INDIAN OCEAN ISLAND GROUP SENDS OUT SOS

Forty-Eight Settlers on Isolated Isle Battle Raging Storm

FRANCE ASKS U. S. MAKE CONTACT

All French Colonial Stations Unable Get in Touch with Colonists by Radio

Paris, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The French government asked U. S. naval authorities today to try to establish radio contact with 48 settlers who battled a raging storm on the isolated Isle of St. Paul in the Indian ocean.

The request was made after a day of successful attempts to reach them from French colonial stations. The government previously had sent an urgent call to all ships flying the Tri-colors in the Indian ocean to rush aid to the island.

The plight of the settlers became known when a feeble SOS flashed half way around the world was picked up by an amateur radio operator in Beemerton, Washington. The message said:

"SOS. St. Paul Island. Indian ocean. Bad weather. Exhausted coal. Will Madagascar please call us. We hope for help. Confirm. We. 48 aboard Isle Bourbon."

No further word had been received. The closest French war ship to the island was reported at a point in French Indo-China, about 3,000 miles away. Officials indicated the government would hire a freighter to charge its course and the colonists' aid.

Judge Luther W. U. S. District court has suspended imposition of sentence on the woman pending the present trial.

Mount Airy, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Three small children were trapped in a flaming wooden house near here today and burned to death.

All under five years of age, they were the children of Foy Midkiff, a filling station employee here.

The bodies were so badly burned identification was impossible. The mother, hysterical and incoherent, said she had left the children about 11 o'clock to visit their grandmother when she returned the house was a mass of roaring flames, she said.

The fire was believed to have started from an open grate.

Lawyers Of Pitt Honor Veteran Clerk Of Court

J. Frank Harrington Presented Gold-Headed Cane

J. Frank Harrington, veteran clerk of court in Pitt county with 20 years of service behind him, was paid high tribute this afternoon by the profession with which he is closely affiliated—members of the Pitt County Bar Association.

As a token of their appreciation for his services and of their belief in his competency and efficiency, a walking cane made of ebony wood and capped with a solid gold head was presented the clerk of court. But, as most gifts, the cane itself was a mere expression of the friendship and respect Mr. Harrington enjoys in Greenville, throughout the county and elsewhere.

In a brief ceremony, which came as a surprise to the honored public servant, the cane was presented to Mr. Harrington in his office at the court house, where he completed 20 years of service the first of this month. The presentation was made by Albion Dunn, former Superior court judge, who declared that while he was holding court in the various (Continued on page six)

JAPS FACED BY DISTURBANCES ON MANY SIDES

Reported To Have Rushed Troops Into Manchoukuo

SENT TO QUELL CHINESE FORCES

Trouble Also Reported Brewing in Formosa as Chinese Victories Reported

Shanghai, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The Japanese were reported by foreign sources today to have rushed troops into Manchoukuo to put down disturbances caused by units of China's Eighth route army, which had crossed into the Japanese-dominated state.

Reports from Peking said from 15 to 20 train loads of Japanese had been crossing the border daily for several days.

A Japanese army spokesman, however, denied that any troops were being sent into Manchoukuo and said that no trouble had been reported anywhere along the border.

The Chinese press reported trouble also was brewing in Formosa, where Formosans and Chinese residents were opposing Japan's strict war measures.

Meanwhile Chinese reported victories on the central front and in North China where the Japanese were sending troop reinforcements to stamp out guerrilla activities.

Breaking the long deadlock on the Canton-Hankow railway, the Chinese said they had recaptured a station nine miles south of Yochow, gateway to Hunan province, inflicting 300 casualties.

They also asserted Chinese guerrillas in Shantung province in North China had recaptured a point 30 miles north of Tsinan, destroying two railway stations.

ACCEPTS POST IN GREENVILLE

Charlotte Man to Be City Position Jan. 1st

Marvin L. Westmoreland, who has been connected with the city government of Charlotte for a number of years, has accepted the position of finance officer and purchasing agent for Greenville and will assume his new duties on January 1.

The Greenville Board of Aldermen, at a recent meeting, voted to offer the job to Mr. Westmoreland and the recently definitely accepted the post. It carries a salary of $300 per month.

Although the motion to offer the position to the Charlotte man specified that the office be known as finance officer and purchasing agent, it also stated that the position later would develop into a city manager.

When Mr. Westmoreland arrives he will find the city engaged in many projects, such as a paving program, erection of a new central fire station, installation of a new fire alarm system, erection of a new city hall and development of a street department yard and garage.

His services at this time were considered unusually opportune by Mayor M. K. Blount and several members of the Board of Aldermen. Those in favor of the employing such an officer have contended all along that a good man would save many times the amount of his salary.

