MANY CHANGES SUGGESTED IN N. C. SCHOOLS

Recommendations Of Special Commission Far-Reaching

TWELFTH GRADE FIRST PROPOSAL

Commission Authorized by 1937 General Assembly Named By Gov. Hoey

Raleigh, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Far-reaching changes in North Carolina's public education system...

The report recommended: 1. The 12th grade be added 'gradually'...

2. The age for compulsory school attendance be raised from 14 to 16...

3. The maximum salary of teachers with 'A' grade certificates and nine or more years of experience be raised immediately.

4. No immediate action be taken toward increasing the terms of state supported schools from eight to nine months.

5. The state administrative setup for schools be consolidated. With the school commission becoming an advisory commission to the board of education.

6. More attention be given to vocational courses in public schools and to the possibility of setting up state-supported junior colleges to give additional higher education of a vocational nature.

7. A retirement fund be set up for school employees.

8. Practices indicating 'partisan politics, nepotism, and personal favoritism' in the hiring of teachers in some school units be stopped immediately.

9. The teachers' certification program be revised.

10. A halt be called to the multiplying of school administrative units by special legislative enactment.

11. If feasible, no further consolidation of schools having three or more teachers.

12. Legal limits be placed on the number of children transported at a time in a school bus.

13. Whenever possible, principals be relieved from teaching duties.

14. All school statutes be recodified.

15. More emphasis be placed on adult education, and a larger state appropriation be made to finance the 'growing demands' of the program.

16. Unsanitary conditions at certain schools be remedied immediately, and an enlarged physical education program be offered.

17. A 'Governor's committee on education' be set up to work side-by-side with school officials in planning for a 'broadly expanding system of public education.'

Opportunities

A list of Christmas Opportunities will appear in The Reflector next week, but meantime the Service League requests that every organization send names of their prospective recipients of baskets to its office in order to avoid duplication. This service was rendered last Christmas by the Thrift Shop which is now a part of the Service League.

Any individual who knows of families who should be put on the list or who are providing for a family or families also are urged to call the Service League telephone 1059-J, between 10 and 12 a. m., and 2 and 4 p. m.

Seaboard Medical Body Opens Three-Day Meet In This City Tonight

Public Invited to Hear Governor Hoey at 8:30 Tonight

OTHER SESSIONS SET FOR ARMORY

Persons Prominent in Medical Circles To Appear on Programs Here This Week

DR. W. I. WOOTEN

GROUP FORMED 43 YEARS AGO

Seaboard Medical Association Independent Body

The Seaboard Medical Association, which tonight begins a three-day meeting here was organized by a small group of doctors from North Carolina and Virginia who met in Norfolk 43 years ago...

An outstanding feature of the association is that it is an open forum, one of the few remaining independent medical organizations. Its requirements for membership are simply a legal right to practice medicine and a good moral character.

Among progressive measures for which the association has been responsible are: First advocacy of the cure of indigent sufferers from social diseases, at the expense of public taxation; first advocacy of State medical inspection of school children; first Southern support for a movement to control cancer, and first advocacy in the South of measures to control tuberculosis.

The first idea for the control of malaria was presented to the association 40 years ago by Dr. W. E. Driver, of Norfolk. Also the association originated the idea that it should be possible for a patient suffering from a mental or nervous upset to be hospitalized in a general institution for a period of three months for treatment before being committed to an insane asylum.

While not claiming priority, the Seaboard Medical Association was one of the early and strong backers of compulsory vaccination against smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid and typhus; the inspection of foodstuffs; fly control, screening of vegetables and fruits; refrigeration of meats, and other public health activities including county health officers, county nurses, school nurses and child clinics.

Two eleemosynary institutions of great value were born in the form of the association. The first was the Caswell Training school for the care and education of backward children, the outgrowth of a paper by Dr. Ira Hardy, of Kingston. The second was the colony for epileptics in Virginia.

The idea for the Walter Reed Memorial at Beloit, came from the Seaboard Medical Association. It was taken up by the Medical Society of Virginia, and the result that the birthplace of Reed was restored, and is now a National Shrine.

Creation of the National Board of Medical Examiners, a powerful move to elevate the standards of medical training, was among other measures supported by the Seaboard association. According to Dr. Jones, who has been secretary of the association for more than 25 years, the one member who did more than any other to accomplish the reforms initiated and supported by the body was the late Dr. Southgate Legh, of Norfolk.

NINETEEN MEN KNOWN DEAD IN MINE TRAGEDY

Killed When Cable to Mine Cars Breaks Loose

MANY SERIOUSLY HURT IN CRASH

Tragedy Declared To Have Been Worst Mine Disaster in Nova Scotia in 20 Years

Sydney, Nova Scotia, Dec. 6.—(Canadian Press)—Nineteen men were known to have been killed and many others seriously injured today in Nova Scotia's worst coal mine disaster in 20 years.

