DEATH CLAIMS PRESIDENT OF TURKISH STATE

Executive Noted For Hard Living And Hard Ruling

WAS CREATOR OF MODERN TURKEY

Country Quickly And Sadly Begins Task of Selecting Successor to Dead Leader

Istanbul, Turkey, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Kamal Ataturk, creator and president of modern Turkey who lived hard and ruled hard, died today. He was 58 years old. Ataturk long ill, succumbed to cirrhosis of the liver at 9:05 a. m. (2:05 a. m. EST) after having clung to life longer than his doctors had expected. He apparently had been gaining strength after a grave attack in mid-October, but suffered a relapse.

Ataturk lived hard. He often worked or listened to musicians all night. For many years he was a chain cigarette smoker, a marathon coffee drinker and celebrated often with champagne and raki liquor, which was banned for British troops in Palestine during the World War.

He ruled hard as the iron-fisted "great wolf" who forged a strong new westernized state of the war-crushed ruins of the Ottoman empire.

Turkey, strategically placed between east and west in a rapidly changing world, quickly and sadly sought his successor. A. H. Renda, president of the National Assembly, assumed the interim presidency while a government proclamation announced immediate convocation of the assembly to elect a new chief executive. The assembly was expected to meet tomorrow.

General I. Inonu, the "military bookkeeper" who was Premier for 13 of the 15 years that Ataturk headed the state and was a life-long collaborator of the president was expected to be chosen.

Teachers To Hear Dr. Harl Douglass

Address by Charles Milton Newcomb and Dance and Reception Other Features of Meeting

Dr. Harl R. Douglass, head of the Division of Education at the University of North Carolina, will address the initial general session of the annual meeting of the North-eastern District Teachers Association to be held here Friday and Saturday. Dr. Douglass will speak at the session tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Austin building auditorium at the college.

A feature of the convention welcomed by the teachers and endorsed only in the Northeastern district, will be the dance at the high school building Friday evening. The dance and reception will be provided by the Merchants Association, Chamber of Commerce, Tobacco Board of Trade and the High School. Since women teachers to be here will outnumber the men teachers, all members of the Town clubs have special invitations to attend.

Another feature of the meeting will be an address by Charles Milton Newcomb of Asheville at the general session in the Austin auditorium Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Newcomb presents a delightful blend of philosophy and humor in his addresses and is widely known.

Dr. Douglass is well known throughout educational circles as a writer, educator and lecturer. He is serving on the editorial staffs of a number of publications and has published several books.

Synagogues in Many Cities Burned Or Wrecked

ACTION FOLLOWS DEATH OF ENVOY

Appeal Declares Nazi Acts of Indignation Both Justifiable and Understandable

Berlin, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels this afternoon issued a brief appeal to the German populace to desist from further anti-Jewish demonstrations after synagogues in many cities had been burned, wrecked or badly damaged.

"The justifiable and understandable indignation of the German people over the cowardly Jewish murder of a German diplomat in Paris has resulted during the past night in expensive demonstrations," said Goebbels.

He referred to the killing of Ernest Von Rath, secretary of the Paris embassy by a 17-year-old Polish Jew who had lived in Germany. Telephoned reports from many parts of Germany showed that anti-Jewish violence, beginning early today, was nation-wide.

Seven of Berlin's 29 synagogues were burned. All Vienna's 21 synagogues were reported burned, wrecked or badly damaged. In Munich all Jews were told by angry Nazis that they must leave the country within 48 hours.

"In numerous cities and communities of the Reich," said Goebbels, "actions of violence were committed against Jewish buildings and businesses."

"The entire population is now, however, strictly requested to desist immediately from all further demonstrations and actions of whatever nature against Jewdom.

"The final answer to Jewry will be given in the form of laws or responsible Jews hearing this closing sentence expressed fears that a general order would be issued compelling all Jews to leave the country."

