COURT TO RULE ON INSPECTION ACT FOR WEED

Case Appealed By Four Auction Warehouses in Oxford

REVIEW REFUSED IN MOONEY CASE

Agrees to Consider Ford's Contentions In Wrangle with Labor Relations Board

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to pass upon litigation challenging validity of the Federal tobacco inspection act of 1935.

The act authorizes the agriculture secretary to designate tobacco auction centers and regulate inspection of the product.

Operators of the Fleming, Mangum, Johnson and Farmers warehouses at Oxford, N. C., appealed from a decision of the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals upholding the constitutionality of the law.

The Supreme Court refused to review Thomas J. Mooney's latest appeal for release from San Quentin penitentiary.

Mooney is serving a life sentence for complicity in the 1916 Preparedness Day parade bombing in San Francisco.

Justices Black and Reed took the rarely used step of denoting their dissent to the court order which apparently closed the door to any hope that Mooney may obtain release through court action unless new evidence should be discovered.

It still is possible for a Governor of California to grant a pardon. This step is one of the issues in the present gubernatorial contest in that state. For years Mooney has been waging a fight for freedom.

Refusal of a review means that the court declined to interfere with a decision against Mooney by the California Supreme Court.

However, John Finerty, Mooney's counsel, said "we are not through yet" and obtained permission from Chief Justice Hughes to submit papers within 20 days to bring an original action with the high tribunal seeking a writ of habeas corpus.

In other actions the high court: Refused to review the conviction of Annie Marie Hahn of Cincinnati, under sentence to die for the poison slaying of Jacob Wagner.

Refused to interfere with the conviction of Charles (Lucky) Luciano and five others sentenced to long prison terms as members of a New York City vice ring.

Granted the Ford Motor Company a review of its contentions that the National Labor Relations Board should not be permitted to withdraw litigation involving an order directed against the automobile concern. Ford had appealed from a Federal Circuit court ruling permitting the board to recall an order directing the company to reinstate 29 employees at Michigan plants. The board wished to amend its procedure.

DEATH CLAIMS DRUGGIST HERE

W. H. Norris Succumbs to Heart Attack Sunday

W. H. Norris, 76-year-old owner and operator of the Pitt Drug Company and former head of the Greenville cotton mill, died suddenly from a heart attack at 8:15 o'clock last night after having suffered a heart attack earlier in the day.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the home with his pastor, Rev. T. McE. Grant of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, in charge. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Active pallbearers will be Z. V. Murphy, M. O. Mines, J. D. Wilcox, H. L. Elks, C. T. Day, Zack VanDyke, H. L. Taylor and David Evans.

A native of Maryland, Mr. Norris moved to North Carolina in 1884 and located near Mount Holly in Mecklenburg county, where he was connected with one of the old cotton mills in the state. In 1886 he was married to Miss Elvora Biggs of Maryland and later went to Bennettsville, S. C., as manager of the Marlboro cotton mills. From Bennettsville he moved to Kingston in 1908 as manager of the Kingston cotton mills. In 1915 he came to Greenville as manager of the Greenville cotton mills. He retired from the mill business in 1923 and established the Pitt Drug company, which firm he had actively operated until his death.

Mr. Norris was a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner, also member of the Junior Order United American Mechanics, and a member of the Methodist church.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three sons, W. E. Norris of Memphis, Tenn., C. E. Norris of Goldsboro and S. Key Norris of Greenville, and six grandchildren.

'Final' Vote Apparently Gives Deane Majority of 90

Raleigh, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The State Elections Board accepted "final" returns today for the July 2 congressional Democratic primary in Davidson county which gave C. B. Deane of Rockingham an eighth district majority of 90 votes over W. O. Burgin of Lexington in the long-fought contest which still faced more court procedure.

The board's tabulation had not been made, but on the basis of figures previously released which gave Deane a 23-vote majority before the newest returns came in from Davidson, the Rockingham man picked up an additional 67 votes this morning.

It appeared the final result for the district would be: Deane 19-182; Burgin 19-92.

The board adopted a resolution that its findings be transmitted at once to Attorney General Harry McMillan for transmittal to Judge W. C. Harris in Wake Superior court so that a dissolution might be sought of a restraining order granted Burgin to prevent certification of Deane as the nominee.

Judge Harris had set for hearing today the request of Burgin for a peremptory writ of mandamus to force the State board of elections to declare Burgin the nominee, but the hearing was postponed until 2:30 tomorrow.

The postponement came after J. C. B. Ehringhaus, chief of Burgin's counsel, filed an affidavit charging the State board had acted arbitrarily in removing the old Davidson county board and that the returns of the old board should be binding. The State requested time to prepare its answer.

Pastors Introduced At College Assembly

At College assembly on Friday, Oct. 7, the pastors of the various churches were introduced to the student body.

President Meadows introduced the Rev. T. M. Grant, chairman of the Greenville Ministerial Association, and he in turn introduced the other ministers and student workers in order of length of service in Greenville: The Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Christian church; the Rev. Worth Wicker, pastor of St. Pauls Episcopal church; the Rev. Clarence Patrick, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church; Miss Miriam Wilson, Presbyterian student worker; and Miss Anne Dawney, Baptist student worker. Each of these gave a cordial welcome to the students.

Miss Zoe Anna Davis, Methodist student worker, was out of town and could not attend. This is the first time that women have been included on this occasion. The student workers not having taken part in this assembly program before.

Statement Signed By Leaders in Russian Air Force

ALLEGED 'LINDY' BELITTLED FORCE

Prime Minister Said To Have Used Colonel's 'Statement' in Czech Crisis

Moscow, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's leading airmen denounced Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today in a statement accusing him of spreading lies about Soviet air strength to give Prime Minister Chamberlain of Britain argument for the surrender of Czechoslovakia.

The Soviet statement apparently arose from unverifiable reports in two London newspapers that Lindbergh had been critical of the Soviet air force.