Fourteen bodies were brought to the surface two hours after a string of 26 mine cars carrying 250 workers broke loose and plunged out of control down a mile-long incline into the walls of the main deep. Five injured died in hospitals later.

The tragedy occurred in the Princess colliery of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company as a shift was riding down to work.

A haulage cable snapped as the string of cars, known as a riding rake, was going down a 10 per cent grade. The cars gathered momentum rapidly, but some men were able to jump in the first few seconds. Most of these escaped serious injury.

Rescue workers brought out the 14 bodies and returned to the pit. They said it was impossible yet to say how many more bodies might still be in the wreckage of the rake.

Survivors said that some men in the wildly plunging rake reeked to follow the few who leaped at the start, stood up and were decapitated by the jagged ceiling. Others remained on their seats and were (Continued on page four)

Funeral Held For Mrs. J. H. Bullock

Mrs. J. H. Bullock 54 of the Mayo community four miles north of Bethel, died Sunday morning at 4:30 in a Raleigh hospital.

Mrs. Bullock, before her marriage was Miss Jessie Ann Lewis, daughter of the late J. B. and Mary Norris Lewis of Pitt county. She was the mother of J. Raymond Bullock who is connected with V. A. Merritt General Electric Appliance dealers of Greenville. Mr. Bullock was with his mother at the time of her death.

Besides her husband Mrs. Bullock is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Clarence Mozingo, of Greenville, Blanche, Sallie, Hazel and Bernice Bullock of the home; two sons, L. J. of Tarboro and Paul Bullock of the home; three stepchildren, Mrs. W. Carey Bryant of Robertsonville and J. Raymond and P. L. Bullock of Greenville. The funeral was held at the home at 2:30 Monday afternoon, with Rev. Dennis Alexander, Free Will Baptist minister of Bethel, officiating, assisted by Rev. J. Norton Deneby, Presbyterian minister of Mayo and Tarboro.

Mrs. Bullock was buried in the Lewis burying ground of Pitt county.

Active pall bearers were V. A. Merritt and Curtis Perkins of Greenville, John Dixon of Robertsonville, Ernest Ward of Bethel and John Alford and Raymond Whitehurst of Mayo.

Death Claims D. B. Carter

Word has been received here of the death recently of D. B. Carter formerly of Greenville, at his home in Wallace.

While living here Mr. Carter was engaged in the insurance business.

Mayor Blount Asserts City Will Get Facilities

Representatives of bus companies operating here or interested in putting on lines through the city met with representatives of the Utilities Commission, City and Chamber of Commerce here today and discussed a proposal for the establishment of a bus station for Greenville.

Mayor M. K. Blount said after the meeting that the city was certain to get a station in the near future, adding that the bus companies were investigating sites suitable for the needs.

He said local representatives pointed out the need of such facilities here at the present time and showed that the need was increasing steadily. It is proposed to erect a modern station, with white and colored waiting rooms and other facilities. He said that it was the desire of all concerned to secure a place which would be convenient to the traveling public.

The meeting was called by R. O. Self, head of transportation for the North Carolina Utilities Commission. Bus companies represented were the Carolina Coach company, Sutherland Brothers and Greyhound lines.

The need of more bus lines also was brought up at the meeting.

France Signs Pact With Nazis; Fascist Students Demonstrate For Tunisia

SIGNATORIES DENOUNCE WAR

Two Nations, However, Are Far From Agreement on Points Outside of Treaty; France Wants Know Germany's Attitude On Italian Agitation For Tunisia

Paris, Dec. 6.—(AP)—France and Germany today signed a pact which pledged them to seek settlement of future disputes by negotiation instead of war.

Joachim von Ribbentrop and Georges Bonnet, foreign minister of Germany and France, put their signatures to two cream-colored sheets of vellum, one inscribed in French the other in German, concluding negotiations for a good neighbor accord.

German informants said von Ribbentrop expected to drive a hard bargain, however, for specific points outside the treaty.

The pact itself, three paragraphs long, put in black and white Chancellor Hitler's often-repeated oral renunciation of a claim upon Alsace-Lorraine. This was achieved by a phrase recognizing existing frontiers.

On France's side, informants said, the pact constituted formal recognition that Austria had vanished and that Czechoslovak Sudetenland was German.

Furthermore the declaration contained an agreement to submit any dispute to consultation.

What the pact left unsaid was the subject for further negotiations between von Ribbentrop and his staff, Premier Daladier, Foreign Minister Benet and their veteran advisors on foreign affairs.

France wanted to know whether Germany backed the Italian agitation for Tunisia and Corsica. France also wanted to know how determined was Germany on her own colonial demands.

Premier Daladier himself said yesterday that the French answer would be "no" to both colonial aspirations.

Futrell Endorses Holiday Seal Sale

K. T. Futrell, Pitt County Welfare officer and a member of the Board of directors of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association, is a strong believer in the Christmas Seal Sale.

