SAYS BANKERS BEHIND MOVES FOR WAGE CUT

Railroad Labor Witness Testifies During Hearing

PIJTS BLAME ON MORGAN COMP'Y

Chief Justice Stacy, Chairman of Special Committee, Refuses to Halt Testimony

Washington, Oct. 11. (AP)—A railroad labor witness charged today the demand for a 15 per cent wage cut came from "a small inner group of so-called investment bankers symbolized and dominated by the private banking house of J. P. Morgan and Company."

W. J. Lauck, economist for Railroad Brotherhoods, urged President Roosevelt's emergency tax-finding board to look into the financial history of railroads before deciding upon the wage reduction against which 1,000,000 workers have voted a protest strike.

"There is an emergency, but not from the public or employees standpoint," he said. "It is an emergency for the private banking houses which have controlled the railroads, and which do not wish to be ousted from such control in the future."

J. Carter Fort, chief railroad counsel, strenuously objected to the contents of Lauck's statement, on the ground he was "making an argument unsupported by any fact."

Chief Justice Walter Stacy of the North Carolina State Supreme court, chairman of the board, allowed the labor witness to continue his statement, saying it would be accepted for what it was worth.

Other developments: The Civil Service Commission announced it would receive until the close of business on November 1 applications for postmastercy in Wilson, N. C.

Illicit Distillery Is Found On Raft

J. M. Ward and J. L. Taylor, special ABC enforcement officers, said today they had found stills in many places, but the past week and was the first time they had located one on a raft in a stream of water.

The officers, working with Beaufort ABC and federal officers, located a still which was just being completed and had not been operated, on a run off Tranter's creek. No one was at the still and the officers had arrested them, they would not have known whether to bring them to Greenville or take them to Washington as the raft was declared to have been located directly on the county line.

During the search the officers located another still, a 120-gallon capacity copper plant, in Beaufort county. The operators fled when signal shots were fired by a "watcher."

Both stills were blown up with dynamite.

Citizens Invited To Board Meeting

All persons interested in the proposed city hall and fire station are invited to attend a meeting of the Greenville Board of Aldermen tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, at which time the architect will be present and discuss the two projects.

In announcing the meeting, which originally had been set for tonight, Mayor M. K. Blount declared that all persons interested in the two projects were especially invited to be present and learn the status of each.

Following the action of the board to face the city hall on Washington street there has been some opposition expressed to the plan and Mayor Blount said he would like for anyone interested to attend the meeting and hear the proposal discussed with the architect.

BENES SOUGHT FOR HIGH POST

Former Czech President Undecided On Rectorship

London, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak legation said tonight it had received word from former President Eduard Benes that he had not accepted and had not yet considered an invitation to be the Scottish Nationalist candidate for rector of Glasgow university.

This followed an announcement by Scottish Nationalists to a big student meeting at Glasgow that Benes had agreed to stand for the rectorship, a purely honorary post, in the election October 22.

Posters were put up reading: "Vote for Benes, the man who saved the world."

The Glasgow announcement said Benes' acceptance had been received from a close friend of the former president in London. But the legation spokesman asserted no one in London had authority to give such acceptance.

BATTLE RAGES ON EBRO RIVER

Heaviest Fighting In Weeks Reported In Spanish War

Hendaye, France, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The heaviest fighting in weeks in Spain's civil war raged today on the Ebro river front, where Government dispatches said a sudden offensive by Government militiamen had resulted in capture of the strategic Pandols mountains and threatened Gaudesca itself.

The battle late yesterday, when Government troops, who had been holding their lines against a series of insurgent local attacks, launched a carefully planned offensive.

Wave after wave of militiamen, protected by heavy artillery fire, swept across a ravine which was the scene of terrific fighting nearly a month ago, when the Government halted one of General Franco's attempts to push them back to the Ebro.

Gaudesca, important communications center in northeastern Spain also was the goal of the Government's surprise offensive, launched July 25 when militiamen swept across the Ebro and drove to within a few miles of the city before being halted. Since then action on the Ebro front has consisted largely of the insurgent's efforts to regain the territory west of the Ebro.

Also ready for convention action were reported dealing with activities of labor's non-partisan league and demands of Pater's union for removal of RFC officials on the grounds they approve loans to employers paying sub-standard wages and refusing to bargain collectively.

BRITON DENIED ENTRY OF U. S.

Ex-Member of Parliament Excluded By Immigration Dept.

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—John Strachey, British Leftist, today was ordered excluded from the United States.

The order, issued by a special board of inquiry of the immigration authorities at Ellis island, classed the lecturer and author as a "non-immigrant not in possession of a properly vised passport."

