WAR VETERANS SEEK PREVENT FRENCH CRISIS

Appeal to Premier Daladier and Also Labor Unions

STRIKE CALLED FOR WEDNESDAY

Railroad Employees Advised Not to Head Mobilization Call If Made by Premier

Paris, Nov. 28.—(AP)—French war veterans appealed to Premier Daladier and the labor union today to compromise differences and avert a general strike.

The National Confederation of War Veterans, representing 5,000,000 members, called on Daladier to "seek all means of calming the nation's emotions and of appeasing the social conflict."

The labor union was asked to "reconsider the danger of general action" and push to the limits for compromise and the security of the nation.

Both Daladier and the labor union, which is backed by the Socialist-Communist parties, went doggerly ahead, however, with plans favor and against the nation-wide strike scheduled for Wednesday.

Called by the General Confederation of Labor for a 24-hour period the strike officially would protest against the government's financial tax decrees which labor and the Leftist party declare favor the risk at the expense of the poor.

Although Daladier was given decree powers to mobilize 521,000 railroad employees into the army to keep them working, the employees were ordered by the labor leaders to "remain deaf and dumb at your post" on Wednesday.

The situation this morning in the industries, crippled last week by a strike, was more nearly normal.

Paris, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Daladier government's campaign today opened gaps in labor lines thrown up for a 24-hour strike Wednesday.

Labor Minister Charles Pamarat announced he had received assurances that department stores, banks and insurance companies, all would remain open despite the strike called issued by the General Confederation of Labor.

Independent unions, including the General Confederation of Christian Workers, also proclaimed opposition to the strike, called to protest Premier Daladier's labor policies.

The deadlock between the government and the principal union persisted, however.

The union's determination to strike and the government's insistence that public services be maintained aroused widespread apprehension. Appeals were made to both sides to avoid any dangerous action. Daladier has been given decree authority to mobilize railroad workers, in effect place them under army discipline and subject them to army penalties, but he had not put his power into force.

The government was understood to be preparing to follow up its week-end appeals to the nation against the strike and to be prepared, if necessary, to put subways, buses, telephone and radio under military control.

Jack J. McLawhorn Claimed By Death

Jack J. McLawhorn, 55, died unexpectedly at his home, 1505 Broad street, this morning at 7 o'clock. Mr. McLawhorn had been confined to the hospital until recently when he was removed to his home and he was thought to have been recovering.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the S. G. Wilkerson & Sons Funeral Home, by Rev. W. H. Brunson, pastor of the Arden Christian Church, of which Mr. McLawhorn was a member. Burial will follow in the Arden cemetery.

Mr. McLawhorn, a World War veteran, made his home in Arden until five years ago, when he moved to Greenville, with his mother.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Nancy McArthur, McLawhorn of Greenville; three sisters, Mrs. L. E. Allen of Greenville, Mrs. E. O. Davis and Mrs. Neil Kellshur of Washington, D. C. He was a nephew of former Sheriff Joe McLawhorn.

Active pallbearers will be James Vandford, Robert McArthur, Lester Whitehurst, George Allen, Jake and Frank McLawhorn.

HUTSON TALKS ON WEDNESDAY

Assistant AAA Administrator Coming To Greenville

A large crowd of farmers and business men is expected to hear J. B. Hutson, assistant AAA administrator, when he speaks in the Robert H. Wright Memorial building of the College here Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The address will be one of four to be delivered in North Carolina by the chief of the tobacco section of the farm program, on whether to proceed 1939 farm program and discuss the referendum to be held on December 10. Farmers are expected here from all sections of Eastern North Carolina.

County Agent R. R. Bennett explained today that machinery was being set up for the referenda to be held one week from this coming Saturday. One voting place will be provided in each township.

Farmers will decide at the referenda whether or not marketing quotas will be established for cotton and tobacco farmers. It was explained that the acreage allotments would be in effect regardless of the outcome of the referenda, as they are held to decide on whether to set up marketing quotas only.

The county agent explained that the individual acreage allotments would be available within a few days, some time before the referenda.

Offices forces and committees are working day and night in an effort to complete the allotments as soon as possible.

J. H. Rose In Raleigh For Important Meets

J. H. Rose, superintendent of the Greenville school system will spend the first three days of this week in Raleigh, where he will attend meetings of two special committees.

Today he was attending a meeting of the committee to examine applications of schools seeking admittance into the Southern Association of schools and colleges.

Tomorrow and Wednesday he will meet with other members of the special commission to make a study of the Educational system in North Carolina. The commission will make its report to Governor Hoyt next week after holding final meetings this week. The governor will then pass them on to the General Assembly.

To Conduct Course Here For First Aid Training

A two week's course to train instructors in first aid will be conducted at Sheppard Memorial library, beginning tonight, under the auspices of the Red Cross.

C. W. Willard, chairman of the local Red Cross Chapter's First Aid committee has, in charge, of arrangements Mr. Willard and three other employees of the Water and Light commission attended a similar course conducted in Rocky Mount a year or so ago and since have conducted classes in first aid here.

It is the announced aim to have representatives from each community in the county take the instructors' course, who then will be able to conduct first aid courses in every Pitt county section.

Rose Bowl Talk

Los Angeles, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Southern California was officially named today to represent the far west in the Rose Bowl football game January 2.

The University of California was the other candidate for the honor, the Golden Bears having tied U. S. C. for the conference title, both having won six and lost one conference game. U. S. C. defeated California, 13-7.

It will be the fifth trip to the Rose Bowl for the Trojans. They have never been defeated in Pasadena's famed post-season game. Southern California defeated Pittsburgh twice, Penn State and Tulane in its four Bowl appearances.

An early announcement was expected on the team, probably Texas Christian, Duke, or Tennessee, which will be invited west for the battle.

ROBERT IRWIN IS SENTENCED

1937 Easter Morning Given Triple Killing

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Robert Irwin, the young sculptor who pleaded guilty to the 1937 Easter morning triple-slaying of Veronice Geddon, triple-slaying her mother and rank Byrnes, a boarder, was sentenced to 139 years in state prison by Judge James Wallace.

The trial of Irwin for the murder of Byrnes was interrupted by Irwin's guilty plea before the jury was completed. He pleaded guilty to second degree murder. Irwin's lawyer, Samuel Leibowitz, in offering the plea, told the court the sculptor was as "crazy as a bed bug."

