

BILLION MARK FINE ASSESSED AGAINST JEWS

Required to Pay Sum For Murder of Ernst vom Rath

GOERING ISSUES OFFICIAL DECREE

German Jews Also Restricted from Conducting Mail Order and Retail Business

Berlin, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Germany's remaining 500,000 Jews were uprooted from German economic life and fined 1,000,000,000 marks—$400,000,000—today for the murder of Ernst vom Rath, German diplomat, in Paris by a Jewish youth.

How the one billion in a decree issued by Field Marshal Hermann Goering after a conference of ministers. The decree was not published and an official summary of the edict said today:

"Above all a decision was arrived at to place a penalty for the dastardly murder in Paris upon German Jews in their entirety in the form of a money fine of one billion reichsmarks."

Goering's decree, issued in his capacity of director of Germany's four-year plan, and a decree of Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels closed new Nazi barriers around Jews, isolating them further from the nation's cultural and economic life.

At the same time, arrests and isolation of Jews were reported in Berlin, Salzburg and Frankfurt-on-Main.

Goering issued a decree effective January 1 prohibiting Jews from conducting retail business, mail order and commission houses and independent handicraft enterprises.

Goering's decree further banned Jews from heading any industrial or commercial firm by forbidding them to hold a certain position which every factor or similar undertaking must have under the national labor law.

Meantime some official sources said 1,600 Jews had been arrested in Berlin alone.

These sources said it was impossible to estimate how many other Jews had been seized in the rest of Germany since the killing of vom Rath.

Greenville Citizens At Washington Meet

Willard T. Kizer, secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, attended the annual meeting of the similar organization in Washington, N. C., last night.

Mr. Kizer reported that the Beaufort county capital meeting was most enthusiastic. The principal address was made by Glenn D. Johnston, former vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who compared the Democratic rule in this country to the dictatorship abroad.

J. H. Waldrop, cashier of the Guaranty Bank and Trust company, also attended the Washington meeting.

New Arrest Makes 12 Now in Jail Here

Billy James, Carolina township Negro, was locked up in the county jail last night, bringing to 12 the number of inmates now in the lockup, compared with a high of 41 just prior to the recent session of Superior court.

James was charged by Township Constable T. O. Perkins with being drunk and having illegal whiskey in his possession.

Of the 12 persons now in the jail, nine are serving terms, two awaiting disposition of appeals and one, James, awaiting trial in County court.

Held in Slaying

Paris, Nov. 12.—(AP)—French authorities today arrested Abraham and Chana Grynspan, uncle and aunt of the 17-year-old assassin of a German legation secretary, on charges of complicity in the crime.

The arrests were made as the funeral was held in a packed church for Ernst vom Rath, the German diplomat who was fatally wounded last Monday by the young Polish Jew, Herschel Grynspan.

The couple had just been released after five days' detention on charges of harboring an undesirable foreigner. Under French law they could no longer be held on these charges.

Prior to the second arrest, police searched their home and seized a number of documents written in German and Yiddish.

LITTLE CHANGE IN LEAF PRICES

Prices About Same as Last Week for Cutters, Smoking

Raleigh, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Prices on the Eastern North Carolina New Bright belt market this week were about the same as last week for leaf, smoking leaf and cutters, but slightly lower for the majority of lug grades, the Federal-State Department of Agriculture reported today.

Prices continued firm on the Old Belt, but showed a "slight downward trend" on the Middle Belt, the department said.

Principal offerings on the New Bright belt were common to fair quality leaf and fair to good quality lugs with leaf predominating. Latest estimates by the Crop Reporting Board of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics placed the belt's production this year at 263,500,000 pounds.

Several New Bright markets have closed and the rest are expected to end sales by Thanksgiving.

Sales on the Middle Belt were listed for the season at 69,968,381 pounds at an average of $23.12 per hundred pounds. The majority of grades quoted this week were lower, with large losses occurring in common and low offerings. Offerings consisted chiefly of common to good quality leaf and fair to fine quality lugs, with only a small volume of cutters offered. Sales showed a decrease in volume.

Estimates by the Crop Reporting Board have placed Middle Belt production at 270,640,000 pounds this season.

Season sales on the Old Belt were placed at 88,612,513 pounds for an average of $24.25 per hundred pounds.

Offerings this week consisted chiefly of common to fair leaf and fair to fine lugs with only a small volume of cutters included.

(3) To modernize the Cape Peninsula defenses and those of the naval base.

1929 Highs Can Be Passed

Babson Says Quit Riding, Help Push Cart

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 11.—With the election out of the way, it is time to forget politics and to get busy. We have had hard times in America for so long that we have lost our perspective. Even the most cheerful and optimistic observers think that the 1929 business peaks can never be scaled again. Yet, in the midst of today's uncertainty, I am willing to forecast that American business within a few years can pass 1929. If everybody will quit trying to ride in the cart and will, instead, help to pull it.

Glance at a chart of United States business for the past 70 or 80 years. You will see that in 1871-73 activity reached the highest peak up to that time. Then followed a loud crash and a long dreary depression. Read the newspapers of 1873-1878 and you will find just the same gloomy, pessimistic attitude about the future of America as we hear today. Yet, great prosperity was returned.

Peaks in '73 and '90

Look along to 1890-3 and you will find that business made another new all-time high in those years. This was followed by the usual panic and then five years of depression. 1897 marked the bottom of that depression. I remember that date vividly for it was the year that I finished my work at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

When I started out to hunt a job that Spring, everyone was ready to give the country back to the Indians. Yet, four short years later business had chalked up a new record.

