DALADIER USES 30,000 GUARDS IN STRIKE ZONE

French Premier Seeks to Crush Movement Quickly

SEE NEW THREAT IN OTHER AREAS

Strike Rolls Near the 100,000 Mark; Consider the Arrest of Leon Blum

Paris, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Premier Daladier summoned troops today as the mounting wave of strikes against his government threatened to sweep over the nation.

With the strike rolls nearly 100,000 and climbing hourly, he ordered 30,000 mobile guards and 20,000 gendarmes concentrated in the strike areas about Paris and in the north.

Parliamentary deputies said Daladier was determined to crush the movement and was planning to declare a "state of siege" similar to martial law, unless the strikes were mastered quickly.

Some deputies said they understood Daladier even considered the arrest of former Premier Blum and others along with dissolution of the Communist and Socialist parties. Blum, through his newspaper, warned that France faces a real social battle "whose consequences none can longer foresee."

Estimates were that 45,000 strikers were out near Lille, in the north, and 40,000 in the Paris region. Strikes broke out early today in western factories. Workers in the textile and chemical plants of Lille voted to quit work tomorrow, refusing to do a half day's work Saturday beyond the 40 hour work period.

PITT MEETING IS POSTPONED

Seal Sale Group To Attend Medical Conference

J. H. Waldrop, president of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association, today announced that a meeting of the association previously scheduled to be held in Greenville, December 1, had been postponed.

Upon learning that the Seaboard Medical Society, Dr. W. I. Wooten of Greenville, president would meet in Greenville, on December 6th and that Dr. Wooten had arranged for a public meeting at which time Dr. P. P. McCain, Supt. of State Sanatorium would discuss the general problems of tuberculosis.

Mr. Waldrop decided that it would be unnecessary to have a meeting of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association at this time.

It is thought that Dr. McCain's address will stimulate interest in the Christmas Seal sale throughout the country and since one of the chief functions of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association is to promote the Seal Sale, it is felt that the tuberculosis meeting to be held under the auspices of the Medical Society would serve admirably to boost the seal sale.

Both Mr. Waldrop and Dr. N. T. Emmett, General chairman of the Seal Sale for Pitt county express the hope that all the citizens of Pitt county interested in the control of tuberculosis hear Dr. McCain. Especially do they urge the officers and directors of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association and the various local Seal Sale chairmen throughout the county to attend this highly important meeting.

MORE DANGERS IN CALIFORNIA FOREST BLAZE

Recreational Center In Direct Path of Flames

HELP IS RUSHED TO INHABITANTS

Burns and Eye Injuries Mounting But No Death Attributed To Inferno as Yet

Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A forest fire raced along the rim of San Bernardino mountains today toward the Crest Forest district and its 4,000 cabins, residences, stores and hotels. Fanned by a brisk wind, the flames jumped the fire lines established along the highway and headed for the community of Pinecrest.

Two hours later Pine Crest had escaped destruction but the fire had traveled two miles toward the more populous village of Crestline.

Charles Plummer, chief dispatcher for the United States Forestry Service at San Bernardino, described the situation as extremely dangerous. He said men had been stationed throughout the endangered area to assist in the evacuation of residents if it becomes necessary.

Crest Forest, comprising a dozen communities and honeycombed by twisting roads lined with homes, is a major center of a recreational area which in recent years has been visited by two million persons annually.

All available men, many of whom had been aiding in the firefighting on the lower front, were rushed into the district under direction of the federal supervisor and rangers who flew to San Bernardino from all parts of the state. Early this morning the recruiting of 200 firemen began in the valley cities of San Bernardino and Colton.

No deaths have been directly attributed to the fires although scores of homeowners and fire fighters have been treated for burns and eye injuries.

GENERAL SNOW IN THIS STATE BRINGS FREEZE

Mercury Drops to 29 Degrees in Greenville Today

SLEET AND RAIN FALLS OVER WEST

Clear, Crisp Weather Expected for Pitt-Duke Football Game in Durham Saturday

Greenville got its first taste of frigid weather as the mercury dropped from a high of 62 degrees to a low of 29 degrees yesterday as light snow flurries fell in various sections of North Carolina.