His visit to Russia figured in a guarded statement during House of Commons debate last Thursday. Ellen Wilkinson, a Laborite, said that "influential people" had told Chancellor Hitler that in no circumstances would Britain fight for Czechoslovakia and added that "it is a very serious thing that when a very prominent American airman" was being lunched by these people "they assured him it was impossible for this country to do anything" because Germany's air force was "better than Russian, British and French combined."

The Moscow statement was signed by 11 Soviet airmen, including Civil Aviation Chief Vasily Molokoff. Ten of the group had been designated officially as "heroes of the Soviet union."

The statement called Lindbergh a "stupid liar, a lackey and a flatterer of German Fascists."

It accused Lindbergh of telling guests of Lady Astor in London that Germany's air fleet was powerful enough to defeat the combined air strength of France, England, the Soviet union and Czechoslovakia.

Lindbergh, the statement said "had an order from England, reactionary circles to prove the weakness of Soviet aviation and give Chamberlain an argument for capitulation at Munich in connection with Czechoslovakia."

"The bribed flatter, Lindbergh, fulfilled the order of his masters. That explains everything."

Le Bourget, France, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh took off in their plane at Le Bourget airport at 2:35 p. m. (9:25 a. m. EST) today, and airport officials said they were bound for Berlin.

Lindbergh had arrived here October 5. At that time he declined to disclose any plans for travel in the near future.

Illness Is Fatal To Pitt Farmer

John Allen (Jack) Buck, 45, died yesterday afternoon at 4:20 o'clock at his home on the Southwood farm after several weeks of critical illness.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Rev. M. A. Woodard, Free Will Baptist minister of Winterville. Burial will follow in the Henry Jordan Williams burying ground on the New Bern highway.

Mr. Buck is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nina Anderson Buck; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Buck of Aiden R. F. D. 3; two brothers, Willie Buck of Winterville R. F. D. and Matthew Buck of Aiden R. F. D.; six sisters, Mrs. Dancy Stallins of Greenville R. F. D., Mrs. Raymond Hardy, Greenville, R. F. D., Mrs. L. T. Wilson, Aiden R. F. D., Miss Minnie Buck of Aiden R. F. D., Mrs. J. E. McGowan of Greenville and Mrs. Don Morris of Pinetops.

Mr. Buck, a farmer, had spent his entire life in Pitt county.

Nevada Deputies Arm Against CIO

Reno, Nev.—Oct. 10.—(AP)—Heavily armed deputies, flanked by machine gun nests, awaited behind barricades today the threatened second advance in three days of California CIO union members seeking to picket Nevada highway construction projects.

One hundred and fifty men deputized by officials, barricaded every road into western Nevada and Truckee, Calif. where 300 CIO unionists were reported meeting.

GERMAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION ENDS ADVANCE

All Territory Agreed Upon Has Already Been Entered

AWAITS ORDERS OF COMMISSION

Occupation Reported To Have Been Completed with very Little Disorders

With the German Army of Occupation in Sudetenland, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The German army today halted its advance into Czechoslovakia, having occupied all the territory agreed upon by international negotiations.

With the occupation of the so-called fifth zone complete, no further steps were expected until authorized by the international commission sitting in Berlin.

The territory already occupied includes between 80 and 90 per cent of that where live the Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia.

The occupation was accomplished with very little disorder. The official German news agency reported yesterday, however, that two Sudeten Germans were shot and killed by Czechoslovak soldiers a few hours before German troops entered Trosnav, the agency also said a 14-year-old boy was shot to death at another town as Czechoslovak forces left.

(Polish troops continued to occupy territory ceded to Poland. Yesterday they moved into Bohumin, important railroad junction town which was scheduled to be occupied October 11. Warsaw foreign office officials said Czechoslovakia had asked them to advance the date to avert disorders in the adjoining territory.)

Dispatches from Komaron, on the Czechoslovak-Hungarian frontier, said Czechoslovakia had agreed to Hungarian occupation of two border towns as an initial step in settling Budapest territorial claims.)

Whether a plebiscite in areas of mixed German and Czech population would be held or some other arrangements made with Prague was being debated. German army officers said they did not believe a plebiscite would be held.

Chamber Of Commerce Going After Industry

Support of Business Interests In City Being Sought

The recently re-organized Greenville Chamber of Commerce swung into action today on its first major project, determined to bring to Greenville a large industrial plant which will have an annual payroll of $100,000 annual, and employ approximately 100 persons.

In order to obtain this new industry, which will provide Greenville with a year-round payroll, it will be necessary for the business interests and individuals of the city to erect a suitable building which will be leased to the new concern.

Nature of the industry was withheld pending further progress on having it located here, but it was explained that it would go far toward providing the city with a diversified, year-round industrial payroll. The new concern will not be in competition with any present business.

In order to secure this new industry for Greenville, it was explained by the Chamber of Commerce officials, it will be necessary to act immediately. A survey of the city was started today to determine if the various business interests and individuals desired to subscribe to a fund for the purpose of erecting a building to lease to the new company.

Libraries Entered And Money Taken

What was believed to have been a petty thief or thieves entered both the Sheppard Memorial and high school libraries some time Saturday night and took a small amount of cash from each place.

The same persons were believed to be responsible for both robberies. About $8 was taken from the Sheppard Memorial Library, which was entered by removing a screen window.

It was estimated that $2 was taken from the high school library. Offices of the building also were entered and an axe used in an attempt to break open the vault. The intruders also rifled desk drawers in classrooms.

Aide Accompanying Superior Also Badly Injured

OFFICER SHOT ON SOFIA'S STREETS

No Reason Advanced For Fatal Attack By Man Who Immediately Shoots Self

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 10.—(AP)—General Ivan Peeff, 70-year-old chief of staff of the Bulgarian army, was shot and killed in a street here today by a man believed to be a Macedonian.