Four attendants surrounded Irwin as he was led to the court room today. Standing before the bar he made a futile plea to be heard before sentence was pronounced.

Tobacco Trade Board To Meet Wednesday

The annual meeting of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade will be held in the office of the Greenville Tobacco company Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

J. S. Ficklen, president of the E. B. Ficklen Tobacco company, is president of the Board. Several important matters will be discussed at the meeting and all members are urged to be present.

DEATH CLAIMS D. R. COKER, 68

Hartsville, S. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—David Robert Coker, 68, noted agriculturist and capitalist and son-in-law of Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper, died suddenly today at his home here.

He had been in failing health for two years.

Known widely as a plant breeder and cotton expert, Coker was the originator of staple cotton varieties planted widely in the United States and elsewhere. He was president of J. L. Coker and company and of Coker-Pedigree Seed company. He served as Hartsville's mayor from 1902 to 1904, was chairman of the South Carolina Council of Defense during the World War and also federal food administrator for the state during the war period.

His widow and six daughters, three of them by his previous marriage to the former Miss Jessie Ruth Richardson of Timmonsville, survive. They are Misses Martha, Mary, Carolyn, Hannah and Eleanor Coker, and Mrs. Catherine Wilson of Henderson, N. C.

A. F. OF L. FAILS BREAK STRIKE

Had Promised Have Livestock Handlers At Yards

Chicago, Nov. 28.—(AP)—An attempt by the American Federation of Labor workers to operate the Chicago stock yards in the face of a strike called by the C. I. O., apparently failed today.

Thomas Devero, business agent of Local 517 of the A. F. of L. livestock handlers union, had guaranteed to have between 150 and 200 men at work in the yards by 6 a. m.

More than three hours after that time O. T. Henkle, general manager of the Union Stockyards and Transit Company, announced that not a man had reported for work. Trading still was suspended and livestock receipts were about one-tenth of normal.

A. F. of L. headquarters claimed that some men had slipped through the picket line, but no stock were found moving in the yards and William Hunter, chief of the stockyards police, said no working passes had been issued.

No Wave Of Wrecks Reported on Holidays

All available reports would indicate that motorists in this section exerted unusual care during the Thanksgiving and week-end holiday.

Only one minor wreck was reported by members of the State Highway patrol located here, this one being on Thanksgiving morning. Patrolman C. R. Williams this morning issued a warrant charging Hubert Dixon, Negro of the Ballard's cross roads section with careless and reckless driving as the result of a collision between a car driven by him and another operated by a man named Mills. The wreck occurred at Ballard's crossroads and no one was injured.

DEATH CLAIMS D. R. COKER, 68

Noted Agriculturist and Capitalist Dies in South Carolina

Hartsville, S. C., Nov. 28.—(AP)—David Robert Coker, 68, noted agriculturist and capitalist and son-in-law of Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper, died suddenly today at his home here.

HEAVY DAMAGE INFLECTED ON JAP ARSENALS

Chinese Report Munitions Plants in China Destroyed

FIGHTING RAGES NEAR HONG KONG

Number of Villages Reported Burning; Refugees Fleeing To British Colony

Shanghai, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Chinese reported today they had inflicted heavy damage through fires and explosives on Japanese arsenals in munitions plants in China.

A huge arsenal at Mukden, Manchouke, was said to have been wrecked by a mysterious fire and explosion November 20.

In addition to destruction of large amounts of munitions and aircraft 200 Japanese and other workmen were said to have been killed and 60 Japanese Military guards injured.

A second Japanese arsenal, Chinese reported, was blown up two days ago, killing 300 Japanese soldiers and workmen.

In Hongkong, Japanese troops mopping-up Chinese resistance on the borders of British territory reported they had inflicted 1,000 casualties, and now were turning their campaign against scattered Chinese units farther inland.

Japanese field dispatches indicated the present drive, which has brought fighting to the edge of this British colony was designed to destroy whatever faith Chinese may have left in the protection afforded by having areas of foreign influence nearby.

A number of villages were reported to be burning in the region, while thousands of refugees, some of them wounded, poured across the border into Hongkong.

Lieut. General Eiki Tojo, vice minister of war, declared in Tokyo the United States does not recognize "the changed situation in the Far East" and that a Soviet Japanese conflict apparently is inevitable and urged upon munitions workers a rapid expansion of arms industries.

Gas Kept Off For Customers' Safety

Although city gas was cut off for several hours yesterday, plant officials explained today that with the exception of 15 or 20 minutes the interruption in service was for the safety of the customers.

It was declared that the gas could have been cut on within a few minutes, but due to the possible hazard of appliances having been left on when the gas was cut off all customers were advised before the cut-on was made.

If any appliance had been on when the gas was cut off and was still on when the gas was cut back on the raw gas would have been released in the homes. This made it necessary to check each of the 825 customers, either by telephone or personal call. In some instances when no one was at home the gas was cut off at the meter. Attempts were made to advise customers to cut off their appliances and also when it was all right to cut the gas back on.

DECLARES TVA RECORDS HELD

Comptroller General's Office Blames Agency Officials

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The comptroller general's office charged today that TVA officials had handicapped an audit of the agency's affairs by withholding dockets and records.

Stewart Tulloss, chief of investigation for the comptroller general's office, told the congressional committee investigating TVA that "we found it very difficult to find records and reports."

He said he and his investigators had spent months in Knoxville and other places trying to determine the correctness of certain TVA transactions.

Tulloss said the accounting office then proposed that the TVA render its accounts to Washington, "the same as other agencies." That procedure, he said, "had been agreed to in part."

"But accounts rendered to Washington are not complete," he said, "certain documents are still withheld, particularly checks."

PRAY FOR RECOVERY OF POPE

These students of Mundelein College for Women, a Catholic institution in Chicago, are shown as they knelt in prayer for the recovery of Pope Pius XI, who suffered a heart attack at the Vatican. Despite warnings of physicians that the heart might not survive another attack, the 81-year-old supreme head of the Catholic church quit his sick bed to carry on his duties.

Chamberlain To Confer With Premier Mussolini

Prime Minister And Viscount Halifax To Visit Italy

London, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The government announced tonight that Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax would go to Italy during the first half of January to confer with Premier Mussolini in furtherance of Chamberlain's European appeasement policy.