It is interesting to note that no boom period ever stopped before the previous highs had been broken? Why? Because of new industries. Just think, in 1873 the majority of today's biggest industries were not

MANY BELIEVE ROOSEVELT TO PUSH PROGRAM

President Expected to Press New Deal Fundamentals

NO NEW TAX BILL IS ANTICIPATED

Connally Believes, However, So-Called Nuisance Taxes To Be Retained

Washington, Nov. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's expressed views on the outcome of the congressional election led many politicians to conclude today that he would push the fundamentals of the New Deal program as vigorously as ever in the new Congress.

Most of this opinion said the President's remarks at his press conference yesterday indicated he believed he could do so without serious political repercussions, despite the fact that the Democratic party lost heavily in Tuesday's voting.

Meantime, Senator Connally (D-Texas) a member of the Senate Finance committee predicted that the next Congress would pass no general tax bill.

Improving business conditions should increase Federal revenues and make tax revision unnecessary, Connally said. He predicted, however, the re-enactment of the so-called "nuisance" taxes, many of which expire next year.

These taxes include such levies as that of theatre tickets.

The Senator said he believed, too, that in the long run Congress would be forced to increase tax rates on incomes in the middle brackets and to consider lowering exemptions.

Other developments: Having Colonel F. Batista in action, official Washington now can better understand how the ex-private rose to and holds the position of Supreme power in Cuba, although still only in his thirties.

The capital hasn't seen a more dynamic, fast-moving and personable visitor in a decade.

The Colonel's visit was brought to a close today.

County Court Session Will Be Held Tuesday

E. F. Tucker, County Court clerk, said today that a light docket faced next Tuesday's session of the tribunal, but added numerous cases probably would be added during the week-end.

The court held sessions last Wednesday, Tuesday having been election day, no court was held the previous week because a criminal term of Superior court was being conducted.

MANY INJURED IN RAIL CRASH

Two Football Specials in Wreck At South Bend, Ind.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Two football special trains packed with persons bound for the Notre Dame-Minnesota game crashed at right angles here this afternoon, injuring "at least 25 to 40 persons," hospital attaches said.

Two coaches of a New York Central Railroad special, carrying approximately 150 football fans, overturned. Those injured were in the cars.

State police who rushed to the scene were unable to ascertain immediately whether anyone had been killed. All available ambulances were pressed into service.

Both trains were from Chicago. The New York Central special was headed north on a siding. A Grand Trunk Railroad special was going east on the main line. Witnesses said the Grand Trunk locomotive struck the New York Central almost in the middle, overturning a bar coach and a passenger coach, both filled nearly to capacity.

Rescuers had to use ladders to reach the engine.

HOBOS DEMAND SERVICE

Sacramento, Calif. (AP)—Boxcar bums are demanding real service these days. M. A. Pack, railroad passenger agent, says he gets many calls to know what time freight trains are arriving and departing in the Sacramento yards. He always gives the information.

BATISTA MEETS HULL IN GOOD WILL CONFERENCE

Col. Fulencio Batista, Cuban army chief of staff, and Secretary of State Hull (right) sat down together for a quiet, cordial conference in the State Department at Washington during the colonel's good-will visit. He made his first visit to this country to confer with officials and participate in Armistice Day ceremonies at Washington.

HOSIERY MILL CONTRACT LET

Building Expected To Be Completed By January 15

Announcement was made today that the Greenville Industries, Inc., a recently created organization, had let the contract for general construction for a building to be located in the Davis Full Fashion Hosiery Mills.

The contract was let to the L. M. Ernst Construction company of Greenville and work is to begin immediately and be completed by January 15.

Sub-contractors have not been let yet, but bids on these will be received at a later date.

Ten concerns bid on the general construction work and spokesmen for the Greenville Industries, Inc., expressed appreciation for the interest of unsuccessful bidders.

The Chamber of Commerce, which organization was responsible for the bid, has been working with officials of the mill and the Greenville Industries, Inc.

The hosiery mills company has an authorized capital stock of $300,000. It was estimated that approximately 100 men and women would be employed at the outset. The mill will be located on the south side of Fourteenth street, between Cotanche and Reade streets.

The Chamber of Commerce sought the mills in an effort to secure more year-round industries for the city.

LEWIS STATES PARTY'S NEEDS

Says Election Results Indicate Need For House-Cleaning

Pittsburgh, Nov. 12.—(AP)—CIO Chairman John L. Lewis told a press conference today that last Tuesday's elections indicated the need for a house-cleaning in some quarters of the Democratic party and closer cooperation among liberal forces.

"Labor of itself," Lewis said, "can not sustain the prestige of the Democratic organization in states where the conduct of that organization or its representatives in office is such not to warrant the confidence of the electorate."

The states he had in mind, he said, included Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Ohio, and he amplified his remarks later to aim his criticism specifically at Governor Martin Davey of Ohio, and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., a member of the Democratic National committee.

The defeat of the CIO-supported Democratic ticket in Pennsylvania last Tuesday, he said, could be traced to the "stupidity, arrogance and lack of consideration for the rights of labor and the common people on the part of the two major Pennsylvania politicians."

Lewis declined to name the two politicians.

World production of motor vehicles in the last year registered a new record high with a total of 6,352,000 passengers cars, trucks and buses. This exceeded 1929 production by slightly more than one per cent.

Suicide

Englewood, N. J., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Police listed as suicide today the death of Major Ralph Mills, who, Police Captain Jack Abrams said, ended his life with a bullet through the temple.

Abrams said Mills, 44-year-old United States Army instructor at Tenck Army, shot himself in the basement of his home last night with a .32 caliber automatic revolver.

Mills, born in Atlanta, Ga., came here about a month ago from Wilmington, N. C., where he was army district engineer.