A comparatively young man, but well versed in the affairs of city government, Mr. Westmoreland apparently made a good impression on members of the board when he appeared at a meeting here recently and discussed some of the duties such an officer would involve.

He will serve in an administrative capacity and will be charged with the execution of various orders of the board. He also will make recommendations to the board, which will continue to have final authority over civic matters.

Mayor Blount, discussing the duties of the new executive, declared he would be known as finance officer, but added it was the opinion of the board that he should be made city manager. There was some doubt as to whether the form of government could be changed under the present charter, however.

TAX RATE NOT TO BE RAISED

Despite the many public improvement projects now under way or contemplated in Greenville, there will be no increase in the city's one dollar tax rate and there is a possibility of even reducing the present levy, Mayor M. K. Blount declared today.

"It is now time for us to go slow on future bond issues for the city and therefore necessary that the best judgment be exercised in spending," the mayor added, also stating that economy should be practiced in all spending.

The mayor definitely stated "even with our present program there should be no increase in the tax rate and, with a business viewpoint, a trained municipal head and the co-operation of local officials and citizens, there is no doubt that the present rate can be reduced." He pointed out that a permanent improvement fund to be used for defraying contemplated improvement expenses should be established.

"There has been set up a revolving paving fund which is erected from a 45 per cent PWA grant on the present paving program," he said. "If this fund can be enlarged through economies, it will enable us to conduct future paving programs on a 'pay as we go' plan," he added.

Mayor Blount expressed the opinion that the results of such procedure would likely furnish bond resources and lower the tax rate.

NEW DEALERS RESTRICTED IN BILL DRAFTING

Job Will Be Left To Senate and House Committees

PLAN TO REMAIN DEFINITE POLICY

Secretary Commerce Roper Cites Several Elements Strength '39 Business Outlook

Washington, Dec. 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was reported in informed quarters today to have forbidden administrative departments to draft legislation for submission to Congress.

Congressional leaders, asking that their names be withheld, said the chief executive had advised them he had adopted a "definite policy" of leaving the job of bill drafting up to Senate and House committees.

The President's forthcoming message to Congress, they said, merely will make "affirmative suggestions" for legislation.

Mr. Roosevelt's decision presumably would prevent future bill drafting by such government officials as Thomas Corcoran and Benjamin Cohen, who have been credited with writing much New Deal legislation. This practice has been criticized by anti-administration congressmen.

It also was understood on Capitol Hill that the President would leave parliamentary strategy on the government reorganization program to his House and Senate leaders. He discussed it yesterday with Representatives Cochran (D-Mo.) and Warren (D-N. C.) who helped handle the legislation last spring.

Warren said afterwards that "without any disparagement to the Senate," a reorganization program would have been enacted last session if Senate sponsors had permitted. (Continued on page six)

Auto Tags Selling Quite Rapidly Now

Both city and state automobile license plates are selling faster in Greenville this year than last, a check at the local branch of the Carolina Motor Club and the city tax office revealed today.

A total of 2,308 state tags had been sold here up to this morning, with the daily sales averaging about 100 automobile licenses and 25 truck plates. The exact figure for the total sales to the similar date last year was not available, but it was definitely stated that sales this year are running ahead of last year.

City officials reported that 421 Greenville tags had been sold through yesterday, compared with 326 sold through the same date last year. A total of 1,488 1938 tags were sold.

The deadline for purchasing new tags and displaying them for both the city and state plates is December 31.

An old automobile invented and built in 1903 by G. S. Waters of New Bern, N. C., is still running.

"Duties of the office will be to administer and to carry out the will of the board at all times, keeping close contact with the various departments, in the matter of city purchases, the present building program, municipal improvements," declared the mayor.

"There are many details of vital importance and unless they are properly handled it will mean a loss to the city," he added.

There are 25 or more cities in North Carolina with the city manager form of government. "Our hope is that Greenville will be able to adopt this.

"This merely means the appointment of a man as manager and the same principle applies to a large department store. The manager is the head of the various departments.

"In the matter of purchases it is to be the new executive's duty to see that economy is practiced.

"Our present form of government did very well 30 years ago, but now with the growth of our city what it is and the many functions to be performed by the various departments it is necessary, if we are to have minister and carry out the orders of the board."

Mr. Westmoreland is married and has three children. He has been with the city of Charlotte for eight years under the city manager form of government and in many cases has performed many of the duties of the manager. Having been accountant for the city, he is familiar with mu-

GAIN IS NOTED IN N. C. BIRTHS

Population Increase Almost Equal To That of 1937

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Dec. 19.—North Carolina's net population increase for the first eleven months of this year, by reason of excess births over deaths is almost the same as last year's increase for the corresponding period, according to a recapitulation of monthly reports issued by the Bureau of Vital Statistics, Board of Health.