Informed persons described the Prime Minister as confident that by personal contact with the Italian Duce he might set in motion negotiations which would lead to a broad-scale accord among the European Big Four—Britain, Germany, Italy and France.

Chamberlain already has concluded with Mussolini an agreement for composition of Anti-Italian differences in the Mediterranean, Africa and the Near East, the accord which was put into effect November 16.

The announcement of his Italian visit came shortly after the Prime Minister had told the House of Commons that Britain had not committed herself to send an expeditionary force to France in case of war.

Sir Percy Harris, a Liberal, asked "whether this country is under obligation under certain circumstances to send an expeditionary force to France and whether, as a result of the recent visit to Paris, there has been any increase in such commitments."

The Prime Minister replied, "The answer is in the negative." Harris was referring to the November 23-25 visit of Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Halifax to the French capital, where defense problems of the two powers were considered.

Twenty-Four Held In Jail of Pitt County

The county jail population is showing neither substantial increase nor decrease. Jailor W. G. Leggett reported this morning.

Only one person was admitted during the latter part of last week. A man listed as Artillery Carmon, Negro, was placed in the jail last Thursday on a charge of threatening his neighbors. He made the 24th inmate.

Christmas Toy Matinee To Be Held On Saturday

The annual toy matinee will be held at the Pitt theatre here Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock and children will be admitted by bringing a toy or non-perishable food.

The theatre, Boy Scouts, Salvation Army and Firemen are co-operating in the annual affair, which has proved a great success in providing toys for the more unfortunate children who otherwise probably would not receive any gifts at Christmas time.

The theatre will present "Off To The Races" starring Slim Summerville, Shirley Deane and Jed Prouty. The picture was decided on because of its special appeal to children.

Boy Scouts will serve as usher and otherwise make themselves useful in handling the children and taking care of the toys and food brought for admittance.

All broken toys will be mended by members of the Fire department and turned over to the Salvation Army, which organization will see to it that they are given to needy children in the community.

The plan has proved an effective one in past years and all four organizations are attempting to make the event this year an even more successful one. The matinee is being held this year a week or so earlier than in the past in order to give the sponsors more time to check up on the available toys and mend those slightly broken.

ASKS SUPPORT OF SEAL SALE

Mayor Calls of Citizens to Purchase Generously

Mayor M. K. Blount today issued a proclamation calling on the citizens of Greenville to buy Tuberculosis seals generally during the coming holidays.

His statement follows in full: "As the Holiday Season approaches, our thoughts again turn to the annual Christmas Seal Sale.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the death rate from tuberculosis has declined remarkably within the past twenty-five years, this disease is still the leading cause of death between the ages of fifteen and forty-five, killing 70,000 persons in our nation last year, and whereas the citizens of Greenville have generously supported the Seal Sale in the past, and whereas further progress in the control of tuberculosis can be made only in proportion as funds are made available for this purpose, and remembering that many of those who are afflicted with this disease are unable to provide for themselves, now, therefore, I, Marvin K. Blount, Mayor of the City of Greenville, call upon all of our citizens who are in position to do so to buy generously of the Christmas Seals to the end that we may, to the best of our ability, eradicate the "great white Plague" from our midst."

A fire yesterday morning at the home of Y. E. T. Abeyon, starting from a stove, caused damage estimated at $50. The blaze, at 810 Ward street, started about seven o'clock.

A false alarm was sounded at box number 32, at the corner of Pitt and Third streets, Saturday night about 11:30 o'clock.

To Conduct Advance Seal Sale Tomorrow

The annual Tuberculosis Seal Sale will get under way in Greenville tomorrow morning, when a special committee will conduct an advance sale among the larger business firms of the city.

The special workers who will call on the business houses are Howard Moyer, Lee Folger, Reynolds May, K. W. Cobb, Jack Spain and Perry Bostic.

COLD WEATHER SETTLES OVER MUCH OF U. S.

Frigid Temperatures Follow in Wake Of Two Blizzards

ANOTHER STORM HEADING NORTH

Mercury Readings Far Below Freezing Point in Various N. C. Cities

(By The Associated Press) Clear weather, but cold, settled over the eastern half of the country today in the wake of a double-barreled blizzard sneak preview of the 1938-1939 edition of winter.

Sub-freezing temperatures were general as far south as Georgia and as far west as Kansas City as north eastern states braced themselves for another storm that was swirling up from the central Atlantic region.

On top of the hard crust of ice and snow from the Thanksgiving blizzard lay anywhere from one to five inches of fresh week-end snow. In Virginia, where the total snow fall last year was only 1.7 inches, 7.5 inches of snow was on the ground.

New England dug out from five inches that pelted down in the second storm. New York only got about two inches, but New York City reckoned its snow removal cost at a million dollars already. Asheville had a minimum of 14 degrees, Greensboro 18, Raleigh 20, Charlotte 22 and Wilmington 24. Mount Mitchell, as usual was the most frigid point reporting the mercury having topped to zero atop the lofty peak.

Wilkinson Rites Set For Tuesday

Mrs. Nancy Michal Wilkinson, 55 died last night at 10:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. W. Andrews of near Farmville.

"Greenville's Best"

MODES of the MOMENT

By Adelaide Kerr

Clothes for the "awkward age"—thirteen to sixteen—have received new attention from designers this year. One of them suggests this simple frock of gray-blue sheer wool crepe topped with a hood lined in deeper blue which may be worn hanging down the back like a cowl.

groom, was gowned in blue velvet and her flowers were a corsage of valley lilies and orchids.

The bride, prominent in North Carolina younger society, attended Salem College and Birmingham Conservatory of Music. She continued her studies in New York, and for the past two years has sung regularly with the Columbia and National Broadcasting Networks. She has appeared on the Woodbury, Griffin, Ford and Chesterfield programs, and, until the time of her marriage, was associated with Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians.

Soft music was rendered throughout the evening by Miss Lillie May Scruggs, harpist.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fries Willingham later left for an extended trip to points unknown. The bride wore for traveling an English tweed suit, trimmed in beaver, with matching beaver hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was of orchids.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Willingham, Richard T. Willingham, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Womble, Miss Lila Womble, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Norfleet, Mr. Leon Norfleet, Dr. and Mrs. Izlar, Miss Camille Izlar, Mrs. Henry Shaffner, Miss Grace Siewers, Mr. Will Shaffner, Sr., Mr. Will Shaffner, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. T. Holt Haywood, Holt Haywood, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Archie Davis, Mr. Blair, Miss Marian Blair, Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Agnew Bahnsen, Miss Betty Bahnsen, Miss Elizabeth Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Norfleet, Mr. Gailther Jenkins and Mr. Ned Heffner, all of Winston-Salem; Mr. and Mrs. J. Montgomery Barnes and Mr. Henry B. Baker, of Lexington, Kentucky; Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Brown, Miss Jane

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fries Willingham and their wedding party, Mr. and Mrs. James Burton James entertained at a reception and supper at their home on Fifth street immediately following the ceremony.

The guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb and introduced to the receiving line by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Garrett. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. James in the music room were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Furman Willingham of Winston-Salem, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fries Willingham, Mrs. Nina James Guy, Miss Eleanor James, and Mr. Louis Shaffner. Mr. and Mrs. Larry James directed the guests to the sun room, where they were invited into the library for punch. Serving punch were Mr. and Mrs. Iverson Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Blount, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. William Falson, Miss Mary Elizabeth Ferguson, and Mr. and Mrs. S. T. White.

Vases of beautiful yellow chrysanthemums were placed throughout the sun room and library. The music room and the drawing room were lovely with white daisy chrysanthemums, green fern and southern smilax.

The dining table was covered with a handsome Alencon lace cloth and centered with a silver bowl of valley lilies and white roses. White tapers, southern smilax, and silver baskets filled with candies made a lovely bridal table. Beautifully decorated ices, carrying out the bridal motif, were served.

From the dining room Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sugg and Mrs. Charles Skinner asked the guests into the drawing room, where they were introduced to the bridesmaids and groomsmen by Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Skinner.

Others receiving were Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cheatham, Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, Miss Ada James, Mr. Charles James, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rivers, Mrs. Lila Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Folger, Miss Louisa Hooker, Miss Elizabeth Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Flanagan.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry James entertained informally Saturday afternoon from five to five-thirty, at the Country Club for the members of the Willingham-James bridal party and out-of-town guests.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Barnes and the host and hostess.

The clubhouse was lovely with its decorations of fall flowers and lighted candles. Before the big fireplace was a tea table covered with an exquisitely embroidered cloth and centered with a large silver basket laden with fruit and tied with gold ribbon.

Seated at the table, Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb and Mrs. E. B. Ficklen served tea and coffee. Various kinds of sandwiches, hors d'oeuvres and cakes were passed.

This informal event climaxed a series of delightful social events in honor of Miss James.

Winterville 'Little Theatre.'

The Winterville "Little Theatre," organized in October, has almost completed its work on its first production "Lena Rivers." The members have done much work since organizing, and are very enthusiastic. The cast for "Lena Rivers," Mary J. Holmes' most popular novel dramatized by Ned Albert, has characterized each part so well that you will be crying one minute and laughing the next.

The characters and the players are:

Lena Rivers—Helena Cox.
Granny Nichols—Mrs. Laurie Ellis.
John Livingston—Mary Ida McLawhorn.
Caroline Livingston—Elizabeth Gorman.

Anna Livingston—Sara Brown Braxton.
John Livingston, Jr.—Dow Waters.
Frank Graham—Mr. Fred Broadwell.
Mrs. Graham—Mrs. R. E. Davenport.

Entertain At Shower.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Clarence Stokes entertained at a shower at her home honoring Mrs. Reatha Mills Evans, bride-elect of December.

Upon arrival the guests were invited into the living room which was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and scarlet sage.

The guests were then registered and asked to write in the "Advice to the Bride" book. The honoree then read the advice each guest wrote. Some were comical, adding to the fun. After playing several games, the guests were invited into the dining room. The table was centered with a lovely bouquet of red roses, and the shower of gifts from the guests were circled around the bouquet.

The guests stood around the table while the honoree opened the many gifts, and in her charming manner thanked each one for her gift. The hostess then served refreshments. Everyone departed, declaring having had an enjoyable evening.

PEACE ACTION

MACHINE AGE IN AMERICA

How many of us would like to go back to the "simple life" of 100 years ago—an age comparatively free from traffic accidents, monoxide gas, skyscrapers, tenements; an age also free from electric lights, movies, chewing gum, bath tubs, citrus fruit the year around, anaesthetics, hard surfaced roads. For whether we like it or not, we live in a machine age, and life is not so simple as it was a hundred years ago.

Instead of grinding corn each day in a hand mill, our housewives buy their flour from huge mills and we vary our diet with fresh vegetables and fruit from 2,000 miles away and carried across the continent in refrigerated trains.

Material for our clothes is no longer woven in the home. Huge textile mills in a score of countries, employing millions of workers, weave the cloth and make clothing for the masses.

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

Katherine Cornish, myself, visiting Elizabeth on a mid-western Army post.

Yesterday: A search for the knife is futile. Adam starts checking alibi.

Chapter 21 Under Fire

MARY SHAW said nervously, "You had been with us, Lou. I remember that. Wasn't she here when you brought the coffee, Barney?"

Barney shook his head and looked at Lou strangely, I thought. "There was just you and Tubby," he said reflectively.

Lou Orpington glared at them. "I was in the wash room. And when I came out someone had turned on the light in the powder room. The door swung shut behind me and I couldn't see a thing."

"I should have screamed," contributed Mrs. Flower eagerly. "No doubt. But I live with a man who's all the time going around behind me turning off lights, so I thought very little of it. I remember the switch was over by the door and I stumbled over there and turned it on. Then I saw the door was shut—the one to the dining room."

"That got me, all right. There was a perfectly empty room and the lights go out a second time. I stood still and hollered my head off, and much good it did me. I might have been still yelling if I hadn't seen a light flash at the head of the stairs. I didn't much care who it was—I went up."

"Passing no one. There was nobody came down those stairs. I'll take my oath on that." "The dressing-room door was closed when you stood there listening, Barney?"

"You didn't think of opening it—looking in?" "Well, after all, it was the ladies' room," he said delicately. Adam turned back to Mrs. Orpington.

"You had time to look around the room before the lights went out again? You're sure there was no one there?" "Not unless they slipped into the wash room while I was crossing the room in the dark. And I'd have noticed that, I think—the light was still on in there."

"There was nothing out of place in the dressing room—no sign that anyone had been there?" She started to say no and checked herself. A surprised expression crossed her sharp face.