Major Stoyanoff, an aide accompanying the general, was badly wounded. No reason for the murder was known.

A Sofia dispatch to Havas (French News Agency) said the assassin committed suicide immediately after the attack.

The assassin's name was given by police as Stolu Yossithoff.

The slayer, whose name was given by one source as Vassoff, was said to have fired 15 shots from two revolvers at General Peeff. He was described by this source as a former Bulgarian army major who two months ago was released from prison.

(Dispatches to Reuters and Exchange Telegraph, British news agencies, said the assassin turned his gun upon himself and was taken to a hospital seriously wounded, but conscious.)

Police were investigating the theory that the assassination was part of a plot in which others were involved, but neither police nor military authorities gave details.

Proposes Grading Of Georgia Weed

Moultrie, Ga., Oct. 10.—(AP)—North Carolina's practice of tying and grading tobacco was suggested today by C. B. Allen, editor and publisher of the Moultrie Observer, as one which would yield Georgia tobacco growers many thousands of dollars additional revenue if it were adopted in his state.

Allen, returning from a tour of North Carolina tobacco markets, said he found growers there receiving an average of $24.94 a pound, while Georgians this year averaged $20.35. He called this apparent discrepancy significant because, he said, Georgia's flue-cured leaf compares favorably with the best grown in other parts of the country.

Man Held Up Here By Armed Negroes

City police officers today were searching for two Negroes who held up W. R. Hodges of Grimesland, route, three, last night and took $5 from him.

According to police officers, Hodges was held up at pistol point while on Tenth street, back of the Farmers warehouse, about 9:15 last night.

Descriptions of the robbers given by their victim listed one of the Negroes as low and chunky, weighing about 150 pounds, yellow complexion and about 30 years old. The other was declared to have been a tall, black Negro, weighing about 165 pounds and 50 years old.

Minor Accident. City police officers were called to investigate a collision between an automobile driven by a Negro and a taxicab this afternoon at the intersection of Fifth and Pitt streets, but the accident was considered of so little consequence that no record was made at police headquarters. Neither driver was cited to court.

Christian Science Church.
"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, October 9th.

The golden text was from Jeremiah 30:17. "I will restore health unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the Lord."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own? For ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's." (1 Cor. 19:20).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "Matter can make no opposition to right endeavors against sin or sickness, for matter is inert, mindless. Also, if you believe yourself diseased, you can alter this wrong belief and action without hindrance from the body. Do not believe in any supposed necessity for sin, disease, or death, knowing (as you ought to know) that God never requires obedience to a so-called material law, for no such law exists. The belief in sin and death is destroyed by the law of God, which is the law of life instead of death, of harmony instead of discord, of Spirit instead of the flesh."

Wins 4-H Dress Review Contest.
Miss Mildred Edwards, East Carolina Teachers College freshman of Winterville, who won first place in the 4-H Dress Review conducted at State College Friday, October 7, said yesterday that the award gave her "the greatest thrill" she had ever had.

Last year Miss Edwards won second prize, and following the adage "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," she tried again this year and won first place, which entitles her to a free trip to Chicago to represent North Carolina in the National 4-H Style Show scheduled for some time in December.

When asked what first interested her in sewing, the 4-H winner answered that she had always liked it. "I'm just out to cook and sew," she said. She has been sewing a great deal for four years, since her freshman year in high school.

Miss Edwards completed the winning costume, a general sports ensemble which included a woolen coat and two-piece dress in duobonnet, after coming to E. C. T. C. this fall, having begun it only a few days before leaving home.

She wore black suede shoes and gloves, and teal blue hat and scarf in Raleigh, but plans to use duobonnet gloves and purse in Chicago.

Miss Edwards is specializing in home economics at the college and says she plans to teach or go into home demonstration work after graduation.

Y. W. C. A. Vesper Services.
Miss Miriam Wilson, student worker of the First Presbyterian Church, gave an inspiring talk at vesper services of the Young Women's Christian Association at the college Sunday evening, Oct. 9.

She began her talk by reading from the fifth chapter of Hebrews. "In this latter the author is rebuking these people for not living as adult Christians," she said. "They are still like babes living on milk."

She compared the growth of a college student's spiritual life to the physical growth of an adolescent, illustrating her point by reference to a person fifteen years old, but a dwarf in size. "You are at a critical age now, for your soul must develop or become stunted," she continued.

She then told of pictures of roots of trees that she just seen—pictures in which the roots were as large as the trees. The purpose of the roots is first, to hold the tree straight in wind, storm and fair weather. It is the second wall which protects the trees, just as our inner life protects our physical. Second, the root gets the tree's food from the ground and helps in holding the trees to the ground.

"If you neglect making a similar contact with the source of power, your spiritual life will be stunted," she concluded.

Special music was "The Lord's Prayer," a duet by Misses Harriette Lawrence and Betty McArthur.

Entertain At Dance.

On Friday night, Mrs. A. C. Ruffin and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Hull delightfully entertained at a dance at the Greenville Country Club.

The large club room was attractively decorated with crysanthemums, asters and many colorful fall flowers. The mantel and fireplace at each end of the room was banked with pine and interspersed with jack-o-lanterns and black cats.

During intermission a lovely buffet supper was served. The music was furnished by Bear Johnson's orchestra.

Pirates Show up Much Better than in First Contest

Campbell College turned back the Pirates of East Carolina Teachers College 19-6 here Saturday afternoon.

Coach J. D. Alexander's charges made an improved showing over the season-opening exhibition a week ago, but were unable to subdue their opponents.

Bill Shelton, captain for Saturday's contest, scored the locals' only touchdown in the contest. It was also the first of the season for the Pirates.

Neither team was able to tally during the first quarter and it was not until the third that Shelton scored for the Pirates. The locals blocked a kick in this phase of the game and Woodrow Long downed the ball on the five-yard line. Shelton pushed the ball to the 2-yard line on the next play and then went through the line for a touchdown. Lester Eidenhour failed to convert a placement.