Strachey arrived yesterday on the liner Normandie and promptly was taken into custody by immigration officials. The officials had been notified by the State department that the former British Parliament member's visa had been cancelled a few hours before the Normandie sailed.

Strachey spent last night aboard the Normandie. Today he was taken to Ellis island for the board's hearing. Then he was given a sitting room, bed room and bath to occupy until he is deported or wins an appeal to the Secretary of Labor, the only recourse now open to him.

"Blackout" Explained By District Chief

J. H. Rose, district chief of the anti-aircraft defense, today issued a statement in an attempt to correct misunderstanding regarding the "blackout" here on Thursday night.

The statement follows in full: There is a lot of misinformation and misunderstanding concerning the air defense plans in this sector. Please read the following so that you may be acquainted with the plans:

In the first place there is to be no shooting. Planes will pass over at certain times in the day or night but there will be no fireworks in this area. You will hear these planes at times, but most of the times they will fly at a high altitude.

During the "blackout" period on Thursday night there will be no particular excitement. It is possible that during that night the people in this area may not see or hear a single plane. We are part of the defense and when towns and cities "blackout" it simply makes it harder for the attacking planes to reach their objective, namely: Fort Bragg.

We are mainly trying to find out how much the public is willing to cooperate. The power plants will continue to operate. The power plants will function as usual. At these plants the street lights will be cut off. Then it will be up to the rest of us to cut out filling station lights, store windows, neon and other signs. In homes people are requested to cut off porch lights and pull down shades.

Please do not expect any excitement or anything unusual.

PUBLIC URGED TO COOPERATE IN 'BLACKOUT'

Asked to Cut Out or Dim All Lights On Thursday Night

T. J. SWAIN CHIEF OF PITT COUNTY

Objective Will Be To Test Effectiveness of Volunteer Defense From Aircraft

Citizens of Greenville and other Pitt county towns are urged to cooperate in the "blackout" here Thursday night between the hours of 6 and 10 o'clock, to test the effectiveness of volunteer defense from enemy airplanes.

T. J. Swain, in charge of the experiment in Pitt county, declared today that all persons should help make the city as dark as possible so that invading craft will not be able to locate cities and towns.

Greenville citizens will be advised of the "zero" hour by signals from the fire alarm. Five blasts will be the signal for "lights on." It was pointed out that the plan will be strictly voluntary. The power plants will not cut off electricity but residents of the various towns are urged to cut off their porch lights and pull down their shades if they keep the lights on inside the house; motorists, on the streets at the hour are urged to dim their lights and business men are being requested to cut off their store window lights. Filling stations are urged to cut off or dim their lights, and persons having neon signs are especially asked to cut them off.

Mr. Swain said the idea was merely to make the town as dark as possible, just as would be done in case real enemy planes were threatening to soar over the city and drop explosives.

J. H. Rose is district manager of the anti-aircraft maneuvers being conducted in Eastern North Carolina, and in another story today corrects a lot of misinformation concerning the defense.

It is possible, it was explained, that citizens will not even be able to see or hear the enemy planes because of their height. The planes will be en route from Langley Field Va., home base of the enemy craft, to Fort Bragg, home base of the defense planes. The "blackout" also is designed to make it harder for the attacking planes to reach their objective, Fort Bragg.

Seek Determine Ability Of Citizens Spot Planes

Invading 'Black' Aircraft Flying Over East Carolina

Fort Bragg, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The ability of untrained civilians to spot invading airplanes at their maximum altitude is being tested today over Eastern North Carolina as part of the anti-aircraft warning net exercises which may begin a new epoch in national defense.

For the last 24 hours some 2,000 volunteer civilian observers, among them 500 women, have been on the alert as problems of increasing difficulty have been given them.

During the first exercises, long before dawn yesterday, one invading "black" plane came in from Langley Field, Va., at an altitude of 10,000 feet, except for one flight, so the volunteer observers could spot them.

Groggy with sleep these doctors, lawyers, farmers and coastguardsmen turned out at 3:30 a. m. to flash the progress of the 33 attacking planes during their four-hour maneuver against Fort Bragg.

This was intended as a test of the operation of the volunteer net. Today, however, in the first daylight attack, giant "black" four-engine B-17 flying fortresses and Martin B-10 bombers roared across the Atlantic coast line at their maximum ceilings, more than 22,000 feet, for the Boeings. At this altitude the craft were expected to be invisible except with the aid of glasses and virtually inaudible.

A low flying attack was planned to follow the bombers to distract the observers and shield the bombers from an anti-aircraft batteries with a smoke screen.

First reports indicated the volunteer observers were experiencing little difficulty in detecting the planes at high altitude.