"Why, yes, now I think of it." Elizabeth the woman was a marvelous actress or she was suddenly terror-stricken. "Yes. There was an empty coat hanger swinging on the rack."

The telephone rang in the library and Adam was away like a startled deer to answer it. In the lounge there was no pretense of conversation to cover his ears. It seemed to me that every one of ears flared out from every one to catch the sense of his few words.

Conversation was brief and inconclusive except for one last sentence which kept him there if you have a mind, he shouted suddenly when I can."

and Mrs. Flower came up the other. We met no one going down. There was only one person up there. Was she tied up behind a locked door? No. She was standing on the balcony shouting that the murderer had just thrown the key over the transom. Thoughtful murderer. And the mandarin coat—covered with blood—who was wearing it anyway? Seems to me you can be too subtle in a case like this. And it doesn't do to be swayed by personal feelings."

There was a malicious half smile on her face. Adam had turned beet red, and for one awful, world-shaking second I detected a flash of uncertainty in his eyes. Then he caught hold of himself and the old hunting gleam returned.

"May I ask how you learned about the mandarin coat?" he inquired smoothly. She looked rather staggered, but only for a moment. "I keep my eyes and ears open," she said arrogantly.

For some reason I was reminded of Popeye. ("I yam what I yam.") Mrs. Flower broke in impersonally. "So that's why you sneaked back upstairs and left Mary and me alone in the library."

She might have been talking about the weather. Though, come to think of it, a good bit of emotion is expended on the weather every day. Mrs. Flower was merely matter of fact. "Well, what of it?" challenged Mrs. Orpington. "We're investigating a murder, not a piece of gossip. I'm not ashamed of eavesdropping in such a cause."

She looked offensively virtuous. Adam's glance should have withered her but didn't. "Miss Cornish was with me when Anne was shot. Are you suggesting that the two crimes were not committed by the same hand?"

"That's exactly what I'm suggesting. The only reasonable motive for killing this girl—you'll probably find she was some soldier's sweetheart—was that she saw the first murder committed and was killed to keep her from telling what she saw."

A Cornered Animal So she was going to bring Charlie into it. I saw red for a moment. "You're crazy!" I said hotly. Elizabeth's hand was on my arm. She gave it a reassuring pat.

"Never mind, dear, some people are like that," she murmured with unintentional humor. Mrs. Orpington had been waiting for me to be goaded into speech. She whirled on me now, her eyes like those of an angry cat.

"Where did you go right after Anne was shot?" she demanded. "I went to tell Elizabeth," I returned and was sorry I had spoken. "And what did you do with Charlie Spencer?"

"Left him here," I said feebly. There were all staring at me now, and I knew how a cornered animal must feel. She dropped that line as if I had suddenly become invisible.

"It would be easy enough for her to come down the stairs, turn out that light and close the door, cross the room and get that wrap and then go back up again. The velvet wrap is the only alibi she has—and a weak one, you must admit."

"Better than yours, at that, though, isn't it, Lou?" Mrs. Flower was looking at her brightly. "I mean, after all, nobody saw you in that dark room; and there were other people screaming—I was, for one, and Mary Shaw, and Kay. And after all, you say you saw the coat hanger swinging but it might just as well have been you who took the wrap."

There was bright interest in her glance, no malice in her tone. But I have never seen a woman wilt so completely as Mrs. Orpington. "Why... why you... I think she wanted to say 'Judas.' Her sheer surprise persuaded me against my will that she was not the murderer. And yet—there was irrefutable logic in what Mrs. Flower had said. I looked at her curiously, more deeply astonished than if Elizabeth had been detected in a snicker. One does not expect logic from the village idiot."

"Not that I think you did it, Lou," she resumed placidly. "Dear me, no. No more than I think Kay did it. Or any of the rest of us, I'm afraid. Of course the knife being gone and all makes it rather difficult, though I'm sure it could be done by means of pulleys and counterweights. Did anyone look for any?"

She yawned prettily, caught Adam's eye and finished in rather a rush. "Just—I mean—it just occurred to me that she might have shot Anne and then killed herself."

42 deaths in Mecklenburg, eight more than in the closest competing unit, Buncombe. Mecklenburg hogged all the "worsts" with Charlotte's 19 traffic deaths being nearly twice as many as in any other North Carolina city. The county's 21 deaths outside of incorporated towns was second only to Buncombe, which had 23. Greensboro was second high in city deaths, with 10.

At the other extreme among the ten largest cities was Wilmington with only one traffic death this year through October. High Point, Greensboro's Guilford county neighbor, had only 2.

Among the other cities fatalities from highway accidents were: Winston-Salem and Asheville 9; Durham, Rocky Mount and Gastonia 7; Raleigh, Fayetteville, Wilson and Goldsboro 3; Hickory, Kinston, Greenville and Thomasville 2; Statesville, Elizabeth City and New Bern 1.

Cities of over 100,000 in which no fatalities were reported were Salisbury, Concord, Shelby and Henderson. Grand total of deaths for the state for the first ten months was 763, while 6,295 were injured during the same period.

Figures for both deaths and injuries represent a decrease from 1937. Mr. Houtt said, a decrease approximately 30 per cent if increased mileage is considered.

NOT QUITTING YET, says Luther Emerson Barnes, 95, denying report he's resigning as special justice of East Brookfield, Mass., district court after 36 years' service. Between cuts of the saw, he said he hadn't shaved since 1867 when he was a freshman at Amherst college.

as it sped on its warlike way. What Captain Clocum signaled was: "Let us sail together for mutual protection." In rough measure that is what now is proposed for the United States and the balance of the Pan American conference at Lima, Peru, in December. A difference is that the United States, for several reasons, makes the proposal.

There are some truly up-to-date submarines and a few destroyers and submarines scattered among the republics but for the most part their fleets are made up of forlorn museum pieces which would never dare venture out of harbor in the face of an up-to-date fleet.

Better Air Forces The air forces, although meagre, are better. Several of the countries have a limited number of light bombers and fighting planes purchased from the United States, Italy and Germany which would be a credit to any air fleet. But scattered as they are over a whole continent, adjacent islands and parts of another continent, they would offer no sustained resistance to attack.

Ground forces are large in number, even in comparison with the U. S. Army, but modern equipment in large part is limited, especially in the zones of coast and field artillery and mechanized units. Best equipped in all respects are, of course, the larger "ABC" nations: Argentina, Brazil and Chile. Best equipped of these is Argentina, whose attitude toward the U.