Goebbels' appeal was issued at 4 p. m. (10 a. m. EST) some 14 hours after violence began in Berlin.

SIX ESCAPEES ARE CAPTURED

Taken Following Gun Battle With Tennessee Officers

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Six desperate convicts who escaped from the State penitentiary after being three guards and taking two others along as hostages in a prison truck, were recaptured an hour later after all had been seriously wounded.

The officials taken with the prisoners also were wounded in a gun battle with State, county and city officers in the heart of Nashville. One of the guards left tied at the prison was found to be suffering from serious stab wounds.

M. A. Warren, assistant chief of the state highway patrol, said about 20 officers discovered the prison truck about a mile from the penitentiary and opened fire when the convicts kept going.

"We shot it out with them," he said, "and they stopped only when we shot them all down. I think their guns were emptied by that time."

Deputy Warren C. C. Woods and his assistant, Capt. H. Sampson, were the officials wounded when the prisoners holding them were shot. They were taken to the prison hospital, where the seriousness of their condition was not immediately determined.

The stab wounds of Guard Strickland were reported as serious. Guards Dick Smith and Tolley, also tied up, were not injured.

A seventh prisoner, Bill Mayo, a trusty and driver of the truck, captured by those escaping, was forced to accompany the six beyond the prison walls Mayo, serving a prison sentence, returned to the prison after his captors had released him.

All six prisoners were loaded into the prison truck and returned to the penitentiary hospital.

Ticket Led in Tuesday's Voting By J. Frank Harrington

Judge J. Frank Harrington, veteran clerk of court, led the ticket in Pitt county's election Tuesday, polling 2,076 votes.

Mr. Harrington is completing his fifth four-year term and will begin his sixth, for which he was elected Tuesday, in December.

He was closely paced by Judge Dink James of County court and Treasurer J. Vance Perkins, each of whom polled 2,075 votes, and D. M. Clark, district solicitor, who polled 2,074 votes.

LEAVES TODAY FOR WASHINGTON

Election Results May Give Balance Power to Anti-Administration Democrats

Hyde Park, Nov. 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt left for Washington at 12:55 P. M., (EST) today.

His special train was scheduled to arrive in Washington tonight. If the election results dealt a severe blow that Mr. Roosevelt had expected it was not reflected in a statement last night by Secretary Marvin McIntyre, who replied when asked for Presidential comment on Democratic losses.

"He (the President) said there would be no comment. He said he was feeling very cheerful and everything is grand."

At Washington meanwhile election losses which cut deeply into the President's numerical majority in Congress may give the balance of power on occasions to the small band of anti-administration Democrats.

This group combined with Republicans in 1937 to kill the President's court bill.

In the 1939 session the Democrats will have a majority of about 20 seats and more than 40 House seats, but several times in the last two years fully that number of Democrats have voted against the administration.

Other Washington developments: Colonel F. Batista, on his first trip away from Cuba, stepped from a train in the middle of a grade in Washington yesterday.

The Cuban army head, dressed a plain olive drab uniform, was greeted with handshakes by brightly-uniformed army staff officers, headed by General Malin Craig. Summer Welles, undersecretary (Continued on page six)

Miss Mildred English, director of the Training School of the Georgia State College for Women at Mill-Edgeville, Ga., spoke last night at an open meeting of the American Association of University Women, held at Ragsdale Hall at the college.

Miss English is now on leave of absence from her regular position and is serving as a member of the field staff for the workshop experiment being conducted in high schools in 11 southern states by the Commission of Curricula Problems and Research of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Dr. Dorothy Schneider, president of the local branch of A. A. U. W., introduced Dr. Lucille Turner, who presented Miss English to the group. Dr. Turner is chairman of the education committee, under whose sponsorship Miss English spoke last night.