STRIVING FOR NEW INDUSTRY

Chamber Commerce Head Encouraged at Progress

J. Nat Harrison, president of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, appeared pleased today with the progress being made toward meeting certain terms whereby a new year-round industry will be brought to Greenville.

The new firm, details of which are being withheld pending a decision as to whether it will locate here, will employ more than 100 persons, with an annual payroll of $100,000.

"I am very much pleased with the cooperation of the business interests of the city," declared President Harrison, "but the job is not completed."

"Although we are confidently expecting the results will be satisfactory within the next few days, we still need the cooperation of the Greenville business interests to bring this new industry here," added Mr. Harrison.

The Chamber of Commerce president declared the new industry would mean much to Greenville. He pointed out that it would provide the city with a year-round payroll.

A survey is being made of the city to determine if the leading citizens are interested in subscribing funds to erect a building to lease to the new industry, but President Harrison said that anyone wishing more information on the proposal could secure it by calling the Chamber of Commerce office.

CZECH BORDER TOWN ENTERED BY HUNG'RIANS

First Actual Transfer of Territory Effectuated Today

POPULACE HAILS ENTRY OF TROOPS

Soldiers Welcomed In Name of Approximately Million Hungarians in Czecho

Ipolsag, on the Czech-Hungarian Border, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Hungarian troops occupied this Czechoslovak border town at 1:20 p. m. today in the first actual transfer in Hungary's drive to regain part of the land she lost to Czechoslovakia after the World war.

More than 4,000 residents of this town, 50 miles north of Budapest, sang, danced and kissed the incoming Hungarian soldiers, whom they welcomed in the name of the approximately 1,000,000 Hungarians in territory Budapest is demanding from the dismembered Czech state.

Military bands played fiery Hungarian music. The day was celebrated as a Hungarian national holiday and acclaimed as ending for Hungarians in Czechoslovakia.

(Dispatches from Komorom, the border town where Hungarian and Czech envoys are negotiating over cession of territory, reported Hungarian troops also occupied an important railway junction across the frontier from a Hungarian town 150 miles northeast of Budapest.)

(Agreement was reached Sunday at Komorom that these two points would be occupied to symbolize Czechoslovakia's willingness in principle to meet Hungary's demands.)

(Budapest has disclosed these include transfer of over 6,000 square miles; Pague has indicated this particular demand was considered excessive.)

Great Tenor Twice Decorated.

E.C.T.C.'s first artist of the year's series, Giovanni Martinelli, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has made such a name for himself and his native country that he has been twice decorated by the king of Italy.

Starting from his first appearance in Milan in 1910, he appeared in every center of music in Europe before he came to link himself with this country through the Metropolitan three years later.

He was known in Milan, Genoa, Naples, Monte Carlo, Turin, Budapest, Brussels, London and other centers in Europe.

Since then, he has appeared in the same way throughout the United States, in opera and on the concert stage.

His favorite role is the one he assumed after the death of Caruso, that of Elcazor in "La Juive," which he likes because it is such a dramatic part.

Pitt County Alumnae Meet.

The forty-sixth anniversary of the founding of Woman's College of the University of North Carolina was celebrated by loyal Pitt alumnae in an annual meeting at the Woman's Club.

Clever questions, a hundred in number, testing and recalling facts about the college and the world in general, disclosed about half as many correct answers, but did not discourage any alumnae as to whether she was "educated" or not.

Hot tea and sandwiches furnished by Mrs. J. H. Blount, Mrs. B. B. Sugg and Mrs. C. G. Hilton concluded the meeting. The same officers were continued for a second year.

Mrs. C. C. Hilton, Pres. Mrs. Luther Herring, Secy.

Rotary-Anns Entertained.

Rotary-Anns last night got a chance to see how their husbands behave at civic club meetings—or at least how they behave when their wives are guests—and both the Rotarians and Rotary-Anns enjoyed two hours of fun, humorous talks, singing and a bountiful chicken dinner.

The occasion was the Rotary Club's ladies' night, headlined by 45 minutes or an hour of genuine entertainment by Edmund Harding, president of the Washington, N. C., Rotary Club, who told one interesting and amusing story after another and climaxed his talk with several numbers on the accordion, with the entire group joining in the singing.

F. C. Harding, a cousin of Rotarian F. C. Harding, spoke on the subject "What's the Matter with the Biscuits?" He illustrated his talk with a platter of biscuits, something wrong with each, some with too much salt, some too much dough, others not enough, some with too much shortening, some not enough, some burned, some too raw, etc.

The speaker then changed his course to "What's the Matter with the Rotarians?" and proceeded to tell the women what their husbands were really like, what the women would like them to be and what they would not like them to be like. He kept the entire group shouting with laughter throughout his talk.