From January 1 through November 30, 1938, births exceeded deaths in North Carolina by 42,343, while for the same period in 1937 the net increase was 42,467—making the difference just 124 in favor of last year.

The 6,053 births reported for November, brought this year's total of stork visitations to 72,875, as compared with 64,237 for November and 72,170 for the first eleven months of 1937.

On the death side of the ledger the 2,462 reported for last month made this year's total 30,532 against 2,762 for November and 30,703 for the first eleven months last year.

The November birth total was the smallest reported during 1938, while the death toll was less in only one other month—September, when there were only 2,412 reported.

Oddly enough the drop to the lowest birth total followed directly on the heels of the largest number in any month, with October's 7,187 births the only time the figure went beyond this year.

SHE DIDN'T KNOW HER HUSBAND

Mrs. George S. Dietrich (right) lived with her husband 17 years, she claims, without knowing he actually was George Musica, involved with his brother, Philip Musica, alias F. Donald Coster, in the McKesson & Robbins swindle charges. She is shown leaving the Federal building at New Haven, Conn., with Attorney Samuel Reich, after a visit with her husband.

PAY INCREASE WILL APPLY TO ABOUT 7,500 TEACHERS

have A certificates and 8 or more years experience. It is now the highest in the state, with no increment for increased experience thereafter. A-1 certificates are held by teachers with 7 years experience. Under the commission's recommendations a new certificate—A-9 would be set up for the school year 1939-40, with teachers in this class to receive a monthly increment of $5. For the year 1940-41 the establishment of an A-10 class, with an additional $5 monthly increment is recommended.

Those 1937-38 teachers with A-8 and A-7 certificates will automatically be A-9 teachers in 1939-40 if still teaching, and in 1940-41 they will again automatically step up to A-10 rating.

The School Commission's figures showed that in 1937-38 there were 11,924 white teachers holding A certificates, who drew a total of $1,011,648 in salaries for the year.

The A-8 group composed approximately half the total, the 5,518 drawing $5,472,448. Other A group were: A-0, 864 teachers paid $663,744; A-1, 823 paid $655,400; A-2, 776 paid $639,900; A-3, 771 paid $657,372; A-4 719 paid $633,574; A-5 718 paid $650,856; A-6 933 paid $870,934; and A-7 801 paid $770,448.

Among the colored teachers there were 2,725 A-certificate holders who drew a total of $1,944,952 during the year.

There were 3,420 white teachers with B certificates and they were paid $4,560,897.20; while on the colored side there were 2,852 B-certificate teachers who drew $1,674,570.

Holders of C-certificates among white teachers numbered 541, with salaries totalling $375,560. Colored C-certificate holders were 594, drawing $185,682.

White principals numbered 931, with 994 assistants; while there were 223 colored principals and 224 assistants.

In all there were 17,014 white teachers and principals, who were paid $15,899,333.20, and 6,853 colored teachers and principals who drew $4,890,271.50.

Grand total for both races were 23,878 teachers and principals and a salary bill of $20,089,610.50.

CAGE CONTEST BEING PLANNED

Regulars of G. H. S. To Battle Alumni of 1937

Basketball fans, here's the game you've long been asking for. Scheduled for Friday night in the high school gym, the alumni, a team composed of former G.H.S. cage stars of recent years, will meet the present edition of the Flying Phantom court squad. All indications point to a red-hot, bang-up ball game. The alumni have been practicing for two weeks, while the high school youngsters have a 17-15 win over Winterville under their belts.

Starting for the alumni, with the exception of John Lautares who will perform for the Phantoms, will be the team which won the Eastern Class A championship in 1937. At center, Dubose Simpson will play the position he held down for three years on the high school varsity. Charles Gaskins, remembered for his brilliant play at Chapel Hill in the game with High Point for the state title, will also see plenty of action at center.

Tom Parrish, the only four-letter man to be graduated from G.H.S., and all-state guard in 1937, will be at that post. Howard Hodges, now at Georgia Military Academy and mainstay of last year's Phantom quint, will start at the other guard position. The forwards will be Joe Hetem of E.C.T.C., and George Lautares who now performs on the Duke varsity.

Local cage fans will also have the opportunity of seeing lesser luminaries of other years in action. Among these are Earl Hellen, Tom Skinner and Richard Gaylord.

The probable line-up for Greenville high school is as follows:

Guards, John Lautares and Ford McGowan; forwards, George Sakas and Tracy Jordan; center, Larry James. All-round utility man, Marvin Stocks, will see much action.

Sponsored by the G.H.S. monogram club, this attraction will do much to offset the usual athletic inactivity at Christmas and spectators will see a thrill-packed ball game.

Advise Employers On Security Levy

Tax returns required by the Social Security Act should be sent to the Collector of Internal Revenue and not to the Social Security board. It is the Collector of Internal Revenue who mails out to North Carolina employers the form known as S-1a. After this form is filled out, it should be returned to the Collector's office at Greensboro, N. C., according to George N. Adams, manager of the Rocky Mount office of the Social Security board.