Despite the sudden drop, J. A. Clark, official airways observer, reported today's temperature at 1:30 p. m. at 41 degrees. A drop in the temperature was expected tonight, in that Lee Denson, State weather bureau expert, predicts a low of 26 to 28 degrees—tonight or early tomorrow morning.

A stiff wintry gale breezed thru the city last night. This, combined with a heavy downpour of rain, was principally responsible for the mercury drop in Greenville. No damage from last night's win had been reported for this immediate area today.

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Submerging temperatures in the wake of the season's first general snow set new fall records today in many sections of North Carolina but here's the news that some 50,000 football fans are awaiting: "Clear, crisp weather is expected for the Duke-Pitt game in Durham tomorrow," Lee Denson, head of the weather bureau said, "with a low of 26 to 28 degrees to be recorded tonight or early tomorrow morning."

Yesterday's snow was general over the interior sections of the state but in most sections it melted as soon as it reached the ground. Some cities reported heavy sleet and rain. In New Bern a cold 40 miles an hour gale swept through the city last night and the temperature dropped to 28. As usual the state's coldest spot was the peak of Mount Mitchell where the mercury took a nose dive to two degrees. In Raleigh the temperature rose slowly after a drop to 28 degrees. 38 degrees was recorded in Rocky Mount at 10 o'clock this morning. At Fayetteville early today the mercury stood at 28 and 24 at Greensboro last night was listed as the low.

WINTER GRIPS ENTIRE NATION

Two Score Dead; Traffic Halted in Some Areas

By The Associated Press

Snow plows and shovel brigades mopped up in city and rural communities across the nation today, in the wake of the worst Thanksgiving day storm in many years. Incomplete reports showed nearly two score storm fatalities, with shipping and air transportation partially paralyzed along the coast and trains and buses behind schedule.

Auto clubs received thousands of calls from motorists helpless and marooned in snow drifts.

The worst tragedy growing out of the storm was reported from Amherst, N. Y., where a 27-year-old mother and her five small children, huddled around an oil stove for warmth, were burned to death when the stove exploded.

STUDENTS SOON FORGOT WHAT THEY HAD READ

Iawo City, Ia.—Memory tests at the University of Iowa showed that 6,605 sixth grade school children forgot what they had read almost as soon as they read it.

Herbert F. Spitzer made the tests for a master's degree. He gave each child two 600-word articles and quizzed them after the readings. He found the children forgot 44 per cent of the facts contained in the articles shortly after reading. A week later they had forgotten 67 per cent.

Spitzer thereupon devised a "recall" test to be applied immediately after reading. These were found to reduce forgetfulness considerably.

THANKSGIVING The Way Greenville Observed The Day

Greenville is the greatest town to be found, and it has some of the best people on the globe, don't care if we do say it. There may be things that the town is backward in, and there may be some things we ought to have that we haven't got, but when Greenville does turn her head to a matter she goes at it with a zeal and earnestness that is not surpassed. And that was the spirit with which Thanksgiving Day was observed here, nothing half-hearted about it. All the business houses were closed, not a store being left open, and with the exception of the boys and the colored band parading and occasional hunting parties going out with their guns, the town had every appearance of a Sunday.

The churches had very enjoyable worship, the people assembling and returning hearty thanks to Almighty God for the blessings He had bestowed upon them. The Thanksgiving contributions speak something of Greenville's generosity.

Library News

Book Week is not over at Sheppard Memorial Library. The posters have been moved to give way for Christmas scenes. The handwork and hobby collections have been returned to the owners but the spirit of a love for books and reading remains. A year round observance of this attitude with special features for the annual fall Book Week dates is the air of those who know what books and reading, the reading habit, may bring to young and old in Pitt county.