Three high schools from each state have been selected from the more than 1100 schools considered by the association as possible participants in this experiment in progressive education. The principal and three teachers from each school met at Nashville, Tenn. during the past summer for a six weeks workshop conference. Staff members worked with the school groups in evaluating what was being done in connection with local problems. Miss English mentioned that one of the most significant phases of the work is that the children themselves are suggesting many of the problems of living, which are being considered.

The aim of the whole work, according to Miss English, is to open doors for the students, to make of life when they finish high school, them able to tackle the problems and to find ways by which they can make their lives worthwhile. An interesting discussion by the group concluded the program.

Grows One Big Lemon

Colorado Springs (AP)—The lemon is hardly native to the Pikes Peak country but Mrs. R. S. Niswanger has just completed her usual "lemon harvest". She plucked a lemon 18 inches in circumference—enough for three pies—from the lemon tree that grows in winter within her house and in the summer in her garden. The tree is potted and bears only one gigantic lemon at a time.

What's Your Hobby?

Here are some tests which may be used in selecting a hobby. Can this hobby be developed into something lasting and permanent that will be of long time use? Will it hold interest, whet curiosity, endure enthusiasm. Will it make one think not only of himself but of others and of the world about him? Will it keep one at home or in good company? Will it stimulate the best? Brush up your hobby collection and bring it to Sheppard Memorial Library for exhibit during Book Week.

Chinese Scrolls and Books.

There is now on display in Sheppard Memorial Library, near the Mary Nelson Smith alcove, some Chinese books and scrolls. These belong to Mrs. B. T. Cox of Winterville. They were given to Mrs. Cox by her daughter, Miss Venetta Cox, who is a missionary in China under the direction of the Episcopal church. She teaches music in the St. Hilda's Girl School, Wuchang, China. Miss Cox is a granddaughter of Mary Nelson Smith, whose life and work is honored by a collection of books, assembled and placed in S. M. L. by her descendants under the leadership of Rev. W. E. Cox, D.D. of Southern Pines, N. C.

The scrolls were made by Miss Cox's pupils as parting gifts when she was leaving once for a rest period at home. They contain the names of the pupils and good wishes expressed in Chinese characters. A free translation of one sentence is "The brightness of the rainbow given us is not equal to the beauty of songs you teach us."

N. C. VISITORS SPEND FREELY

Estimated That Tourists Spent Sixty Millions Annually

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Nov. 10—Visitors and vacationists spent more than $60,000,000 in North Carolina during the fiscal year from June 30, 1937 to June 30, 1938, according to a study just completed by the division of state advertising. It was announced today by Director R. Bruce Etheridge of the Department of Conservation and Development.

This is the same fiscal year during which the state for the first time carried on its nationwide advertising program under the direction of the conservation department. There are definite indications that this advertising program helped materially to increase the travel business in the state during this past year. Director Etheridge said. Estimates made last spring were that the travel business for this past fiscal year would amount to at least $50,000,000. But these new figures, based both upon gasoline consumption and actual counts of visitors to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, indicates these early figures were very conservative and that visitors to North Carolina spent at least $10,000,000 in excess of these estimates.

A total of 388,522,000 gallons of gasoline were used in North Carolina for the fiscal year 1937-38 according to the records of the gasoline tax division of the Department of Revenue. Taking the national average of 12 miles per gallon for both passenger cars and trucks, motor vehicles travelled a total of 4,662,264,000 vehicle miles in North Carolina during the past year.

Since 65 per cent of all the gasoline consumed in North Carolina is used by passenger cars, 2,529,300 gallons were used by passenger cars and 35 per cent of 135,982,700 gallons were used by trucks.

Some of the facts learned from a study of these gasoline consumption figures for the year 1937-38 are as follows: A total of 454,200 passenger cars from other states visited North Carolina.

These cars contained 1,362,600 persons, taking the national average of three persons to a car while on tour.

These visitors spent $61,319,700 while in North Carolina, assuming that each remained in the state six days (the national average is seven days) and spent $7.50 a day. (The average expenditure by tourists is $8 a day for the nation as a whole, according to the American Automobile Association.)