The meeting was opened amid the beautifully decorated dining hall of the Rotary house, with baskets of flowers throughout the room, and a red rose by every person's plate.

Dr. J. L. Winstead, president, opened the meeting and then turned the program over to T. Y. Walker, who ably acted as toastmaster throughout the evening.

Mr. Walker introduced "our own Bill Lee," who sang two numbers, "Without a Song," and "You Go To My Head." He was accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Smith, who also provided music for the group singing.

Herbert ReBarker welcomed the ladies, relating characteristics of various members of the club. Turning to the serious side, he told the women it was a real pleasure to have them present.

Mrs. L. A. Stroud responded, declaring the women were glad of an opportunity to see their husbands "off balance." She said that occasions such as the one last night brought a better understanding between the men and their wives. A poem on "What Is Woman?" evoked much amusement.

A number of prizes then were given the ladies. The gifts were in addition to the beautiful vases with Rotary emblem presented each woman and also in addition to paper caps, which were donned by both

ELECTION ROW GROWS HOTTER

All Pretense of Gentility Dropped in Dispute

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 11.—All pretense of gentility has been dropped in the embittered Burgin-Deane election contest and from now on there will be no Marquis of Queensberry rules. Hitting in the legal clinches will be an accepted thing and it will be a miracle if somebody doesn't get a political eye soured out before the end.

Action of Burgin counsel in attacking the State Board of Elections as arbitrary and partisan in its conduct of its investigation in Davidson county brought quick reprisal from the board's chairman who is filing affidavits in the case outlining just what steps he took, with whom he conferred and what efforts have been made to keep the probe from absolutely blowing the lid off to the detriment of the Democratic party.

Mr. Lucas and at least three other members of the state board are now really fighting mad. They bitterly and deeply resent what they term an insidious campaign to smear them.

At one stage of the affair the chairman, disgusted at what he believes are unwarranted attacks on the board's fairness, considered resigning, but soon gave up the idea of quitting under fire.

Warren Hall and Adrian Mitchell, the two Republican members, have publicly declared their intention to fight the thing to a finish. J. O. Bell, veteran Democrat from the West, has announced he is ready to stick "until Hell freezes over."

According to reliable sources, Chairman Lucas has gone straight to Governor Clyde R. Hoey and told the Chief Executive he no longer feels bound in any way to "protect" the Democratic party by "going easy" in the investigation. Persistent reports are that the "going easy" policy is all that kept the State Board out of Davidson county when the controversy first started. The State board now feels that was a terrible mistake. Any way Satan's a-stirrin' for fair.

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

The Characters
Kathleen Gregory: peppery red-haired member of the Gregory clan, goes West incognito to secure a right-of-way for The Golden Girl mine.
Donald MacDonald: young owner of The Stubborn Boy mine, has refused the right of way, hates the Gregorys.
Bridget: Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday, Kathleen and Bridget moved into the Gregory half of the divided house.

Chapter 11
A Confession
MENTALLY Kathleen began re-furnishing, decorating, modernizing the house. She confided her plans to Bridget.

Bridget waited a moment as though, dreading to crush this first desire to create a home.

"You'll have to let that go for a little while," she warned. "This is a rented house and you're a working girl on Sabbatical leave."

Bridget, investigating deep chests for the bedding and linen she'd been advised they held, looked up. "These smell to the high heavens. They've enough moth preventative—Cleo, what are you worrying about?"

"I'm not worrying, I'm just wondering where Dad, coming from a home like this, gets his flair for color and rich fabrics. He's positively oriental in taste. Of course it could be psychological revolt."

"Look!" Bridget's arms had dipped into a chest. Now they came up dripping with cascades of colored lights, the gleam of scarlet satin, silk of peacock blue, sheen of golden velvet, brocades, tarnished metal cloth.

"Here's your answer," she told Kathleen. "These are ancient, and, my dear, there's a mystery in this house we haven't known existed."

Kathleen said nothing. She felt she was on the threshold of a new world and a word spoken, might shatter its fragile entity.

Bedding was found and aired in the waning sun. Then darkness gathered and the girls dined before the living room hearth on bread, cheese and tea, refusing to share the kitchen with the pack rats.

Joe's contribution to the household, sprawled, jumped and rolled on the hearth-stone. It wasn't the season for kittens, he explained, so he'd brought a mother cat with her latest litter now grown to formidable proportions.

The mother cat, a cross between a tiger and a calico, with a white vest and a few black spots thrown in for good measure, was promptly called Circe; the kittens collectively tabulated as the forty-niners.