Soon after the schools closed last spring the Reading Club met at the library and planned their summer activities, leading to the receiving of reading certificates during the fall Book Week. On Wednesday afternoon of this special week, 45 children, including seven who live outside of Greenville, held a special meeting. After a short but excellent musical program the certificates were presented. For unusual care in book selection special awards, illustrated copies of Dickens Christmas Carol, were given to Sara Jean Ellis, Greenville, and Edward Davenport, Winterville.

During August, not any too early, either, the local branch of the Association for Childhood Education decided to sponsor Book Week for Pitt county. Through their members located in different schools, and through correspondence they announced the dates, gave posters, and other useful material so that Book Week was heard of, talked about and observed in a helpful way in every one of the 13 rural school units as well as in each grammar school in Greenville. Special emphasis was placed on some kind of handwork illustrating a particular book or line of reading which any group might choose. The library staff invited those taking part to display the articles in the library building so that others might see and enjoy them.

The response was very gratifying. The Training school, West Greenville and Third street schools were each represented by work from several grades. Schools at Winterville, Stokes, Grimesland and Falkland each sent exhibits showing careful reading of certain books and exact illustrations of favorite scenes and characters.

Space does not allow individual mention of the work which included

Book Week windows are a regular feature in Greenville so to vary a bit ribbons were awarded this year. The Sans Souci Club won the blue ribbon, the red went to the Atheneum Club and the Garden Club won the third award. One club made a Book Week gift of $25.00 to Sheppard Memorial Library.

MODES of the MOMENT.

By Adelaide Kerr

The new monk silhouette with soft fullness breaking over the hips has been adapted to frocks for the "awkward age," which often needs to conceal figure faults. Here you see it, made for Miss Fourteen-Year-Old, in soft haze blue wool and trimmed with a white angora edging.

floats, diaramas, peep shows, friezes, posters, models made of native clay, carvings in wood and soap-dolls carefully dressed so that any child might recognize Little Women or the Dutch Twins, and even some nice pancakes for Little Black Sambo.

Those teachers who directed the making and placing of this work in the library surely have their reward the satisfaction of worth while work well done. Numbers of people came each day to see the "show." Each one felt a greater respect for reading and books and the inspiration which comes from them. Surely this is the true Book Week spirit.

No group is more ready to respond to library requests than the club women of the city, members of the library trustees asked each book club to decorate a store window for Book Week. The merchants gave window space and the women gave time and attention. The results were ten very attractive displays saying to all who saw them that Pitt county was reading and would read more.

Book Week windows are a regular feature in Greenville so to vary a bit ribbons were awarded this year. The Sans Souci Club won the blue ribbon, the red went to the Atheneum Club and the Garden Club won the third award. One club made a Book Week gift of $25.00 to Sheppard Memorial Library.

Outstanding hobby collections placed in the library were a group of lovely dolls belonging to Mary Rose Crisp, an excellent study of rock specimens made by Miss Rosa-be Saled and the Deer family, models made of clay by J. C. Cockrell, Jr. All this ado, but what about actual reading? At Sheppard Memorial Library Book Week circulation figures are larger than for any previous week of 1938.

Ayden Public Library, a branch of Sheppard Memorial Library, had its own Book Week with displays of work from the local school, a show-Book Week Tea, sponsored by the Literary department of the Ayden Woman's Club.

Nineteen thirty-nine Book Week is not far away!

How's Your Health?

AIRPLANES AND HEALTH
The development of the airplane has brought with it a number of exciting and vital health problems. One of these revolves around the transportation and spread of disease-bearing insects by the airplane.

Centuries ago it was observed that diseases spread most rapidly along the routes of travel. During epidemic periods many towns, villages and even cities, closed their gates against all strangers.

The Republic of Venice in 1348 first instituted the practice of quarantine (a word derived from the Italian expression for "for 40 days"). Ships were required to wait outside the port for such length of time before they were allowed to make contact with the shore.

While ships today are no longer kept waiting outside their ports of destination for forty days (though they are quarantined whenever communicable sickness is known to have affected their crew or passengers), they are inspected by sanitation officers and the passage of rats from the ship to the shore is guarded against.