When interviewed today in connection with the present Seal Sale campaign, Mr. Futrell made the following statement: "Tuberculosis control is still the serious problem throughout the county, but is much more serious where there is a large Negro population. Everyone knows that the Negro constitutes a large proportion of the population of Pitt county, but it will probably be a surprise to some to know that tuberculosis is about five times as prevalent among the Negro race as it is among the white race. As Welfare Officer, I am thoroughly familiar with the problems of the poor families of both races in Pitt County, and it is my experience that there is no other disease which brings about the same amount of sorrow, sadness and poverty as (Continued on page four)

JIMMY ROOSEVELT ENTERS MOVIES

James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President and a former White House secretary, has entered the moving picture industry as vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., at a salary which some estimated would range between $27,000 and $49,000 annually. Here's Jimmy in Hollywood with Movie Executive Louis B. Mayer (left) as he reported for work.

Seek Determine Status Of U.S. Jews In Germany

Consular Officials Would Protect Jewish Property

Berlin, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The United States consular officials today sought German interpretation as to what effect the German anti-Jewish restrictions might have on American Jews holding property in Germany.

Liquidation of those holdings already is under way and many American Jews have cleaned up their affairs in Germany during the last few days.

A German newspaper estimated at $3,080,000,000 the total of Jewish wealth which "must be moved" under the economic ministry decrees authorizing liquidation of Jewish possessions.

Gedman press commentators have agreed foreign Jews were not subject to provisions of yesterday's decrees, which forbade Jews to sell or pawn jewelry or other valuables without a government permit, and ordered them to deposit all securities at banks.

But, some sections of the press were of the opinion foreigners were included in the ban on Jews owning real estate and industrial undertakings, and it was this angle that United States officials were investigating.

MEET CALLED BY PRESIDENT

Calls Conference To Consider International Affairs

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt called a conference with State department officials and American diplomats for mid-afternoon today for what was described as a general discussion and exchange of views on the international situation.

Those invited to attend were Sumner Welles, acting secretary of State; Hugh R. Wilson, William Phillips and William C. Bullitt, ambassadors, respectively, to Germany, Italy and France.

The conference was arranged shortly after the President arrived from Chapel Hill, N. C., in an address there late yesterday he declared the United States was "not only the largest and most powerful democracy in the world, but many other democracies looked to us for leadership that world democracy might survive."

Mr. Roosevelt conferred with Wilson and Phillips during his two weeks' vacation at Warm Springs, Ga., on the persecution of Jews and other racial and religious minorities in Germany and other totalitarian states.

CROWD HEADS FOR EMBASSY

Blocked by Strong Police Guards From Reaching the French Embassy, Students Demonstrate in The Streets in Support of Italian Claims on Tunisia

Rome, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Several hundred Fascist students, after an unsuccessful attempt to reach the French embassy demonstrated in the streets of Rome today in support of Italian claims to Tunisia.

The students deserted classrooms of several Rome schools and trooped through the streets, shouting "Tunisia is Ours."

Their path to the French embassy was blocked by a strong police guard established on the surrounding streets.

Turned back, the students marched to the Palazzo Venezia, where they called for Premier Mussolini and sang Fascist songs. Il Duce did not appear.

The crowd then made a second attempt to approach the French Embassy and again ran against the police line.

The students next marched to the Rome headquarters of the Fascist party. Their continuous uproar brought the provincial secretary, Andrea Iolitto, to the balcony.

Iolitto told the students their demonstration was "more than legitimate" and that they had "done well to show spirit."

"Once it was students who led a war-like people forward," the Fascist official continued, "but we have no need of such methods for we have a chief who knows his people are ready for his call."

Again when the students raised the cry "Tunisia! Iolitto roared back: "There is no need of talking of Tunisia—We will go there."

Department Store Robbed Last Night

Hatem's department store on Dickinson avenue was entered and robbed last night of a quantity of clothing as the current wave of store robberies continued in Greenville.

R. D. Housse, city officer, making his nightly rounds of back lots, found the rear door of the Hatem store open at about 10 o'clock. The owner was called and a check-up made.

Reported stolen were 10 dozen men's hose, eight dozen women's hose, lingerie, bath robes, sweaters, men's belts, shirts, etc.

It was exactly one week ago that Blount-Harvey's department store and Bilbro's wholesale firm were robbed. Two Negroes have been arrested and are awaiting trial for the robberies.

Brother of Dr. Adams Slain In Auto Wreck

T. D. Adams of Elkton, Ky., brother of Dr. Carl Adams of Greenville, died at his home last week-end as a result of injuries he received in an automobile accident near Clarksville, Tenn. Mr. Adams lived only a few hours following the accident.

Dr. Adams is head of the department of education and psychology at East Carolina Teachers College.