CHINESE FLEE INLAND AREAS

Thousands Evacuate Upper Yangtze River Valley

Shanghai, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Thousands of Chinese civilians fled from towns and villages along the upper Yangtze today as the Japanese carried their invasion into hitherto untouched areas 1,000 miles inland.

The mass migration, one of the greatest ever seen in the Far East, was inspired by fear of intensified air bombings by the oncoming invaders, who early today occupied Yochow, 122 miles up the Yangtze from Hankow.

Hundreds of Chinese were moving on for the third or fourth times. The Chinese press reported large numbers had been killed and maimed by Japanese bombers operated from Hankow and striking at towns all the way to China's borders.

A dispatch from the provisional capital said 1,000 civilians were killed or wounded Thursday, when 18 Japanese planes raided towns and cities in Hunan province.

The capture of Yochow, important rail and river center, placed the Japanese within 80 miles of the capital of Human province, and next goal of the inland drive.

Miss Carter Assumes Duty With Church

A native of South Carolina, Miss Carter holds the degree of bachelor of arts from Converse college, Spartanburg, S. C., and master of religious education from the Baptist Training school, Louisville, Ky. During her last year in the training school she was assistant to Dr. G. S. Dobbins, professor of religious education in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, also at Louisville.

She has had practical experience in all phases of church life, including the teaching of study courses for training unions, W. M. U. organization, Sunday schools and enlargement campaigns. She served for a time as secretary of training union convention of South Carolina, and during the past summer she was director of the junior girl's camp of her native state.

The funeral will be conducted at Tomahawk Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and interment will be made there.

Tax Changes Unlikely

Almost No Possibility of Upsetting Scheme

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Nov. 12.—There is almost no possibility that any drastic changes will be made by the General Assembly of 1939 in North Carolina's scheme of taxation. This, despite the fact that requests for appropriations have exceeded revenue of previous years by many millions.

The Budget Commission studying these requests is going to whittle them to a size which will fit the pattern made by revenues of the previous biennium—in fact the budgeters may go even more conservative than that and reduce estimates of revenue even below that of the preceding two year figures.

The Assembly, formally elected last Tuesday though its makeup was really determined in the summer primaries, will be staunchly and sturdily conservative. It will go along with the economy and balanced budget views of Governor Clyde R. Hoey.

And so the chief items of North Carolina revenue for the next two years will be as they have been for some years, franchise, inheritance, beverage, income, privilege and intangible taxes. This, of course, does not consider highway revenues which come under an entirely different category.

On some of these particular items the prospects sum up about like this:

Sales tax: This has been the subject of the bitterest fights of the last several sessions, but the coming Assembly seems likely to get something of a rest from it. Any general attack will certainly fall dismally, though a few bitter endeavors will probably make some semblance of a move along that line. If they do they will be overwhelmed without even getting enough.

FRANCE CALLS FOR SACRIFICE BY CITIZENRY

President Lebrun Directs Appeal to Populace

MINISTER WILL REVEAL REFORMS

To Outline Sacrifices Contained in 32 Financial and Economic Decrees

Paris, Nov. 12.—(AP)—President Lebrun appealed to the French nation today to accept with "discipline and good will" the sacrifices that it will be called upon to make in order to rebuild her strength and preserve democratic government.

The sacrifices will be outlined tonight when Finance Minister Paul Reynaud tells the people by radio of the reforms contained in 32 financial and economic decrees to be published in the official journal tomorrow.

President Lebrun spoke at a luncheon by the government to war veterans at a big Paris amusement park. He said the time had come to recognize that dreams of international harmony under the leadership of the League of Nations were premature.

Under existing conditions, he said, France must repair the hole in her armaments and be strong financially and economically.

Meantime the cabinet met to consider the financial and economic program of Reynaud shortly after Premier Daladier had received a delegation of 200 war veterans to demand a strong government for France.

The Premier told the veterans he had chosen the route of "courage and energy" and not the route of "capitulation" in his policies.

"Will the people of France understand?" he asked.

"At any rate, I will know I have fulfilled my duty!"

Reynaud's program was reported to include measures for an increase in taxation of foreigners living in France.

Wright, widow of the late president of East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, who now lives at Eagle Springs, and Mrs. Lee Simpson of Atkinson. One daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. B. Murphy of Snow Hill, also survives.

Mrs. Murphy was a daughter of the late J. T. and Mary Love Alderman of Wilmington, and a member of one of the pioneer and leading families of Eastern North Carolina. She was a devoted member of the South River Presbyterian Church.

The funeral will be conducted at Tomahawk Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and interment will be made there.

BULL APPRAISES THE APPRAISERS

Elcin, Ill.—(AP)—Attorneys Joseph J. Wideman and Almore H. Teschke of Elcin went to the Morris Dolbey farm to appraise a cow.

They walked right up to the animal and started examining it.

But the cow was a bull and he charged the appraisers. They escaped after a lively sprint to the nearest fence.

The wedding of Miss Martha Jane Gates of this city, and Mr. William Converse McKey of Valdosta, Ga., was solemnized at nine o'clock this morning at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. S. E. Gates, at her home on Summit street.

The home was artistically decorated throughout. A program of pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Ray Tyson. She was dressed in black velvet and wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Miss Bessie Brown, wearing a gown of brown crepe with hat to match and a corsage of Biarcliff roses, sang "O Promise Me," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

As the procession from Lohengrin, by Wagner, was sounded, Miss Elizabeth Gates, sister of the bride, wearing a dress of Boy Blue crepe with accessories of navy, and carrying an arm bouquet of Tailsman roses, descended the stairs. She was followed by the bride, wearing a wine colored costume suit, with silver fox lapels and accessories to match. She carried an arm bouquet of Roosevelt roses tied with contrasting ribbons.