Circular rat guards may be observed on the cables which moor ships to the docks. It is to be recalled that rats can transmit bubonic plague, that dreadful scourge that was responsible for the destruction of one-fourth of the population of the world in the 14th Century.

In the case of the airplane, what we fear most is the transportation of disease-bearing insects, notably the mosquito that transmits yellow fever. It is becoming a common practice to fumigate airplanes that make contact with territories in which yellow fever prevails.

Before yellow fever was eliminated from Panama and the surrounding regions, the disease appeared regularly in the port cities of the United States. The yellow fever mosquito was transported to these cities by ships that came from southern ports.

How To Relieve Misery of Your CHEST COLD

If you are suffering from a miserable chest cold, try this: Massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on chest and cover with warm cloth.

VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief—two ways at once. (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct to the irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors. This poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

WATCH YOUR DRIVING TOMORROW

This state got by with below the usual number of holiday highway accidents yesterday, but tomorrow is another dangerous day when more than 50,000 persons are expected to attend the Duke-Pitt football game in Durham.

If you are expecting to motor to tomorrow's game, leave home a little earlier and give yourself plenty of time for the trip in order to avoid excessive speed in your efforts to be there when the game starts.

Raleigh, Nov. 24—If your town or city offers a reward for the capture and conviction of any sort of criminal—don't get excited and risk your life or limb in an effort to nab the fugitive. You can't collect.

The Supreme court will be unusually busy next week, with no less than 41 cases calendared for oral argument, beginning Tuesday morning.

Two capital appeals—those of Bat DeJournette, convicted of first degree murder, and Robert Williams, alias Robert McNair, doomed to die for rape—are included.

On the civil side there will be a new attack on the constitutionality of the state statute setting up a Photographers Board and requiring every photographer to be duly licensed by it before practicing photography for profit.

The Durham Lions Shop, maintained for the State Commission for the Blind, paid higher wages to its blind workers during October than did any other similar shop in North Carolina.

WHAT IT MEANS: PROTEST ON JEWS

By MORGAN M. BEATTY AP Feature Service Writer Washington—Even before the President spoke out, it was evident that the return of Ambassador Wilson was a direct slap at Nazi persecution of the Jews.

As disinterested experts have it, the American State Department must have calculated the attention the world would pay to headlines heralding Mr. Wilson's orders to come home.

It must have known what a shock those headlines would be to Americans remembering the break in diplomatic relations with Germany in 1917. On that occasion, of course the U. S. ambassador actually was recalled—Mr. Wilson comes home only for "report and consultation."

But the experts say Mr. Wilson's departure means Uncle Sam has come about as near as he can to protesting against maltreatment of the Jews without actually grabbing by the tail that age-old problem—the Jewish question. And it's no simpler to let go a bear's tail in diplomacy than it is in the wilds of Wyoming.

Final Solution Not Near As for the broader aspects of the international Jewish question historians agree there's little hope for a final solution in the near future.

Through the centuries, the ups and downs of the Jews have been unequalled by those of any other race. In the middle ages, the Hebrews helped build in Spain one of the great civilizations of all time.

Pogroms Date Far Back The worst of these occurred long before the French revolution in Russia and nearby Slavonic countries. Estimates indicate that three-quarters of a million Jews of the buildings to be destroyed and the building next South of it. State officials are scratching their heads trying to get the matter straightened out so that the razement can proceed and work start on the new Department of Justice Building on schedule time—not later than December 16.

Among headlines on the program of the State Literary and Historical association will be Lambert Davis of New York, editor of the Trade Book Department of the Bobbs-Merrill Company. Mr. Davis will speak on "Southern Writers and Northern Publishers" at the association's session Friday morning, December 2.

Chapter 19 Lost And Found "BUT who is she?" Barney demanded.

"I had intended to destroy the note. But if I had regretted that confidence."

"I had it when I left her room," I said desperately. "At least I think so. Perhaps it's in the other room—the vacant room. I may have dropped it in the struggle."