Service League Meets.
A large and enthusiastic group attended the regular meeting of the Service League yesterday at 10:30 in Sheppard Memorial Library. The two important things presented were the reading of the constitution and the point system. Each member of the league will be required to do 70 hours of voluntary work which may be done in connection with the Thrift Shop (the league's main project at present) on various committees or on other charitable organizations in town. Reports from committees were given. Mrs. Wyatt Brown was enthusiastic over the response the workers had given the Thrift Shop.—Reported.

To Speak Here Tomorrow.
By a survey lasting two years and costing $25,000, the University of Chicago recently discovered that the thing more people are deeply interested in than any other except health, is how to get along with others, how to win their friendship and their willing cooperation. Dale Carnegie, the man who has taught 30,000 people how to do that very thing, will speak Wednesday night at the college on "How To Win Friends and Influence People."

Because most people do long to have more friends, more influence, more happiness, and need to be able to get along with others, Dale Carnegie has become one of the most popular lecturers on the platform today, has been sought out by thousands of men and women who want to study in his courses, and has published a book that has sold nearly a million copies in less than two years.

A charming speaker, Mr. Carnegie will talk to his audience on how to win individuals and groups to friendliness and willing cooperation. The lecture Wednesday night is scheduled to begin at 8:30.

A. A. U. W. Meets.
The Greenville branch of the American Association of University Women held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening, December 5, at Baggsdale Hall, with Miss Louise Williams of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, speaking on current Broadway plays. Miss Williams, who has recently returned from New York, discussed the plays "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," "Victoria Regina," and "Hamlet," describing outstanding scenes and actors.

The president, Dr. Dorothy Snyder, announced that the social studies committee of the club will sponsor a tea and "White Elephant Sale," on Saturday, December 10th. Proceeds of the sale will be used to finance a mental clinic to be sponsored by the club in the spring. Any friends of the club interested in such a clinic are cordially invited to attend the tea or contribute

"white elephants" for the sale.

"White elephants" may be given by anyone to Mrs. D. M. Clark, Miss Jessie Schnopp, Miss Alice Wooten, or Mrs. Hazel Browne Madry.

The president announced that the club hopes to have as its speaker for the January meeting, Mrs. Ernest Groves of Chapel Hill, noted authority on family relationships.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Miss Velma Lawe, Miss Mary Caughey, and Miss Ruby Scholtz. Refreshments were prepared by the Home Economics department of the college and served from the cafeteria.—Reported.

Musical Program At Rotary Club.
Singing and dancing predominated last night's Rotary program presented by Johnny Overton, chairman of the music committee. Further resources of Rotary Club music talent were manifested last night when Johnny Overton did "The Lost Chord" in a fine way and as a pinch hit number.

Next, Clara and Ruth Crumpler put on a short program of songs and dances. Their dancing included ballroom, tap and acrobatic.

But you should have heard the Rotarians "bear down" on those numbers sung by the whole group under Johnny's leading. Herbert ReBarker would take a look at the words, "throw back his head and sing 'Tommy' Thomas would not raise his head but, brother, he sang right in with the spirit of the occasion. Now, believe it or not, Claude Gaskins and Tom Grant sang "Home on the Range" like as if they were two crooners—with verve and feeling, mind you. Anyway, quite a few songs were done by the group and everyone seemed to enjoy them.

There were five visiting Rotarians from Washington, N. C., Norman Winslow, Anson Allgood, Frank Miller, Bill McGeehy, Jim Ballentine. It was understood that the Rotarians "making up" the meeting last night, it meant Washington's seventh one hundred per cent meeting in a row. Dave Mosier was greeted as a new member last night. Rufus Keel, vice-president of the club, presided in the absence of John Winstead, the club president.—Reported.

RED OAK NEWS

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

The Characters

Katherine Cornish, myself, visiting Elizabeth on a mid-western Army post. Elizabeth, Colonel Wright's daughter. Adam Drew, acting commanding officer.

Yesterday: The sentry is killed by a stone while he is trying to tell Adam something about a balloon.

Chapter 28 The Notebook

I WENT up the stairs after Adam. Barney, in pajamas and dressing gown, was a dark huddle under the front window. Adam was sitting on his haunches looking down at him helplessly. He turned at my entrance. "Can't make it out. He's got a good strong pulse, breathing normally. Just seems to be out cold."

Adam said, "Maybe." Then, in a loud, cheerful voice: "Well, Doc will be here in a minute, anyway. He can do it out."

The rooms were like Charlie's, out neater. There were curtains, tingly but clean, at the windows. The furniture was substantially the same. There were no pictures at all, but there were books. A set of shelves between the front window and the hall door was full of rather abstruse titles—the usual military tomes, old textbooks: a few more indicative of personal taste: The Human Mind, The Human Body, Outline of Science, Origin of Species, Mind in the Making, books on floriculture, on horse breeding.

My eye jumped from the lower shelf to the floor at my feet. A little brown notebook, halfway under the bookcase, not far from Barney's outstretched hand. I picked it up, rifled the pages, feeling no sense of impropriety, not yet formulating my new knowledge that ordinary standards of good taste were never meant to deal with murder.