The groom, Mr. William Converse McKey, entered the room attended by Dr. Earl McKey of Atlanta, Ga., as best man, and awaited the bride at the foot of the stairway. Together they proceeded to an improvised altar banked with ferns, white chrysanthemums and branched candleabra holding burning white tapers.

The impressive marriage vows were spoken before Dr. J. D. Simons, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church. The bride's mother wore a gown of powder blue crepe, with a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

The bride and groom left on an extended wedding trip for unannounced points. They will be at home in Greengrove, Ky., for the duration of the tobacco market, after which they will make their home in Valdosta, Ga.

For traveling, the bride added a topcoat of Boy blue with silver fox sleeves and collar.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Gates of Greenville. She attended the Greenville city schools and was a member of the senior class of East Carolina Teachers College.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Earl Sinclair McKey and the late Mr. McKey of Valdosta, Ga. He attended school in Valdosta and at Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga. He is a tobacco auctioneer and was employed last year in Wilson at Smith's warehouse.

On Friday night, Mrs. S. E. Gates entertained at a buffet supper honoring her daughter, Miss Martha Jane Gates, the bridal party, and out-of-town guests.

The home was beautifully decorated with fall flowers. The dining room was lovely, the table being covered with an imported lace cloth and centered with a silver bowl of yellow chrysanthemums and yellow tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. Ed Rawl and Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth, seated at opposite ends of the table, served a three-course buffet supper. The guests were then invited into the library, where the wedding cake was out.

Washington Daybook. By Preston Grover. Washington—Have you ever seen people bid on $200,000,000 worth of battleships?

Before leaving Raleigh where he had been active as secretary of the State Democratic Executive Committee, Libby Ward, one of the three avowed and active candidates for speakership of the 1933 House expressed great optimism over his chances. The Craven legislator, who headed the Appropriations committee in 1932, will be back here several times before the Assembly is called to order in January. He is a member of the advisory Budget Commission and as such will collaborate with one of his Speakership rivals, Durham's Victor Bryant, and others in shaping the state's fiscal policy for the next biennium.

CONTINUING a national campaign to decrease the number of deaths and permanent injuries from industrial accidents, as well as those occurring on highways, in homes, and on farms, Red Cross first aid instructors last year trained 256,884 men, women and children to administer emergency assistance to the injured in an effort to cut the enormous toll of 300 deaths daily in America from accidental causes. Since 1910, Red Cross instructors have trained 1,430,378 persons in first aid application. To bring assistance to motorists involved in accidents on highways, these instructors are training attendants at service stations, roadside inns, and other public places to assist the injured. Today white and red markers designating places equipped as "Red Cross First Aid Stations" are located on principal highways throughout the country. Supplementing these fixed stations, drivers of public utility trucks, interstate freight buses, police highway patrols and drivers of company vehicles frequenting highways have been trained also and carry fully-equipped first aid kits with markers designating them "Mobile First Aid Units." Potential accident hazards lurk in every field of human activity. Disorder in homes, improper driving, careless hunters, the unguarded machine—are but a few causes of accidents which each year kill 75 to 85 of every 100,000 people and injure 100 times as many. It is against this public enemy that the Red Cross first aid service is enlisting cooperation of Americans everywhere.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE OF LAND. By virtue of power vested in me by that Deed of Trust which was executed to me by Willoughby F. Young and wife, Anne R. Young, on the second day of April, 1931, and which is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Pitt County, in Book L-18 at page 317, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness there-in secured, I shall offer for sale to the highest bidder, for cash, at public auction at the court house door in the Town of Greenville, on TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1933, AT TWELVE O'CLOCK, NOON, the following described parcel of real estate, lying, being and situate in the Town of Greenville, County of Pitt and State of North Carolina, to-wit:

Washington—Have you ever seen people bid on $200,000,000 worth of battleships? The conclusion of this first stage of the drama by which the United States steps out to become the master of her share of the waves is calm, precise, dignified. Back of it lies an agony of preparation, thousands of blue prints drafted and re-drafted, discussions in ship yards, financial houses, in the White House, in technical quarters in the navy, and in committee of the house and senate. When all this is finished months later a group of the nation's foremost seadogs cluster around the desk of Secretary Swanson of the navy. His office is in one of the rattle-drum buildings in Washington, a concrete labyrinth slung together during the World War to house a swelling navy. When street buses pass, it quivers like a chicken coop. However, an acceptable office has been set up for the secretary on the second floor, roomy but far plainer than the quarters of doormen in the newest governmental castles along Constitution and Pennsylvania avenues.

Figures on the General Election from Davidson county show that the percentage of absentee ballots cast there last Tuesday was about six—quite a far cry from the more than twenty-five per cent rung up in the Deane-Burgin primary of last July 2. Even so the defeated Republican candidate for the Legislature is calling for an investigation on the grounds that many of those cast were illegal. It does seem hard to believe that as many as 621 Davidsons were physically unable to go to the polls on Tuesday. "What is a Department of Justice," asks (rhetorically of course) Paul H. Sanders of the Duke University Law School at the very beginning of a brochure entitled "A State Department of Justice for North Carolina." If you want to know the answer, it's quite simple; all you'll have to do is read through the more than a hundred pages of mimeographed matter that follows the Sanders query. Four of North Carolina's Big 5 football teams are playing intersectional opponents today—perhaps the first time in grid history it has occurred. The fifth doesn't play at all. Carolina is in New York to battle Fordham; Duke is also in Yankee-land, meeting Syracuse; State is entertaining Detroit here; and Wake Forest is lancing with Western Maryland in Baltimore. Backers of crop control are planning to enlist all classes in their campaign. Next Tuesday representatives of five state organizations will meet in Wilson to discuss plans for a control drive. The groups participating will be the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, the State Bankers Association and representatives of the North Carolina merchants, tobacco warehousemen and fertilizer interests. Opposition to crop control is being held responsible for Sampson county's swing back to its Republican moorings from which it drifted during the Roosevelt regime. Major A. L. Fletcher, now enforcement head of the Federal Wage-Hour setup, is quoted as saying that not a single complaint of violation has been received from his native North Carolina. He recently quit as Commissioner of Labor to take the Federal place.