"I looked there. It's not anywhere in sight. I hoped you might have hidden it—or still have it."

"Well, never mind. Only, do you remember the name of that sanitarium?"

"I nodded, and he seemed relieved. There were a handful of people in the lounge—Mrs. Orpington, Mrs. Flower, the Shaws, Barney. They watched us in ominous silence. I thought, as we crossed the dance floor. Adam paused for a moment.

"Shaw, go tell Elizabeth and Anne to join you—they're still in the kitchen. And please, don't anyone go wandering off alone. I'll be with you in a minute."

"I followed it past the other way, through the dressing room. Find Elizabeth and stay with her until I come. . . . And drink a cup for me."

"To the left of the stage a short flight of steps led to an unobtrusive door opening on a narrow corridor. I followed it past the stage entrance, past two or three tiny dressing rooms, and arrived suddenly at the kitchen, a small, compact room dimly lit by a pair of battered candles that had evidently seen service before. The aroma of coffee, the yellow light, the general homely atmosphere, were comforting."

Elizabeth's concerned eyes viewed me from head to foot. She swept a stack of paper napkins from a high stool and established me on it. An instant later my teeth were chattering on the rim of a thick white china cup and the scalding, bitter fluid was shocking me back to some sort of control.

Increased Flow of German Immigrants Means Overtime Work For U. S. Agency

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW (Ap Feature Service Writer) New York—Some of the saddest people in the world are finding their way to the heart of the gay White Way at the end of a cross-Atlantic trek in search of security and happiness.

In the middle of the theatre district is an unobtrusive office building. In that building is the clearing house for German and Italian refugees.

There, 80 workers of the National Coordinating Committee for Aid to Refugees and Emigrants coming from Germany (now plans to help Italian refugees, too) daily listen to real life stories more dramatic than those enacted on the famous stages of the neighborhood.

Late Into The Night Late into the night, the staff labors to help bewildered arrivals find relatives, jobs, places to settle. And it advises American relatives how to help their kin abroad.

Founded in the summer of 1934 by James G. McDonald, League of Nations refugee commissioner, the organization, composed of 29 cooperating units, cares for Jewish and Protestant refugees. (The Catholic Committee for Refugees from Germany maintaining a separate office, watches over Catholics from abroad.)

At the office of the coordinating committee, of which Joseph P. Chamberlain, a Columbia University professor, is acting chairman, there is ledam. Every elevator brings a group of German-speaking men and women up to the large waiting room. Newly arrived refugees sit alongside citizens seeking to help relatives abroad. Phones ring constantly. The man at the information desks answers questions all day long, speaking with a heavy German accent. His patient, encouraging smile never wavers.

Money A Mystery Most of the refugees have heard of the committee while still abroad. Miss Cecilia Razovsky, executive director of the committee, explains how they get there:

"They come in on the regular quota, but the American consuls in the various European cities have laid down the restriction that each German and Austrian applying for a visa must have an affidavit from an American citizen guaranteeing him support in case he cannot find work."

There are strict regulations in the fatherland on the amount of money the newcomers may bring with them but some of them get around the rules in one way or another. How? They're not telling.

Chart is based on figures for 22 years ending June 30, 1938. In April this year, the quota was 25,957; now it is 27,370 because Germany took over Austria.

Afghans Seek American Training In G-Man Work

By PRESTON GROVER Washington, Nov. 25.—We should like to be able to tell G-Man Hoover and the University of Illinois that the seven Afghans brought here for scholarly purposes will show up in a class on a cold Monday morning dressed in a burmese, sash and scimitar. But it isn't so.

What is true is that of the seven natives of far off Afghanistan who have come to the United States, five wish to learn to teach. The other two, of all things, want to be G-Men. And they dress like Americans. And they say that Americans dress like these Afghans.