That night Kathleen slept in the bed from which her grandparents had departed. She neither thought nor dreamed of them. Her mind was occupied with bitter triumph. Here she was, literally in the same building with Donald MacDonald. And he was coming into this side of the house, not to see Bridget, but to visit a "damned Gregory."

Curled into the one warm island on a vast, hard sea of toy sheets, she mapped her campaign. First on the list was control of her temper. Instead of retorting in kind, she would give that MacDonald person such sweet answers he'd be ashamed of himself.

By remaining on the scene, she could turn on the charm which had reduced other men to subjection then when she had him just where she wanted him, she'd bargain for the right-of-way.

Pack Rats
SHE slept on that and awakened to a new day; a day filled with trials the first of which rested on her white bedspread and brought a shriek of terror from her.

Circe was sitting there, her whiskers, spraying from her mouth with pride. Between her forepaws lay the corpulent remains of a rat. "Take it away," she screamed. "Take it away."

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—Two of the newer Riado productions are important because (a) they have the reviews feeding, always a healthy stimulant (b) some new terminology has been added to cafe vocabulary.

The first of these is "Hells-a-Poppin," a crazy madcap revue which starts out like a Motion Picture with a screen on the stage. After the title comes the modest statement that this is a "Great, Colossal, Magnificent, Fabulously Marvelous and Wonderful" production.

"It has romance," says a subtitle, and then the scene flashes to an old action scene of Dempsey knocking out Firpo. "It has action," shrills the voice on the screen, and the action then reveals a placid moo-cow thoughtfully chewing her cud. Then President Roosevelt, Hitler, Mussolini and John L. Lewis are flashed on the screen, making speeches. However, for their actual words have been substituted some exceedingly bawdy and hilarious remarks by a dubbed in voice Hitler, for instance, speaks in the worst East Side Jewish dialect you ever heard, and the audience is panicked. Then Mussolini comes on and his voice is that of Brother Crawford from Amos and Andy. One critic thought it was wonderful, and a couple thought it was the worst thing ever produced on Broadway. Now they (the critics) are jibing each other in their daily essays.

The second show listed in our treatise on the drama today is "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," which has the most refreshing idea a farce could have. It is based on the Hollywood search for a character to play the role of Scarlet O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind." "Gone With the Wind" has been thinly disguised as "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" by Clare Boothe Luce. Miss Boothe is the author of last season's "The Women." The Scarlett O'Hara of "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" is known here as Velvet O'Toole, daughter of a Senator from the Deep South. She arrives in Connecticut for a week-end with a group of rich Yankees, and the fun begins.

This southern belle, who is the sum and essence of every southern belle ever created in the minds of stickily sentimental novelists, falls into a "snit" when they insult and shock her by their rude manners. A "snit," she reveals, is a fit, or a rage.

Later they ask her if she'll have a drink and she replies, "I'll have a short go." A short go, it appears, is a jigger of straight corn.

During a scene in which the producer manifests more than a passing interest in her she backs away from him and says, "Now let me get my ducks in a straight line." Then she wants to know whether his intentions are honorable or not.

For the purposes of this column the producer's intentions are unimportant. It's the "snit," the "short go" and the "Let me get my ducks in a straight line" that count. After the opening everybody was having "snits" and in the bars, to which the smartypants retired, the bartenders gravely complied with requests for "short goes" without even the lifting of an eyebrow.

Verily, Miss Velvet O'Toole is the town's reigning belle. Her real name is Helen Claire and she is an Alabama lass come to New York by way of Virginia. Personally, I think she's wonderful.

Maxwell Now Opposed Highway Fund Diversion

Raleigh, Oct. 10.—Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell is now an avowed and fighting opponent of diversion of highway funds because he has become convinced that the most pressing need of the state today is to make its highways adequate for the demands upon them.

The Commissioner said so when asked why it is that, after being known for years as the "strategist of diversion" he has taken such an unequivocal stand against the practice he has sponsored in the past. "I haven't switched principles at all," he said. "For some years we faced such tremendous financial difficulties that revenue just had to be taken from any and all sources to make both ends meet. But since I have been studying highways—particularly from the safety angle—intensely for more than a year, I have become convinced that there is no more pressing need for spending than our highways.

Therefore, I am thoroughly convinced that no revenue from special automotive taxes should be diverted to any other purpose." He pointed out that North Carolina's highway system was built

The automobile death and accident rate has shown a steady decline for a number of months.

We are entering the most dangerous driving months. Fall brings rains, to be followed by the ice and snows of winter.

The wise driver will prepare for this dangerous period. And preparation should take two forms.

Remember that chance-taking isn't clever. Any fool can push the throttle to the floorboards, pass on hills and curves, disregard adverse weather conditions, and perform similar acts of idiotic recklessness.