Before the first period was brought to a close, Shelton tried a kick from the 10-yard marker and Campbell recovered the sphere on the 2-yard line. Smith plunged through the line during the first play of the second period for a touchdown. He converted the placement.

Cherry, captain for the Camels, caught a pass on the 2-yard line and went across for a touchdown in the third quarter. Smith heaved this pass from the 35-yard marker. J. Coats galloped from the 19-yard stripe to another score in the fourth quarter.

Bill Shelton, Jack Noe, and Bill Dudash garnered playing honors for the Pirate aggregation. Pacesetters for Campbell were Brown, Smith and Kautzman. Brown went in as a substitute, but this did not retard his skillful playing efforts.

Cubs Fail To Win Single Game In World Series

By PAUL MICKELSON

Yankee Stadium, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The greatest victory march of all baseball history ended in burlesque this cloudy day as Joe McCarthy's pitiless New York Yankees stampeded the pitiful Chicago Cubs, 6-3, for the fourth straight victory that made them the first ball club to score three successive world championship conquests.

Before 59,847 cash customers, whose sympathies for the beaten and outclassed were so touched that they cheered in vain for a rally from the club in only a week ago was the hottest in baseball, the Yankees simply toyed with their once highly-touted enemy and ended their record-breaking baseball odyssey over the roster protruding forms of six Cub pitchers, including Bill Lee and Dizzy Dean.

The triumph, turned into a comedy of errors, hoots and whoops in the eighth just as the Cubs came within a run of tying the score, completed the sweep to three world crowns began at the Polo Grounds two years ago. It ended with the Yanks winners of 12 of the 15 World Series games played, only Carl Hubbell and the New York Giants interrupting the parade to win two games in 1936 and another last year. Not since inter-league classics began in 1933 has a team ever before won three straight championships.

Girls Revenge
The result was more than that. It gave McCarthy complete revenge on his old Chicago Cub bosses who fired him as manager quite unceremoniously after six years of service in 1930. The grand slam was the second for the Yanks under McCarthy. In 1932, his Cubs swept four in a row. Not in the history of sports has a man had such revenge; and as he sat chewing gum in the dressing room after it was all over, Marse Joe didn't mind letting the world know he was a happy man.

Today's finishing Yankee riot was a ball game as long as the Yankee half of the eighth. The Yankees, cashing in on a bad throw by Bill Jurges for an ultimate total of three runs in the second off Lee and picking up another on a home run smash by Tommy Franich in the sixth, saw a 4-1 lead threatened in the Cub 8th. Phil Cavaretta doubled for the 6th hit off the steady, boy Yankee string man, Charlie Ruffing, and Ken O'Dea homered him in for the third Cub run with a towering clout into the leftfield seats. But the hopes of the multitude—even rabid Yankee fans were cheering for a Cub victory—glimmered and then fell with a sickening thud as the Cub pitching staff collapsed under the terrific strain.

YANKS GET BIG SLICE CASH TOO

$5,815 for Each Player as Reward For Beating Cubs

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs scored one of the largest financial "meatens" ever received by the players in a world series when the returns were all in today from the box office for their just-concluded warfare.

From a player pool of $434,094.66, the two pennant-winners took as their share 70 per cent, of a total of $303,866.26. The Yankees, as conquerors, received 60 per cent of the players' pool, or 182,319.79; the Cubs received $121,546.50.

After paying out cash gifts, amounting to $3,500, to such associates as batboys and clubhouse attendants, the Yankees had arranged to split their share up into 30 3/4 shares. Thus, Manager Joe McCarthy, 22 players on the squad, the three coaches, the batting practice pitcher, and club trainer, each of whom was voted a full share, receive $5,815.28 each as his slice of the action. Four other players or club officials receive a half-share each, and Road Secretary Mark Roth was cut in for three-quarters of a share.

Each of the Cubs, who split their pot only 26 ways—23 full shares and one cut up into portions—get $4,674.87.

After the pennant-winners finished "hitting the jackpot" each of the other first division clubs in both leagues were cut in for a share of the remainder of the players' pool. The Boston Red Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished second in the pennant races, each received a total of $32,557.10 to divide among themselves. The third-place finishers, the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants, took a total of $21,704.73 each, and the fourth-placers, the Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds, each had $10,852.37 to split up.

The total "gate" for the four-game series was $851,166, of which the office of the Commissioner of Baseball receives $127,874.90. The owners of the two pennant-winning clubs and the two major leagues split a "pot" of $289,394.44 four ways.

Some Records

The all-time record pay-per-player for a winning team in world series is $6,544, received for their 1933 victory over the Cubs. The losing Giants of 1936 sliced their take into shares of $4656.40, and this is high for a losing team. In each of those years, however, the players shared in radio cash as well as the receipts from the first four games of the series. For several years the radio rights were sold for $100,000 per series. Under rules governing division of series money, players share only in the take of the first four games.

the tight, dramatic game into burlesque: Vapee Page, freshman hurler for the Cubs, had been doing some fine relief duty, succeeding Charlie Root, who had rescued Lee, and there was one down. Joe DiMaggio opened with a single to left and Gehrig drove him to third with a terrific one-base smash to right. Out went Page and in came big Larry French, the southpaw, to pitch to left-handed hitter Bill Dickey. He did the job, forcing Dickey to pop to Jurges, and then went out in favor of Tex Carlton. And the Yankees made poor Tex the clown for their final hooray with the horseshide.

Tex's first pitch to Myril Hoag, substituting for the injured George Selkirk, came close to being a wild pitch. His second was a wild one and Dima's rushed over for a run. Hoag then doubled to left, scoring Gehrig and almost immediately took third on Carlton's second wild pitch. Gordon was given an intentional pass and made it all the fanner by stealing second without a play from Cat-hen O'Dea. Ruffing walked after fouling off several pitches and the bases were loaded, providing just the setting the Yankees desired, for in came Dean to relieve Carlton.

