BANS NAME OF JEHOVAH FROM NAZI CHURCHES

Protestants Ordered to Obliterate All References

EXTEND BAN TO JEWISH PROPHT'S

German Newspaper Declares $400,000,000 Fine Against Jews Been Planned

Berlin, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The name of Jehovah was ordered erased from Protestant churches throughout Nazi Germany today by President Friedrich Werner of the Supreme Evangelical Church Council.

His order said the name of the God of Israel must be obliterated wherever it is displayed in Protestant churches. The names of Jewish prophets, also prophets of the Old Testament, also were ordered obliterated.

This action was regarded as a signal to threats in various parts of Saxony that Christian churches allowing these names to remain would be burned, as were synagogues in the wake of anti-Jewish violence which swept Germany last week.

A German newspaper said Nazi leaders, long before this outbreak and the subsequent $400,000,000 fine imposed on the Jewish community, had made ready to despoil Jews financially. It declared that "the prophecies with which the bill was presented shows the preparations had been made long in advance."

"All informed persons knew that financial action was bound to follow political action in the process of Aryanization."

"Vom Rath's murder only precipitated this intended course of action."

The outbreaks, in which synagogues were burned, Jewish-owned property destroyed and thousands of Jews arrested, followed close on the shot of Ernest Vom Rath, German embassy secretary in Paris, by a young Polish Jew.

Local Group Holds Luncheon Meeting

The Greenville and Pitt county branch of the Association for Childhood Education, under the leadership of Miss Agnes Fullilove, retiring president, sponsored an interesting luncheon meeting at the Woman's club last week-end in connection with the District Meeting of Teachers here. The speaker of the occasion was Dr. James S. Tippet, of the Parker District School in South Carolina, known far and wide for his progressive ideas in education.

Miss Kathleen Plumb, the new president, introduced the guest speaker.

Dr. Tippet delighted those present by reading many of his poems and stories that he has written for children, a very appropriate introduction to Book Week suggested by the attractive place cards. These cards, which had been designed by members of the student branch of the College, contained quotations about children and books.

Grace was said by Dr. P. H. Gwynn of Davidson College. Mrs. Tippet, formerly Miss Martha Kelley of Raleigh, was also a welcome guest at the luncheon.

Pitt Students On ECTC Honor List

Sixteen Pitt county students at East Carolina Teachers College were on the registrar's list for high scholarship during the fall, winter and spring quarters of the college year 1937-38.

Only full time students who made an average grade of "2" (or "B") are named on the list, and to be so named is evidence of high scholastic excellence. In many instances the same degree of excellence is shown by these students in other forms of leadership in college.

The following students, with their class, were on the list: Leo Burks, Jr., junior; Mary Lou Butner, sophomore; Harvey Deal, sophomore; Helen Flanagan, sophomore; Helen Foley, junior; Roland Earley, senior; Martha Jane Gates, junior; Geraldine Harris, sophomore; Dorothy Hollar, sophomore; Elizabeth Holliday, freshman; Rosa Lee McGowan, freshman; Margaret L. Pruitt, senior; Marquette Robertson, senior; William Shelton, sophomore; all of Greenville; John E. Jenkins, senior; Ayden; LaFue Mooring, sophomore, of Stokes.

Several of the seniors named on the list now are teaching, having completed their college work.

College Observes Homecoming Day

In spite of threatening skies, Homecoming Day at East Carolina Teachers College brought former ECTC students back to the campus this morning to join in the annual celebration.

The high spot of the morning was a program in the auditorium following a period of informal visiting in the corridors of the Austin building.

President Leon R. Meadows spoke in welcome to the returning students, though he declared one never really needs a formal welcome to his home. While speaking of their years here, President Meadows called to the attention of his audience certain indications that the next few years may make it more difficult for boys and girls to go to college because the state educational institutions may have to increase tuition to meet lower appropriations. He urged his listeners to use their influence to keep open to all the opportunities they have enjoyed.

H. C. Oglesby, Griffin principal, member of the Homecoming committee and presiding officer at the program, spoke briefly of his hopes for Homecoming Days in the future, and then called on a number of people in the audience.

Dean Tabor, head of the Music Education department of the College, told a little about work now given that allows students to do their major work in the field of music, and about the recently inaugurated group instruction in piano, in voice, and in other instruments—brasses, woodwinds and strings. He also described his sixty-piece band and the uniforms they hope to have soon.

Mrs. Loniella Stancill, president of the Alumnae association, spoke on the theme of loyalty to the College, pointing out that it demands continued interest and support. She urged the alumnae present to help organize chapters in their respective communities and to send in.

1938 TOBACCO SEASON CLOSED

Total $11,824,357.80 Paid Here in 62 Selling Days

The 1938 tobacco auction season was brought to a close in Greenville yesterday afternoon with sales for the year totaling 50,504 pounds and bringing an average of $23.41 per hundred weight. Offerings on the local market for the season brought a total of $11,824,357.80, far short of the record amount paid out last year.

The 1938 season lasted only 62 selling days, three weeks less than the 1937 season, which closed on December 10. The $16,551,587.30 paid out on the Greenville market last year for 62,809,184 pounds, an average of $26.35 exceeded this year's total of $11,824,357.80 by $4,727,229.50.

This year's crop was shorter than that of last year by 12,304,830 pounds, bearing out pre-auction predictions by most observers.

This year's closing was one of the earliest in the history of the Greenville market since it has taken its place among the top marts of the world, and the first time it has ever closed before mid-December.