Mr. Adams emphasized the fact that the Social Security board is in no way responsible for the collection of taxes and does not distribute the form used in filing Social Security tax returns. "We have had numerous requests for these blanks during the past week and in every case we advised the caller to contact the Collector's office," he added.

Attention is called to a statement issued recently by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, which advises employers to include in their tax returns the name and social security account number of each employee paid the employee. The last wages paid the employee. The last quarterly return and remittance (due not later than midnight January 31) will cover the three calendar months, October, November and December.

Will Boost State at Pasadena Game

Arrangements have been made with the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Pasadena, California, by the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce for the distribution of Eastern Carolina literature on January 2nd, when the national championship football game will be played between Duke and Southern California, according to a statement given out at headquarters of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce in Kinston this week.

The idea that prompted this arrangement, according to Secretary Bartlett, is the fact that Duke University is located in the territory served by her regional organization and that this, within itself, would make the literature more appropriate than if the guest institution were not in the territory.

The literature will simply call attention to the advantages of 31 towns and counties in Eastern North Carolina. It is the hope of the regional organization that these booklets will fall into the hands of people interested in reading about the advantages of Eastern North Carolina.

The following towns and counties are represented in these booklets: Wilson county, Jones county, Hal-

Now they know they've got the right one, and every cold morning tells them so, and they're getting swell mileage along with starting that never misses. I've even got one man that always had heat in the garage, but keeps it off now, and saves the expense, and tells me the car never used to start up near as fast as it does on Conoco Bronz-z-z. He's one of the ones that keep sending me in other people, which is a heap sight better than my trying to out-yell all the different brands of gasoline.

Washington — When indignation over mistreatment of Jews is set aside, the cold fact stands out that Germany has not enough international money to allow Jews to leave with pockets full of gold and foreign exchange. That must come from other countries beforehand.

This is the view of competent financial authorities here who have as good information as is available outside of Germany as to the amount of foreign exchange which Germany can lay her hands on. This does not arise as an excuse for the German program of driving Jews out of Germany. But the purely financial difficulty of getting the Jews out of Germany will bear explaining.

Germany's latest maneuver is to propose tentatively that wealthy foreign Jews advance enough foreign exchange for German Jews to get a new start in life elsewhere. Germany's part of the program would be to repay the wealthy foreign Jews
by shipping them German goods.
German Jews, of course, would deliver a corresponding value in property or securities to the German government to complete the three-cornered trade.

Why Maneuver Is Necessary
Now why is such a complicated maneuver necessary?

Best sources here indicate there is not enough gold and foreign exchange available in Germany to permit German Jews to get out of the country with their wealth, even if the Reich turned over to them its whole hoard. And the Nazi government is not likely to forfeit its "war chest" of gold and foreign exchange by letting Jewish refugees take it out of the country.
Here are figures on the situation.
Last April Germany ordered Jews to register all their wealth. It was officially reported to total 8,000-000,000 reichmarks, or $3,200,000,000.
A British publication, the London Banker, estimates that since then one billion marks of value have shrunk away and that two billion have passed into the hands of non-Jewish Germans. That leaves Jews owning 5,000,000,000 marks worth of goods, securities and real estate. In dollars that is $2,000,000,000.

Small Chance To Convert
Now if Jews were able to convert all this into German money at its face value they still would need to convert it into foreign exchange or gold as they left the country—and what chance is there for that?

To turn again to the London Banker, one of its writers estimates that after Anschluss with Austria, Germany and her citizens had 1-650,000,000 marks in gold and foreign exchange, 380,000,000 marks invested in foreign securities, and 1-450,000,000 invested in foreign property, all of which might conceivably be converted into foreign exchange. That totals 3,480,000,000 marks. Since the Anschluss this amount has dwindled by 130,000,000 marks, leaving about $1,340,000,000.
That is described here as an outside figure. Other writers estimate less than half that.

Germany officially admits having only $29,000,000 in gold, although commercial sources here are certain the figure is simply a blind.

But the above figures compiled by financial writers show that even if Germany gathered in all its reported assets of $1,340,000,000 in foreign exchange, it could not supply Jews with the $2,000,000,000 required to give them their remaining wealth and let them go.

Too Many "Special" Charges Another thing must be taken into consideration, however. Special warfare levies and fines imposed on Jews selling their property in Germany allow little of the true value.
But getting foreign exchange even for 10 per cent presents a problem which financial experts here recognize as a real one.

Germany probably was not acting from purely humanitarian purposes in proposing that wealthy foreign Jews accept German goods in return for advances made to get German Jews out of the Reich. The plan has a double edge. Every such transaction would help to sell German goods abroad, even if the receipts were available only to buy Jewish property in the Reich.