held by J. W. Crawford, Administrator, on November 4, 1929, pursuant to a decree entered in an ex parte special proceeding, numbered 3008 in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of said County. This November 12, 1933. ALBION DUNN, Trustee. Nov. 12-11w-4w. NOTICE OF SALE. North Carolina—Pitt County. I, W. W. Young, being duly appointed Administrator on the Estate of H. S. Strickland, deceased, will offer for sale on Saturday, December 3, 1933 at 10 o'clock, A. M. on the premises of H. S. Said sale will be to the highest bidder for cash. This 12th day of Nov., 1933. W. W. YOUNG, Administrator Estate of H. S. Strickland, Deceased. NOTICE OF RE-SALE OF CITY HOUSES. Nelson and others; heirs at law of James E. Nelson, the same being No. 3850 upon the docket of said court, on account of upset bids offered for said properties, the undersigned commissioner will on Saturday, November 26, 1933 at 12 o'clock, Noon at the court house door in Greenville, Pitt County, N. C., offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, 17-15 East 224 feet to the beginning,

Chapter Eight
Capable Of Murder

SOMEONE was breathing hard at my shoulder. I turned.

"Charlie!" I whispered. Fear shot through me and left me trembling.

His face was paper white under the golden down that covered it like peach fuzz, and his odd, yellow cat eyes had the brilliance of topaz.

"She's dead," he said suddenly in a shockingly ordinary voice.

The crowd panicked. Some woman began to laugh. Dore Moore glanced up from his examination, said something in a low voice, and Adam, with courteous, relentless finality, forced us all out of the room.

"Everyone wait, please," he directed and closed the door.

"Quick, someone where we'll be alone," I whispered to Charlie.

He merely stared at me stupidly. I took his unresisting hand and hurried him across the floor to the reading room.

"Listen, this is serious," I said, trying to fix his wandering, feverish gaze.

The vacant yellow eyes looked back at me impersonally.

"Well, what of it?" he asked crisply; and I saw what I had missed before, that he was very drunk.

In that moment of horror it was possible for me to believe anything. I remember looking him over quickly for suspicious signs or bulges.

"All right, Charlie, I just wanted to make sure you remember you were with me in this room when the shooting took place."

Maybe I was a fool, but at that moment I thought I had to get him out of it. I'd take a chance on fixing it with Adam.

"With you? I don't believe I was," said Charlie with a flash of intelligence.

I sighed in assumed impatience. "I was afraid you were too tight to remember. Suppose you've forgotten. I asked you not to take that last drink."

"Tight? Nothing of the sort. Of course I remember. The trouble with you, Red, you're a prude. Cut out to be an old maid."

And with that distinctly uttered pleasantry Charlie Spencer dropped onto the leather divan and went instantly to sleep.

I stood looking at him for a moment in baffled silence. There was no telling what he had done—and no chance of finding out from him now. It seemed to me he was perfectly capable, bolstered by a few drinks, of killing a girl to keep another man from having her. But had he? And how could I find out?

A Man-Hunting Weapon
I TURNED out the light, in the reading room and pushed the door nearly to, hoping that he would not be found for a while.

Then I slipped through another door I found unlocked which opened direct from the reading room on the strip of side yard between the Service Club and the chapel.

The club stood back from the street a short distance like a private residence, and the block was lined with parked cars. Avoiding the front of the building, I cut across in front of the darkened entrance and hurried along the sidewalk, searching for Charlie's car.

A passing sentry eyed me curiously, I thought, before he sauntered on.

Under the next street light I found the roadster that had been Charlie's pride and joy for the summer before, when he was on graduation leave.

I slid behind the wheel, conscious of a homesick pang. I had driven this car in lighthearted moments. . . .

Only a year ago. It had been a good summer—commencement behind me, and ahead vague rosy dreams of fame, based on nothing more tangible than a small check for my first story. Beside me, Charlie, looking like a new-hatched chick in his spangly officer's uniform. The summer-school gang; campus parties; miles and miles along the lake in the roadster with Eileen and her current youth singing like angels in the rumble seat.

A good summer, our last at home. It was all changed now: Dad rambling through southern France on his sabbatical; Charlie's father transferred to Los Angeles, their house sold; Eileen singing determinedly against the incessant clatter of my typewriter and the periodic, devastating typhoon of the elevated outside our window. And Charlie—Charlie drinking himself out of the picture because a girl named Anne Carewe had got herself engaged to another man.

And Anne Carewe lying on a chaise longue with a bullet hole in her back. . . .

I remembered my conversation with Elizabeth that afternoon and ran my hand along the back of the driver's seat. The gun was there, wedged in behind the cushion, the grip where he could put his hand on it.

I drew it out and looked at it with the distrust I always feel for pistols. I had shot Charlie's twenty-two rifle when we were kids, but this was different—an ominous, heavy thing, a man-hunting weapon.