R. E. SENTELLE FREED ON BOND

Ex-Legislator Again Faces Charges Of Driving Drunk

Charlotte, Nov. 19.—(AP)—R. Sentelle of Southport, a former member of the North Carolina legislature, was bound over to Mecklenburg county Superior today when he demanded a jury trial in recorders court upon charges of drunken driving and violating the state liquor laws.

He was permitted to remain free under the same amount of bond he posted after his arrest Thursday near Charlotte, $200 on the driving charge and $100 on the liquor charge. J. B. Vogler of Charlotte, a member of the legislature, signed the bond.

Rural policemen who arrested Sentelle said he had half a gallon of moonshine whiskey and three pints of tax paid liquor in his car.

Sentelle, who was considered a prohibition supporter in the 1935 legislative session, was arrested in Montgomery county last year on similar charges and was convicted, receiving a jail sentence and fine. He denied the charges and fought the case to the Supreme court, which, however ruled against him. Executive clemency saved him the necessity of going to jail, but he paid a $225 fine.

What About Security Prices

Demand Exceeds Supply Choice Issues

By ROGER W. BABSON

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Business continues to roll on toward prosperity. It is now only 11 per cent under normal compared with 28 per cent below last June! This is one of the most sensational recoveries in history and the end of the rise is not yet in sight. Meanwhile, security prices have run up even faster than business. Hence, the question in every investor's mind today is: What should I do about my securities?

In answering that question let me emphasize that no one can tell you whether the market is going up or down next week. Most of those who attempt to do so and who "play" the short swings eventually end up in the poor house! They can lose their money more pleasantly at the race track while having the fun of watching the horses run. Hence, I do not want anyone to interpret this article as a forecast of what the market will do immediately.

Craft Plows Through 150 Yards of Large Pine Trees

TWO SURVIVORS BADLY INJURED

Bomber Said To Have Been on Routine Flight from Mitchell Field to Alabama

Lagrange, Ga., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Five army fliers were killed, two severely injured and one other unaccounted for today after an army bombing plane crashed and burned in an isolated wooded area about seven miles northeast of here.

The big bomber plowed a path for about 150 yards through a stand of large pine trees.

The two known survivors were identified at the hospital here as Second Lieut. John D. Madre and Private Joseph Nanavotich, both attached to Mitchell field, N. Y. Nanavotich was described as in a critical condition while Madre was given a chance to recover.

Mitchell field officers said the army bomber was on a routine flight to Montgomery, Ala.

Four bodies were brought to Lagrange after rescue parties worked several hours to reach the crash scene over a muddy dirt highway and through a two-mile lane that was little more than wheel tracks. A fifth body was found at the wreck. None was identified immediately because of the condition of the bodies.

The ship crashed in a heavy rain, which was measured at the Lagrange weather station at 1.20 inches in a few hours last night.

Lenoir Man Held On Assault Count

Trenton, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A man docketed as Marshall Mooring, 38-year-old farmer of near Kingston, was held in $10,000 bond today after a hearing before Magistrate K. D. Meadows on charges of kidnapping and criminal assault.

The charge was preferred by the 20-year old daughter of a Jones county relief worker, who identified the man in jail at Kingston as her alleged assailant.

The young woman told officers the man took her and her mother to Kingston in his automobile, but the mother out on some pretext, and then drove some miles into the country where she said, he attacked her.

WOODMAN, SPARE THAT TREE

While capital club women and civic leaders were working themselves into a lather over talk that Washington's famous cherry trees would be destroyed to make way for the proposed Jefferson Memorial, President Roosevelt said only 88 were marked for removal but even these will be replaced by 912 others. Nevertheless this group of civic patriots armed themselves with automobile tire chains and said they would chain themselves to the trees, if necessary, to prevent destruction.

The income of the average American in 1935-36 was $1,160 a year, or $22 a week.

TO SPEAK AT UNC ON RETURN TRIP

Sen. Borah, Meantime Expresses Disfavor At Changing Immigration Laws

Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt worked today to clear his desk of a mass of business before transferring the center of governmental activity to the southland for the next two weeks.

He will leave late tomorrow for Warm Springs, Ga., where, between swims in the health resort's outdoor pool, he expected to hold conference on the new legislative program. There is a possibility, too, that Ambassador Hugh Wilson will go there when he returns from Berlin to give Mr. Roosevelt a first hand account of the happenings in Germany.

In his White House cottage, atop Pine Mountain, the President also may sign several important appointments.

Mr. Roosevelt may make a brief informal talk at the Chickamauga TVA dam at Chattahoochee, Tenn., Monday, but the only set speech is that before the non-partisan Forum at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill on the evening of December 5 on the return trip to Washington.

Other developments: Senator Borah (R-Idaho) expressed the opinion that any attempt to revise the immigration laws as late come of additional refugees from Germany would arouse "tremendous opposition" in Congress.

"I do not believe it desirable to undertake to change the immigration laws at this time," he said. "Any possible change would be wholly inadequate for real relief."

Conflicting viewpoints expressed on the new British and Canadian trade agreements by business men political leaders foreshadowed a lively discussion in the new Congress.

The comments ranged from bitter criticism to unstinted praise.

After several games, Mrs. George Hadley and Mrs. Charles Guy were given linen for scoring high and second high.

Soft lights from burning tapers on each table made a lovely setting for the delicious salad course served, followed by coffee and sweets.