February, 1938 Two Cabinets Are Shuffled as Der Fuehrer Roars Twice

By VOLTA TORREY
(LAP Feature Service Writer)
Last February, five years after the Reichstag burned, ex-Corporal Adolf Hitler had far more power than a Kaiser. But in Germany's churches and army there still were independent spirits.

ON THE BUSINESS FRONT—Little Business Men in Washington, toss out a conferee.

Of the clerics, the most defiant was the Rev. Martin Niemoller. He was tried for treason and left in jail.

Simultaneously, Hitler shook up his diplomatic department and roared at Austria and British Foreign Secretary Eden. In Vienna Chancellor Schuschnigg promptly adopted a Nazi. Arthur Seysz-In-quart to his cabinet. In London, Prime Minister Chamberlain accepted Eden's resignation.

Phony and Reality
"I am no Trojan horse... Austria must be independent... no further changes are foreseen," said Seysz-Inquart. And he did not hand Hitler the keys to Vienna until the following month.

"The peace of Europe," Chamberlain counseled Commons, "must depend on Germany, Italy, France and ourselves." And he set out to patch up, first, the rift between London and Rome over intervention in Spain, agitation among Arabs and "piracy" in the Mediterranean.

U. S. Secretary of State Hull, meanwhile, denied Uncle Sam had any war alliances with John Bull.
The Japanese refused to talk about battleships they were building. Chinese airmen bombed Japanese soil for the first time in history. Britain's $150,000,000 "Gibraltar of the Orient," the Singapore naval base, was opened. Arrangements were made—but not carried out—for selling U. S. helium to Germany.
And Congress was snowed under with arguments for and against men of war.

Little Men, But Loud.
As doughty as miniature auto racers, 1,000 little business men met and those of them who could make themselves heard clamored: Loosen credit, tax chain stores, revive the NRA, protect bosses, etc. Though accustomed, as Washington is, to public speaking, the politicians couldn't take it as fast as these vociferous visitors dished it out.

A new AAA was created. The anti-lynching bill was shelved. Price controls, super-highways, monopolies, trade treaties and equal rights for women were debated. U. S.
Steel renewed its pact with CIO.
United Mine Workers expelled Bill
Green, who was busy lambasting
Labor's Non-Partisan League as a

CIO "dummy" bent on forming a farmer-labor party. And generals from Indiana threw a manmoth tea party for Paul V. McNutt, who was being talked up for the presidency.

More children than usual had measles. Al Capone was reported suffering from "mental disturbances." Harvey S. Firestone and O. O.
McIntyre died.

Crime Marches On
Tabloids told of the Paul A.
Wright trial, in which a Los Angeles jury called the slaying of his wife and best friend manslaughter and ruled he was insane at the time—and the killing of Dr. Charles H. Lee, 71, law-and-order crusader, on St. Simons Island off Georgia's coast. And the crime of the month was the kidnaping of Peter Levine, 12, of New Rochelle, N. Y., whose headless body was found on the shore of Long Island sound three months later.

But the winter's great adventure
 saga ended happily in February.
Four Russian weather observers who had drifted southward from the North Pole for months on an ice floe were rescued just as their floe began to crack up off Greenland's rocky coast.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Dec. 21—North Carolinians are apparently quick to learn from the Japanese.

The Imperial Government at Tokyo regularly refers to the prolonged and atrocious warfare in China as an "accident."

Comes now James G. Hanes, of the Forsyth board of Commissioners, with the bland statement that freezing of a convict's feet in a solitary confinement cell over there was an "accident."

Longest month in the year—the calendar to the contrary notwithstanding—began yesterday for state employees. No pay checks are issued between December 20 and January 25.

And in the interim Santa Claus comes. New Year's comes trooping after, and likewise comes time to buy new automobile license tags.
Along about January 29th it's a common sight to see state employees digging in the capitol square, looking for hoards of nuts the squirrels laid up. They're that hungry.

Fell to discussing Epicurean delicacies with Louis H. Wilson, Department of Agriculture Publications head, and snails were mentioned.

"Yes, I like them very much," said Mr. Wilson, "the trouble with me is I never can catch them."

He probably enjoys watching the tortoise, whiz past, too.

The State Board of elections met this morning and for the first time in many, many moons, had no content with which to wrestle.

The recommendations it whipped into shape, however, are likely to start plenty of battling in the Legislature which will assemble early next month.

Missouri mules are famous the world over, but according to W. H.
Rhodes, chief statistician of the state Department of Agriculture, North Carolina has 80,000 more of the proverbially stubborn animals than have the "Show Me" boys.

In 1938 North Carolina's mule population was 305,000, against a mere 225,000 for Missouri.