It was a .40; but I didn't know how long it would stay warm after it was fired. I didn't know how to break it to see if it had been fired. I didn't know anything about the thing except that I was going to get rid of it for a while.

I considered. It would not do just to throw it away somewhere in the dark; for eventually it would be found and traced to Charlie—the numbers, or something, were registered. I knew. Where, then, could I hide it?

The only place I could think of was my suitcase in Elizabeth's guest room.

Fantastic Thought
THE thought of Elizabeth brought me up with an icy shock. She must be still at home, waiting for her call. She ought to be told about the tragedy I would make that, an excuse for my actions.

The keys were in the car. I was relieved but not surprised to find them. Charlie was casual about such things.

We warned to each other like old friends, Charlie's roadster and I. The quarter mile or so from one end of the plain to the other vanished behind us like a thread of smoke and we drew up in front of Colonel Wright's quarters.

I was conscious of a pang of disappointment. Elizabeth must have gone back to the party. Her car was not in sight. Well, I would go in, hide the gun and leave. I could at least say I had been looking for her.

The knob turned under my hand—doors are never locked on a post—and I entered softly, remembering Annie's promise to be in early.

The lights were on in the front of the house, but I saw no one as I tiptoed through the hall and up the creaky stairs. I found my suitcase in the dark, removed the pistol from the capacious sleeve of the mandarin coat where I had been carrying it, and buried it under some lingerie. Then I locked the suitcase and put the key in my evening bag. That much, at least, was done.

But on my way downstairs a disturbing thought came to me. How long had Elizabeth been gone? Could she prove an alibi for the time of the shot?

I tried to dismiss the fantastic thought, but it kept coming back, and with it Adam's recital of Bar-Nelson's love angle, as the tabloids would have phrased it. Not that I believe Elizabeth capable of murder. The thing, I repeated, was fantastic. But what about the gossip-mongers? Wouldn't they be the first to scream "Motive"?

And so, with the high-minded intention of proving an alibi for her, I scooped. There may have been some excuse for my meddling in Charlie's affairs. There was none for what I did now.

The telephone was on the colonel's desk. I entered the den, closed the door and spoke softly into the transmitter. A man's voice answered me—the soldier operator of the private exchange.

"I'm expecting a long-distance call," I said in a voice I tried to make casual. "Can you tell me if anyone has tried to get this number in the past half-hour?"

I was prepared to hear that Omaha had called, whereupon I would ask the time of the call. But the operator dashed my plans.

"No ma'am. There's been no long-distance call tonight."

I replaced the instrument, regretting my impulse, trying to dispel my awakening suspicions by the reminder that Elizabeth had said her father might telephone. One thing was certain, however. Not even to Adam would I confide what I had learned.

I opened the door of the den, and there, at the far end of the hall, framed in the outer doorway, was Elizabeth.

She looked startled at sight of me, and I thought she even caught her breath.

PHANTOMS GET LICKED AGAIN

Goldsboro's 'Quakes' Benefit by Penalties in 19 to 6 Victory

Goldsboro, Nov. 11.—Goldsboro High School noviders chalked up a 19-6 win over Greenville High in Eastern Carolina Conference game today.

Pate was the big cog in the Earthquakes' victory. He threw passes for two touchdowns—to Boykin for 23 yards, to Potter for 18—and skirted end for eight yards on the other.

Greenville's score was set up by Goldsboro's fumble on the six. McGowan, on a double reverse, went over.

Stocks was the leading ground-rainer for the visitors, Boykin and Daughtry passed the local line.

Goldsboro scored first in the early minutes of the second quarter. Pate passed to Boykin in the end zone. Try for the extra point failed. Midway of the third quarter Pate threw another pass—to Potter, who raced over. Try for the extra point failed again.

On the second play in the fourth quarter, the visitors recovered a fumble and on a double reverse McGowan dove across the goal line. Try for extra point failed.

Goldsboro's final touchdown was made in the final quarter.

Both teams relied chiefly on aerial plays, with Goldsboro clicking consistently. Penalties kept the visitors at a disadvantage at critical moments.

The victory was Goldsboro's third in as many conference games. Coach Norris' Jeffery's locals last week defeated Roanoke Rapids, 7-0.

The League argues that the state has already taken over so many of the municipal taxables that there is a crying need for more sources on which the cities and towns can levy.

Franchise and Inheritance Taxes: No changes are likely on either category.

Intangible taxes: These are new and more likely to be revised than any other, especially in view of the fact that returns from them for the first year of their operation were far below estimates. The Association of County Commissioners, the State Grange and the Muni League plan a concerted effort to have taxation of all intangibles returned to local units. The Grange would like the State to collect the taxes, then turn them over to the counties on a basis of population rather than of contribution to the total collected. This would be of great benefit to the small, rural counties, but a tremendous blow at the big ones like Mecklenburg, Guilford, Forsyth and others.

Miscellaneous Items: There will be a strong and concerted effort to exempt homesteads (probably those valued up to $300) from ad valorem taxation by counties. This proposal will have the backing of the Grange and, in general, of all the so-called Liberals or Anti-Administrationists. Against it will be found lobbying tooth and nail the County Commissioners and the Muni League, both of which claim that it would be so destructive of tax values in many counties as to prove a real disaster for them.

The counties and municipal group may even go so far as to seek repeal of present exemption of $300 in personal property, though there seems small chance of success for any such movement.

There will also be a substantial attack on present exemption in the Revenue Machinery act which enables church, fraternal and charitable bodies to get what is claimed to be unfair advantage in competition with private real estate owners because the estates of these organizations are often rented for commercial purposes and are not subject to taxation. A similar effort two years ago gained more than a little support, but lost. The plan is, of course, opposed by the powerful groups affected and probably will not get enough votes to pass.

even known; The first transcontinental railroad had just been finished. The same was true in the new boom. Many of our biggest industries of today were unheard of in 1890.