Two little love-birds with a secret to disclose To the pretty little honoree For everyone else knows— So hurry Miss Lucy to the dining room and see The really, truly motive For such a lovely par-tee."

4-H CANNING WINS

HELEN HIGDON, 18, of Webster will be one of the North Carolina delegates to the 17th National 4-H Club Congress opening November 25 in Chicago. Awarded by Assistant State Club Leader Frances MacGregor to the state's most worthy 4-H'er in canning projects, the trip climaxes a four-year record. * * * Miss Higdon canned 3,500 pints of foods valued at $24,572, a large amount of which were raised in her 4-H garden. She will compete with other state winners in the south for a $200 scholarship. * * * A national winner, chosen from four sectional champions, will receive extra $200, provided with trips and county medals by the Kerr Glass Company. Doris Evans of Lumberton was named alternate state winner and receives a 25-quart canner retort.

Margaret Kinlaw, 18, of Fayetteville, named delegate for outstanding work in foods, is an eight-year club member. She prepared 53 dishes, canned over 800 jars, entered three judging contests and made 39 exhibits winning $20.25. Miss Kinlaw will compete with other southern winners for one of two Electrolux refrigerators given by Servel, Inc., and also for four national scholarship awards totaling $1,000 provided by the same firm.

NOTHING NEW Under The Sun But Something New In Print

There came near being a storm this morning. The soldiers are heading for Tarboro to be mustered out. Two weeks from Monday the newly elected county officers will take charge of affairs.

The average boy feels sorry that Christmas comes on Sunday this year. But he can celebrate Monday. Main street was full of signs reading "Boats to Let" early this morning. The condition of the streets suggested the signs.

Those who look in the glass oftenest get on the most color—only the women get it on their cheeks and the men on their noses.

'SWING CHEER-LEADING': Football's Added Attraction

1. FOOTBALL statisticians, concerned with points scored and passes thrown, have failed to record one trend of 1938: A turn to streamlined cheer-leading. All over the U. S. colleges are calling on comedy co-eds to encourage their football teams. The girls swing and sway to syncopated applause. At Louisiana State, Joyce Sweeney and Marie Bonnette help the trend. Here they do a ballroom dance with the band.

2. AT THE Tennessee State Teachers College, Joyce Brown and Jeanne Kenyon got more publicity than all of the athletes put together. They have put swing into Tennessee yells. They do the Lambeth walk, and the dance pointing with their thumbs toward touchdown territory.

3. AT LANGLEY high school Pittsburgh, Cheer-leader Mary Jane Lowry demonstrates an accessory for the aspiring prep school yell maestro. Mickey the school's pet monkey, is her assistant. Mickey's job is to jinx the opposing teams—make monkeys out of all of them.

AVERAGE WAGE WITHIN LIMIT

Reported Payrolls for October Show State in Line

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—The State Department of Labor's unemployment-payroll report for the month of October shows that average hourly wages and weekly hours are well within the limits of the Federal Wage-Hour law, though this report makes no record of maximum work hours or minimum wage rates in any of North Carolina.

The report, however, covers a period prior to the effective date of that law.

vicous months. Cotton mill employees in the 233 reporting factories, were worked an average of 34.8 hours per week.

Present Wage-Hour limitation are a 25 cent minimum hourly wage and a 40 hour week in the general provisions of the bill.

The average hours worked per week and the average hourly earnings for employees in other industries in North Carolina during October were: Hosiery and knit goods mills 38 hours at 48.6 cents; silk and rayon mills 39.4 hours at 36.9 cents; furniture factories 45.6 at 35.3 cents; tobacco factories (cigarettes, smoking tobacco, snuff etc) 34.8 hours at 52.3 cents; miscellaneous manufacturing plants 40.5 hrs at 41 cents; non-manufacturing industries 41.9 hours at 33.6 cents; retail trade establishments 41.3 hours at 33.3 cents; wholesale trade establishments 43.9 hours at 45.4 cents.

Altogether the report covered 538 manufacturing firms which employed a total of 120,061 workers, who earned a total of $1,775,649 for an average weekly wage of $14.76. All these figures were slight increases over September, with number of employees up 1.2 percent; total payroll increased 2.2 per cent and average weekly wages 1 per cent higher.

FIRE DESTROYS 32,000 GALLONS OF WHISKEY

This aerial view shows the smoldering ruins of six buildings of the Glenmore Distillery plant at Owensboro, Ky., where a spectacular $2,600,000 fire destroyed 32,000 gallons of whiskey. The distillery itself was not harmed, but flames razed two large warehouses, a shipping warehouse, a storage warehouse, a bottling plant and another building.

Since rendering your report for year ending June 30, 1938, the State Board of Alcoholic Control, Raleigh, North Carolina, has published a report covering county operation of alcoholic beverage control stores for the same period.

This report should be interesting to all taxpayers; and should be of particular interest to your board and taxpayers in your county. It shows that the average Operating Expense for all county liquor stores was 8.797% of sales, whereas, your Operating Expense was 7.785% of sales. In addition, report furnished figures from which we determined that the average Operating Expense of nine other counties having sales from $267,810.29 to $332,044.95 was 9.536% of sales or 1.771% in excess of your Operating Expense percentage.

Additional comments on Profit & Loss figures are not, in our opinion, necessary, as same are shown in considerable detail by statements marked Exhibits "C" and "D."

SCOPE OF AUDIT

This report is based on an exhaustive examination of your books, and invoices, receiving reports, sales reports and other supporting documents.