Less than a score of pages were filled with a cramped but legible script. At the top of the first page four words were blacked in. A reminder? A thesis?

"POINT OF ATTACK: RETICENCES." I read on: "Why have the Orpingtons no children? They are both healthy. And she likes kids—have seen her watching them at the playground, but always evasive when the subject is mentioned. Must see if I can find out if they ever had a child, someone in the service would know—unless married before he came in."

"Note: Lou has a tic. Have seen her try to disguise it by jerking her head and laughing without reason."

Adam was prowling around the room, casting occasional worried glances at Barney's motionless form.

"Come here," I called to him softly. "What do you make of this?"

He came and glanced over my shoulder. "Looks like Barney's writing."

I held it still while he read and watched his face covertly. His eyes were very bright—with that hunting gleam. He came to the end of the page and turned it, his long-fingered, vital hand covering mine in the most impersonal of contacts.

"Nothing Hit Me"

"HE MUST have had it in his hand," I said and showed him where I had found the notebook.

He took it from me and was turning another page when we both heard steps in the downstairs hall. I saw him close the notebook and slip it into the pocket of his white slacks that still managed to look crisp and immaculate. Then he was leaning over the railing and calling for Doc Moore.

That young man carried authority with him. He came in with his little black bag, inspected me with a quick, professional, but not unfriendly eye, and knelt beside Barney. Adam crouched near him and some wordless communication passed between them. I saw Doc Moore turn back Barney's eyelids, touch the cornea. Then he took a tiny pencil flashlight from his bag, shone it full into the eye, and I could see that the pupil did not contract.

"No fake about that," he said cheerfully and took out his stethoscope. After listening for a long moment he put it aside and parted the rather thick golden hair that lay so close against Barney's scalp.

exploring the skull with sensitive, practiced fingers. "Slight contusion on the side of the head," he observed suddenly. "No fracture that I can find." "Enough to knock him out?" Adam asked. "Hard to tell. He might have fainted—did it once before this summer—struck his head on something when he fell."

He applied the stethoscope again, dropped it with a dissatisfied expression. Barney came out of it suddenly, like these people who wake all at once and jump out of bed with all their faculties. He sat up, glanced from Adam to the doctor, said, "What's happened?"

"You're asking us?" Adam fetched a bed pillow from the other room, and over his protests they forced him to lie down again.

"What's under me?" he asked fretfully, writhing a hand under the small of his back. It came out clutching something which he subjected to puzzled scrutiny. "Where did that come from?"

Adam whistled softly. I craned for a glimpse. It was a smooth stone, white-washed, smoke smudged. "That accounts for your faint," observed Adam grimly. "Quarter of an inch to one side and you wouldn't be asking what happened."

Barney stared. "What are you talking about?" "Mean to say you don't remember this thing hitting you?"

"Nothing hit me," Barney protested irritably. "I couldn't sleep—dozed off, woke up—too hot in here. I got up, put on my dressing gown, was going to look for you. Then I saw Flower had forgotten to open this front window. I stuck, but I got it open—was reaching for that screen to put in when I passed out cold." He appealed to the doctor. "Just like the other time."

Two Somethings

"YOU probably didn't know what hit you," Adam said soothingly. "Open window—you were right in front of it."

But Doc Moore was regarding him with a bright, professional eye. "The window stuck, you say?" "Yes, I tell you nothing hit me," he insisted.

"Then where did that stone come from?" Adam asked sensibly. Barney said, "Search me," sat up and began looking casually around the room. His hand explored his dressing-robe pocket, his glance roved.

The notebook—he had missed it was looking for it. But he said nothing, and neither did Adam. Barney observed me suddenly. His eyes had passed back and forth across me: th now rested on me in surprise unmingled with welcome.

"I'll wait in the car," I said faintly and fled to the hall, feeling foolish. After all, what was I doing there?

Adam overtook me. "Put up the car windows and lock the doors. I'll be with you in a second."

"Don't worry about me—the murderer had one good chance to eliminate me and didn't."

"Don't be a fool," Adam retorted. "This murder business grows on one. Here, keep this. I've a hunch it can tell us something. And he thrust the notebook into my hands. "Maybe two somethings."

"What do you mean?" "Motive—who was Ethel Curtis?"

He turned and vanished into Barney's rooms.

The downstairs hall was empty except for Charlie. He was staring moodily at the whitewashed stone and by no sign betrayed that he was aware of my presence. I went past him and out into the night.

The big brownish ambulance was pulling away from the curb. I shut and locked the car doors and rolled up the windows, enclosing a cube of the sweltering night. The stars were gone, blanketed by thick, impenetrable clouds that hung heavy and low and steaming, reluctant to let fall one drop on the suffocating earth.