The 400,000 passenger cars owned and registered in North Carolina, on the basis of an estimated travel of 6,000 miles a year within the state, travelled a total of 2,400,000,000 car miles.

Passenger cars from both North Carolina and other states consumed enough gasoline at an average of 14 miles to a gallon, to travel 3,535,550,200 car miles.

The difference between the car-miles travelled by North Carolina cars and those from other states indicates that out-of-state cars travelled 1,135,550,200 car miles.

Assuming that each out-of-state car travelled 2,500 miles while in North Carolina the number of car miles travelled by these cars shows that 454,200 passenger cars from other states made this mileage.

Using the figures derived from the traffic count by the National Park Service in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park for the past park years the following facts are obtained.

A total of 694,634 persons visited the park during the past year. Assuming that 675,000 of these were from states other than North Carolina and that this number represents only half of those who visited the entire state, the total number of visitors amounts to 1,350,000.

These visitors spent a total of $6,750,000 while in North Carolina on the basis of six days in the state with an average expenditure of $7.50 a day.

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine

BLOOD AND IRON

The iron in the average healthy adult body weighs between 3 and 4 grams. A little more than half of this is contained in the circulating blood. Most of the rest is stored as reserve iron in the liver, the bone marrow, and the spleen. A healthy person can lose half of his blood iron content (by hemorrhage) and still replenish his hemoglobin by drawing on his reserve. But further iron loss is likely to cause what is known as an iron deficiency anemia.

The main function of iron is that of any oxygen vehicle. The iron within the red blood cells (in the form of hemoglobin) conveys oxygen to the tissues of the body and brings back, for excretion through the lungs, the carbon dioxide produced by the body cells in the process of oxidation. From this we may appreciate the vital role of iron in the blood.

A child developing within the body of its mother naturally procures the iron it requires from the body of its mother. If, however, the mother's iron resources are inadequate, the child may be born iron poor; or what is more likely, the child will draw the iron it needs and deplete the iron supply of the mother.

Good prenatal care provides an iron rich diet for the mother to safeguard her health and that of the developing child. Egg yolk, the red meats, and potatoes are good sources of dietary iron.

After the child has been born, the iron needs of its body must be supplied through the foods eaten, or medicinally in the form of iron salts. Naturally the iron needs increase with body growth. Since the most rapid body growth occurs during the first two years of life and again at puberty, adequate amounts of iron-containing foods should be eaten during these periods.

Pediatricians now make certain to include in the diets of infants, and particularly those bottle-fed, iron-containing foods.

The Local Community Center was presented a certificate of award for valuable services rendered during National Negro Health Week. In issuing the certificates, the United States Health Department and the State representatives of the W.P.A. who supervised the work spoke very highly of the work of the local center. The certificate was presented to Miss Bell Mose Atkinson, Leader by J. B. Taft, Secretary of the Local Council. Following the presentation, Mr. Taft reminded his group of the value of conservation and frugality. He called their attention to the two billion dollars spent annually by the Negro Race and asked that they cooperate with the movement of the National Negro Insurance Association in dedicating one month beginning the seventh of November and ending the seventh of December as conservation month and begin to spend our money in the things that will bring better health, happiness and success.

What The Negro Race Can Do To Help Prevent Future Wars To the Colored Citizens of this Community: I notice that we have not made any preparation for the celebration of Armistice Day, and it appears that we do not fully realize the importance of every citizen in the prevention of wars.