Cash on hand was counted. Cash on deposit per books was reconciled with confirmed statements from banks.

Inventories of liquor and wine were taken, priced and extended by us. Values used were lower of cost or market.

Other Balance Sheet and Profit & Loss figures are based on books and other records, without outside verifications.

Insurance and Surety Bond policies were examined by us, and it appears that coverages are adequate.

We commend your Chairman and other employees of your Board, and employees of County Auditor's office, for the manner in which the affairs and records of your Board have been administered and kept; and wish to express our appreciation for the cooperation given us while engaged in making your audits.

CERTIFICATE

We hereby CERTIFY that, in our opinion, Balance Sheet, together with supporting statements, and Profit & Loss Statements submitted herewith correctly set forth the financial position of your board at September 30, 1938, and result of operations for quarter year period ended same date.

TREAT ALL ALIKE

While we do not endorse gambling we do endorse the action of the city court early this week in quashing indictments against fourteen Negroes charged with gambling. It is understood that Solicitor Harry M. Brown requested nolle pros in the cases because he felt the injustice of prosecuting Negro craps-shooters while other forms of gambling were permitted to exist in our city, including a lottery on an automobile that is being carried on under a city permit and with approval of the city government.

There is an old saying, "What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," and no doubt the court officials felt that so long as the city council approved a lottery and gave sellers of the chances a place on the streets to exhibit the car to be given away, while individuals and in some instances even church organization hold raffles of one sort or another, while throughout our city bridge clubs and individuals, including the women, play cards for money; while private poker games run unhampered; and while chances in football pools and other forms of gambling are permitted, there was little or no need of prosecuting a few Negroes who were caught engaged in games of chance.

Breaking up a few Negro craps games is not ridding our city of the gambling evil. Again we say, we commend Judge Skinner and Solicitor Brown for the action they took regarding the cases against the Negro craps-shooters. If every body here is to be permitted to gamble at will without interference it is our belief that the Negroes are entitled to the same consideration.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau - Raleigh, Nov. 19 - Lengthy relation in Raleigh's morning paper of how it was learned that Governor Hoyt was "unshot" en route to Chicago leaves this column quite cold.

Everybody who knows the Governor knows that he was not only "unshot" but he wasn't even half shot, despite the fact there's a bar on the Limited on which he was riding to the Windy City.

John R. Norris, secretary of the North Carolina Sheriffs Association and New Hanover representative-elect, has quite a job on his hands. If you don't believe it, drop by the office of Secretary of State Thida Bure and watch Mr. Morris as he patiently delves through all the election returns of November 8. He is making up a list of all state, district and county officials for North Carolina, which is quite an undertaking.

Former State Senator W. B. Horton, a brother of the Lieutenant Governor, is planning to have an amendment introduced in the 1939 Assembly to the law granting free tuition, board and rooms to all children of World War soldiers who met death in action overseas.

He has just found that the law as it now stands, does not take care of "matriculation" or other special fees, which in the cases of two young colored men he represents and wants to get into the Negro College at Durham amount to about $85 each.

There probably will be no objection to the amendment, which will likely be pressed by the American Legion, sponsor of the law itself. The special fees were probably inadvertently left out.

Revocation of 64 licenses this week brought to 19,434, the total taken away from North Carolina drivers under the Motor Vehicle Law.

Drunken driving was responsible for 64 revocations, jareny of an automobile brought 3, hit and run driving accounted for six and driving after license revoked was the cause of one revocation.

For a change there were no women on this week's list and no licenses revoked for manslaughter.

State Treasurer Charlie Johnson plans his vacation on his return from Biloxi, Mississippi, where he spoke before the national convention of State Treasurers, Auditors, etc.

State Auditor George Ross Pou also attended the Biloxi session. A friend who was looking for him in Raleigh snorted when told of his Mississippi trip "Huh, give him two crutches and you'd never find him. He sure does get about."

Durham county not only sold the most liquor during the year ended June 30, according to the state ABC board's report, but it sold the most per capita, with $15.28 for each man, woman and child within its borders—though it has been reported that some people from "dry" counties actually have bought booze in the Bull City.

Other county per capita liquor purchases were: Beaufort $5.90, Bertie $2.70, Carteret $6.20, Chowan $6.20, Craven $4.38, Cumberland $6.54, Dare $8.52, Edgecombe $7.43, Franklin $4.27, Greene $3.24, Halifax $7.18, Johnston $6.62, Lenoir $8.06, Martin $6.27, Moore $9.85, Nash $5.59, New Hanover $12.16, Onslow $4.01, Pasquotank $8.19, Pitt $8.37, Tyrrell $2.92, Vance $7.72, Wake $8.52, Warren $4.69, Washington $5.28 and Wilson $7.39.

and enchant me: Sammy Kaye gang playing and singing "Pardner and the Bull"; Tommy Dorsey's gang playing and singing "Let's Change Partners and Dance"; Ray Kenney's gang playing and singing "Across the Sea"; Enric Madrignera's gang playing "Hoffman's Tales of the Vienna Woods"; Shep Fields' gang playing and singing "Sixty Seconds Got Together and Called It a Minute".

New York likes to interpret its sports with popular tunes of the day. At the big football games everyone pass everybody yells in unison, "He dropped it, he dropped it—on the way he dropped it.... It's almost as if Larry Schwab had rehearsed it for a sequence in the college operetta "Good News."