Drive safely all the time. And be especially careful in the fall and winter seasons.

There's still some question which are the worst crushed and most dependent—the Czechs or the Cubans.

State College students and partisans are swarming around so rapidly this week you'd think the Wolfpack had won last Saturday.

Despite the fact nobody can point out how it's to be done, there is a quite generally prevalent feeling that the Democrats will get a nominal victory on the Eighth District Congressional ticket for the November election, somehow or other.

Raleigh's main drag—Fayetteville street—is gaily decorated for Fair Week. There will be free acts on a specially erected stand in front of the Wake county courthouse every morning this week at 10:30.

Rumor has it, however, that the justices, other than the chief, were in fact divided three-three and left the final ruling up to Stacy.

With the Chief Justice in Washington hearing the rail wage row, that might have an important effect on any decision made between now and the November election, as an evenly divided court automatically affirms any lower court judgment, without setting any precedent which might later trouble the court.

All that's a bit on the nebulous side, however, as nobody can really say how the justices stood before or how they'll stand again.

"The children are besieging me for Fair tickets, so I'm beseeching you to send me three thousand," the Pender county school superintendent wired Dr. J. S. Dorton, manager of the State Fair.

It seems impossible to convince some state employees that Gregg Cherry's "quota" campaign fund letter wasn't designed to raise money primarily for use in the 1938 Congressional district.

No matter whose name gets on the Eighth district ballot, or when it gets there, absentee balloting over there is likely to be greatly curtailed in the General Election. Davidson county isn't likely to show up with 24 per cent absentees, as it did in the July primary.

From July 1, 1937, to June 30, 1938, the government spent $47,500,000 buying up surplus products and diverting them into relief channels.

HIGH GRIDDERS DRILLING HARD

Phantoms Preparing to Meet Rich Square Here Saturday

The Green Phantoms of G. H. S. are holding long and hard drills at the Third street park in preparation for Friday's contest with Rich Square. The game will be played here and will start promptly at 3:15.

Last Friday, the G. H. S. grid-ders scored an impressive victory over the Tarboro eleven by the score of 23-0. This was a surprising score rallied up by the locals, as the Tarboro team was rated highly by the ones who had previously seen them in action. The Greenies offered a much improved all-round game with Tarboro from the game with Plymouth. Their blocking was very noticeably improved and the running attack clicked with precision. Also, as usual the reliable Phantom forward wall tackling, and trying to correct their mistakes in their previous contests under the able direction of Coaches Farley and Fiederson.

Vincent Tucker and Gibson, the line mainstays, were the outstanding linemen of Friday's game with Tarboro. Williams, Hardy, and Collins also played a fine game in the line. In the backfield Stokes, Trindall, Lautares and J. B. Kittrell featured. Kittrell's devastating block in the third period enabled Tucker Phantom guard, to run 70 yards for a touchdown after intercepting a pass on Greenville's 30 yard line. Taylor and Peele, playing on their high school gridiron contest, also offered fine play.

The Phantoms were again hard hit by injuries. John Collins, first string end, suffered a broken finger late in the first quarter and will be out of action for at least three weeks or a month. This is a serious loss to the squad as the team is weak in end reserves. Stafford, erstwhile tackle, has been shifted to end to help offset this loss. Leslie Babcock, who has been out two weeks with sinus trouble has also returned to the squad, which makes the end problem less confusing and less cause for worry. Another injury to a Phantom player in Friday's game occurred in the third quarter. Earl Kittrell, outstanding first string tackle, was knocked out while attempting to block two Tarboro players. He had to be replaced by a substitute and has had to remain in bed over the week-end. The Doctor said that he suffered a slight concussion though not serious. Kittrell will not probably be lost to the squad very long, however.

A joyful note was struck in the Phantom squad with the return of George Sakas, snake-hipped back-field candidate, who played on the Phantom squad in '36 and was considered a mainstay in the backfield. Coach Farley has stationed him at the wingback position. Until now George Tyndall has had to hold down that position alone and had to play the entire game with Tarboro.

A better larger crowd attended Friday's and a still larger crowd is expected to turn out Friday to see Greenies scrap with the Rich Square eleven. Rich Square has a light but a fighting eleven and are expected to put up a good fight. With two consecutive wins under their belt, the G. H. S. squad will be out to keep their record clean. Last year they beat Rich Square 28-6.

Miss Edwards Winner Of Several Contests

16-MISS inside SPOON Miss Mildred Bell Edwards of Hamston, Winterville township, has won many other 4-H club honors other than the state style review, declared Miss Ethel Nice, home demonstration agent who is due much credit for training the Pitt county girl in club work.