Only Georgia, Alabama, Texas and Mississippi have more than this state.

The United States Department of Agriculture has recently issued a beautifully illustrated sixty-page brochure on "Descriptions of Types of Principal American Varieties of Soyabean."

It lists Virginia Savoy, Old Dominion, Dark Green Bloods, Amer-sford, Nobel, Hollandia and Ver-sford Great among the many kinds.

What? "Pop-eye" variety?

State Senator John D. Larkins is back in Raleigh again. The success to which he steered the Sheriff and Coroners Four-year Term amendment induced the Democratic State Committee to put him in charge of the Jackson Day dinner, which will be held to raise funds to pay off the party's debt. The trolley legislator has opened up his tomers of Germany as a means of rescuing their fellows.

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

by Angela Lorden

The Characters

Noel Marchand, a beautiful young actress.
Allan Collins, a young man Noel secretly likes.
David Norris, Noel's wealthy suitor.

Yesterday Allan and Noel go Christmas shopping but the afternoon is spoiled for Noel when Elaine comes on the scene.

Chapter Six Supper Party

SOME of the newly awakened Christmas spirit went out of New York with Mrs Marchand—Noel wouldn't admit Allan had something to do with it, too. Mother and son went back to Claiborne on Sunday. Allan suggested he might return before the holidays and would call Noel.

Torn between pleasant anticipation of spending the holidays in Claiborne and her avid desire to be on with the new play, Noel awoke early Monday morning. To her delight she found the bad news! Dixon, the playwright, was ill with influenza. Swanstrom told her over the telephone, and his doctor said it would be weeks before he could resume his writing.

"Isn't it the devil?" Swanstrom exclaimed. "Just when we've got the money and are ready to go ahead."

"Couldn't we start the first two acts?" Noel suggested, hiding her intense disappointment.

"Not on your life. I wouldn't make another move until I've got the whole thing from Dixon. We'll just have to twiddle our thumbs now, until the first of the year."

Noel's thoughts were in tune with the gray December day outside. Through years of cheap stock and her teetering seasons on Broadway she'd learned by too many smashed hopes that an actress couldn't count on a vehicle until after the curtain went up opening night.

When she talked it over with David Norris, he seemed as disappointed as Noel.

"Haven't you had enough of this Broadway merry go round?" he asked. "Noel, my dear, why don't you forget the whole messy business and marry me now? We'll go as far away as you want. And when we come back, there'll be so much to do, you won't miss the theater at all."

"Even if I married you, David," Noel responded with finality, "I'd never give up the stage. You understand that from the beginning." She almost added, "And more than ever. I'm not sure I want to marry you at all."

David was still petulant about her Christmas plans, tried to persuade her to stay in New York. But Noel's mind was made up and when David saw it was useless to argue he dropped the subject.

Casual luncheons, a cocktail party at a popular novelist's, dinner with David and some of his friends occupied the next few days.

David took Noel to a buffet supper party one of his society friends was giving over on Sutton Place.

"I want you to look your most beautifully best tonight," he remarked quietly when he persuaded her to go with him. Noel would have liked to go to bed early and read the new lovely Howard Spring book which was then engrossing her.

But she put on her newest white satin gown and just to please David took particular care of her grooming. She piled her grown-out bob in curls on top of her head, catching them with a jeweled comb. And she pinned a single camellia over her ear.

The strapless tight-fitting bodice made her shoulders as creamy white as gardenia petals and she threw a red velvet cape over the gown as she went down to the lobby where David was waiting.

Shocked Disappointment

MOST of the guests had arrived at the Runyon's penthouse when David and Noel reached there. The long, wide drawing-room was bowered in white winter flowers and lights from a huge crystal chandelier caught the gleam of brilliant fabrics and sparkling jewels.

"So many beautiful women here tonight," Noel said to David, after she'd left her wrap in one of the dressing-rooms and joined him.

"Not one of them can touch you," David whispered back.

Many others shared his admiring attitude, for he was continuously approached and had to present other men in the party to Noel. She smilingly acknowledged the introductions but stayed by David's side and when a footman brought them champagne cocktails, he found a seat at the far end of the room, opposite the entrance.

Soon they were the center of a laughing group, as other couples joined them.

As her eyes strayed across the smooth floor to a group near the door, Noel gasped in surprise, almost got up, in the pleasant unexpectedness of the newest arrival.

Allan looking more attractive than ever in formal clothes, was moving away from the door. Noel had an impulse to call to him but she shocked disappointment stayed her gesture. Elaine Schuyler, resplendent in black velvet and diamonds, took Allan's arm with a proprietary gesture. He was Elaine's escort. And Allan loved Elaine Schuyler!