The manager of a New York hotel announces that he is opening a cooking school for celebrities and will let anyone enter free of charge. He furnishes cooking and all ingredients, too. All you have to do is submit your menu 24 hours ahead so that everything you need will be on the pantry shelf.

More hotel chatter: One of the midtown hostlers is justly proud of his Green Room. And a rival inn is just as proud of its Blue Room. However, the orchestra in the Green Room is Blue Barroom's. What's the matter with giving Johnny Green a shot at the Blue Room.

Still another hotel, and a big one, provides such excellent chaperone for young women traveling alone that girls' schools frequently make mass reservations for their students when major football games or other events call them to the city. Their rooms are assigned and a matron checks up each night at curfew.

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

The Characters

Katherine Corah, myself, visiting Elizabeth on a mid-western Army post. Elizabeth, Colonel Wright's daughter. Adam Drew, acting commanding officer.

Yesterday Adam dashes out to see if Barney is safe. While he is gone a strange woman appears on the balcony.

Chapter 14

The Girl From The Train

IT SEEMED to me that she had been trying to attract my attention. But whether or not she was now aware of me I could not tell. Suddenly she staggered up one step and seemed to fall out of sight.

After the first icy shock of horror, when I was unable to scream, remembering the poor soul who had hanged herself, I clamped one hand over my mouth and sat there shivering violently, trying to get hold of myself and be sensible. However much she might appear to be an apparition, she had to be flesh and blood. I reminded myself that there were guest rooms off the balcony which Adam had said were seldom occupied. But seldom did not mean never.

I was positive she was not one of the guests at the hop. None of them had been dressed like that—all in floating white. I began to shiver again. But if she had been up there all evening, if she were the relative of some enlisted man and occupying one of the guest rooms, she might know something, might even have witnessed the shooting.

It would not do for me to summon anyone else. I must keep her presence secret until Adam could talk to her.

Before my good resolution could weaken I slipped my notes under the stair rug and climbed upward as fast as my shaky knees would permit.

She was lying partially on the stairway, as if she had fallen forward just before she reached the top—a flesh-and-blood woman in a white night gown and robe. Her body was limp as an old rag thrown down, and when I could bring myself to touch it, to turn the face upward to the light, I saw that it was so flushed with blood as to be almost purple, and there were flecks of foam on the lips.

To my untutored eyes it looked like suffocation or poisoning.

And then, after the first wave of blackness had been fought off and I could see again, I recognized her. It was the girl from the train.

Somehow I got past her and onto the balcony, somehow I edged my way along to the opposite side of the central well without being seen by any of the huddling groups below. There was another stairway that I had noticed leading up from the powder room. I stood at the head of it and listened until I was sure there was no one below. And when I reached the foot of it I found I was still whispering to myself, "I won't scream, I won't scream!"

There was an outside door that corresponded to the one in the reading room—the one Elizabeth had used to slip out unseen. I hurried around the building in the darkness until I could look in through the reading room window. Tubby Shaw and Mrs. Orpington were still glowering at each other. Adam had not returned.

Where would I find him? He had gone for Barney—to the Officers' Club where the bachelors had rooms. I started in pursuit and met him returning, his long legs striding purposefully toward the row of parked cars.

Key To The Murder

I REACHED him, clung to him and poured out my story. He put his hand over mine where it rested on his arm and the touch was warm and comforting. It was demoralizing to shake so.

"Good girl," he said quietly. "The fewer people know about this, the better. Maybe—someone will give it away. I'll go up and look over the situation. You take my car—or Charlie's—and go for Doc Moore. Barney is at the hospital too; the orderly at the club couldn't keep him in bed. Tell him I want to see him."

I took Charlie's car again; he wouldn't be needing it for a while. And as I drove a thousand questions raced through my mind, seeking answers I could not produce.

Most urgent of these—the identity of the strange girl—fascinated me because I had been so near to solving it on the train. I had fancied that I had seen her before and had dismissed it as a chance resemblance. But had the resemblance been chance? Was it a family one—and to someone on this post?

I found that I did not believe she was the wife or sister of an enlisted man. For one thing, her clothes were too expensive. For another, she had undoubtedly identified Charlie's ring. And what had Adam said?

"Catch any soldier on this post putting his women-folk in this building for the night!"

The line of reasoning was not strong, but it intensified my growing feeling that to solve the identity of that girl would be to find a key to the murder of Anne Carrawe.

As often happens when you try to watch your subconscious at work, mine retired into a subcellar and put out the light. Even the remembered image of the girl as she sat across the aisle from me on the train faded from my mind and left me staring at that contorted magenta mask which bore no resemblance to anything living.

Horror was riding with me. I spun the little car crazily around a corner and saw welcome lights ahead.

The hospital at Fort Havens is at the same end of the post as the commanding officer's quarters, but beyond and well away from the other buildings and the main road. I had been there that afternoon, but not inside the big brick building.

I ran up the short flight of steps and through the heavy double doors, skidded to a stop on the highly waxed linoleum floor and looked about me. The odor of formaldehyde and a hushed and breathless quiet enveloped everything.

A room to the right was labeled: DISPENSARY. To my left a door was open on a small office. An orderly in a stiff white jacket rose from behind a desk and motioned me down a long cross corridor to where a doorway showed golden against the dimmer hall.

"Your friends are in there, waiting for the captain. He'll come as soon as he's free."

"Will you tell him it's urgent please?" Major Drew sent me.