Frank Crosetti hit Diz's second pitch for a high fly that fell in short left field for a double, scored Hoag and Gordon. The comedy ended as Red Rolfe, completing the swing in the Yankee bat-around for the comical inning, lined out to First Baseman Rip Collins.

Whatever spirit the Cubs, beaten in every department of baseball, even in luck, had left, died out in the eighth. They nipped Ruffing for their 8th hit in their last gasp try in the 9th, but big Red mowed the next three batters down and it was all over, Herman providing the final out of one of the most pitiful World Series in history by hitting a light bouncer to Ruffing, who tossed to Ruffing.

Milk, fish, soy beans and meat are raw materials from which four different kinds of new synthetic fabrics are being developed.

United States agricultural exports to Canada the first half of 1938 were nearly double those of the corresponding period of 1937.

IT IS WISE TO LOOK BEFORE WE LEAP

It is understood that a protest against the facing of the new municipal building on Washington street instead of Fifth street will be presented before the Board of Aldermen at the regular monthly meeting of the board tomorrow night.

Since the purchase of the James property on Fifth street for the two buildings, however, most everyone felt that the two buildings would face Fifth street and be in addition to the attractiveness of our city.

It cannot be said that this block along Fifth street is not a beautiful site for these buildings, but we cannot understand why the city would want to purchase such valuable frontage on the street and then face the municipal office building on a side street instead of on Fifth Street.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 10—Considering the complicated and delicate situation in the Eighth Congressional primary battle, involving as principals C. B. Deane of Richmond and W. O. Burgin of Davidson, some of the headline writers are getting quite bold.

There was one, for instance: "Deane Not to Withdraw from the Race for Congress." The supporting story quoted Mr. Deane to that effect.

Still and all, this corner thinks a safer head might have been "Deane Says He Won't Quit Congress Race."

On the other hand there are those who say Deane practically can't quit because of the fact he's got his name on the ballot.

one chance to recoup financially—that's to get the $20,000 for serving two years in the House. About this phase of the matter, one John R. Jones, G. O. P. nominee, may have something to say; though odds are still heavily in favor of any Democratic candidate who can get his name printed on the ballot.

There's just about one certainty in connection with the whole election tangle—no matter which goes to Congress, Deane or Burgin, the foundation has already been laid for one of the worst knock-down-and-drag-out-raw-head-and-bloody-bores primary campaigns on record two years from now if the incumbent sticks his neck out for renomination.

Papers have been full of talk about "colorful" baseball players like Dizzy Deane, and "colorful" gridiron stars like "Sweet" Lalanne of Carolina's Tar Heels. For "colorful" honors, this column nominates the Raleigh law firm of Green and Gra.

"Forty shows, forty rides," boasts the management of the State Fair in talking about the Midway attractions this week.

But when a cynical reporter added: "Yeath and Ali Baba's Forty Thieves," there was indignant denial.

As a matter of fact Wake County Coroner-Magistrate L. M. Waring had announced he'll permit not even the old Bingo games, to operate at the Fair.

Which is as it may be, but we've heard the wind blow before.

The Board of Conservation and Development has "Gone West" with a vengeance—farther west than it has ever gone before for a meeting.

This morning at Waynesville the board approved recommendations of the game commission for changes in some of the hunting seasons, among them the season on quail, rabbits, possums, coons and ruffed grouse.

This afternoon the board is inspecting the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, going from Waynesville to Black Camp Gap to Hightower Ridge, the Round Bottom CCC camp, Cherokee Indian reservation, New Found Gap, Clingman's Dome and on toward Gatlinburg, Tenn., the western entrance to the park. The members are guests of the Waynesville Chamber of Commerce, and are being shown around the Smokies by J. Ross Eakin, superintendent of the Big National Park.

Tomorrow the board will give the Nantahala National Forest the once over, with a route something like this: Bryson City-Nantahala Gorge-Wayer's Bald-Franklin-Highlands-Cassiers-High Hampton-Sylva.

A principal objective of the board's western trip is increased co-operation between state and national Forest Services.

Washington—Well, here we are again with the Supreme Court on our hands, including Justice Black.

Insiders say that whatever the members may think of Justice Black's technique in writing majority decisions, they are increasingly wary of his dissents.

When a justice is assigned to write a decision of the court, the wording must satisfy all members of the majority before it is released. But a justice can write a dissent as he pleases.

In one instance, Justice Black held that federal courts were bound to accept interpretations of state courts as to the common law. Already the federal courts are obligated to accept the interpretation placed by state courts on state laws, regardless of what federal opinion may be. The importance attaching to his common law decision is that shortly after Black issued his dissenting opinion, the court came around to accept his view, overruling a locker full of older decisions.

Black Attracts Tourists. His associates knew at the time.

Burgin Backers Change Tactics In Election Row

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Oct. 8.—Attorneys and partisans of W. O. Burgin have effected a complete change of tactics in their fight to prevent certification of the nomination of C. B. Deane as Democratic candidate for Congress in the Eighth District.

Before the recent court hearing on the matter, and its subsequent appeal to the Supreme court, the Burgin lawyers specifically and unequivocally said there was no question of the State Board of Election's fairness. They admitted that and charged only that it had exceeded its powers.

But now the Burginites have maneuvered into the position where they plan to charge the State Board with bias, partisanship and unfairness.

Reason for this complete reversal of position is to be found in the text of the Supreme Court's decision, which definitely decided that the State Board of Elections has the power to review and supervise the findings of county boards so long as it exercises the "rudiments of fair play."

In view of that phrase in the decision there was nothing for the Burgin people to do except attempt to show that the board, in its review and supervision has not exercised these "rudiments."