Miss Edwards is considering her second year as president of the Pitt county club council. She also is president of the Pierce club. A graduate of Ayden High school last year, she has been in the club work for four years, during which time she has carried on other projects including room improvement, handicraft and canning.

Last year she won the state-wide style show in woolen dress division and second place in the entire field. She was awarded a gold medal for being declared the Pitt county winner and a bracelet for winning in the woolen dress division, a honor she also won this year in addition QUESTION: What are the advantages of the double wing-back formation with the tailback up close?

Answer: Here's a diagram:
00X0000
0

This formation helps to keep defense balanced or from over-shifting because of equal running strength in both directions, gives a lot of deception, pulls interferences from good spots, affords quick punch through middle, allows four men down the field on passes and three linemen can pull ahead of reverses.

COL. RUPPERT GETS THE NEWS!

Local Boys Term Paper Priceless Theatre Model

(From The Old Gold and Black) Wake Forest—Students who find a penknife easier to handle than a fountain pen may want to follow the example of Herbert Hadley from Greenville, who with the aid of a few tools and a knack for woodcarving has almost finished his sophomore English term paper.

The "term paper," according to Dr. H. B. Jones, head of the English department, is "priceless," and in its field is one of the finest pieces of work ever turned in by a student.

Hadley, who last year was voted "the typical Wake Forest student" by the Howler Staff, has by his work proved that he is far from typical. Modestly he says, "Aw, I just thought it would be something to do in my spare time, so I threw some pieces of wood together." Actually he spent many hours of wearisome toil over his task.

For ground work he read "all available information on his subject," covering the construction of Elizabethan buildings thoroughly. He chose carefully the types of wood used by the Englishmen of old, digging diligently into ancient and scarcely-read literature.

Today his work is almost complete. It stands in the English department on a table, and all students are welcome to come in and inspect it. Approximately 30 inches in height, it is accurate from the tip of the cupola where the English flag was flown and from which various fiery characters were let down on ropes, as in flight, to the bottom of the pit, unprotected from the elements, to view the plays of the day.

Hadley used more than 1,500 minute wooden shingles in constructing the roof. These he painstakingly carved from the same type of wood used in the original theatre. The three balconies which cover three-fourths of the inside wall are made of delicate wood-work, as are the tiny staircase and minute landings, which are covered with red plush rugs.

The model is built with hinges to the general contest. She was awarded a free trip to Chicago to attend the national 4-H club meeting the latter part of November and the first of December. She will be accompanied by state 4-H club leaders and winners of other contests.

MAY TRANSFER STATE PATROL

Force May be Put Under Proposed Dept. of Justice

Raleigh, Oct. 11.—Tucked away in the recommendation for establishment of a State Department of Justice there is listed at least one matter likely to become a lively legislative issue if it gets into the 1939 General Assembly—transfer of the State Highway Patrol to the proposed Department of Justice.

The gentlemen who studied the Department of Justice program no doubt can cite numerous reasons why the patrol should be under the law enforcing department, rather than under the revenue collecting, but when it comes down to the practical matter of getting it there, political toes are going to be stepped on and there is going to be determined opposition.

In justice to the present Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell and to immediately past Commander Arthur Fuik it should be said here and now that within the last couple of years there hasn't been much complaint about the patrol's political activities, but it is such a handy political instrument to have being around that no practical politician can be blamed much for hating to give it up.

Commissioner Maxwell has recommended that the patrol personnel be increased, but there is nothing to indicate that he would regard with favor any plan to take it from under his wing—though he has gone so far as to say he feels it's a matter for the legislature to decide.

"I didn't put it under the department and I wouldn't cry if they took it away," he once told your correspondent.

But just the same, watch out for fireworks if the proposal is seriously advanced. There will be brought out any number of reasons why the patrol should stay right where it is.

SHE'S STEPPIN' HIGH and with good reason, too, for this is 16-year-old Margie Harris, who won the All-Western drum majorette competition at Long Beach, Cal. She's a graduate of the Fred Syncock school of "drum majory", said to be only one of its kind in the country.

LINDBERGH'S VISIT TO MOSCOW TURNS SOUR

This previously unpublished picture shows Col. Charles A. Lindbergh (third from left) on his visit to Moscow last August, when he was received enthusiastically by Soviet airmen. But now those same airmen have called him a "stupid liar" and charged him with giving Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain false reports of Russia's air strength which led Britain to permit surrender of parts of Czechoslovakia to Germany. The man dressed in white is Vladimir Kokkinaki, Russian air hero who was host to Lindbergh. Kokkinaki joined others in excoriating the American flyer.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 11—(AP)—quiet strength appeared in part of the day's stock market, but profit-taking was sufficient to hang many signs of most leaders.
There was a moderately lively rally around midday in which many declines, running to a point of 50 were reduced or replaced with gains of as much.