S. is far less fervidly friendly than the others. Argentina Power! Argentina has two 1915-battleships with 12-inch guns, four new light cruisers, nine destroyers and seven building, three submarines, 28 miscellaneous auxiliaries, an air fleet of unreported strength, perhaps 150 military planes, a standing army of 30,000 and a half million reserves.

Brazil has two ancient battleships, lately refurbished, two ancient cruisers, eight old destroyers, and three building; four recent submarines and three building, two dozen miscellaneous auxiliaries, an air fleet of unreported strength but reliably estimated as approaching Argentina's, and a standing army of 94,000, with 200,000 reserves. Chile has one 1915 battleship, four

Other Countries Weak There isn't a corporal's guard or sea or air power in the other countries. All in all, the ineffective armament in the southern zone emphasizes, perhaps more than anything else, that what the United States hopes to accomplish at Lima is to build up a friendly instead of a fearsome acceptance of one thing. It is, that defense of the western hemisphere, in spite of all international spoofing about cooperation among the republics, is a job for the United States, and it alone.

SALE OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY Under and by virtue of the authority conferred upon us in a Deed of Trust executed by J. W. Sutton on the 10th day of September, 1937, and recorded in Book T-21, page 457, we will on Saturday, the 10th day of December, 1938, at 12 o'clock noon at the courthouse door in Pitt County, Greenville, N. Washington - During the Spanish American war, a certain Captain Slocum, a retired sea-dog, was sailing around the world alone in a little single-master skiff about as long as a cottage living room. It was in part a publicity stunt for a cleaning compound. As he sailed down the coast of Chile the Battleship Oregon overtook him on its race around the horn to join the fleet against Cerro. When the huge Oregon drew abreast of Slocum's bobbing little boat, he hoisted a series of signal flags and the Oregon loosed a blast of good natured whistling in reply.

THE ELECTIONS

The elections are over. Every patriotic American will accept the results without rancor. It is the cardinal principle of democracy that the people rule—even as it is the cardinal principle of dictatorship that the people be ruthlessly submerged to the whim of the dictator.

To the thinking citizen, who is less interested in partisan politics than in good government, the real significance of this election is the revival of the two-party system, the very foundation of the republic. It is a well-known fact that even men high in the Democratic party have looked with disapproval on that party's excessively great Congressional majorities of recent years.

This election has to a large extent readjusted the balance of power in Congress to the status envisioned by the founding fathers. That makes for sound government. Whatever party you follow, whatever your political allegiance, if you believe in democracy, you will welcome the resurgence of an effective political opposition as a check on whatever party happens to control Congress at the moment.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE OF FARM LAND

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Nov. 28—This year, as in the past, Christmas will again be celebrated twice in North Carolina, the only state in the Union where such a custom prevails. Nearly two weeks after the rest of us have played host to Santa Claus natives of Rodanthe, one the Outer Banks, will observe "Old Christmas Eve" with exercises on January 3.

Last week was a big one for revocation of drivers licenses, no less than 137 being taken away to bring total revocations in North Carolina to date to 19,593. Drunken driving, as always, was far and away the chief cause for revocation, with 115 cases to its discredit. Ten licenses were taken up for hit and run driving, and no less than nine persons were assessed additional penalties when caught driving after their licenses had already been revoked or suspended. There were three cases of larceny of automobile. Acres of the revokes ran from 18 to 54.

If musically-minded and interested in chickens (the kind that lay eggs) you have a chance to win cash prizes totalling $125 in connection with the Seventh World's Poultry Congress in Cleveland next summer, according to L. R. Harrill, State 4-H club leader and chairman of North Carolina youth activities for the Congress. Those desiring to compete may obtain entry blanks, rules, etc. from Mr. Harrill at State College, or from Dr. Cliff D. Carpenter, 711 Rose street, Lexington, Ky., national chairman of the Song Writing Contest committee.

Here are some of the important coming events in North Carolina for December: Jan. 15: Open season for ruffed grouse. Feb. 15: Open season for quail and wild turkey, 1-3, 5-9. Pointer Club of America field trials. Pinehurst, 2-4: Carolina Older Boys conference. Greensboro: President Roosevelt speaks at Chapel Hill, 8-9: Carolina Lumber and Building Supply association convention, Raleigh, 29-Jan. 31: Open season for dove. Annual Christmas Eve Love Feast Service, Mother Moravian church, Winston Salem, 26-31: State game refuges open to grouse hunters in the Pisgah National Forest.

Football teams of Duke and Pittsburgh worked hard Saturday. Ushers and attendants at the stadium worked hard. Clerks in Durham's ABC stores worked hard. Cheer leaders and rooting sections worked hard. Spectators even worked hard. But hardest working of all—and with the toughest, most thankless assignment (even including the game's officials) were members of the State Highway Patrol in charge of traffic and parking arrangements. Major Armstrong's boys did a swell job, practically everybody agrees.

It's hard to figure out what Raleigh officials and state employees—not to speak of newspaper men—will find to use for "bull session" material now that the football season has been packed away in moth balls. There's one official for whom the grid season doesn't end until next Saturday, however. That's Bill Spain, assistant Commissioner of Revenue, whose son, Bill, Jr., is a star on the Light Brigade from the Citadel which engages State's Wolfpack at Wilmington on December 3.

C. Dresbach, Surveyor, in February, 1927, and which plot is on file with the Atlantic Joint Stock Land Bank of Raleigh, the said tract of land being about two and one-half miles southeast from Stokes and about one mile East of Whichards on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, being bounded on the North by John Robinson, on the West by W. B. or Bracy Roebuck, on the South by J. R. Barnhill, on the East by D. S. Rollins, and being a part of what is known as the old James W. There is no need to elaborate on the above tabulation, says E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive of the State College. "These figures tell a story that every flue-cured tobacco farmer should seriously consider before voting in the tobacco referendum December 10," he declared. He cited specifically the rapid increase in the value of North Carolina's tobacco crop since the AAA control program was begun in 1933 and the steady decline in the value of the crop during the five years preceding the program. He also pointed to the 20-cents-or-better price per pound every year since 1933.