Hausted Eyes

HE HURRIED away and I tipped down the endless polished corridor, listening to my footsteps echo and re-echo against the cold white walls and ceiling.

The surgeon's office was sparsely furnished: a big bare desk; a bookcase full of heavy medical books; a few mahogany armchairs. Against that austere background nothing could have been more unseemly than our forgotten finery.

Looked at Elizabeth's white face above her pink forehead; at Barney's great figure hunched over the desk, face buried in his hands like a stricken jester, the pierced crimson heart on his back shocking reminder of Anne's down-falling form; and realized suddenly that I, too, was still in fancy dress.

Then I saw Annie, in decent black, a Queen Mary hat set rigidly level on her small head, twisting her handkerchief and staring from a corner—the spirit of tragedy brooding over a vanished feast.

Elizabeth stopped turning the leaves of a medical journal and glanced up with haunted eyes. Barney dropped his hands from a paper, white face against which his eyes were like the openings to gray, vacant corridors and rose, swaying a little.

"Has—has Adam found out anything?" he asked with desperate urgency.

I said, "I don't know," and avoided their eyes, which seemed to accuse me of withholding hope.

"He wants to see you—he's still at the Service Club."

I found a chair quickly and sat down because he was obviously holding himself up by a great effort.

"I'll go back—as soon as I've seen Doc," he said. "I've got things to do. . . There'll be no sleep for me." He clenched his big hands and swallowed painfully.

Elizabeth's eyes were fixed on the open doorway. I listened and heard them, too—the quick, quiet footsteps descending the stairs, traversing the long corridor.

Not over thirty now, in ten years time Captain Moore would be a little stooped. I thought irrelevantly as he stood in the doorway enveloped in the white surgical gown, his sweating head bent a little forward, the air of one peering over his glasses and listening for something only faintly audible. His mouth was controlled, his hands lean and sensitive—a surgeon's hands.

"You wanted me?" he asked of the room at large.

Elizabeth had risen and taken a step forward. She seemed braced for a blow.

"We thought—it might not be too late," she said painfully. "Father would want nothing left undone."

In Barney's eyes there was a naked plea. So they were hoping—still.

Monday: A mysterious note.

WHAT ABOUT SECURITY PRICES? ASKS BABSON

A good example of this is the mortgage paper field. Only a few years ago conservative investors could always buy good mortgages to yield a 6 per cent return. The Home Loan first and then the F. H. A. killed this class of investment. Utilities are another example—they are still unattractive to many investors because of political saber rattling.

Pension Funds Growing

The Social Security program of the government, plus pension policies of individual companies call for big reserve funds. These reserves must be invested. So far, government securities have been getting the call for this purpose. Soon, or later, however, the demand from this source will spill over into corporation securities.

Bond investors are having a hard job to pick up good new issues.

Many a company needing capital is selling its new securities directly to insurance companies.

This practice provides a detour around some of the government's restrictions and requirements on capital offerings. Moreover, I believe that the direct sales of new securities to institutional investors will increase rather than diminish.

4. Banks may also buy direct.

A group of banks, hungry for a chance to make two or three per cent on their money, may together take up an entire issue of securities. This, of course, would further restrict the supply of desirable investments available to the public.

5. This trend toward the private sale of securities is now limited to bonds. However, the same thing could happen to new stock offerings. Fire insurance companies and investment trusts are big buyers of stocks. They are just as eager to get good stocks as life insurance companies are to get good bonds.

THE PUFFBALL BEARS NO FLOWERS THEREFORE PRODUCES NO SEED

The distinction of being the first town in this country to be named for George Washington is claimed by WASHINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA. According to the "Book of Famous First Facts" the town was originally founded in 1771 by one James Bonner who owned all the land on which it was situated. Its original name of "Forks of the Tar River" was subsequently changed to Washington in 1776. It was incorporated in 1782.

The PUFFBALL is one of a class that belongs to a great order of vegetation known as fungi. Fungi are unique in their relation to the rest of the vegetable world. They are plants that prey upon living or dead organic matter. They do not grow from seeds but reproduce their species by means of fine dust-like bodies called spores. At the least pressure these spores puff out like a cloud of smoke from an aperture in top of the puffball.

Prize-Winner Makes Farm Pay By Being A Good Businessman

By HUNTER ROY GREENLAW
1938 Star Farmer of America
(Written For The A P Feature Service)

Falmouth, Va.—Big business couldn't function without a system—neither can agriculture. Therein lies the secret of successful farming.

Although conditions vary in different parts of the country, there are three fundamentals, which if developed properly, should keep every farmer on the right side of the ledger. They are crop rotation, complete fertilization and a planned program.

The young farmer who depends upon "rule of the thumb" methods will have a difficult job meeting present day competition. The three fundamentals should be backed up by schooling in agriculture.

What Makes 'Em Grow?
Most high schools in the rural areas offer vocational training in agriculture. Today you must know what makes your crop grow, what the chemical content of the soil is, how to fertilize the soil-depleting crops, the best method of rotation in order to maintain a constant yield, the best type of grain suited to your farm land, production overhead and maintenance costs as well as numerous other details which any successful business must take into consideration.

Of the three fundamentals, crop rotation is one of the most important—it keeps the soil healthy. The four-year cycle has proved satisfactory. The first year acreage can be planted in corn, followed by soy beans, then a small grain such as rye, wheat or barley and the cycle is completed with hay, clover or lespedeza.