The point I want to emphasize is that in every earlier period when it looked as though American business had stalled, new industries swept us on to undreamed-of heights!

Tomorrow we will again be blessed by a flood of more new industries and myriads of new products. More patents have been issued in the past ten years than in any previous decade in our history. A huge demand for our old, as well as new, products has been built up by a whole decade of sub-normal consumption. American business, within a few years, can hit heights which even the most optimistic cannot contemplate.

Television A Reality
As an example of what I have in mind, take the recent announcement by Radio Corporation of America that television sets will go on the market in 1939. For two hours a week, the first regular television program will be broadcast. Receiving sets will be put on the market, priced from $150 up. In Great Britain, television is already going strong. The British Broadcasting Company sends out programs for two hours every day. The rapid progress made by television since I was in England a year ago was one of the biggest surprises of my recent trip.

I am using this news item simply to illustrate the potentialities in new products and new industries. All this will make jobs for people manufacturing television sets, and the like. Also, it means a bigger demand for raw materials of all kinds an increase in the freight carried by railroads and trucks; an addition to retail sales; and a greater consumption of electric power. I again suggest air-conditioning as another illustration. Furthermore, these new industries need not throw any people out of work.

Huge Potential Demands
Take the effect of new industries on the utilities for an example. Within five years the chemical and metal industries will require 4,000,000,000 or 33 per cent. more kwh. of electricity annually than they are now using. This means more generating equipment for the utilities, more finesteels and metals to make generating equipment, and more jobs to provide the fine steels and metals. At least $3,000,000,000 worth of construction work is accumulating in the power industry.

Were unemployment eliminated, we would find a shortage of a million homes. This means a potential housing volume of $5,000,000,000. The railroad industry needs $1,000,000,000 worth of new rolling stock to run efficiently. Rebuilding factories and replacement of machinery will take another $5,000,000,000. The potentialities of future business stagger the imagination. Furthermore, our banks have more money—and interest rates are lower—than ever before to finance this new expansion.

End Selfishness
The stage is all set for America to go. There is only one thing holding us back: Our own selfishness! We are fighting and bickering among ourselves. Pressure groups are trying to loot the Treasury. Many government officials are calling business men names. Many business men are doing all they can to discredit the government. Labor is fighting with employers. Employers are balking at new labor regulations. It is natural that business should suffer and unemployment should increase under such unchristian conditions.

But imagine what prosperity we could have if all interests would pull together! Then there could be whole-hearted co-operation under the new rules. Government would then take business into its confidence and stop abusing it; while business would trust the government and the people fairly. Employers and workers would unite to increase production which is the only road by which labor can raise its standard of living. In short, if a spiritual revival should sweep this nation nothing would prevent America from enjoying a new all-time high. To quote Frank Buchanan, "There is not enough for the greed of all, but there surely is enough for the need of all."

NORTHEASTERN TEACHERS END TWO DAY CONVENTION

Dr. Daniel last night kept his audience following him with a smile or a laugh while he presented his idea of "Keys" that should not be lost.

To lead into his topic he gave the lines about throwing away the key to yesterday and then finding that "only the key to yesterday unlocks tomorrow."

The "keys" he spoke of were Cheerfulness, Courage, Good Will, love of Beauty and Ambition.

This speaker has been a teacher for half a century and has taught at Clemson College over forty years. A number of his former students were in the audience.

The committee on resolutions, headed by Supt. M. B. Jennings of Elizabeth City, with Principal Jean Booth of Kinston, and Miss Louise Anderson, New Bern, as assistants, this morning submitted resolutions offering thanks for the courtesy of East Carolina Teachers College and the city of Greenville as hosts; expressing confidence in the educational leadership of the state and the association, and appreciation of the work of the Education Commission and the Retirement Commission appointed by the Governor and the support of the P. T. A. program of the state; and endorsing the five-point program of the state association, with special emphasis on President Smith's items proposed for immediate attention—restoration of salaries commensurate with training, retirement legislation, and addition of a twelfth grade.

The resolutions also endorsed federal aid for education as embodied in the Harrison-Fletcher bill, and urged a wider program for the schools, to include more vocational work, training in safety, health, music, art and guidance, and introduction as rapidly as possible of audio-visual equipment and use.

Departmental meetings in nineteen fields drew the thousand or more teachers into various lecture rooms and classrooms this morning. Among speakers in these meetings

L. C. Powell Completing 50 Years As Auctioneer

On Greenville Tobacco Market Thirty Years

L. C. "Handsome" Powell, Sr., is bringing to a close this November a half-century of tobacco auctioneering, 30 years of which were spent in Greenville. Powell is still in harness and friends believe he has the longest record of any tobacco auctioneer in service.

An estimated 150 million pounds of golden leaf have been "knocked out" by this tall, muscular auctioneer, in good times and bad times, for one-half cent a pound, for a dollar and a half a pound. Powell has seen tobacco seasons last from September to April and today is seeing the selling season close before Thanksgiving.

He began his first auction sale in South Boston, Va., in 1883 and came to Warsaw, N. C., in 1903. Before he came to Greenville in

Has 'Knocked Out' Estimated 150 Million Pounds

1916 he had sold tobacco in Goldsboro and Rocky Mount.

Since 1916, Powell—called "Powerful" Powell as well as "Handsome" Powell—has been an institution in the throbbing, humming sale of tobacco in Greenville. He has seen the Greenville Tobacco Market grow from a baby business to a giant industry.