This probably for the statements and charges coming out of Davidson county that the new county elections board over there is being completely dominated by the State Board and is being given absolutely no discretion to do otherwise than exactly as the State group directs.

Denial of these statements has been emphatically made by Raymond Maxwell, secretary of the State Board, and by the two functioning members of the Davidson board—Republican S. A. Delapp and Democrat M. L. Craver.

Both Mr. Maxwell and the board members say flatly that the State Board's records in connection with of his appointment that Black had a keen mind with which to acquire judicial knowledge. Tourists still find Justice Black the greatest attraction. "Which one is Justice Black?" they ask the guide, as they are ushered into the side-chambers from which they may view the court. He sits on the extreme right wing of the court, in spite of any leftist economic predilections he may have.

As court began its eight months session observers noted no change in the health of any. Brandeis, past 81, is bronzed and chipper. Observers believe he enjoys court sessions perhaps more keenly than any. He is never absent from even the briefest routine sessions save when his physician puts him to bed because of a cold.

McReynolds Is Different. Justice McReynolds, conservative, evidences least enjoyment of any in the sessions. He rarely attends court, routine sessions and occasionally is late at other sessions, although his health is good. He failed to show up at the opening session this term and immediately a rumor started that he remained away in "dissent" against the eulogy for the late liberal Justice Cardozo given by Chief Justice Hughes.

But that was a fumble-guess. McReynolds highly admired Cardozo, in spite of their diverging philosophies. As on other occasions, it was only a 15-minute session which he considered would not justify him leaving home, where he does his work.

McReynolds doesn't neglect his work, but he displays less enthusiasm for court business than when he was as one of the dominant conservative group. Since the court has gone liberal, he is one of the minority.

Most regular attendant, because his health is good, because he enjoys his job, and because he is chief justice, is Mr. Hughes.

In 1787 it took 19 persons living on farms to produce enough for themselves and one person in town, but now the same number on farms can provide for themselves and 66 persons in town.

Harris, Thomasville grocer who declined to take appointment to the board, are unwarranted. In a telegram to the board Mr. Harris declared that Mr. Maxwell's action in calling a Davidson board meeting in the office of one of Deane's attorneys was "unfortunate." He also asserted he would not serve on a board where his only function would be to carry out "orders" of the State Board.

To both items of this telegram Mr. Maxwell made a flat, absolute denial. He said there was no "meeting" of the Davidson board called in a Deane lawyer's office, though records of the State Board were there turned over to the new county board, which could meet wherever it wanted to. As to coercion of the county board into certifying returns only in blind obedience to State Board direction's the secretary said there is no hint of it.

For this reason, they claim, charges such as made by C. L.

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

The Characters
 Kathleen Gregory: peppery red-haired member of the Gregory clan, goes West incognito to secure a right-of-way for the Golden Girl mine.
 Donald MacDonald: young owner of the Stubbins Bygones, has refused the right-of-way, hates the Gregorlys.
 Bridget: Kathleen's companion.
 Yesterday: Kit-Smyth, superintendent, takes Kathleen to the Gregory mine where she meets Old Balm.

Chapter 10
 Old Balm

KIT-SMYTH'S hand was on Balm's arm. Other muckers had rushed to the old man's side, but only Kathleen smiled.

In the yellow circle of light she could see the man's face, his expression of patient hope, the glow of joy gradually fading, a look of bewilderment taking its place.

"Queer," he muttered. "I could a sworn it was Old Angus standing there. It's the way he always stood, the stubborn mon, heels flat to the ground so no one could move him."

"I'm sorry to disappoint you," Kathleen told him.

Suddenly the face was illumined. "Disappoint," he echoed. "Ah, not it seems dreams come true in their ain fashion."

Kit-Smyth, who had listened impatiently, took Kathleen's arm. "I'll show you—"

"But I'd rather stay here and talk to this gentleman," she objected.

"My dear young lady," began the superintendent—then whimsically, "oh, very well. Miss Rile, this is Balm, shift boss, and Miss Donahue. These young ladies are from Chicago. They're stopping here awhile. I judge they'll be your neighbors. I've wired Mr. Gregory for permission to rent the Gregory house."

"Aye," murmured the old man, but he shook his head as though to clear his ears of Kit-Smyth's voice.

"Go on with your lunch," Kathleen insisted, perched on a timber beside him.

"I've reached the pound cake. Will you join me?"

Kathleen didn't know which surprised her the more, herself in this undignified position, lunching with a mucker, or the cake.

"I made it," Balm told her. "Perhaps you would have tea with me some Sunday? This Sunday? I'll have some more. I've no wife to make it for me, these twenty years," he added.

Kathleen accepted for herself and for Bridget. They talked of other things, his garden, the mine, then when the other reappeared he took Kathleen's hand again.

"I don't talk overmuch, lass," he said, softly, and returning to the cake, Kathleen wondered what he meant.

Kit-Smyth discussed Balm, all of the way to his quarters, an imposing bungalow on a low hill beyond the mine.

"I wish I could get rid of that man," he fumed. "He gets worse every day. Take the way he acted towards you, Miss Rile."

"He acted the part of a gentleman," snapped Kathleen. "As far as his calling me, whatever it was, I once dashed through a store and kissed a strange woman thinking she was my mother."

"Oh, I know, but . . . well, it's his religion. Not that he preaches it, but he insists upon living it. If anybody hands him a dirty deal, he blesses them. Now what can you do with a man like that? You can't keep on fighting him."

Bridget's laugh trilled out. "He has you there," she admitted. "Is that why you don't fire him?"

Moving In
 "NO, AND he's getting too old to work. Old Angus brought him over from Scotland and when the boss died we found his will had taken care of Balm from that time on. He could work as long as he wanted to. He could own his own property and if he wanted more he could have it. And when he wanted to, mind you, wanted to stop work, we were to keep on paying him full salary and pay for any hospital or doctor's care he'd need."