From that moment, some of the pleasure went out of the party for Noel. She put it to regret that Allan who had been so bitterly hurt by Elaine should still be under her spell. Should still be ready for her when her foolishly romantic marriage had ended in Reno.

Later Allan saw Noel and greeted her cordially.

"Hello, Noel. Mother sends her love. I just got in town a few hours ago and I was going to call you in the morning."

"That will be nice—if you will. There are some things I'd like to discuss with you." She managed it graciously, lightly. She needed all her stage experience to make the encounter seem casual. She gave Elaine a conventional smile as she spoke to her.

The tall golden blonde, her long graceful figure swathed in the rich black velvet, a diamond butterfly in her hair, hesitated a moment, then answered:

"Oh, yes, Miss—Marchand; now pleasant to see you again." She glanced regally at the group. David and Allan greeted each other; Noel presented her escort to Elaine.

Allan flushed slightly at Elaine's cool, easy impersonality. She turned to him and said in a low warm voice:

"Let's find our postess, Allan dear," stressing the last word Allan spoke to Noel.

"We'll be seeing you later," and moved on with Elaine.

When the musicians commenced a dreamy tango, Allan sought out Noel. With David's permission none too graciously granted, he asked Noel to dance. Or the floor he remarked:

"This is one thing I learned in Buenos Aires."

Noel smiled up at him. "I imagine you do most things well," she answered, making unimportant conversation.

Flowers in Your Hair

"THERE are no right words to tell you how lovely you look tonight," Allan's lips were a little way from her ear.

That's what any polite man would be expected to say to an actress, Noel thought. But Allan went on:

"You should always wear white—and flowers in your hair."

Noel responded with low laughter.

"I didn't think you'd be back in town so soon," she commented changing the subject.

"Well, I hadn't intended it this early."

Noel went through Noel's mind, but you wouldn't fail to answer your Elaine's summons. She spoke to him of the Christmas party and Allan repeated how anxious his mother was to have Noel with them.

"I guess I was too stubborn in the beginning; the plan for the strange guests seems less awful as I think of it."

David was waiting when the tango was finished and Noel left the party before they saw Allan again. On the way home in his car, David said with deliberate nonchalance:

"Your friend and Mrs. Schuyler make quite a romantic pair."

Before she thought what she said, Noel replied, "They were engaged once, you know."

David's laugh took on a soft tolerant tone. "Picking up old threads, eh?"

The telephone ringing awakened Noel next morning, as a bright sun crept through the single window of her room. Sleepily she picked up the receiver but roused herself as she heard Allan's voice.

"I'm going back to Claiborne this afternoon. Can't we have luncheon first?" he was asking. And Noel agreed to meet him at the St. Regis at one.

This was the nicest of all her meetings with Allan Collins, Noel decided as she sat across from him in the dark-paneled dining-room. He'd seemed quite serious when she met him but whatever had engrossed his thoughts was put into the back of his mind as they talked about themselves. Noel spoke of her background, her early stage years.

"You don't know much about me, you see," Noel exclaimed as he listened to her reminiscence. And told him more of the seasons in stock companies, and farther back to the little town where she'd been born and lived until she was ten.

"Tell me about your work in South America," she asked at length.

So he spoke of the zinc mines, of the little colony of engineers and workmen, miles away from the nearest town.

"I'm due for a transfer back to the New York office next year. I suppose I shall miss the exciting activities down there."

"But your mother will be happy," Noel offered. She thought to herself: Elaine will be, too.

Before they realized it was train time and Allan was leaving her in the lobby. "I'll be seeing you soon." He smiled as he said it. "We'll have some great times, I hope. The country is beautiful now and I'll wish for a snow storm before you arrive so that you'll see it at its winter best."

Noel found herself looking ahead eagerly to the days in Claiborne. She thought about it as she went to her small hotel room. There she found a message from David to telephone him at once. It was very important!

1939 NASH FOUR - DOOR SEDAN

All 1939 Nash cars have been completely restyled from bumper to bumper, and in design follow a new conception of the modern streamline motif. The new body and hood lines, and the slenderizing treatment of the front-end give them a longer, lower, wider and racier appearance. Many new features are to be seen in the new models. One of the foremost new features is the "Weather Eye" conditioned air system for winter driving. This is an advancement of the car comfort system pioneered in 1938 by Nash, and makes car conditioning automatic all winter long.

Another important advance is the super-powered engine of the Nash-LaFayette, or lower-priced, series of cars. It is described as the most simple gasoline engine yet designed, and has many parts less than conventional automobile power plants. It is made up of two major parts—engine block and engine head. The intake manifold is cast into the engine block. It is an L-head type motor, and dual jet carburetion is used. The new engine design is so much more efficient and trouble free, says W. A. Brees, general sales manager, that it makes 99 horsepower possible for a low price car. Despite this increase in power, operating economy will be 10 per cent better than last year, he said.