The night was too long—out of it had come too much horror. In spite of my brave words to Adam I was afraid there alone in the dark. Limp bodies, contorted faces swam past me in an endless, moving frieze of faces, normal friendly faces of the people I had been with, came at me with murderous eyes. Behind some one of those speciously smiling masks lurked diabolic guilt; and as I recalled the night's atrocities I was sick with terror and loathing and with longing for the light to be done.

SANTA AND THE LOST PRINCESS

By SIGR ID ARNE

Chapter One The Little Princess

Once upon a time in a faraway land lived a little yellow-haired princess who was both very, very poor and very, very rich. She was very, very poor because her mother had died and her father had married the mean and selfish Queen from the next kingdom. And she was very, very rich because she lived in a palace and had hundreds of dolls and two pure, white ponies all her own.

Her name was Hulda. She was slim and fair and graceful. Her yellow curls hung to her waist, and her blue eyes shone very bright when she smiled. But when this story starts she wasn't smiling at all. She was sitting on a rock in her pretty white chignon dress when she heard a faint, tinkling sound. She had taken off her bright red shoes and thrown them as far as she could.

But as she wept a fairy lighted on the heart of a wild rose at her side, and said, "What is so very wrong?"

Hulda peeked through her white hands and sobbed. "She's so mean to me."

"Who?" said the fairy. "My stepmother."

"Oh, yes, we've heard of her," said the fairy. "Look at those pretty red shoes. Sobbed Hulda. "She gave them to me. But they're too small. They hurt and she makes me wear them. I can't tell my father, the King."

Happy in Toyland The fairy looked puzzled. She sat down in the rose and thought very hard while Hulda wept. Her eyes, suddenly the fairy popped up. "I know," she said. "You could live with Santa Claus in Toyland. He's so kind you'd be happy."

Hulda looked frightened. Then she smiled. "Why, I've always wanted to go far away. My father, the King, is always sailing far away, and when he's not sailing, he's riding far away. The Queen won't let me go with him, and when he's gone, she sends me to the scullery to work hard all day."

WINTERVILLE TAKES COUPLE

Electrical Scoreboard Initiated With Double Victory

Winterville, Dec. 6—Winterville High School initiated its electric score board, the only one in the state as far as we know, by turning back Bethel 20-9 and 35-7. The score board was constructed by the Agricultural class. Gretchen Forrest dropped in the first field goal during the first minute of the game, and kept the lead all the way. The score at half-time was 13-2. Myrtle Ruth Dickerson with 12 points set the pace in the girls victory. J. Bunting was best for Bethel. After one second of play in the boys game, Norman Pedee dropped in a field goal from tip off, to take the lead which was never in danger. Coach McJoley used every member of his squad in his game. The half-time score was 18-3. J. L. Hobgood with 8 points set the pace in the boys victory. Weeks Adams and Garney were best for Bethel.

BUC SI YPPAH

Translated... a "Cub is Happy" also square, fair and game in the activities of CUBBING, younger boy program (9-12 years) of the Boy Scouts of America.

The cubbing program is the part of the Boy Scout organization which provides boys between the ages of 9 and 11, inclusive, with opportunities similar to those derived from the parent organization. A boy works up to a Scout through cubbing. The junior organization is the only phase of scouting that has a woman in any office. The boys are considered young enough to require the attendance of a woman. Therefore each unit has a Den Mother, as well as a Den Dad. Cubbing usually grows over the back fence, as it usually is an orthodox, lingerie, bath robes, sweaters a neighborhood.

ed to go far away. My father, the King, is always sailing far away, and when he's not sailing, he's riding far away. The Queen won't let me go with him, and when he's gone, she sends me to the scullery to work hard all day. "Yes, we've heard," said the fairy. "You'll be happier in Toyland, and the woodspeople will help you go there."

But while they were talking they failed to see a wrinkled witch go riding by on a snail. She had listened and then tittered through her snagged, yellow teeth. "Oh, I'll go tell the Queen." And that's what she did. She whipped up the snail she was riding, and went rustling through the woods to the palace. She hitched her snail at the door, and rode right into the throne room on her broom. There she lit on the Queen's shoulder. "The Queen wasn't much surprised because mean people see a great deal of witches. So she snapped, "Well, what now?"

"The Princess, Hulda, is planning, to dun away," whispered the witch.

Quite Frightened "Wh-a-a-a-t!" snarled the Queen. "I'll box her ears. Where is she?" "Down in the pine woods," said the witch.

"Men!" shouted the Queen banging on her throne with her fists. "bring me the princess from the pine woods. Quick!"

The palace guards rushed out so fast they stumbled over their spears. They ran through the rose garden down by the pond and into the woods. But Hulda and the rose fairy heard them coming. Hulda trembled, but the fairy tapped on the ground three times and through the tree-tops came a whole flock of wind fairies trailing long, gray veils behind them. They made a sound like a long, silky whisper, "Wh-wh-u-u-sh-sh!"

