the delegates to the city and extended his welcome not only to the Saturday session, but told them they would always find a warm welcome any time they came to Greenville.

Response to the address of welcome was made by State President W. S. Campbell of Charlotte, who had previously stated that the purpose of the federation was to improve the social and economic welfare of post office clerks, and Mrs. E. E. Phelps of Winston-Salem, representative of the Woman's Auxiliary. W. F. Owens of Greenville, served as chairman of the session.

Association Meeting To Be Held Tuesday

Mrs. Cora S. Powell, secretary of the Greenville Merchant's Association, said today that a regular monthly meeting of the organization will be held Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Post Office building.

Mrs. Powell said that all members are urged to attend, as matters of interest to the merchants will be taken up.

Truck Stolen Friday Found This Morning

A truck stolen Friday night was located today, it was reported by Corporal L. L. Jackson of the State Highway patrol.

The truck was stolen in the tobacco warehouse section some time Friday night and was found abandoned in Dixie warehouse this morning. It is owned by Mrs. Sarah A. Tucker of Greenville, route three.

Reports Irregular Leaf Price Trend

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—Average prices paid for tobacco sold last week on Eastern North Carolina markets denoted an irregular trend, according to the United States and North Carolina Departments of Agriculture. Combined averages on both the leaf and the plug groups were approximately the same as compared with the previous week. In the smoking leaf and cutter groups the majority of the grades quoted were slightly higher. Low to good priming grades were somewhat lower.

Sales were heavier in volume than the previous week. The majority of the offerings consisted of common to fair leaf, fair to fine lugs and fair and good primings. Leaf quality was scarce.

Nine Type 12 markets, representing the bulk of sales of this type area, reported total sales for this week of 24,836,814 pounds at an average of $19.23. Total sales for the season to date amounted to 57,332,570 pounds, at an average of $20.74.

Cotton Growers To Get Marketing Cards Soon

Raleigh, Sept. 12—North Carolina cotton growers will soon get cotton marketing cards, either white or red depending upon whether or not they have kept their acreage within their allotments.

E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive officer at State College, has announced that county AAA offices are busy determining which growers have kept within their allotments. The cards, he said, will soon be prepared and distributed.

Those growers who have complied with their allotments will get white cards, indicating that they can sell tax-free all the cotton they have grown this year, plus whatever limit they may have on hand from previous crops.

On the other hand red cards will go to those growers who have overplanted their allotted acreage. These cards will enable holders to sell tax-free so much of their this year cotton as is covered by their marketing quotas, but they will be called upon to pay a tax of two cents per pound on all lint sold in excess of their quotas.

Floyd added, however, that growers who have excess acreage may secure white cards in case where their production will not exceed 1,000 pounds, provided yields this year will not exceed normal production. Also they can get white cards if they put up cash or bonds to cover the estimated amount of the penalty involved for sales in excess of their quotas.