BIG FOOTBALL TILT SATURDAY

Student Spirit High As Duke Digs In For Pittsburgh

Durham, Nov. 24.—There was a let-up in studies today as Duke students joined in the observance of Turkey Day, but there was no let-up in student spirit as Duke's Blue Devils of football prepared to make a valiant stand against the powerful Pitt Panthers in Duke stadium Saturday afternoon.

The holiday merely served to intensify the spirit of the university community which has grown with each Blue Devil victory this fall and reached its peak when the men of Wallace Wade triumphed over N. C. State last Saturday to go into their climax battle with Pittsburgh unbeaten, untied and unscored-on.

Students have manifested much of their spirit in a series of campus displays that was started before the game with the State Wolf-pack. Each fraternity has been responsible for the placing of a large sign, essentially calling for the defeat of the invading Panthers, in the center of the main quadrangle. Each day the sign changes and each day, it seems, the spirit moves a notch higher.

A giant pep rally, at which the student forces will gather to exhort the Duke football warriors, will be staged Friday evening at 7.15 with Head Cheerleader Ted Brown in charge.

Meanwhile, Coach Wallace Wade was getting ready to apply the finishing touches to the Blue Devil squad, which is determined to give the Panthers as good as they send in Saturday's struggle. Although they realize that they will be meeting a great team and that they can not expect too much, the Blue Devils are set to die in and repeat the gallant stand of the 1937 club, which bowed to Pitt after one of the "finest games ever made."

It was certain today that the largest crowd of Southern football history would jam Duke Stadium for the game. Indications were that the figure might touch 50,000. The previous attendance record was set in 1915 when 42,388 people saw Duke-Carolina game of that year.

SKIBOS DEFEAT THE WOLFPACK

State Proves Tough for Carnegie Tech As Expected

Raleigh, Nov. 24.—Someone once earned lasting fame in the quotation books by observing that there is no use in argument against the inevitable. State College's Wolfpack today is convinced that there is truth in that old saying.

The Pa'k arrayed against the highly-touted Skibos of Carnegie Tech in a Thanksgiving Day battle here, put up a swell struggle for 42 minutes. Then came the inevitable—and Carnegie won the ball game, 14-0.

The first Carnegie score, three minutes from the end of the third quarter, came on a 28 yard run by Meevin Credit on a rushing play through the left side of the State defense. Ray Carnelli place-kicked the extra point.

Carnegie's other touchdown, about five minutes from the end of the game, was the result of a great pass play—Peter Moroz, who had just come into the game, backed up to midfield and threw to End Ted Fisher, who made the catch at the 10-yard line and proceeded to go the rest of the way although he had two State tacklers hanging on to him for the last couple of yards. George Mutha's placekick on try missed the mark but State was offside. On the next try, Henrion did the kicking and was successful.

Doc Newton's Techs waged a gallant battle against the conquerors of Pitt's Panthers, but the locals did not have the punch—and Carnegie demonstrated early that its offensive was so well geared that, sooner or later, there must be a run or two.

CLOSES BRILLIANT CAREER SATURDAY

Co-Captain Dan Hill

Dan Hill, Duke's co-captain and center, will close a brilliant three-year career Saturday when he leads the undefeated, untied and unscored on Blue Devils into their final and greatest test of the 1933 campaign with Pittsburgh's mighty Panthers. Already selected by one All-America picker and an outstanding candidate for posts in the other mythical teams, Hill has played seasonally all season as one of the key men of the "Seven Iron Dukes," the famous Blue Devil forward wall. Weighing 200 pounds, Hill stands 5-11, is 21 years old and hails from Asheville.

ECTC To End '38 Grid Year With Norfolk On Saturday

Coaches For Rival Teams Announce Lineups

Coach J. D. Alexander's Pirates went through their final practice this afternoon as their last pre-game hope for overcoming the Norfolk Naval Base Boats, whom they confront on the local field tomorrow afternoon. Kickoff time is 2 o'clock.

Bill Shelton's aerial attack has shown decided improvement this week. It will likely be needed tomorrow in that the Virginia entry presents a great deal on gains derived by the air route. Magg, Norfolk's fullback, will be the fellow who will do the passing tomorrow.