"Here, Sisters," said the dose fairy. "Pick up the Princess quick and take her to Toyland. The Queen's men are after her!"

So just as the Queen's soldiers came stomping through the woods Hulda was picked up by a hundred small, gray adms and lifted high into the sky. She was quite frightened, and held on tight to a dozen little fairies. But they chuckled and said, "Bounce around. You won't fall!"

So she bounced, and fell as though she were riding a feather bed. She was so comfortable she peered down over the cloud of fairy wings to the earth below. It was a wonderful sight. Tall towers, wide rivers, great green woodlands and soft green fields. On and on she rode.

SOCIAL and LOCAL

Chorus To Present 'The Messiah'

The Festival Symphonic Chorus of Eastern Carolina Symphonic Choral Association will present Handel's immortal "Messiah" Sunday, December 11, at 8 o'clock, in the Campus auditorium of East Carolina Teachers College. The Greenville Symphonic Chorus, uniting with the Goldsboro, Ayden and Snow Hill Symphonic Chorus, form the Festival Chorus. This is the second performance of the "Messiah" in Greenville. Last year, however, Greenville had no chorus represented in the combined performance. This year it is with pride that it is announced that the Greenville Symphonic Chorus is a part of this organization.

The "Messiah" is the world's best known and most beloved oratorio of the Christmas season.

The chorus is using the edition revised according to Handel's original score by Max Spicker, and edited by T. Tertres Nobles. This is the same edition that is used by the famous Oratorio Society of New York, as well as by other well known groups. The chorus will give four performances of the work. First in Ayden, Sunday, Dec. 11 at 3 p. m., in the high school auditorium; in Greenville the same evening at 8 o'clock in the Campus auditorium; the third performance will be in Snow Hill December 18, at 3 p. m., at the Methodist Church; and the final rendition in Goldsboro, December 19, at 8 p. m., at the high school auditorium. The Greenville and Goldsboro performances are to be the occasion of union church services.

These performances promise to be real musical treats to the people of Eastern Carolina. There will be no admission charge.

A group of 100 singers, all of them local people, will make up the large chorus. The various choruses have been training many weeks so that the people might have an opportunity to hear great music sung well.

The soloists have been selected from the various choruses. From the Greenville Symphonic Chorus the soloists who will perform are: Mrs. Knott Proctor, Mrs. John Karanak, Mr. E. O. Parkinson, Jr., Mr. Aubrey Tilley, Mr. E. B. Peterson and Mr. Pearson Hassell, Jr.

Lewis Sidney Bullock will conduct the performances. Mrs. C. W. Hearne will accompany the choruses, and Mrs. J. C. Pate of Goldsboro, will accompany the soloists.

To Sponsor Tea. The Social Studies group of the American Association of University Women will hold a "white elephant" sale and a tea Saturday afternoon, December 10, from three to five o'clock.

The purpose of this sale is to raise money to finance a mental clinic to be conducted in Greenville next spring, and to carry on a program of study this winter. A series of lectures by a psychiatrist, a physician, and a sociologist will be given on the problem of family relations, the top to which the group is directing its study.

Any person in town who is interested in promoting the mental clinic is invited to attend the tea Saturday afternoon and to contribute a "white elephant" to the sale, which will be conducted during the tea. Donors are requested to notify Mrs. D. M. Clark, Miss Jessie Schnopp, Miss Alice Wooten or Mrs. Hazel Brown Madry, who will call for the gifts.

Mrs. Madry is chairman of the Social Studies group.

Winterville News Mr. and Mrs. Alf Forbes left Saturday for Hopkinsville, Ky., to be on the tobacco market.

Friends of Mrs. Asa V. Moore will regret to learn that she is ill at her home.

Mrs. Ray Oglesby left Tuesday for Washington, D. C., to visit her sister, Miss Mattie Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. Billie Branch left last week for Carthage, Tenn.

Miss Christine House spent the week-end at her home in Bethel.

Miss Ernestine Rollins of Kingston, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rollins.

Mrs. Mollie Roberson of Ayden, was in town Sunday.

The P. T. A. will hold its regular meeting tonight.

Mrs. J. H. Mobley and Mrs. Vernon Cox were in Greenville Saturday.

Mrs. D. T. Cox was in Greenville Saturday.

Mrs. Louella Stancill was in Greenville Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Williams have moved into the house formerly occupied by N. C. Forlines.

Mrs. Lewis Brown has moved into the apartment of Mrs. Kate Humble formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

CRACK SHOT AT 92 Rochester, Ind. (AP)—Henry M. Pownall is 92 years old, but he has backed up his marksmanship claims by killing 30 squirrels in the sixty-day season just closed.

IT TICKLES THE TASTE

Wolf In Cub Clothing

This laughing, alert "wolf" takes his make-believe to heart in the imagination-stretching CUBBING program of the Boy Scouts of America for boys 9, 10 and 11 years.