Kathleen's eyes were wide with hope. Balm had not only been her grandfather's miner, he'd been his friend. Now she could learn all she wanted to learn.

"Funny his taking you for Old Angus," mused Kit-Smyth as they drove up before his bungalow.

Both girls admired Kit-Smyth's home. It was roomy, a bit overfurnished, but comfortable in a manly way.

The Scotch woman who presided over the domicile was proud and disapproving at his entertaining young ladies, until Kathleen removed her hat, then she beamed.

"You'll have plenty of attention from the Gregorlys," Kit-Smyth told Kathleen, as the woman retired from the room. "They have a softness for red-haired people. Old Angus had hair like a carrot top when he was young."

"A carrot top," came icily from Kathleen, "is green. But I'm glad someone likes it. I met that MacDonald person and he positively insulted me because of my hair."

The girls thought Kit-Smyth laughed unnecessarily loud and long. "The MacDonalds can't take it. They can do what they want to do up their town but they haven't a mine like ours and that's what counts in the long run."

According to Kit-Smyth, answering a call from The Golden Girl, the Gregorlys had consented to renting their house.

PENSION PLAN IS SCOFFED AT

Frowned on by N. C. Old Age Assistance Director

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, Oct. 8—A "thirty dollars every Thursday" pension plan for North Carolina would cost the taxpayers as much as the State now spends for all its governmental functions; while old age pensions of even $30 a month to all its aged would cost as much as operation of the entire public school system. Nathan Yelton, director of the Old Age Assistance division of the Department of Public Welfare said today.

The director was emphatic in his condemnation of wild-eyed schemes for paying tremendous pensions to old people, and expressed himself as very thankful that there are few North Carolina politicians trying to "delude" the old folks with "lucy money" plans.

He commented on the fact that two Republican candidates for Congress are toying, at least, with ideas of campaigning on bigger pension planks, and expressed the hope they will think better of the idea.

"One of the most serious obstacles we have had to contend with in administration of North Carolina's old age assistance is the idea which was prevalent throughout the state that every person over 65 years old would get a pension of $30 a month," he said.

"Since the division has been functioning for a year we have gradually been able to give county officials, as well as the old folks over the state, a clearer conception of what we are able to do.

"It would be extremely unfortunate if vote-hungry politicians should try to befuddle the people again with wild talk of huge pension payments.

"North Carolina is paying all it can in pensions now. Later it may be able to pay more, but not yet," he concluded.

In making his estimates of what higher pension payments would cost North Carolina, Mr. Yelton took as a basis the fact that there are a minimum of 150,000 Tar Heels 65 and over. This estimate, he said, is based on figures collected from the counties since establishment of the old age pension plan in the state.

Figuring a "thirty dollar every Thursday" cost, he arrived at the staggering total of $234,000,000 annually. He assumed, though he said it was a very far-fetched assumption, that the Federal government would be willing and able to contribute one-half this total; which left the sum to be paid by the state and its subdivisions at $117,000,000 a year—a grand total far, far in excess of the total cost of state government in North Carolina, where total tax collections and authorized expenditures for all purposes, including highway costs, were something like $70,000,000 for the past fiscal year.

Turning to the $30 monthly basis, he pointed out that such a plan, still using the 150,000 estimate for 65-year olds and over, would cost $54,000,000 a year, of which the state's share would be $27,000,000 or approximately the cost of operating North Carolina's public school system.

He said that agitation for increased old age pensions in other states has caused considerable discussion of the subject in North Carolina. In this connection he showed a letter from a Stoney Point man urging him to consider and endorse the California proposal—the thirty dollars every Thursday plan which kicked William G. McAdoo out of the Senate and into a $25,000 a year job—which will be voted on by the Far Westerners at this fall's elections.

He said that agitation for increased old age pensions in other states has caused considerable discussion of the subject in North Carolina. And a cat, Joey, shop for a cat with a dozen kittens. There are mice in here as big as donkeys. "Paek rats," Joey had informed her.

Kathleen wandered about the house on an inspection tour. She found framed lithographs of The Golden Girl in all its stages of development. There were two gaudily painted photographic enlargements in convex frames. One was her grandfather, no one but Old Angus could have grown a beard like that. She expected to hear a voice boom through at any moment.

She studied the second with swift interest. Was this young woman her grandmother? But she was beautiful—with the rich, languid beauty of the Latin race. And she reminded her of someone, especially the eyes with their passionate defiance.

Just as the living room had shown the Golden Girl in its various stages of development, the pictures in the master bedroom revealed photographs of her father, and of herself, from babyhood to the day of the old man's death.

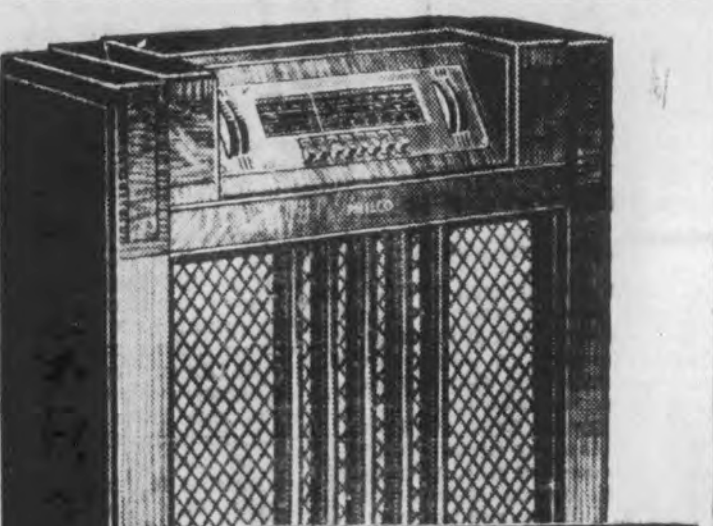

Kathleen removed these immediately. Suddenly she realized that this house was hers; her very own. The mine might be shared by other members of the clan, but this property belonged to the immediate descendants of the Angus Gregorlys, and she was the last of the line.