Whether the Pirates lose their game tomorrow remains to be seen. There is one definite loss in store for them, however. This will be the loss of Lester Ridenhour, valuable fullback, who will draw curtains on his college football career after tomorrow's game. Ridenhour, who will captain his mates Saturday, is being lost through graduation.

Humphrey, Norfolk fullback, will be putting his toe in the pigskin throughout tomorrow's game. He is one of the best booters the Pirates will have faced this year, is not listed as a probable starter, but will be in the contest shortly after it gets under way. Virginia's entry is seeking victory laurels with her weight advantage. Her heaviest man weighs 238 pounds—the lightest 180 pounds. Considering the fact that the weight average of the Pirate backfield and line is less than the weight of the Boats' lightest player, that is a handicap the locals will have to overcome. Yet, Appalachian had the weight, but she couldn't keep the locals from scoring.

Glass and Roberts will be holding down the end zones for the Pirates tomorrow. Roberts, a Pitt county boy, played an effective game during last week's encounter. Moya, a Greenville boy, is being shifted to the backfield. He is a heavy player and should aid the Pirates' attack.

ADMINISTRATRIX NOTICE

Having this day qualified as administratrix of the estate of Johnnie Haddock, deceased, of Pitt County, this notice is to advise all persons having claims against the said estate to present them to the undersigned on or before November 14, 1933, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to the said estate will please make immediate settlement with the undersigned.

Get First Victory In Eight Years Over Washington

After spending several years trying to defeat the powerful Washington Pam-Pack, Bo Farley's

Greenville High School gridgers made good their efforts in a pre-Thanksgiving contest Wednesday and came out on the big end of a 12-0 triumph.

Ford McGowan, a back weighing only 125 pounds, crossed the goal line for his mates' first tally in the second period. He executed a double reverse for a 25-yard run. He failed to convert from placement.

Greenville's entry advanced the ball to the four-yard line in the fourth quarter, where Marvin Stocks, husky fullback, plunged across for the final touchdown. A fumble thwarted the extra point attempt, which was sought with a running pily.

George Tyndall, Ford McGowan, Marvin Stocks and J. B. Kittrell, the locals' backfield hopes, were consistent in their efforts to record gains for the Phantoms. Featuring in the line were Claude Hardy, Edgar Gibson, Wayland Tucker and John Collins.

Rain and agitation on the part of Washington players and fans kept the spirit of the contest at a high peak throughout.

N. Y. Stock Market

Strength in aircrafts and specialties tended to obscure a general sluggishness elsewhere in today's market. Dealing was relatively slow except in some low priced issues but gains ranged from fractions to four points. Bonds were a bit mixed.

Supreme Court To Hear High Point Power Case

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Nov. 25.—North Carolina's Supreme Court will get the vexing High Point power case again next week, when argument will be heard on an appeal of the Duke Power Company from a Superior Court ruling that the Guilford city did not violate a Supreme Court restraining order when it last spring adopted a revised resolution and prepared to proceed with construction of a hydroelectric plant in Yadkin county.

Technically, the argument will be on the contempt of court charge—the power company asserting that High Point has not, in fact, undertaken any project other than the particular one from the Supreme Court enjoined it from undertaking.

Actually, it will be another phase of the private utility's dogged battle against municipal construction and operation of a power project. In its simplest language the case stands thus: The Supreme Court said High Point has the right to issue its revenue bonds and take advantage of a PWA loan and grant to construct and operate a power plant, provided the purpose of this plant is primarily to serve its own citizens. The court added, however, that on the case then before them the city's purpose appeared to be engaging in the general power business, something which it has no right to do. Hence the injunction.

Now High Point contends that it has revised the project and adopted new resolutions which bring the undertaking within the class the court said is permissible. The power company contends that it is still the same project, unrevised except by verbal camouflage, and therefore, in violation of the Supreme Court injunction. Judge E. C. Bivens, in Superior Court, found for the city, holding it not in contempt in its revision of the resolution.