Forty Years Ago Today

Items From THE DAILY REFLECTOR Tuesday, December 6, 1938

A Nuisance We hear complaints of from the boys going to and from the public school building annoying citizens of South Greenville by pulling pickets off their fences. Some one or two people say their fences have been nearly ruined by this conduct of the boys. If the mischief is not stopped somebody is going to get into trouble.

Changes Soon after court met this morning the judge ordered an adjournment until the court room could be cleaned up. The retiring administration had failed to have it cleaned in readiness for court.

The cold weather is putting in some hard licks. D. C. Moore, Esq., and family moved to Greenville last week.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Dec. 6—(AP)—Buying support returned to the stock market today and gave pivotal issues a life of fractions to more than two points.

While dealings were none too lively, they were considerably ahead of yesterday's slow motion session. Light profit taking on the revival was in evidence, but prices were around the best near the final hour.

Brokers attributed the upward reversal partly to quick turn purchases by speculative forces who thought the lost after four consecutive declines was due for at least a technical come-back.

At the same time business news was fairly favorable and less attention apparently was given the still confusing foreign picture. eYar and lax selling remained a retarding influence, it was said, but it is seemingly lacked the urgency of the past week or so.

Bonds, like stocks, did better after a hesitant get-away. Major commodities showed rushing tendencies. Sterling and the French franc dipped in terms of the dollar and European securities markets were spotty.

More People Buying TB Bonds This Year

Elizabeth Skinner, publicity chairman, stated that in connection with the Advanced Seal Sale, Mrs. Lee A. Folger, Greenville chairman of the Christmas Seal Sale had reported the following additional list of bond buyers:

Z. V. Murphey $25
White's Stores $10
Carolina Sales Corp. $10
Floyd McGowan $5
Jack Lane $5
Carolina Dairies $5

Indications are that there will be more Greenville Tuberculosis bond buyers this year than ever before.

Only Little Done In Court Session

Only five cases were disposed of at today's session of County court, one defendant having been convicted, two acquitted and a nolle pro with leave was taken in each of the other two.

The nolle pro was ordered in the cases charging Alton Brown with being drunk on the highway, and Robert Harris, driving drunk and careless and reckless.

L. J. Russell, charged with driving careless and reckless, and H.

N. York, accused of the same charge were acquitted.

Theodore Brown, Negro, was convicted of abandonment and given a four months road sentence, suspended upon condition he pay into the office of the Pitt Welfare office one-half of his gross earnings for the support of his family.

Literature On East Carolina In Florida

Eastern Carolina literature will be found on the information racks of practically all the Chambers of Commerce in Florida this winter, according to a statement made by Secretary N. G. Bartlett of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce at headquarters in Kinston this week.

Arrangements have been made, according to the statement, whereby the local chambers of commerce in Florida will distribute literature of this section, which is being mailed to them now by the regional organization. This plan of exchanging literature, in the belief of officials of the regional chamber, will be advantageous to this section due to the fact that a large number of visitors to Florida during the winter will come back through Eastern Carolina in the Spring

Call a halt on needless NERVE STRAIN

GREYHOUND

Swift, graceful, and remarkably wise. Ancient Egyptian and Greek royalty regarded him as a symbol of aristocracy. His distinguished lines and proud bearing appear on Egyptian carvings dating to 3500 B. C. Racing has made this breed popular in the U. S.

HE'S RESTING HIS NERVES—

AND SO IS HE

IT'S THRILLING to watch the flashing greyhound in full flight. But it's important to note that when the race is over he lets up and rests—as the greyhound above is doing now. Though the dog's high-keyed nervous system closely resembles our own, the dog relaxes instinctively! Life as it is today leads us to ignore fatigued nerves. We're apt to carry on despite increasing tension and strain. Be kind to your nerves if you want them to be kind to you. Pause a while every now and then. LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL! Let the frequent enjoyment of Camel's mild, ripe tobaccos help you take life more calmly, pleasantly, profitably!

They know how pleasant life can be when they
"LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL"

WOMEN'S TRAP-SHOOTING CHAMPION of North America, Mrs. Lela Hall, says: "Holding a shooting title four years straight puts pressure on the nerves. I give my nerves frequent rests. I let up—light up a Camel—often! Camels are so soothing."

DID YOU KNOW?

—that tobacco is remarkably sensitive to moisture? That at one stage, practically all the moisture is removed from cigarette tobacco, and then later just the proper amount restored? That there are more than 40 huge air-conditioning machines where Camels are made? Camel spends millions to insure all the mildness and ripe richness of Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos.

"A THOUSANDTH OF AN INCH is important in my work," says Charles Dietrich, lens grinder. "I've got to concentrate. Naturally, my nerves would be on the spot if I didn't pause now and then. I let up—light up a Camel."

A REPORTER'S JOB is noted for beating deadlines, rush duties, excitement, and nervous tension. Naturally, "Let up—light up a Camel" is a smoking rule that's greatly favored by newspaper men. They know!