DECISION MAY INJURE STACY

The question came to the fore recently when Commissioner Maxwell spoke at a Ninth District Democratic rally and praised Congressman R. L. Doughton for authorizing the inspection tax more than two decades ago while he was a member of the North Carolina legislature.

Power Ruling Stands in Way of Court Appointment

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Oct. 11—The North Carolina Supreme court's decision in the High Point power case is likely to prove quite a stumbling block to any hopes or chances of Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy for elevation to the United States Supreme court.
Judge Stacy's undoubtedly classified by all who know him—including President Franklin D. Roosevelt—as among the ablest jurists of the United States. The President unquestionably regards him highly in the role of a labor trouble investigator and conciliator.
But when it comes to appointment to the nation's highest court, the traditional conservatism of the North Carolina high court with reference to power matters is likely to turn the scales against a Stacy nomination.
It is a generally accepted belief—whether founded or not—that North Carolina's official attitude toward power companies (and this includes the courts) is not in accord with the President's well-known views on the subject. Tar Heel government has been, and still is, a bit more sympathetic with the so-called power trusts than suits the New Deal and the chief New Dealer.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—The new face-subject of so many lovely ditties from Hollywood's casting directors who claim to want it—is having its turn this year in earnest.
Unless you've given up looking for reasons in the things that Hollywood does, you can find one or two or three—good reasons for this trend toward experimenting with untried or scarcely tried talent.
Generally, a new face isn't as easily as a famous one—and Hollywood, scared by talk of war which would hamper its income seriously, is looking for penny-saving devices. A general paring of contract lists is going on, not because the people pared are of no use, but because it's cheaper to get them as needed by the picture than to pay them week after week.
Specifically, though, Hollywood has been having unusually good luck with "new faces" and that always sends the newcomers' stock soaring. I imagine Louis B. Mayer shudders every time he thinks what might have happened if he hadn't loaned Hedy Lamarr for "Algiers." The bright feminine star of the year might have been undiscovered.
"Four Daughters," more even than Hedy, offered incentive to producers to look around and try things. Here was a picture without a real "name" in it—and Warner's got for their experiment four good star bets in John Garfield, Jeffrey Lynn, Gae Page and Priscilla Lane. Lynn's opportunity came perforce, not through Warner foresight. They wanted Errol Flynn, and Flynn wanted to keep on boating. They had to use somebody, and there was Jeff Lynn.
Ellen Drew, the soda-fountain Cinderella, looked like just another ingenue with Crosby in "Sing You Sinners." She was lucky to get that much of a break, however. My guess is they gave it to her because a Crosby leading lady doesn't have much to do, anyway, and a new girl wouldn't add to the overhead like a more

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

Vincent Price, the handsome "Victoria Regina" lead with Helen Hayes, wasn't so much of a gamble. Universal has him with Constance Bennett in "Service de Luxe," introducing him as a costar, and has great hopes that film fans will like him. They should.
Out at Metro the starlets are thriving. Ruth Hussey showed more than promise in "Rich Man, Poor Girl," which also gave Lana Turner a likeable role. They think well of Ann Morris, Ilona Massey and Miliza Korjus.
Striding toward greater things, after slow beginnings, are Marie Wilson, Ann Sheridan, Jane Bryan, Lynn Bari, Dorris Bowdon, Arleen Whelan and Dorothea Kent, among many others.
In the juvenile department the new finds include Janet Chapman, Terry Kilburn, Irene Dare, Gene Reynolds, Johnnie Russell and Bob Watson—the last-named a sure thing after "Boys Town." And one of the brightest prospects is that little Leni Lynn, the girl singer Passaic, N. J., sent to Hollywood with its own nickles and dimes, confident she would win.

CONSIDERS FEE NO DIVERSION

Opinion Expressed by Revenue Commissioner Maxwell

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Oct. 11—Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell does not regard handling of the petroleum products "inspection fee" as diversion of highway funds.
He seemed frankly surprised when it was called to his attention that many feel that use of funds from this source is a clear cut case of diverting nearly a million dollars a year.
Under the existing law an "inspection fee" of a quarter-cent per gallon is charged against all petroleum products, the levy yielding something like a million each year. The cost of the inspection bureau is given by Mr. Maxwell as "perhaps $100,000 annually." The balance is turned into the state's general funds and spent just as any other general revenue money.
Opponents of diversion claim this is a flagrant case and contend that the surplus should either be turned into the highway funds or that the "inspection fee" should be reduced to the point where it does not exceed cost of the inspection service.