Today and Tomorrow Then This EDUCATIONAL FACTORY PIANO EXHIBIT Will Be Over

Come Today or Tonight. The WEAVER FACTORY PIANO EXHIBIT is About Over—A Great Advertisement—Everybody Well Pleased—If You Haven't Called Do So at Once and Gain This Information!

Exquisite Louis XV in Walnut Case

TODAY, TONIGHT, TOMORROW AND TOMORROW NIGHT—Then This Exhibit Will Be History!

Today and tomorrow will be the last days of the Weaver factory piano exhibit, and if you have not visited the exhibit you should do so now, as the time is short.

Never before in the history of this city has there been such a grand display of sample pianos.

There are seventeen of them, all in different case designs. There is the beautiful Early American in handsome San Domingo Mahogany, also in the most beautiful walnut case. Some of them are handsomely carved, and it is a veritable feast for the eyes.

Each caller can have the opportunity to express their personal taste in this particular art.

Call now and see this time honored piano. The voting is very lively, and it is interesting to see the different styles and how they are classed by the callers.

It is the object of the factory to advertise them; to show you points of merit and construction so that you can be able to judge for yourself. You don't need to take anybody's word for it; you can see it with your own eyes.

We strip the piano from the ground up and show you; we lay it all bare before your eyes. Never has there been such an opportunity for you to look into this question from a practical standpoint. It is certainly worth your while to visit the exhibit today and gain information that will be worth a great deal to you in selecting a piano. If you have a piano you should call anyway. It will help you to know your own piano. It is the desire of the gentlemen in charge to have everyone to see this exhibit, because in showing one each of the samples built by the great Weaver factory and pointing out special features contained, it is better than any magazine advertisement or circular letter. The pianos are not for sale. However, after the exhibit all the samples will be sold according to factory billing, after which our dealers can secure subsequent sales at the regular price by referring to these samples.

We extend an invitation to the public to call. The exhibit closes Tuesday night, 9:30—look for the big sign.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened four lower to two higher with liquidation of near positions and foreign buying of late months. December advanced from 8.16 to 8.25 and sold at 8.23 shortly after the first half hour, when the list showed net advances of four to six points. December, which advanced to 8.26, held the gain at midday and the list was five to eight points net higher.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Buying of utilities took the edge off profit taking losses in other stock market groups today. Aside from the relative liveliness of power and light issues, however, the list seemed rather fatigued after its sharp climb in nine out of 10 sessions for new highs for the past year.

The pace was speedy at the opening, putting the ticker tape behind for a brief interval. There was a subsequent el-down. The utilities section then came forward along with a number of low-priced stocks and while declines predominated near the fourth hour, small gains were in evidence here and there.

European markets turned irregular in the wake of Hitler's address and selling and the French franc dipped in terms of the dollar. Bonds just about held their own and commodities were uneven.

ANTI-MALARIA DRIVE PUSHED

State Board of Health Wages Campaign Against Disease

Reflecter Bureau Raleigh, Oct. 10.—Complete surveys of three counties are in progress as the State Board of Health presses a campaign designed to rid North Carolina entirely of malaria in fever.

"Malaria must go!" is the slogan adopted by Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, State Health Officer, in emphasizing important of preserving gains already made in the campaign and outlining plans for intensification of the drive.

"All ditches and canals constructed for malaria should be kept clean and free from any and all obstructions," Dr. Reynolds explained. He announced plans to make complete surveys in three counties a year, in territory where malaria is prevalent. In each county health officer will take blood slides from all school children in the county through the first six grades.

These slides will be sent to the laboratory for examination and the home of each child with a positive test will be marked on a large map. From the density of such homes, the malaria foci of the county can be obtained.

"In this manner, there is established a complete malaria picture of the territory surveyed," said Dr. Reynolds. "In each focal area a detailed map is prepared, showing all the homes and the amount of protection afforded at each against mosquito breeding places also shown."

More than 10,000 blood slides have been taken in Edgecombe and Robeson counties. Dr. Reynolds said children in each school ranged from zero to sixty-two per cent positive. Fact-finding campaigns are now under way in Pitt, Halifax and Wayne counties. Financing control measures is purely a local matter, but the State Board of Health gives its co-operation in the form of technical supervision.

The board's control unit also is promoting work in other parts of the state through co-operation with various governmental units. "Many companies are doing much to promote malaria control," said the Health Officer. "They are spending considerable money to keep their reservoirs from becoming menaces to health. Towns and cities also are putting on adequate control programs. Included in this group are Wilmington, Dunn, Durham, Rocky Mount, Fayetteville, Lumberton, Tarboro and others, while the Federal Farm Security Administration and the McNair corporation have assigned three men to devote their entire time to oiling canals in the vicinity of Harper's Ferry in Robeson county."

Notable decreases in malaria have been shown where control work has been intensive. At one point where a drainage project was completed two and a half years ago when malaria conditions were bad, a recent blood slide survey covering more than two hundred persons showed all to be negative. Dr. Reynolds said. "During the past two years, thru June 30, 1938, 704 miles of ditches and canals have been constructed and 391 miles of existing ditches cleaned through co-operation of the WPA. This drained 13,800 acres of mosquito-breeding ponds and swamps. Sixty acres of ponds were eliminated by filling. To do this, the services of 1,670 workers and seven dredges were required each month," he said.

"It is a significant and pleasing fact that more than half a million persons have been given protection through this work in North Carolina, and approximately 22 per cent of the cost has been borne by those directly benefited."

Dr. Reynolds highly praised the personnel of the Division of Epidemiology, headed by Dr. J. C. Knox which has charge of the malaria control work. He mentioned, in particular, Charles M. White, engineer; D. F. Ashton, entomologist and two laboratory technicians, Misses Alice Thomas and Mary Reeves.