When planning soil-depleting crops a complete fertilization program should be followed. The land should be tested for lime content as well as phosphate, potash and nitrogen.

Planning crops in advance, estimating production costs, and using the average yield as a basis will make it possible for every young farmer to anticipate a profit for a normal season, a year in advance.

They could easily suck a hole in new stock offerings if they should also decide to short-circuit the S. E. C.

Huge Demand For Securities.
Then there are also basic reasons why the potential demand for securities is greater than ever before:

1. Money available for investment is the most abundant in history. Banks, insurance companies, and individual investors have huge wads of cash ready for investment. Credit reserves are very huge.

2. Tax laws are forcing money into existing securities for there are few brand new issues. Such financing has been done in recent years almost entirely refunding of existing securities. New promotions are being discouraged by tight financing regulations, while heavy taxes on capital gains make big investors leery of putting funds into new enterprises.

3. Elimination of tax-exempt bonds will be one of the biggest factors in pushing up corporation security prices over the next few months. I think that tax-exemption on new government bonds will be stopped. Many people who buy such bonds, because of the elimination feature alone, will prefer choice bonds and stocks of private companies.

4. Interest rates are very low. The low rates paid at savings banks and on life insurance premiums and annuities, and the fact that no interest is now paid on commercial accounts, makes many persons seek choice securities yielding 4 to 6 per cent. Some of these people were never before interested in stocks or bonds.

5. Foreign funds are constantly drifting into American investments. The United States and Canada are a haven for distress capital from all parts of a frightened world.

Conclusion
The combination of the huge demand for good securities and the diminishing supply of such issues should push prices of well selected stocks and bonds higher. Although prices have already advanced sharply, I am convinced that medium-grade bonds or choice stocks will move higher.

P. S.—I have received so many letters from friends and copies of Dr. Townsend's article in this column that it is physically impossible for me to answer them. Therefore, I take this means of thanking both

PHANTOMS TOP BEARS EASILY

Superior Driving Power Gives Locals 19-0 Victory Friday

Determined not to disappoint one of the largest turnouts of the season at Third street stadium yesterday, the Phantoms of Greenville High school football team unleashed a powerful drive as soon as the kickoff was made to whip a lighter but game New Bern High team, 19-0.

The first touchdown was scored early in the first quarter after the Phantoms had carried the ball to the Bear's seven-yard line. Behind perfect blocking George Tyndall carried the ball over on a reverse play. The extra point was added when Marvin Stocks kicked beyond the uprights. Neither of the other tries for extra points later on were good.

In the second quarter, Stocks plunged through the Bears' line three yards for a marker after his mates had carried the ball down the field in a series of driving plays.

George Tyndall and Allen Taylor made long gains through the visitors' line to set the stage for the third and final touchdown of the game. Stocks carried the ball over from the one yard line.

The fans were treated to a thrill at this juncture of the game when Tyson, New Bern, received the Phantom kickoff and ran 80 yards for what many thought was a touchdown. However, the referee said Tyson stepped out of bounds about the 45 yard line while ducking a number of desperate Phantom tacklers, and the ball was brought back. New Bern fans set up a noisy protest, while local fans caught their breath.

In the final period Coach Bo Farley sent in a number of his second and third string players who held the Bears, but yielded much ground by penalties for offside and other violations.

Brief Sketches ETC Grid Players of 1938

Roberts, Hubert Roberts, former Greenville High school athlete, was slated to start in the ECTC Pirate lineup as end against the rugged and powerful Appalachian Teachers College Mountaineers this afternoon.

Moyer, Jack Moyer, Jr., former Greenville High school football player, has developed into a starter on this year's East Carolina Teachers College football team. Moyer plays guard on offense and backs the line of defense.

He is one of the most improved men on the squad and is rapidly improving in his knowledge of fundamentals. Barling a accident, "Appetite," as Jack is known among squad members, will start against the powerful Appalachian Teachers College Mountaineers in the Homecoming game this afternoon, November 19th.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—America's biggest banking agency, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is managed for the most part by men whose $10,000 a year contrast very sharply with the higher salaries paid by first string banks in metropolitan centers, or even in some of the second string banks of the country.

However, the salaries are the envy of many administrators of other federal agencies who have found no opportunity to crowd so many $10,000-a-year men on the payroll. In government service a $10,000 a year salary is quite some punkins, and no wonder, it being fair to middling pay in any field.

Jesse Jones, the Texas banker and builder, whose own $10,000 federal pay check probably isn't a tithe of his annual income, heads the organization, whose credit has been extended into many major and minor industries directly or indirectly since it was created under the Hoover administration. It really blossomed out under President Roosevelt.

Bankers Come High
High class banking help always has come high throughout the ages and reports are that the amiable Mr. Jones has had to use some of his most eager persuasion to get some of his men to leave old jobs to join the RFC even at $10,000 a year, although needless to say the same is not true of all. Altogether the Washington payroll of RFC has 21 names listed at $10,000 a year and one, Lynn P. Talley of Dallas, Tex., assistant to the directors, who is down for $12,500 a year—more than Chairman Jones himself or any of the other board members. Talley at present is on leave without pay because of extended illness.

Ducks In For Lunch
The government has discovered that wild ducks like free lunches. Federal supervisors of the Roaches Run duck sanctuary near the capital started tagging ducks to learn their migration habits. Now Superintendent Paul Hodge reports that it takes a free lunch to lure them into a trap so their legs can be banded.