Before we can consider the situation, we must first consider the general causes that precipitate wars. Wars are caused (so far as the high officials are concerned) as a result of a desire to either obtain the control of more people, property, wealth or influence. In either event wealth is usually the basis. Therefore, since the Negro Race spends two billions each year, representing approximately two and one half or three millions more than the annual exports to three of our foreign countries, that money should be spent so that the results should be used for better Christian work, better schools, homes, social, fraternal, and other activities. Wars can never be any greater than the favorable attitude toward war. If we are to play our part then we must first begin to eliminate the adverse and beligerent attitude that exists in our Church, home, schools, commercial and other institutions. I am sincerely urging every member of our race to begin today and join the movement instituted by the National Negro Insurance Association, to dedicate one month beginning the 7th of November and ending the seventh of December, as conservation Month and help to see that our monies are spent to help build the economic status of families and communities and declare an armistice against crime, greed, extravagance and selfishness. This will be a great asset in celebrating this Armistice Day and make our Community more peaceful-minded and in a better attitude to make every future Armistice Day a greater event.

HELP PREVENT THE USELESS SLAUGHTER

In its campaign for fewer traffic deaths this year the National Safety Council has just released two open letters, one to motorists and one to pedestrians, which if heeded, during the balance of the year which is the season of greater hazards, will have their effect in saving numbers of lives that otherwise might be needlessly snuffed out as a result of carelessness.

We urge you to read and heed the two letters which are as follows.

TO THOSE WHO DRIVE

Right now we stand a good chance of coming through 1938 with 20 per cent fewer traffic deaths than we had last year. That's one out of five, or roughly speaking, about 8,000 lives saved.

But it won't be easy, because we're facing the two toughest months of the year for driving.

For one thing, it gets dark earlier now—and our figures show that the traffic death rate triples when the sun goes down.

And then there's skidding. Sleet, rain, snow, ice and wet leaves on the pavement mean that it takes longer to stop your car—in time, perhaps, to keep from hitting that boy or girl who's forever popping out when least expected.

So won't you lack this note someplace where it will remind you, each time you get behind the wheel of your car, to take it easy and keep your eyes open for special seasonal hazards? With your help, we may be able to turn in a record for 1938 that will demonstrate conclusively to everyone that traffic accidents can be stopped.

Let's keep that fifth man alive!

TO THOSE WHO WALK

Some people think the moth is a foolish creature because it flies into the candle flame and goes up in smoke.

But our accident records are chock full of pedestrians who walked into the path of traffic with the same supreme indifference.

We're sending this special reminder to you right now because this time of year is especially bad for pedestrians.

Earlier darkness makes it harder for the motorist to see you. (Don't forget that he can't see you as clearly as you see him.)

And if you step off the curb into his path, he may not be able to stop as quickly now because of bad weather and slippery pavements.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Nov. 10—North Carolina officials were not in the least depressed by the outcome of the national election of Tuesday. They were quite justly elated with the results in North Carolina and reasonably, if not completely, satisfied with other developments.

Outwardly all professed some disappointment at the defeat of Democratic candidates in such states as Ohio, Michigan, Kansas and Nebraska; but some at least seemed secretly and off the record, a bit sad. Most of the casualties were among New Dealers rather than in the ranks of conservative Democrats.

By and large the state's official family is just about as radical as a last year's bird nest. Its members could rejoice heartily at a Lehman victory but could scarcely squeeze even a crocodile tear for the defeat of an Earle or a Murphy.

Attorney General Harry McMillan told your correspondent with a perfectly straight face Wednesday:

"Well, there's one thing I can say. I conducted my campaign on a high plane and without slinging any mud whatever at my opponent."

The correspondent pondered a minute before remembering that the A. G. was unopposed.

Speaking quite seriously, though almost solemnly, Mr. McMillan asked the news men of Raleigh to express for him to the voters of North Carolina his deepest and most grateful thanks for the honor bestowed by their generous support at the polls.

"I am truly grateful to the people of the State," he said.

Sandy Graham may be well known to North Carolinians as quite a prominent citizen and as a lawyer about whose qualifications there need be no questioning; but to the Federal Rural Electrification Administration in Washington he's just another attorney.