DUKE WINS ON BLOCKED PUNT

Tipton's Kicking Gets Team Out of Hole Many Times

By DREW MIDDLETON
Durham, Nov. 28—(AP)—Stocky Willard Perdue of Duke smashed through the weary Pittsburgh line and into football immortality Saturday.

The Duke end, alternate blocking back a year ago, banged into one of John Chickerno's frequent punts from the snow-covered end-zone, grabbed it on the bounce, and scored the touchdown that defeated midgety Pitt for the Blue Devils, 7-0, and ended the most remarkable season in the history of Duke football.

The touchdown, scored on the fifth play of the fourth quarter, was enough to send the 32,000 spectators into transports of joy and maintain the Blue Devil position as the nation's only undefeated, untied, unscorred-on eleven. As the crowd, largest in Southern gridiron history, filed out through the storm that had swirled in the stadium since morning, there was talk of the Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, and almost every post-season fixture.

But if Perdue's touchdown won the game, the trusty right foot of Eric (The Red) Tipton saved it. The senior tailback on Wallace Wade's 20th and greatest eleven kept the Blue Devils in and the Panthers out of the ball game with 20 punts that averaged 39.4 yards from scrimmage and which held the weary Pittsburgh backs pinned in their own territory in the last quarter.

By then, Jock Sutherland's eleven, which played through with only six substitutions, was dog-tired. Twice in the first half, it had bid terrifically hard for touchdowns, with the great Marshall Goldberg leading the attack with reckless and brilliant running and deadly blocking.

Each time the surge fell short. The solid, seaworthy Duke line halted the first savage charge on the ten; the second failed when Larry Peace, replacement for the injured Goldberg, fumbled on the 19.

Goldberg was the spearhead of each drive. The first line he made first downs at the Pitt 31 and 46, pounded out two at the Duke 39 and 24, and then smashed out the last on the ten.

This wholesale devastation of the Duke tackles and guards went for naught. The Duke forwards stopped Dick Cassiona cold on two reverses. Goldberg's wobbly pass to Bill Daddio was incomplete, and then a horde of blue jerseys buried Curly Stebbins on the 12-yard line and Duke had the ball.

Goldberg had carried the ball five times in the second drive, that went to the Duke 23, when he hurt his knee. He was taken out and on the first play, Peace crashed thru, fumbled, and the ball game was lost.

Pitt never put on a sustained drive again. Tipton kicked out of that hole as he had the previous one, and though Duke's running attack was halted by the smart, hard-kicking Pitt line so well that the Blue Devil backs made only one first down—that late in the fourth quarter—they had Tipton and he was enough.

CHICKERNEO PUNTS FOR PITT PANTHERS

Many a punt was booted during the hard-fought Duke-Pitt football game at Durham, and a lot of 'em were kicked by John Chickerno, Panther quarterback, who here is shown getting one off in the face of opposition. Duke's would-be-blocker is unidentified. Final score, 7-0, in favor of Duke. The game was played in a snowstorm.

His punt out of bounds on the Pittsburgh five set up the touchdown. Chickerno went back to kick on first down, and Perdue, who had been banging away all day without success, smashed over a Pitt defender and into the ball just as it left Chickerno's foot.

The ball bounced on to the ground and into the air. Perdue caught it and the stadium rocked with cheers as the referee's arms shot up signaling the touchdown. Tony Ruffa, the place-kicking specialist, dashed in from the bench and converted the seventh point.

The rest was up to Tipton. He responded gloriously. Four times he punted out of bounds in that last period, three times the ball skidded out—on the 11, seven and eight-yard lines.

Against this booting, Pitt could not stir. It failed to make a first down in the last half, and Duke went on to glory.

Nearly two-thirds of all the lamb eaten in the United States is consumed in the area north of Washington, D. C., and east of Pittsburgh. Less than five per cent is produced in that area.

NORFOLK TEAM DEFEATS ECTC

Locals Lose Final Tilt of Season to Naval Base Boys

Norfolk's Naval Base gridiron contingent skidded to a 32-7 triumph over East Carolina Teachers College during a steady downpour of rain here Saturday afternoon in North Carolina's only other college gridiron contest outside the Duke-Pitt classic.

The many spectators who watched the Pirates play their last contest of the 1938 season, used automobiles instead of the bleachers. The only persons in the rain were the players, coaches, officials and reporters.

Lester Ridenhour completed two passes to Bill Shelton midway the second quarter to put the ball on the three-yard line. Shelton then smashed Norfolk's line for a touchdown. Ridenhour, playing his final college football game, converted from placement for the extra point.

A Gunka and Magg combination from the Naval Base from the 25 yard line to within 12 inches of the goal line. Gunka was successful in his second attempt to crash break thru the Pirates' defense.

Rothstein, Norfolk back, highlighted his mates first-quarter scoring in the last minute of this period. He trotted from the 45 yard line over a muddy and rain-soaked field for Norfolk's third, touchdown of the game.

Spirited by a half-time rest period and more rain, Norfolk took little time in recording another tally. Executing several line plays and passes, the Middles pushed the ball to the six-yard line. Magg tallied again and Davis got the extra point by the placement route.

In the concluding minutes, Magg helped his mates advance the ball to the five-yard line, from where he plunged for the touchdown.

Shelton and Ridenhour displayed football toponethery in the backfield. Walter Rogers, Pirate guard, looked best in the line division. Magg and Kunka, of course, were pace setters for the Middles.

When You Buy Christmas Toys Keep In Mind The Child's Age

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW AP Feature Service Writer

THOSE toys under the Christmas tree can be a big help to the development of the child who gets them, and also "just the thing he wanted"—if they have been chosen with a little thought.

The play possibilities of the various age levels should be considered all the way. Lightweight toys in bright colors are a good bet for the youngest.

The two-to-four age group, learning to coordinate eye and muscles, can get some help from large and simple toys along the building line. Improved coordination allows more complex toys in the next level.

At the six-to-eight level, girls turn more to dolls and handicraft; boys take up scientific toys, model building, and trains.

There's a tendency to pick up hobbies in the eight-ten level. Weaving, drawing and embroidering are popular with girls. Boys like trains and chemical sets.

Here are a few tips for choosing toys:

Infancy To Two Years. Walking in the early stages of the game is a young fellow's toughest job. He probably would appreciate something to help him at the task. Toys for this age should be light and bright.

Two To Four Years. "Let's pretend" is the play theme for two-to-four-year-olds and creative toys fit into it. But they should be simple to avoid strain on eyes and smaller muscles as the child develops coordination. Big blocks are good.