"One old drake, walks into the big net trap every time it is baited," he says. "We throw him out, and he just stands around until we put free feed inside. Then he promptly gets himself trapped again. Lots of the ducks are repeaters."

TEACHER WEARS 'PANTS' TO COURT—SENT TO JAIL

Just because School Teacher Helen Hulick insisted on wearing slacks in Los Angeles municipal court while testifying against two Negroes accused of robbing her, Judge Arthur Guerin held her in contempt of court and sentenced her to jail for five days. Helen in her "pants", as the judge called them, and her attorney, William Katz, are shown (left) entering court. In jail she was forced to put aside her "pants" and don the regulation denim dress, as the picture at the right shows. But she was soon released on a habeas corpus writ and appealed to Superior court.

NO AFTERMATH TO ELECTIONS

Little Trouble Anticipated at Meet of State Board

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Nov. 19—When the State Board of Election meets here next Tuesday to canvass the vote of November 8 and to certify the winners, there is slight chance of any such fireworks as followed the Democratic primaries of June and July. In addition to its routine, ministerial task of formally compiling the vote and declaring winners, the board is expected to get protests from certain western counties in which the polling division between Democrats and Republicans was close.

Republicans are planning to lodge objection to returns from Graham, Stokes and perhaps another county or so in the west. Democrats, despite their strangle hold on the election machinery, are expected to show up with complaints of the voting in Cherokee.

In every case it appears that back of the protests are absentee ballots allegedly cast in violation of the law. At this distance it is difficult to say what, if any, real merit there is in any controversy which will be brought before Chairman Will A. Lucas and his four associates, but if the board's action last summer is any criterion no case will get by without close and unbiased study. Republican leaders all over the state have more than once testified to their confidence in the integrity of the state board.

Chairman Lucas smilingly declined to predict how much "grief" is in store for the board when it meets next week, but indicated he's glad if there were no necessity for the meeting. "Tuesday is the day set by statute for the canvass, but if I had my way about it we wouldn't meet before December."

Abe Ellis, overlooked concessionaire of hat check rooms around New York town, claims that one man in ten forgets to claim his hat after a sojourn in a New York hot spot. Unclaimed hats are held by him for a year.

The typical family in the United States has four members.

Activities on the part of Highway Commission officers and attaches will be retarded and repeated. One of the principal charges along these lines is that each of the district members of the Commission has been instructed to see to it that all members of the legislature from his district support a certain candidate for Speaker of the 1939 House. This charge was circumstantially made regarding Robert Grady Johnson, head of the prison division, but was vigorously denied by Mr. Johnson.

Now, it is charged, members of the commission are actively working for one of the Speakership candidates, even going so far, in one instance, as to tell a newly and somewhat surprisingly elected House member that his county will be well taken care of in the matter of highway construction and improvement provided he will write a letter pledging his support to the favored candidate for Speaker. There will be argument that the recent epidemic of prison breaks and other troubles of prison officials has been due to the fact that the division has deliberately abandoned the system of choosing guards and other officers for efficiency in order to return to the ancient and unhonored custom of making these post—even the most minor ones—rewards for political activity and

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 19—(AP)—Efforts to work up a rally in today's stock market met with only half-hearted response and the best selected issues could do was to retrieve fractions of their recent losses. While the business picture offered some encouragement to recovery proponents, trading forces seemingly were disinclined to get too far out on a buying limb, pending more assurance the "correction" of the post-union peace uprising had about run its course. Transfers approximated 450,000 shares. Bonds were irregular.

REV. W. A. RYANN CLUB SPEAKER

(Continued from page one) our accustomed places of worship and thank God for the many blessings we have enjoyed during the past year. It will be impossible for half the population of the United States to do this, he added, lamenting the fact that only half of the citizens could go to their accustomed place of worship because they had no accurate place. Of the approximately 67,000,000 people left, he said a mere handful will carry out the proclamation. He estimated that of the 3,000 members of the so-called six larger churches in Greenville, only about five per cent ever attended Thanksgiving services. "Until we do something about this it is utter farce to continue having Thanks giving speeches," he continued. "I wonder how long we can keep this up," he observed, adding "not long."

One of the many features of last night's meeting was the selection of new officers, to take office at the first meeting in January. D. C. Moore, who has been serving as secretary for a number of years, was named president by acclamation. All of the other officers named also were chosen unanimously. They were Rev. Clarence Patrick vice president; and A. A. Ellwanger W. W. Aycock, A. C. Tadlock and Durward Hart, members of the board of directors. Retiring directors are J. Nat Harrison, W. J. Bundy, O. P. Matthews and J. Hicks. Hold-over directors are B. W. Moseley, Claude D. Ward, Geo. P. Riegan and Dr. N. E. Ward. Mr. Bundy, who was elected lieutenant governor of the seventh district at the recent Carolina's meeting in Spartanburg, S. C., was recognized and made a short talk. Mr. Bundy explained that he and Mr. Tadlock had just returned from Charlotte, where he attended a course for lieutenant governors. The new district officer declared that he not only appreciated the honor, but also realized the responsibilities. He said he would have to have the help of the local Kiwanians to execute his office successfully.

Dal Cox, Mr. Tadlock and President-elect Moore attended the Spartanburg meeting. Mr. Cox was not present for last night's meeting, but the other two delegates made brief talks on the convention. The club members enthusiastically joined in group singing, led by H. A. McDougle, with Mrs. R. A. Tyson pianist. The program was in charge of the Ed Batchelor.