It's a rule that whenever the attorney is appointed for a rural electric co-operative, a routine form giving his qualifications and legal experience be sent by the state REA to the federal administration; but when Sandy was named attorney for the Orange county co-op recently, J. M. Grainger, state REA engineer, just wired Washington:

"A. H. Graham, former lieutenant Governor of the state, has been named attorney for the Orange county co-operative—he didn't think he'd have to go into details about Sandy."

Less than half an hour after he sent the message, Mr. Grainger got one back from Washington: "Please forward immediately qualification card for A. H. Graham, attorney for Orange County Co-operative."

Plans for the new Department of Justice building reveal that the state is going to have something to be proud of when the half-million dollar six-story structure is completed.

The architects have tried hard to avoid the fact which befell designers of the United States Supreme court building. When that magnificent building was finished it was found that the acoustics of the court chamber were simply atrocious and it has been necessary to swing curtain-like draperies in all sorts of queer fashions about the hall in order that attorneys and justices can make themselves heard.

Acoustic experts have been consulted about the North Carolina building and it is confidently said there will be no such trouble here.

STUDENTS JOIN IN SAFETY CAMPAIGN

across heavy traffic and grade railroad crossings.

4. Learn to ride in a park or other safe place. While learning to ride stay off streets and away from vehicular traffic.

5. Have your bicycle equipped with proper brakes, lights, bell or horn. Keep it adjusted to fit you and in good condition. Check the brakes frequently.

6. Keep to the right, close to the curb. Ride in single file.

7. Obey all traffic rules and regulations. Use hand signals when you are going to stop or turn.

8. When riding at night, carry a light in front and either a light or reflector in the rear. Light colored clothing also helps motorists see you.

9. Do not try to carry an object in one hand or to ride in the street "No handed." If parcels must be carried, they should be strapped to the bicycle or placed in a carrier.

10. Choose your route carefully. Avoid crowded highways. When riding your bicycle, think safety.

11. Never park bikes in passageway or on playground or street where someone might fall on it and be injured.

12. Work for right attitude—fairness and courtesy to other users of the streets and highways.

The Junior Gold Star Drivers pledged themselves to abide by the following:

1. I will not hang on the back of trucks, buses, automobiles or horse-drawn vehicles while skating.

2. I will not hang on the back of trucks, buses, automobiles, or horse drawn vehicles while riding a bicycle.

3. I will not play baseball, football, basketball, or roll hoops on or near the streets or highways.

4. I will not run or walk across a street in the middle of a block unless there is a safety zone in the block (which I agree to use), but I will cross streets only at the corners and then never when the light is red.

5. I will never walk in the middle of the streets or on the highway if there is any other place provided for me to walk; but if I am forced to walk on the streets or highways I will always walk facing oncoming traffic, and I will always step off the street or highway to let the traffic pass.

6. When I ride the school buses to and from school, I will be at the bus stop on time. When I get on the bus I will not talk to the driver of the bus, nor make unnecessary noises, but immediately take my seat. On the way home I shall conduct myself in a safe manner, and when I get off the bus I will not play on or near the highway. Should I live across the highway, I will walk, never run, across.

7. I promise not to stand on the side of the highway and "hitch-hike" (beg rides), and not to steal rides on the back of trucks, buses, automobiles or wagons.

8. When I get off a street car or bus, before I go across the street, I will look in both directions, and if traffic is clear, I will walk, never run, to the other side.

9. I will not climb telephone, telegraph or electric light poles. I will not climb any tree that has a wire of any kind running through it. I will not play alongside of railroad tracks. I will remove all unsafe things around my home that may injure my friends, the members of my family or myself.

10. At all times I pledge to think and act safely myself and to try to help others to be safe, by showing them that I am a good crusader of safety. In keeping my pledge and when I can I will tell others how to be safety-minded.

Every day in every way, I'll be safe.

In my thoughts, words and deeds.

Mutton-Eating Bears Slain

Cheyenne, Wyo. (AP)—An appetite for mutton is fatal for bears in Wyoming.