Four To Six Years. Construction and handicraft sets, not too complicated, are enjoyed at this bracket. Girls like toys with which they can imitate adult house-keeping. Boys favor industrial activity in miniature. Easy "put-together" boats are fun.

Six To Eight Years. Dolls for girls, things masculine for boys, prevail in the level. There's a noticeable trend, too, toward reading and dramatic play.

Eight To Ten Years. Coordination greatly advanced, children turn to hobby interests. Weaving for girls, carpentry for boys are examples.

PERDUE BLOCKS PITT PUNT AND WINS FOR DUKE!

Here's the dramatic play that gave Duke's Blue Devils their 7-0 victory over Pitt's Panthers at Durham, and hurtled stocky Willard Perdue into football immortality. Perdue, a Duke end, is shown blocking John Chickerno's punt, which he grabbed on the bounce to score. Thus Duke completed an undefeated, untied, unscorred-on season and kept in line for a bid play in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Steels and motors today led the stock market in a slow retreat. While offerings were light, the ticker tape losses frequently at a standstill, losses of two or more points were well distributed near the final hour.

With business news on the whole continuing favorable, brokers were inclined to blame backsliding tendencies on selling for income tax purposes and the still cloudy foreign picture.
Bonds and commodities were uneven.

New York Cotton

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened one to three lower under December liquidation, hedging and foreign selling.
March eased from 8.43 to 8.41 shortly after the first half hour, when the list was three to six points net lower.

The market showed losses of five to seven points, but at midday prices were up slightly from the lows. March recovered from 8.39 to 8.41.

Clothing Stolen From Home in Greenville

The home of Mrs. Della M. McGee at 513 Greene street was entered some time Saturday and a number of men's suits and other wearing apparel stolen. It was reported at police headquarters today.

The clothing belonged to a roomer at Mrs. McGee's home and the robber or robbers took practically all the clothes he could find.
Chief George Clark revealed today he had arrested two juvenile Negroes, Woodrow Peyton and Chesterfield Hawkins, on charges of breaking into and robbing the cafe in the New Carolina warehouse and also the Golden Leaf filling station several nights ago.

ONLY ONE CASE TRIED

Several cases were called in Municipal court this morning, but all but one were continued. John Harrington was ordered to pay court costs or serve 30 days on a charge of drunkenness in the only case tried at the session.

HOPES TO FIND TRACE OF ANCIENT RACE

Honolulu, T. H.—(AP)—Dr. Laura Thompson, young research associate at the University of Hawaii, has embarked for Guam to spend six months in trying to unravel the mystery of the old Chamorro race which Magellan found on the island.
Among the archeological remains she will investigate are two rows of ancient stone slabs that long have puzzled scientists.

'RETIREMENT' IS CHIEF AIM

Declared Main Point in N.C.E.A. Current Program

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Nov. 28—Principal one of the "three-point" program of the North Carolina Education Association is retirement for teachers, principals and superintendents in North Carolina schools.

The association and its allies will urge on the General Assembly an increase in teacher salaries and a twelfth grade in the schools, but all indications are that it will center its fire on the retirement phase of its program.

Julie Warren, executive secretary of the N. C. E. A., says for publication that the Association regards all three points as vitally important, but behind the scenes it is hardly subject to doubt that the would prefer to gain a well-developed, and scientifically-planned retirement system than to gain either or both, other objectives and lose the retirement battle.

In outlining the Association's views of a retirement plan, Mr. Warren stresses the point that it would be a joint-contribution arrangement with the teachers, principals and superintendents contributing a fixed percentage (probably 5 per cent) of their salaries to be matched by similar amounts from state funds.

He is planning to present to the Assembly the results of a careful and detailed study of retirement made by experts who have figured the matter through on an actuarial basis, just as though it were a commercial insurance undertaking.
Roughly, Mr. Warren hopes to get through a measure which will provide for retirement of teachers at the end of 30 or 35 years service, with a sliding scale of retirement age at 60, 65 and 70 years.

Teachers reaching the age of 60 could retire voluntarily, or at their option could remain in the active profession even though they had completed the required term of service. At 65 only those teachers would be continued on active duty who were specifically requested and desired by school officials and who were also willing to so remain. At 70 retirement would be mandatory under all circumstances.

Mr. Warren said that worked out on a tentative basis of a 5 per cent contribution, retirement pay for North Carolina teachers would amount to approximately one-half the salary at time of retirement. Thus teachers receiving $100 per month on the active list would retire on $50 monthly.

One of the knotty points to be worked out, Mr. Warren pointed out, is the matter of teachers who have already been in service for a number of years. These teachers have already served well along the line toward retirement and no fund whatever has been set up to go toward any retirement pay for them. In these cases, he said, there will have to be some provision for additional contributions by the state to make up the "already earned increment" of the teachers toward retirement.

The cost of the state of the retirement plan is estimated by the NCEA secretary at something like $1,000,000 annually.

The cost of either an increase in teacher salaries or of a twelfth grade would probably run higher than this million a year.

The 1933 General Assembly is not going to be in any spending humor—that much is apparent to all observers, and it becomes increasingly obvious that the school forces are not going to be able to put over all three points of their program.

In view of Mr. Warren's unstated, but readily discerned, attitude toward retirement, it is safe to predict that the hardest fight of the N. C. E. A. will be for a system that will take care of teachers who have given their lives to the profession.

Duke End Coach To Go to William & Mary

Norfolk, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Norfolk Ledger Dispatch said today it had received reliable information that Carl Boyles, end coach for the Duke University football team would be named head coach for the college of William and Mary.

According to present plans, the William and Mary committee will meet tonight and formal announcement of Boyle's appointment will be made tomorrow morning, the paper said.

Boyle came to Duke from the University of Illinois where he had been freshman coach in 1931, the same year that saw Wallace Wade take charge of Blue Devil football fortune.

Noted Duke Professor Is Claimed by Death

Durham, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Dr. William McDougall, noted British psychologist on the faculty of Duke University, died today. He was 67 years old.
Dr. McDougall, a native of Manchester, England, came to Duke in 1937.

He received his education at Owens college, Manchester, Saint Thomas hospital, London, Cambridge, Oxford and Göttingen.
He was a former president of the British society for psychological research, which had awarded him the doctor of science degree.