"I feel like it has been worthwhile to help thousands of farmers get a good price for their tobacco. I have done my best to help people and I have gotten pleasure by helping people," Powell said yesterday at the end of a tobacco sale.

Today—after fifty years and 150 million pounds—he is still pointing his finger at the moving row of tobacco buyers and calling the bids.

Dr. P. H. Gwynn, Jr., for the superintendents; Dr. Holland Holton, Duke; Charles E. Spencer, State Department; and Supt. S. G. Hawfield, Concord, for the high school principals; and Dr. James Tippet for the progressive Parker District School, Greenville, S. C., for the elementary principals.

The College and High school also furnished a great many of the departmental officers, among them, Dr. A. B. Frank, President of the science group; Miss Lena Ellis, president, commerce; Miss Lucille Norton, president of the physical education group; Miss Deane Boone Haskett, secretary English group; R. G. Walker, president of the Dramatic Art; Miss Estelle Green, vice-president, mathematics teachers; Miss Imogene Riddick, secretary, modern language group; Mrs. Luther Herring, president school librarians; Robert Fleming, president, science teachers.

Those in the commerce department were Mrs. Mary Hood, Wilson; Miss Annie Wilson, Hertford; and Joseph P. Foster, Rocky Mount. For the social science teachers, Dr. W. A. Browne, E. C. T. C. and Schnoopy and Dr. Thomas Ennett of Greenville, took part in a panel of the adult education teachers. People from Greenville schools on the program included Miss Laura Bell, R. G. Walker, Miss May Joyner and Mrs. Clem Utley.

In home economics the new officers were Miss Evelyn Grimley, Richlands, Miss Helen King, Chowan county, and Miss Irene Mizelle, Williamston.

The class room teachers chose Miss Jesse Brooks, Wilson. Mrs. Mims, New Bern and Miss Fanny Sutton, Kinston.

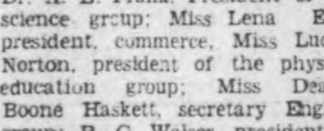

Dramatic Art teachers elected R. G. Walker, Greenville, Miss Frances Barnes, Ayden and Mrs. Mary Kittrell, Fairfield.

In the science group, Raymond Wells, Whitakers, Miss Estelle McClees, Elizabeth City; and Miss Helen Gill, Wilson were elected. The English teachers chose Miss Dunlap of Wilson; Miss Watts Kinston; and Miss Brewer, Chowan county.

Names of new officers of the other departments were not available. Chas. Newcomb, Asheville humorist, made an entertaining address at the last general session. A local man, Supt. D. H. Conley of the Pitt County schools, is president of the Northeastern District. Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Green Hertford, Hyde, Lenoir, Martin, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell, Washington and Wilson counties make up this District.

DRASTIC TAX CHANGES LIKELY

support to force a roll call vote in either house of the Legislature.

The chief sales tax battle will range around a proposal sponsored by the North Carolina Food Dealers Association to exempt all food and fuel for home consumption. Shrinking revenues from all sources is likely to ward off the customary proposal to reduce the sales tax rate to 2 per cent from its present 3.

Leading the efforts to revamp, modify or alter the sales tax will be Mecklenburg's J. B. Vogler who in his freshmen term in the House (1937) proved himself a capable legislator. He is an undying and unyielding foe of the sales tax principle, but isn't so fanatical as to lose any advantageous opportunity to compromise on the grounds of expediency.

The Food Dealers' organization, of which Vogler is the executive secretary, is preparing to present petitions signed by literally hundreds of thousands of North Carolinians asking repeal of the sales tax or at least the exemption of food and fuel for home consumption.

Beverage Taxes: These levies will stay about "as is."

Privilege Taxes: As usual there will be some minor battles over particular schedules. Every affected industry and business will try to get off as lightly as possible, but the net result will be practically zero.

If there are any fireworks at all in discussion of privilege taxes they are likely to be fired off by the North Carolina League of Municipalities which wants to remove some statutory provisions and limitations on the power of municipalities to levy privilege taxes in addition to those imposed for state pur-

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 12—(AP)—Steel stocks today sprinted into new high ground for more than a year, but advancing tendencies in most other market groups were somewhat restrained.

Traders returned from their holiday in a cheerful mood, optimism over the election and business continuing as the principal buying influence.

DuPont was lively at the start of the two-hour proceedings. The pace lagged later, however, as profit-taking appeared. Top marks running to two or more points were retained in many cases at the close. Transients were around 1,000,000 shares.

Hitting peak levels since October 1937, were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel and Youngstown Republic.

Chrysler and General Motors managed to take on modest plus signs as yesterday's new Automobile Show was said to have attracted the largest crowd since 1928.

Negro Schools To Purchase Bus.

The colored schools of the vicinity of Farmville, Fountain and Falkland closed their bus drive Thursday night, Nov. 3, at Macedonia Baptist Church, Farmville, with a highly inspirational meeting. A little short of one thousand dollars was realized. The bus was immediately ordered and will soon be on the road.

Supt. D. H. Conley accompanied by a group of prominent local white citizens, was present and addressed the meeting. He advised his hearers to study to know their real and true friends and thus continue to strengthen the mutual bonds of friendship and good will that now exist between the races. He spoke pointedly and was clearly understood. His address was highly appreciated by all and was often interrupted by thunderous applause.

Short talks were also made by the other white citizens and were much enjoyed by all.

The most outstanding financial report was made by Nelson Hopkins. He worked singularly and chiefly among his white friends and reported the handsome sum of one hundred dollars.

All concerned wish to express their most sincere thanks to everyone who made any contribution to this cause. H. B. SUGG.