The simplified type of sealed manifold motor also is used in the Nash medium priced cars—the Ambassador Six and Ambassador Eight—but these six and eights are two ignition, valve-in-head motors, as they were last year. The Six has 105 and the Eight 115 horsepower. This year the industry sees a new super shock absorber in the Nash giant airliner type which is being used on the rear of all Nash chassis. It is 40 per cent longer than that used last year. The "Sea Legs" type of shocks which proved so successful on the front of all Nash cars in 1938 will be continued in 1939. A remote control gear shifter, located on the steering column, is optional on all series of cars.

SANTA AND THE LOST PRINCESS

THE STORY SO FAR: A one-eyed giant scoops up the mean Queen, her soldiers, and Hulda. He makes the Queen wash his big dishes to teach her some manners.

Chapter 15

THE QUEEN LEARNS A LESSON "Now, then," said the one-eyed giant to Hulda as he strode back into the throne room. "Where did you come from, and what is it like there?" He liked stories of other lands because he could never leave his own, since he was the only one in his kingdom who could see.

Hulda swallowed and tried to speak, but she was too frightened. The giant laughed and said, "Oh, I'm sorry, I'll sit farther back and then you won't be so afraid." He did, and Hulda described Torland and Santa and the fairies and the emine.

The giant listened, and then he looked around his barren throne room, and then he looked back again, and when he did there was a big tear rolling out of his one eye and right down his nose.

"Why, what's the matter?" said Hulda.

"It's just that Santa's place sounds so fine and we have such few fine things here," said the giant. "Look at this old suit of mine. It's made of sheep skins. But see how rough it is and I'm the King of giants. I should have something fine to wear, but none of my people can see to sew."

I Can Sew

"Sew?" said Hulda. "Why, I can sew. I'll make you a suit."

"You will?" said the giant. "But how?"

"Can anyone of your people spin woolen thread from the sheep's wool?" asked Hulda. "I have a magic needle."

"Fine," said the giant. "We have a spinning wheel and I'll set my people to work at once." So he called in several giant women and told them to spin wool thread for a suit for him. They put the big spinning wheel in the center of the floor and spun and spun until there was like hills of woolen thread all over the floor. You see they could spin when they couldn't sew, because they could guide the spinning wheel with their fingers.

Hulda threaded the woolen thread into her magic needle and again the needle raced back and forth just as though it knew what it was supposed to do. Pretty soon there were lovely folds of soft woolen cloth lying on the table about her, and then there was so much that it fell to the floor, and finally Hulda cried, "That's enough."

Then at Hulda's direction the women cut the cloth so that there was a long jacket for the giant, and a pair of knee breeches. Again Hulda sewed and after a while the suit lay finished.

But then she wrinkled her brow. The whole suit was a soft tan color, but there wasn't a stitch of trimming on it, and Hulda knew that was what the giant wanted. She looked perplexed. Then she had a strange idea. There was a shaft of sunlight falling through a high window right onto the table where she counties of the state he never observed a more capable or efficient clerk than Mr. Harrington. Judge Dunn declared that Mr. Harrington was known by everyone for his good disposition and familiar smile, adding that he had never seen him when both were not in evidence.

Not once since he was first elected to his present office has Mr. Harrington had any opposition in the Democratic primary. This he can rightfully regard as an expression of confidence in his ability and efficiency and a declaration of the high esteem with which he is held in his county.

Although in his late 60's, Judge Frank Harrington continues unusually active and has missed but very little time from his office on account of sickness in his 20 years as clerk. His activities are many and varied in the church, civic and fraternal organizations.

With a disposition so essential to those who deal directly with the public day in and day out, he is never too busy to discuss any problem, nor is he ever in too much of a hurry to do a favor for a friend, acquaintance or even a stranger.

PITT RESIDENT DIES IN WRECK

way between Valdosta, Ga., and Live Oak, Fla. The automobile in which the dead and injured men were riding, believed to have been driven by Charlie Nelson, is said to have struck a truck laden with pulp wood. It is understood that the truck had been left parked on the highway without a rear light. Both motor vehicles were rather badly damaged.

A farm was purchased in Valdosta recently by the Nelson family. The Pactolus men left last Sunday to make arrangements for moving the entire family to Georgia.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Nelson, surviving Charlie Nelson are five brothers, Willie B., Lacy Guy, Roy, Elmo Lee and C. A. Nelson, Jr., and two sisters, Lola Mae and Annie E. Nelson, all of the Pactolus community.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Dec. 21—(AP)—Unable to get a foothold for a climb, the stock market slipped downhill today. Under moderate pressure many issues yielded for losses ranging to more than two points and prices were about the lowest of the session near the fourth hour. Dealings, however, remained comparatively small. Aggressive demand was absent in bonds.