When they start eating sheep, Adolph Hamm, Wyoming chief of the U. S. biological survey, designates them as "predatory animals" and sends hunters after them.

Recently more than 100 sheep and lambs were killed in three weeks in the Battle Mountain country of the Medicine Bow forest.

An investigation disclosed five bears suddenly had turned into sheep killers and hunters were sent to shoot them. All five were killed. Hamm said not all bears like mutton.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 10—(AP)—Heavy profit-taking today stemmed the sharp post-election rally in the stock market which got underway Wednesday, but notable resistance was displayed to selling. Early dealers were sufficiently fast to put the ticker top behind during almost the entire first hour, when 810,000 shares changed hands. There was a subsequent slow-down as buying support appeared. Fractional gains and losses were about evenly divided near the final hour. Selective improvement was exhibited in the bond department.

VOTE DECIDES COTTON LOANS

County Agent Discusses Referendum For Dec. 10

Raleigh, Nov. 10—Cotton producers will be voting for cotton loans as well as marketing quotas on December 10, it was pointed out today by R. R. Bennett, county agent. Under the farm act loans cannot be made available when quotas are rejected.

Marketing quotas will be effective in 1939 only if approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting. All farmers who in 1938 produced cotton with a staple less than 1 1/2 inches in length will be eligible to vote.

Voting places will be provided for all townships. County AAA committees will be in charge of arrangements and the voting will be conducted like any regular election. The local farmers will be named by the county committee to serve as election officers in each community. The county committee will also designate the voting place in each community and see that a ballot box is provided.

Loans on cotton are authorized when the price drops below a certain level or when the supply goes above a certain level," Bennett explained. "The loans protect the cotton farmer from the disastrous effects of a price collapse when excessive supplies pile up. Loans are authorized only in years when marketing quotas are in effect. In such years all producers who plant within their cotton acreage allotments, are eligible for loans; non-co-operators (farmers who overplant their allotments) and eligible for loans only on cotton produced over their marketing quotas and then only at 60 per cent of the loan rates for co-operating producers."

Some Tree Salesmen Declared Unreliable

Raleigh, Nov. 10—At this time of the year, farmers are usually lured upon by a number of salesmen urging them to buy fruit trees. Some of these salesmen are very conscientious and are representing reliable nurseries, others are not, warns L. P. Watson, extension horticulturist at State College.

A thorough investigation of these men and the nursery they represent should be made before an order is given, Watson advises. In many instances trees offered are old stock, too large to dispose of through commercial trade or too weak and poorly branched to be of any value. There are established market prices for fruit trees and a farmer should familiarize himself with prices to avoid paying more than trees are worth, the horticulturist said.

Some salesmen offer to prune and spray trees for several years and they are sold. Salesmen making these promises are required by law to post bond to the extent of $5,000 with the State. "Make these men show you evidence of having properly posted this bond before placing your order with them," Watson advised.

SPECIAL SUBMARINE FOR ARCTIC WATERS DESCRIBED BY WILKINS

Oslo (AP)—A $150,000 stainless steel submarine for use as a permanent weather bureau under the ice at the north pole is envisaged by Sir Hubert Wilkins, Arctic explorer and Antarctic aviator.

Sir Hubert says weather reports must be greatly improved before a regular air route can be established across the polar ice fields.

"The only effective way to secure such reports is to have a floating headquarters, and that the headquarters must be under the ice because the ice masses are in constant drift," he says.

"A submarine could remain at the north pole for three years. Food and equipment would be supplied by airplanes, which landed on the ice before winter began.

"Life in such a submarine would be quite comfortable, as the temperature of the Arctic ocean is only 32 degrees Fahrenheit, although the air is intensely cold.

Sir Hubert says he has perfected an instrument which would drill a hole through the ice from the submarine, so scientists could get to the surface to take observations.
